NEW U.S. TARIFF RAISES IRE OF BENNETT

Nicholls Hospital Honors Graduates

PREMIER WAITS AN INVITATION FROM THE U. S.

BALDWIN INVITED.

First Rumblings of Conservative Criticism of New Government is Heard.

LONDON, June 11. (C.P.)—Premier MacDonald's projected visit to the United States for personal discussion with President Hoover of various questions affecting the two countries is now regarded in diplomatic circles as a definite probability.

It was stated to-day that the Laborite Prime Minister was only awaiting an official invitation to make the journey.

It has now become known that Stanley Baldwin, Conservative Premier, had received and accepted an invitation to visit the United States before he went out of office last week.

Newspapers Criticize.

The first rumblings of Conservative criticism of the general intentions of the new Government were forthcoming to-day from the Yorkshire Post, perhaps the most powerful journal of the north and one which, incidentally, stands apart from any newspaper trust.

"A peripatetic Prime Minister conducting the affairs of the kingdom now from Washington, now from Geneva and presently presumably from Moscow, will not be the least of the novel spectacles offered by Mr. MacDonald to the admiring gaze of his adherents," says the Post. It also dubs the potential spectacle as "Downing Street on Wheels."

On the whole though, Premier MacDonald continues to receive expressions of goodwill from his opponents. The Telegraph remarks that no administration of a purely party complexion and fresh from an electoral conflict on purely party lines can ever have met with more forbearance at the hands of its convinced opponents or more positive encouragement from those whose tendency is to stand above party politics. In view of this The Telegraph rather wonders why Mr. MacDonald in his radio address over the week-end should have described the result as "a vote of confidence." If he had been content to thank the country for showing its desire that he and his friends be given a fair chance in a difficult situation, The Telegraph thinks courtesy might have been observed without a sacrifice of accuracy.

Mere Suggestion.

The Telegraph regards Mr. MacDonald's announcement regarding a possible visit to the United States as at present a mere suggestion and adds: "But if it has been allowed to transpire with the object of sounding public opinion it may be said at once so notable a departure from custom would, if the circumstances favored taking it, meet nothing but sympathy in this country."

Meanwhile there are signs in the Conservative camp that speculation is afoot concerning the future of the high command of that party. In a Sunday paper of the Rothermere group in which Lord Rothermere has often expressed his direct personal opinions there appeared an article concerning the future of the Conservative party in which the following passage occurs: "It would have been far better for Great Britain if a man of Lord Beaverbrooke's energy and vision could have followed the ascent to the Premiership on which he started Mr. Baldwin in 1917. Some people in fact think it would not be too late for him to begin now."

The Rothermere papers, however, push no further the suggestion of conferring the leadership on the Canadian-born newspaper magnate. But it has caused mild amusement if only because of the spectacle of one newspaper magnate nominating his deadly rival as a political leader.

Prizes Are Awarded Nurses

OTHER AWARDS MADE.

Chief Speaker of Evening Was Rev. David Wren, of Trinity United Church.

Ten young ladies who have completed the three-year course in training at Nicholls Hospital graduated last evening with the traditional ceremony and interesting program which surrounds these annual functions in the life of the Training School at the Hospital. Friends and relatives to the number of nearly nine hundred, filling to capacity the big auditorium of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, gathered to celebrate with the young ladies this crowning anniversary in their preparation for their life work. Robed in crisp uniforms of spotless white, with their little white caps and white shoes and hose, the group of young ladies made a lovely picture as they stood on the stage to receive their diplomas and medals. Their arms were literally filled with bouquets of rich, deep crimson roses, tied with long streamers of gold and purple, in the Hospital colors which also tied the diplomas and appeared on the dainty programs.

The Graduates.

Graduates of last night were: Miss Anna Cracknell of Colborne; Miss Helen Marr Durant of Smith's Falls; Miss Ruby Mae Everson of Dunsford; Miss Annie Pearl Finnie of Canton, Ontario; Miss Jennie Henrietta Gilbert of Bracebridge; Miss Edna Anna Johnston of Whitevale; Miss Mary White Lackey of Fraserville; Miss Mary Ellen McCormack of Vivian; Miss Ethel Gertrude Tanner of Cornwall, and Miss Gladys Martha Wilson of Port Hope.

The prizes for proficiency presented by the Trustee Board to the graduating class were won by Miss Edna Johnston of Whitevale (first award of $25), and Miss Gladys Wilson of Port Hope (second award of $15). They

E. W. BEATTY IS HONORED BY TORONTO

EMPIRE BUILDER.

Large Single Undertaking in Any City By Company Is Finally Completed.

TORONTO, Ont., June 11 (Canadian Press). — Tribute to the abilities of E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and to the "unbounded faith" of that company in connection with its Royal York Hotel enterprise, was paid by the city of Toronto to-day, in an illuminated address presented by Mayor Sam McBride on behalf of the corporation

The address referred to Mr. Beatty as "an empire builder and outstanding transportation executive." The company carried Mr. Beatty's personal and administrative ability with the Canadian flag to all parts of the would like to think," he said, "that was expressed for efforts in connection with viaduct and Union Station construction in Toronto and for the company's record of fair dealing with its employees.

In replying to the address Mr. Beatty said he profoundly appreciated the honor conferred on the company and himself.

Great Undertaking Completed.

"You have mentioned," said the president, "the completion to-day of the largest single undertaking which the company has embarked upon since its incorporation, in any one city in this country. It marks the fruition of plans which have been under consideration since the war. The directors of the company and myself are convinced that the hotel will not only be a credit to the city, and will contribute to its prosperity, but will as well be a profitable investment for its owners."

Mr. Beatty said the city and the railway company had much in common, and he had observed the rapid strides Toronto was taking to "make its beauty commensurate with its commercial importance." He made reference to the personal tributes paid to himself in the address. "I me, but I cannot persuade myself I deserved in some small measure the

Parks Attempts Escape From Moving Train

WINDSOR, Ont., June 11 (C.P.)—Jack Parks, who during the Winter escaped from Peterborough jail, attempted several times to escape from the train while en route to the Portsmouth Penitentiary to start a five-year-term imposed here for automobile theft, it was revealed to-day.

Parks, in fact, became so active between Belleville and Kingston that he was nearly free from his leg shackles, it was reported by County Constable Fred Brouillard who, with Constable Jack Craig, escorted the Peterborough jail breaker to the "Big House" from the Essex County jail.

FUNERAL HELD FOR GREAT POET

REMAINS CREMATED.

NEW CANAAN, Conn., June 11.—(Canadian Press). — The literary world of three nations, as represented by a few of its outstanding personages saw Bliss Carman off on his last journey—to "The Gate of Peace"—to-day.

Services, without eulogy, were held in St. Mark's Episcopal church, with the Rev. Charles Lawrence Adams, rector, officiating. The service included rites of committal, as the poet's body was taken, in accordance with his wishes to Middle Village, R.I., for cremation. The ashes will be brought to Lakeview Cemetery this place, for burial.

The pallbearers were Padraic Colum, Irish poet, D. W. Fisher, Harvard Professor and Philosopher, Carl Schmitt, Artist, Dr. E. J. O'Shaughnessy, Dr. Thomas Tunney, with whom Carman lived here, and Keith Warren, Writer.

There were delegates from the Author's League of America, the poetry society of America, the Canadian Authors' Association, the Royal Society of Canada, and the Authors' Club of Canada.

LADIES TO MAKE 5,000 PENNANTS FOR BIG EVENT

Several Organizations Will Erect Arches in City For Old Home Week.

COLORED LIGHTING.

Horticultural Society Will Decorate Parks and Charlotte Street.

A meeting of the decoration committee of Old Home Week was held last evening at the city hall buildings at which many organizations in the city were represented. A hearty spirit of co-operation was shown by all those who were in attendance.

The different organizations of ladies in the city offered to make 5,000 pennants for Old Home Week. These will be strung on ropes and strung across the street. The ladies will meet in the Y.W.C.A. to sew on these pennants. Here machines will be installed for the work.

The Loyal Order of Orangemen, the Knights of Columbus, the Oddfellows and the Engineering Society are to erect arches on the main streets. These are to be of a beautiful nature and will be a real decoration to the city.

Overhead lighting, with colored lights will be carried out by the Peterborough Utilities Commission.

The Engineering Society is contemplating on spending four or five hundred dollars on their scheme of decoration which will also remain all summer to beautify the city during the tourist traffic.

T. Garstang, the engineer of many of the Confederation floats is in the city and is willing to help to design floats for the Old Home Week parade. A 'phone call to A. Purman at 2436 will enable anyone to get in touch with the designer.

SENATOR LAUDS SCHOOL POLICY

Hon. George P. Graham Commends Efforts of Premier Ferguson.

ADDRESSES TRUSTEES.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., June 11. — (C.P.)— Gratification that Premier Ferguson, as Minister of Education of Ontario, was "feeling his way about" in an effort to make practical advances in education was expressed last night by Hon. George P. Graham, speaking at a banquet given by the Board of Education to open the annual meeting of the Urban School Trustees' Association of Ontario. Senator Graham said that he was behind Mr. Ferguson "to the limit" in his policy of trying out new ideas to meet the demands of the present generation and he reminded those present at the banquet that because an idea was new, it should not necessarily be rejected.

He also expressed himself in favor of rural consolidated schools, remarking that he and others, when in the Ontario Legislature, had advocated such action for years. Speaking as old teacher, in whose school were over 100 pupils, Senator Graham added that he was not always sure that it is a good thing to give gold medals, since sometimes the pupils are led to believe that a medal is the ideal of education. Similarly, he sometimes thought that too much stress is placed on examinations, and the teachers are judged by the number of their pupils who pass examinations. To his mind the best teachers are those who teach pupils the best way to live, rather than the greatest amount of book learning. It was, he said, the power to assimilate and use what has been learned that constitutes education. "Being a bookworm is not being educated," he added.

In a reminiscent vein, Senator Graham remarked that his parents at one time considered he would make a good clergyman. They were sincere and they sent him to school. But he then made two discoveries; the first, that he did not want to be a preacher, and the second that he was not called to be one. He had, accordingly, entered other pursuits.

INVESTIGATE DEPOSITS.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., June 11. — Dr. Freleigh Osborne, of the Ontario Department of Mines, came here today to conduct a mineralogical investigation of the County of Hastings and parts of Peterborough County to determine the value of the numerous mineral deposits that have been located here.

AMERICAN CUSTOMS OFFICERS ACCEPT CANADIAN CHALLENGE

GIVES NO HELP.

Canada Refuses To Allow U. S. Court To Secure Much-Wanted Bootleggers.

WINDSOR, Ont., June 11. (C.P.) — Canada's "challenge" of a haphazard enforcement of the United States 18th amendment, the Volstead Act, has been accepted, the Canadian Press was informed last night by Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the United States Treasury, as he departed for Washington after a conference in Detroit with Federal and District prohibition chiefs.

"The Canadian government has said that we have not attempted to enforce properly the prohibition law at border points, and we have accepted the challenge," Lowman asserted. "We are going to clean up the situation here in any event in spite of what has been said." Lowman continuing in the same vein, declared bluntly "We have 120,000,000 people within the United States, and I guess we can handle this situation without Canada's aid."

When it was pointed out that the greater majority of the rum runners are Canadian and that Canadian liquor exporters are operating legitimately under the laws of their own country, Lowman declared: "But you have right in Windsor 15 or 20 men who have been indicted by the United States courts for conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act, and we cannot get at them. And Canada does nothing to help us and will not agree to a change of legislation whereby these offenders against our laws can be extradited."

"But we'll not stop until we have them in jail," Lowman warned decisively.

DAY IN PARLIAMENT.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 11 (Canadian Press). — The House of Commons will continue with estimates of the Interior Department.

Yesterday in Parliament: The Senate gave the third reading to the amendments to the Canada Grain Act.

The House of Commons gave the third reading to the bill amending the Fisheries Act and to the bill amending the criminal code dealing with sedition. The House discussed the report of Commissioner Ellis of Vancouver dealing with traps for catching salmon. Consideration was given to the estimates of the Departments of National Revenue and the Interior.

Deer Hunters In Future Must Wear Badges

TORONTO, Ont., June 11. (C.P.)—Deer hunters in Ontario in future are to be numbered and badged, according to a new regulation of the Department of Games and Fisheries.

When receiving a deer license, hunters are also to be given a badge about the size of a half dollar upon which is also stamped the number of the deer license. This is to prevent any disputes as to hunters carrying other licenses.

ROYAL YORK IS OPENED

1,800 AT LUNCHEON.

TORONTO, Ont., June 11.—(Canadian Press).—Toronto's new hotel, the Royal York, the very last word in hotel construction and equipment, was officially opened to-day by Viscount Willingdon, Governor-General of Canada. His Excellency was the first to sign the hotel register.

The opening took place in the presence of representatives of the dominion and provincial governments, the Toronto city council and nearly 2,000 citizens and members of the Toronto Board of Trade. Lord Willingdon was received by E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company which owns and operates the Royal York, and was conducted to the reception hall where His Excellency proceeded with the opening program.

Then followed the board of trade luncheon in honor of President Beatty. The 1,800 guests at this function included representative men from all parts of the dominon. Mr. Beatty was accompanied by several directors of the C. P. R., representatives of the Canadian National and other railroads were also present.

Immediate Action Is Sought

Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative Leader, Enlivens Proceedings in House of Commons.

MAY PROLONG SESSION.

Makes Clear That Canada is Not Hewer of Wood or Drawer of Water.

OTTAWA, June 11. (C.P.)—Declaring that the Opposition in the House of Commons was ready to remain in session as long as needed in order to deal with this "menace to our economic life," Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader to-day, enlivened what appeared to be the concluding days of the present session of Parliament with a vigorous speech on the new Tariff Bill now before the United States Congress.

"There has been some talk of a fall session," Mr. Bennett stated. "We who sit here have declared that we are ready, and willing, and have been ready, and willing, since the very inception of this menace to our economic life, to remain here as long as may be necessary, in order that Canada might make it clear to the world that we are hewers of wood and drawers of water for no man, that we will develop our own resources, and that no one may with impunity strike a blow to the economic life of this country, aimed directly at our having access to the markets of this great republic, without our taking notice of that."

Only Salvation.

Mr. Bennett contended that the new tariff would be critical for this country. The Fordney tariff had resulted in 200,000 Canadians going to the United States the first year it was in full effect. With that in view some idea of the seriousness of the situation with which Canada would be faced could be prophesied if these greatly increasing duties against Canadian goods came into effect. The policy of the Conservative party was the only solution of the situation, Mr. Bennett asserted. It was not a policy of retaliation, but a policy that would enable our people to work out their destiny in their own country.

Since the Fordney-McCumber passed, Canada had by slow degrees been progressing toward the position which this country occupied prior to the approval of that measure, said Mr. Bennett. But the adverse balance of trade was still very evident. Canada was buying from the United States, goods to the value of approximately $900,000,000 per annum. The Dominion was selling to the United States commodities worth approximately $500,000,000 And, added Mr. Bennett, sales to the United States by Canada were made up largely of paper, lumber, and mineral products. What had the government done to meet the situation? he asked.

This year, the United States had increased duties on Canadian products. Milk, cream and other items were sharply heightened.

Urged to Say Nothing

"And yet," Mr. Bennett said, "we are urged by the leader of this government, by the Prime Minister himself, not to say anything which would be provocative."

Recently Canada had reduced the protection given by its tariffs to the Canadian people and the extremists of the world had acclaimed the act. Canada's representative at the League of Nations had pointed with pride to his country's action. Canada was sounding the death knell of protection by her policy, it was alleged. But the result had been a dispossession of their own markets from the Canadian people, Mr. Bennett added.

This was going on while the cattlemen of the west were being destroyed.

With the increase of the duty of milk and cream herds. For, they said, with the protection given them they could attain success, since Canada and New Zealand were no longer their competitors.

Hon. James A. Robb, Minister of Finance, who followed, regretted that GOVERNMENT DOES NOT PROPOSE INCREASE MEMBERS' SALARIES

Private Members Favored Increase in Sessional Indemnities.

HURRY BUSINESS.

Increase Favored Amounts to $2,000 For Members and Senators.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 11 (Canadian Press). — The Government does not propose to take any steps to provide increased sessional indemnities for members of the House of Commons or the Senate during the life of the present Parliament. This matter which has been the subject of discussion in caucus and conjecture in Parliament corridors has finally been decided insofar as the Government is concerned. The decision is against any increase not only this session, but during any subsequent session of the present Parliament. The increase favored by advocates of higher pay for members amounted to two thousand dollars, bringing the indemnity for members and Senators up to six thousand dollars a year.

The Government, taking cognizance of the move for an increase, gave the matter consideration and decided in the negative.

In some quarters it is suggested that this decision of the Government may have the effect of speeding up the work of Parliament. That there was a decided demand for increased indemnities is generally known, and it is intimated that there may have been a disposition in certain quarters to wait around and see if the Government would take any action. With the Government definitely decided against increased indemnities, members who have been reluctant to leave before the matter was decided may be glad to conclude the business of the session as rapidly as possible.

Residents Of The Pas Are Fearing Big Flood

THE PAS, Man., June 11 (C.P.)—Residents of The Pas experienced anxiety to-day as the Saskatchewan River continued its ominous rise. District rain for the past day or so has aggravated the situation until it threatens to border on the serious.

If the north branch floods of the Saskatchewan and the mountain flow meet at The Pas, sections of the northern town are certain to be inundated. Residents are hoping that the floods of the two branches come a week apart, as usual, in which case damage will be negligible.

Five Are Drowned In Attempting Rescue

RANDOLPH, Vt., June 11 (Canadian Press). — Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boardman, their son Harry, and two daughters, Orra and Beatrice, were drowned here last night. Harry, while swimming, was caught in the current and the others lost their lives in attempting his rescue.

Harry, 15, was swimming with Randolph Bennett in a branch of the White River in the rear of the Boardman home. The current caught the Boardman boy, and he was swept into deep water. The cries of the two bathers aroused the other members of the family, who rushed to their aid.

Old Age Pensions Agreement Comes Into Force In Ontario November 1

TORONTO, June 11. (C.P.) — The Ontario Government's agreement with the Federal Government on old age pensions was formally signed in Premier Ferguson's office, Parliament Buildings, shortly before noon to-day. The agreement bears four signatures, namely: Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, for the Province; Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Labor, Ottawa, for the Federal Government, J. A. Ellis, Member of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, and Ald. Humphrey Mitchell of Hamilton, as witnesses.

The agreement, in technical and legal phraseology, definitely states that the Pension Act becomes operative November 1st. The ceremony occupied but a few minutes.

Hamilton Woman Is Minus New Husband And Also $1000 Which Was For Big Wedding

TORONTO, Ont., June 11 (Canadian Press). — Mrs. Anna Markovitch, 50, Hamilton widow, was minus a husband and $1,000 at one swoop yesterday. Through a matrimonial matchmaker in Toronto she met a man claiming to be from Chicago. Shortly before they were to be married, she entrusted to him the money, all that remained of the estate left by her late husband. It was to be spent on the wedding and a great feast afterward, but the prospective husband used it as travelling expenses in connection with a sudden departure. He left no address and Mrs. Markovitch applied to the police. "It's a lot of money when it's all you have," she said. "It isn't the husband so much; it's my money."

Woman and Child Murdered

Hired Man Shoots Two

On Verge of Being Discharged, Farm Employe Murders Woman and Child.

BABY SHOT IN BED.

Fails To Kill Father of Two Victims On Manitoba Farm.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 11 (C.P.).—On the verge of being discharged by his farmer-employer, four miles north of Dropmore, Man., and about 150 miles southwest of Winnipeg, Koht Werstiuk, a farm laborer, ran amuck yesterday and murdered Mrs. Ruth Jones and her 16-year-old son, Edward, while only his faulty marksmanship with a 38-36 calibre rifle saved the life of the husband and father of the two victims.

Werstiuk's body, with a gaping bullet wound through the head, was found by police, who responded to a call from Albert E. Jones, the farm proprietor.

Jones heard a shot from the vicinity of his home while milking at the barn yesterday morning and on running to the house was met by his hired man. Werstiuk carried a rifle and fired point blank at his employer from close range—missing him completely. Two more shots also failed to find their human target and the farmer escaped to the home of a neighbor, where he phoned for the police.

Returning with a posse of armed police, Jones found the dead bodies of his wife and eldest son in the house. Both had been shot through the stomach, the little boy while he lay in bed. Werstiuk's body was discovered a few minutes later.

Four other children were in the house at the time of the murders, but were untouched.

NEW STATION FOR HAVELOCK

START IMMEDIATELY.

Work on the new Canadian Pacific Railway station at Havelock is to start at once. This is a much needed improvement in the village and when finished it will be quite modern, meeting the needs of the community in a far more adequate way than the present structure.

The bulk of the contract has been awarded to the Goldie Construction Company, Limited, of 32 Church street, Toronto, at a figure near $37,000. This company is now considering tenders on the sub-contracts for the structure.

The plans that have been prepared by the architectural and engineering department of the Canadian Pacific Railway call for a one-storey building, 140 by 48 feet, constructed of brick and tile. The station, baggage and express quarters will be finished in oak.

The contractors announce that the work will be started immediately and the sub-contracts let at once.

SPARKS CIRCUS TO SHOW HERE JUNE 24

Sparks Circus Advance Car No. 1 arrived to-day, and twenty-five men who make this special Pullman their home eight months of the year are busy heralding the coming of the big show which is to exhibit in Peterborough Monday, June 24, afternoon and night.

This is the first arrival of the advertising department of the show, with others to follow at intervals from now until the date of the exhibition. The Sparks Circus is now the only large circus offering a daily street parade, and has tripled in size since its former visit to this city.

Many new animals have been added this season, and the show is offering an entirely new program, including such well known features and artists as the Nelson Family of seven premier acrobats of the world. Carlos Carreon, the world's greatest horse trainer, Flora Bedini, and the Walter Guice Troupe of riders, without doubt the greatest in their line. Of course, there are clowns aplenty—for what would a circus be without the "Merry Jesters." Scores of other renowned artists will be seen with the Sparks Circus when it exhibits here.

The Weather

METEOROLOGICAL OFFICE Toronto, Ont., June 11.—(Canadian Press).—An area of low pressure centred over Northern Ontario is causing thunder showers in the upper lake region. Except for light local showers in the western and Maritime provinces the weather over the dominion has been fair. Cool in Saskatchewan and Alberta and moderately warm elsewhere.

Peterborough People Appear Superstitious When It Comes To Walking Under a Ladder

Are citizens of Peterborough still superstitious about life's little trifles? That they are when it comes to walking under a ladder was surely indicated on George street this afternoon.

A ladder was stretched halfway across the east side of the pavement while workmen were engaged in boring holes for new wires into the C. P. R. Telegraph office. Of the dozens who passed that way all were seen to circle around the ladder suspiciously, although the sidewalk was crowded and there was more room under the ladder. It was noticed, however that one woman, pushing a baby carriage too, courageously made her way beneath the slanting ladder. All others filed around it.

GOOD PROGRAM IS PRESENTED

PLEASING NUMBERS.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 11 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — St. John's United Church was well filled last night when the Madrigal Singers of Peterborough, under the direction of Dorothy Allan Park, presented an entertainment which was greatly appreciated by all those who attended. This is the second appearance this group of lady singers has made in Campbellford, and the favorable comment which they have won on each occasion is worthy of note. On the occasion of their first appearance here the auditorium of the church was filled to overflowing. This was during the recognized concert season last year. This time the audience was somewhat smaller, but considered exceptionally good for this time of year, when the out-of-doors is the major attraction and lure. The rapt attention with which the audience listened to the entire program was the hall-mark of its character.

During the program of fourteen numbers, the Madrigal Singers appeared five times. They opened the concert with a group of two numbers, "The Brook" (Borch) and "One Morning, O, So Early" (Hawley). Their second group was of three numbers, "Where the Bee Sucks" (Arne), arranged by Granville Bantock, and "Indian Lullaby" (Vogt), were the first two numbers of the second group. These were sung unaccompanied. "Sir Eglamore," an old English air, arranged by Balfour Gardiner, was a rousing number, sung with slightly more volume than its fellow members of the group. Its rollicking rythm won the hearts of the audience. The third group by the Madrigals was also of three numbers, "Dreams," a slow dreamy affair by Von Frelitz; "The Fairy Bellman" (Bornschein) and "Will o' the Wisp," a lively composition by Charles Gilbert Spross; "The Little Sandman" (Brahms), and "Old King Cole" (Forsyth), comprised the fourth group by the singers. The latter number won much applause, and resembled in a marked degree the quartette of the same name which was sung by four members of the organization on their first appearance here. As a final group they sang "When the Roses Bloom" (Reichardt) and the "Waltz" from Faust (Gounod). The final number was a particularly attractive offering and was loudly applauded.

Other Numbers.

All the program did not consist of group singing. Each member of the choir is a trained soloist, and several solos were rendered during the evening. Miss Mildred McGee was the first soloist. She sang "A Pastoral," an old English air, arranged by Lane Wilson. May Jory was the next soloist to appear. She received much applause when she sang, "The Nightingales of Lincoln's Inn" (Songs of Old London by Oliver). Bertha Hill, contralto, sang "The Blind Ploughman" (Clarke). Margaret Dickson, lyric soprano, was the next to appear. She sang Carew's "Piper June," and was the first to receive an encore. She responded with "As I Went a Roaming" (Brake). Mrs. Fred Free's singing of "My Laddie" (Thayer), also was encored and she responded with "A Psalm of Love" (Forster). Geraldine Collins was also encored. She sang "The Valley of Laughter" (Sanderson), and for her encore, "Wake Up" (Phillips). Miss Emma Meiklejohn was the last soloist to appear. Her number was immediately prior to the closing group by the Madrigals. She sang "Spring Comes Laughing" (Carew), and for her encore, "The Green Balcony" (Coates).

Hazel Davidson McClelland recaptured the hearts of her Campbellford audience when she appeared as the elocutionist of the evening. As usual, she excelled in her interpretations of juvenile roles, and her first number was descriptive of the trials of a mother who has taken her small son, who has an inquisitive and curious nature, while she goes on a shopping tour. She gave as her second number an interpretation of "Mrs. 'Arris at the Telephone." This number demanded an encore and she responded generously.

At the conclusion of the concert

SCHOONER ABANDONED AT SEA.

HALIFAX, N.S., June 11. — The Gloucester fishing schooner Mary Sears was abandoned at sea yesterday morning on fire. Her crew are being brought to Halifax by the French trawler Sergent Gouarme, according to a wireless message from Captain Robin F. Gouarme to his agent here. The message read:

"Bound for Halifax with crew of American schooner Mary Sears set on fire this morning. Arrival tomorrow morning early."

The message did not make clear whether the ship caught fire and was abandoned, or was damaged and set afire as a menace to navigation. The schooner has been engaged in mackerel fishing on the Nova Scotia coast.

SOCIETY HONORS CHURCH PASTOR

Presentation Made Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Todd On Wedding Anniversary.

Y.W.A. HOLDS PICNIC.

A very pleasant outing was enjoyed by the members of the Young Women's Auxiliary of George Street United Church on Saturday afternoon when they motored up the east side of the canal and held a picnic supper.

Arrangements were in charge of Miss Eva Elliott, Miss I. McKim, Miss Elsie Taylor and Miss Ethel Clysdale.

The afternoon was spent in games and sports. Prize winners were Mrs. J. E. Todd, Mrs. William Knox, Mrs. Fowler, Miss Taylor, Miss Eva Elliott and Miss Edith Brown.

A pleasing addition to the supper table was a wedding cake made in honor of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Todd whose wedding anniversary it was. Mrs. Knox read a congratulatory address to the bride and groom of yesteryears and presented a bouquet of Lily of the Valley and Forget-Me-Nots. A suitable acknowledgement was made by Mr. Todd.

Presentations Made

At the conclusion of the supper, Mrs. Todd was presented by the Auxiliary members with two tinted pictures of local scenes. Mrs. Charles Pantson made the presentation and Miss Eva Elliott read the accompanying address which was as follows:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Todd:

In the life of every nation and of every individual, there comes crucial moments, when we are called upon to act quickly and sanely, while deciding a point which is to change completely the future trend of our lives.

Sometimes when the river of life seems to be running most smoothly, these opportunities for quick grasping are presented to us.

Today our "George Street United Church", in all its departments is feeling most keenly indeed, the effects of just one of such decision. We realize with the deepest possible regret, that you and you estimable family, will soon be far distant on the boundless prairie of Alberta, with the snow capped mountains to the west, glittering in the sunshine.

A wonderful land of promise and opportunity. A land—and a great city of Calgary—where practically all the nations of the earth are represented within its boundaries. What glorious opportunities to work among those who are hungry for the real bread of life—as well as to mingle with the vast throng who are so filled with the insatiable desire to acquire more of this world's goods and who need assistance from those with qualities of heart and mind, such as you possess.

And so we feel that we must relax our tender gip of friendship and affection in order that others may enjoy the privileges of association with the family which has so endeared itself to us.

The Young Woman's Auxiliary have been very fortunate to have you, Mrs. Todd, to work with us as one of our Honorary Presidents.

We know that you have both enjoyed your sojourn in Peterborough, where you have drunk in the beauty of tis marvellous scenery.

In order that you may have a constant reminder of your Eastern home, we would ask you to accept these two scenes of local landscape, hoping that they may call up many happy memories in the years to come.

In bidding you farefell, our hearts are sore; but we know that you will be happy in your new Western home, where your opportunities for doing good will be unlimited.

May we assure you that you carry to your new home, our very best wishes for health, happiness and success.

Mrs. Todd spoke feelingly in reply, expressing gratitude and deep regret on leaving Peterborough, especially of having to severe her connections with this organization in which she had enjoyed such pleasant associations.

FOUR OIL WELLS BEING BURNED

DERRICKS DESTROYED.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 11 (C.P.).—Fire which burst forth late yesterday in the heart of the Sante Fe Springs Oil Field, twelve miles south of here, burned nine derricks and ignited the flow of four wells. Despite efforts of 400 fire fighters, the flames still were beyond control late last night.

The wells were valued at $100,000 and the derricks at $10,000 each.

Officials feared further spread. Several large storage tanks near the blaze were threatened. Should they explode, official said the conflagration might sweep the field.

CHURCH UNION IS DESCRIBED TO PILGRIMAGE

CIVIC LUNCHEON.

Two Leading English Divines Respond to the Canadian Greetings.

TORONTO, Ont., June 11 (C.P.).—The climax of the British Free Church pilgrimage came yesterday, when the visitors received a formal welcome from their hosts, the United Church of Canada, at Trinity United Church in the morning, and in the afternoon attended the fourth anniversary service of the inauguration of the United Church. Interspersed between the two church functions was a civic luncheon given by the Mayor and City Council of Toronto.

The main event of the day was the anniversary service at Massey Hall, when the 1056 pilgrims from the four Non-Conformist Churches of Great Britain heard the inspiring and eloquent addresses of leading United Churchmen on the subject of Church Union in Canada. Response to the greetings of the Canadians was made at this service by two of the leading pilgrims, Rev. Dr. J. D. Jones of Bournmouth and Sir Robert Kay of York.

Hon. N. W. Rowell of Toronto was the first speaker following the opening remarks of the chairman, the Right Rev. Dr. W. T. Gunn, Moderator of the United Church. Hon. Mr. Rowell explained something of the history of Church Union and compared it with the present movement for Union in the Old Country. England, he said, was not afraid to try new experiments in government and there was no reason why this genius could not be extended to the higher sphere of religion.

Much Desired Goal

Rev. Dr. J. D. Jones said that Church Union was the much desired goal of the Free Churches of Great Britain, but it would take time. An inspiring picture of the future of the Empire was drawn by Dr. Jones, who said that Canada might some day be the centre of the Empire. The British Commonwealth of Nations, he said, was the greatest force for peace in the world to-day.

Sir Robert Kay, a former member of the British House of Commons and one of the leaders in the Methodist Union movement, told of the efforts in the Old Country of the three divisions of the Methodists to achieve a union similar to that of Canada. On behalf of the Methodists of England he presented the Moderator with a copy of the Bill of Union which passed the British House of Commons and received royal assent. Sir Robert said that the Canadian Church Union Bill was of great assistance in securing unanimous approval of the English bill in the House of Commons.

SCHOOL WARDEN GIVES ADDRESS

INSTRUCTIVE SERVICE.

The work of the English Church Army under the influence of Prebendary Carlile, Founder of the organization was well explained by the Right Rev. J. R. Lucas, D. D., at the service in St. George's Church on Friday evening. A large congregation had gathered to support this first contingent of young Canadians in their march of witness for Christ. The service was of a very hearty nature, the mission hymns being well sung by the congregation, with Mrs. R. King at the organ.

The Crusaders were welcomed to the parish by the Rector, Rev. J. L. Hughes, who stated that this was the fourth visit of Church Army Crusaders to St. George's Church, members of the English C. A. having paid the former visits. He also welcomed His Lordship Bishop Lucas, Warden of the Church Army Training College, and thought it a privilege that His Lordship should have chosen this day to pay a visit to the Crusaders on their travels.

The service was taken by Cadet Wall, and the lesson read by Cadet Bewley. A short message of witness was given by Cadet Aylands, and a solo "In the Garden," was sung by Captain Morley. Bishop Lucas preached a forceful sermon on the "Call to Service," in the course of which he referred to the opportunities now before young men for whole time service as Lay Evangelists in the Church. Prior to the Church service, an open air meeting was held on Orpington Road, the speakers being Bishop Lucas, Rev. J. L. Hughes, and Captain Morley. Short messages were given by the Cadets.

Members of the Choir and Sunday School teachers kindly looked after the serving of meals, the Men's Club giving financial assistance.

STUDENT IS ELECTROCUTED

BELLEVILLE, Ont., June 11.—Kenneth Thomson, 17, Collegiate student of Trenton, was electrocuted today when he came in direct contact with a live wire carrying 44,000 volts. On a dare from a companion he climbed up a guy wire leading to a Hydro pole and after passing the insulator he dropped to the ground.

LOCAL SOCIETY PRESENTS PLAY

ENTERTAINING PROGRAM.

MILLBROOK, June 11.—(Examiner Correspondence). — The A.Y.P.A. of Saint John's Church, Peterborough, presented the play, "The Arabian Nights," in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening, June 5, under the auspices of the Saint Thomas' Church A.Y.P.A., winning popular approval with the entertainment.

The three-act comedy depicts the difficulties in which Arthur Hummingtop (D. Batchelor) finds himself involved when, after reading the Arabian Nights, he impersonates Haroun Alraschid during a midnight stroll and encounters Rosa Columbia, the "Gutta Percha Girl" (Miss W. Melton), who retains his handkerchief, plainly marked with his name and address, thanks to the good offices of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Gillibrand (Miss M. Thornton), with whom he is continually at odds.

Mrs. Hummingtop (Miss L. Gregory) is away on a visit, and the curious questioning of the officious mother-in-law when Rosa calls and insists on remaining in the home, leads to all kinds of deception on the part of Mr. Hummingtop, who passes her off as his niece, a wealthy girl soon expected from America. Further complications arise when the real niece, Daisy Maitland, (Miss M. Guthrie) arrives, particularly as soon afterward Mrs. Hummingtop comes home.

The course of true love does not run very smoothly for Daisy and her lover, Ralph Omerod (L. Dyer), nor for Dobson, the butler, (Ted Rigby) and Barbara, the maid, (Miss N. Pinn), because of Arthur's frantic statements in his desire to clear himself of suspicion, but in the end everything is happily straightened out. Mrs. Gillibrand has encouraged her son, Joshua Gillibrand, (Ormie Heap) to cultivate Rosa's acquaintance, believing her to be the rich niece, but is furious when they come in and announce their marriage, and the truth comes out.

SETTLERS ASK LARGER GRANTS

ADDRESS POSTPONED.

COCHRANE, June 11. (C.P. — Interviewing settlers in the Agricultural district which is being hewed out of the bush hereabouts, W. E. N. Sinclair, K. C., M.P.P., Liberal leader for Ontario, was told yesterday that the land grant to the settlers should be increased from 80 to 160 acres per homesteader and that the Department of Northern Development should devote more money to the clearing of creeks and ditches in the swampy districts.

An epidemic of measles which has prevailed for the past six weeks here prevented the holding of a public meeting, Mr. Sinclair was informed at noon when he arrived with Hon. Nelson Parliament, the Provincial Liberal organizer, and Dr. George A. McQuibban, M.P.P., for North-East Wellington.

Accordingly, the visiting party's only business of the day was the meeting of the local executive and a motor trip through the surrounding country to see the settlers in their homes.

Touring north of the town, Mr. Sinclair met a sturdy French-Canadian homesteader who has been on the land since 1911, and had served on the local township council. The latter stated that the present grant of 80 acres did not afford the settler enough pulpwood to eke out a living while clearing his land.

Hhe truth is so strange that at first Mr. Hummingtop's story is refused belief, but the final scene finds all the misunderstandings cleared up, the lovers, as well as the husband and wife, re-established in confidence, the only disgruntled person being Mrs. Gillibrand, who cannot be reconciled that her conceited dandy of a son has chosen a circus girl as his bride.

Music between the acts was furnished by Jack Marshall's orchestra, and the play was directed by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham.

Before the visiting artists left for home the hostess A.Y.P.A. served lunch, and the opportunity for becoming acquainted and for social intercourse was thoroughly enjoyed.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WIDELY KNOWN DENTIST DEAD

TORONTO, Ont., June 11.—Lieut.-Col. Guy S. Hume, 20 years Professor of Orthodontia and former resident of the American Association of Orthodontists, died here yesterday. He was born in Galt 55 years ago and served his apprenticeship in dentistry there before coming to the Royal College of Dental Surgeons in Toronto. During the war he was mentioned in despatches for dental services with the Canadian Division.

NEW PRESIDENT ELECTED

TORONTO, Ont., June 11.—Owing to the death of W. I. Chisholm, who was elected President of the Ontario Educational Association at the recent annual convention, the vice-president, Judge J. H. Scott, Perth, Ont., has been elected president for the current year.

FLIES BAD IN NORTH

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., June 11.—Flies are numerous in the bush and parties of fishermen report they are as troublesome as in the "fly season." Big game is suffering from the bush pests and deer and moose have been encountered on the highways, in fields and other open places, the animals apparently losing their fear of human being or preferring their proximity to suffering from the flies in the bush.

200-ROOM HOTEL

GUELPH, Ont., June 11.—Arthur W. Cutten's million dollar hotel here will contain 200 rooms with individual baths, commodious dining-rooms, a ball-room accommodating 2,000 guests, and a handsome lobby. This was learned on the arrival here yesterday of Mr. Cutten with Benjamin Marshall, American architect, who is in charge of the project.

200 CASES OF MEASLES.

COCHRANE, Ont., June 11.—With 200 cases reported Cochrane is now in the throes of a measles epidemic which has been sweeping the north country since midwinter.

GROWING HEAT OF SUN ENCOURAGES HAIR CUTS

Barbers Say More Men Get Locks Shorn in Summer

As the sun grows hotter locks are shorn faster and with greater frequency, so local barbers declare. They don't know for a certainty the cause of summer's increased business, but all state absolutely that warm weather brings them added prosperity.

"Yes," said one barber, "summer is surely our busy season. It may be that people get their hair cut oftener to keep their heads cool."

Another suggested that the average citizen had more money in the summer than winter and he spent some of his extra cash on hair cuts and shaves.

That the farmers could get into the city easier in the summer and get "spruced" up more, thus bringing the additional business, was the thought of another. "Then the tourists are great customers," he said.

OSHAWA, Ont., June 11.—Rev. R. A. Whattam set a local record for marriages on Saturday when he married three couples in 40 minutes.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, June 11.—Butter prices rose slightly on the local wholesale produce market yesterday under brisk trading, with supplies passing freely into consumers' hands. Butter production throughout the country is fully normal and supplies are quite adequate to meet all demands. No. 1 finest creamery was quoted at 36c to 36¼c a pound, and No. 2 grade 1c lower.

Egg prices continued barely steady on very light trading, as there was practically no storage demand in evidence. Dealers report increasing difficulty in moving supplies, especially in the fresh extra grades, for which there seems to be only a very slight call. Quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered and cases returned, are as follows: Fresh extras, 27c to 28c; firsts, 25c to 26c, and seconds, 22c to 23c a dozen.

The cheese market was very active and prices are firm at 19½c for No. 1 Government graded, large colored, waxed cheese. Dealers state that they are doing a larger business than for some time.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, June 11.—Reports of rain in Western Canada resulted in heavy selling pressure on yesterday's wheat market and closing quotations recorded declines of 3¼c to 3½c for the day. A flood of selling in the first hour showed values four cents below the previous close. Although there were several reactions from the low points the market failed to make much headway toward higher levels.

Cash wheat trading was light with prices ¼c lower. Export demand was negligible and very little interest was taken in our grain by foreign interest.

Coarse grains were neglected yesterday morning. Oats were fractionally lower; barley declined one cent and rye and flax also recorded losses in sympathy with wheat.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 11. — Indications that the United States will add 900,000,000 bushels or more to 1929 world supplies of wheat gave a jolt to wheat values yesterday. Reports of rains, giving at least temporay relief to dry districts of Canada and Argentina counted also as an influence toward lower prices, and so, too, did possibilities of some seventh hour mishap to farm legislation at Washington.

Wheat closed heavy at almost the day's bottom level, 3 3-4c to 3 7-8 net lower, with corn 2 1-4c to 2 7-8c down; oats 7-8c to 1 3-8c off, and provisions varying from 17c decline to a rise of 5c.

Official announcement that the condition of spring wheat in the United States is 84.8 per cent., attracted particular attention among wheat traders yesterday, especially on account of an inference by a leading authority here that it would now take almost a calamity in the Northwest to bring the 1929 United States wheat crop to below last year's total. He asserted that the outlook is for 300,000,000 bushels domestic spring wheat yield, and said that the total domestic wheat harvest this season would be probably at least 800,000,000 bushels. Price downturns, which accordingly right from the outset gathered force, received greater momentum by reasons of better moisture both in Canada and Argentina, and because of word of decided enlargement of the amount of wheat on ocean passage.

Favorable weather conditions throughout the corn belt put the corn market under heavy selling pressure aside from the influence of wheat weakness. Oats gave way owing to sympathy with other cereals. Provisions were responsive to downturns in grain and in hog values as well.

CAMPBELLFORD CASE CONTINUES

J. A. Anderson Gives Evidence in Division Court Action.

TO CONTINUE LATER.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 11. — (Staff Correspondence).—J. A. Anderson, a member of the session of St. Andrew's church for seventeen years, was the first witness called yesterday in the Nesbitt case in the Divisional Court before Judge Huycke. He knew the organist and had spoken to him regarding his music while at the table in his own home. From members of the church, Anderson claimed he had heard several comments on the music. These had been mentioned both by people coming out of the church and by members of the church who were in his store when he discussed the matter. He recalled the joint meeting of the choir and session February 8th, and said that it had been called by the moderator, Rev. Dr. Mark, to discuss the music. It was there that Miss Atkinson had asked what was objectionable in the music and the minister had told her that the whole program was and mentioned one or two numbers.

Robert Innes another member of the session, had wanted the concerts put on during the week and moved that the Sunday night concert be cancelled. This was seconded by Henry Hay, another elder, and the motion carried unanimously.

Session Meeting

Anderson also attended the meeting of the session held in the Manse on Monday evening, February 11th. The resolution asking for Nesbitt's resignation had been enacted then. He did not attend other meetings held that week. There was a meeting of the choir at which the session was requested to be present and he had been there along with four or five other elders. They had waited down below in the basement of the church while the choir deliberated. Then they were summoned to appear, Alex. MacDonald as spokesman, asked them what could be done to settle the whole thing. They claimed that they were not an official representation from the session and could give no definite answer. If the choir would put their suggestion in writing, they would give it to the session. At the meeting, Anderson said he suggested that Nesbitt go to the minister and apologise for his action and that perhaps some agreement could be arrived at.

Mr. Anderson in cross examination was also able to recall the organ recital given by Newcourt and artists from Peterborough. He recalled seconding a vote of appreciation at the close of the concert and denied using the words "Splendid sacred concert." He was not prepared to say what compositions were sacred and would not undertake to criticise a musician. He merely claimed that the session and congregation objected to the tone of the concerts. Personally, he had first objected in his own home. He had objected to the first concert and the session had engaged Nesbitt and he had voted for him in spite of his objection.

The case was then adjourned to be continued at a later date.

Rugged and Enduring

THE Ford car is staunch and rugged—built to give year round service under every road and weather condition. The fact that it is smart and beautiful as well is due to the months of painstaking engineering labour that preceded its advent in the motoring world. Time and expense were set aside in the endeavour to produce a light car that would stand up to every requirement both in and out of its weight class. The result has justified this effort and the Ford car has set a new motoring standard based upon high performance at low cost.

It is difficult to measure the full endurance of the Ford car since one year of consistent driving leaves it like new. But it may be estimated by the superior quality of materials used in every part and the precision methods of manufacture employed throughout, that many thousands of miles of carefree motoring are built into its chassis.

Reliability and low upkeep

RIDING EASE—The low centre of gravity and carefully planned balance of the Ford car hold it firmly on the road. The four Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers cushion the hard jolts and bumps. But perhaps the most advantageous and unique feature is the system of transverse or crosswise springs. These springs rest on their flexible ends with the heavy centre uppermost. Thus the very weight of the springs receives the benefit of spring action instead of hanging below as dead weight and increasing the hammer-like blows of road impacts.

CONTROL—The Ford Steering wheel answers to the touch of a finger. Gears shift with silent precision. Brakes take hold quickly, firmly even on rain-swept pavements. Quick acceleration and alert speed are especially useful in traffic emergencies. A space little longer than the car itself is all you need for parking.

ECONOMY—The Ford car averages between 20 to 30 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and the cost of tires and oil is also low. Low first cost, the availability of Ford dealers everywhere, and close supervision of service are additional reasons for the economy of the Ford car.

TIME PAYMENT—If you prefer to buy out of income you will find the authorized time payment plan offered by all Ford dealers most attractive.

4 Houdaille Shock Absorbers

Houdaille Hydraulic Shock Absorbers, four to every Ford car, absorb both the upward and downward thrust of the shock through slowing the spring action by means of a heavy glycerine solution, which is forced through a small valve from one compartment to another. They offer resistance to the blow when and as required.

WOULD STAGE ATHLETIC MEET

Earl Lautenslager Addresses East Durham Boys' Work Board.

REGULAR MEETING.

BAILIEBORO, June 11.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—Earl Lautenslager, field secretary of the Provincial Boys' Work Board, was present at the monthly meeting of the East Durham Boys' Work Board in the United Church here on Wednesday evening.

The Tuxis Squares and Scouts were represented from Millbrook, Garden Hill and the local Squares.

Mr. Lautenslager was introduced by the chairman of the local board, Mr. Barnes, of Millbrook.

The speaker congratulated the local board upon its splendid work already accomplished. He also advised the members of the board to do their best to stage a county athletic meet. Mr. Lautenslager praised the summer camps, and strongly advised those present to arrange to have some of their most active leaders to attend at least one of the boys' camps, where they will receive a complete course in leadership training.

Considerable business was transacted by the board. A field day for the county was planned for a future date.

Those present were: Mr. Barnes, chairman; Percy Stinson, chairman of the sports committee; A. Deyell, J. C. Barnard.

PRESENTS PLAY.

Successful Affair Staged Under Auspices of Marmora Church A.Y.P.A.

MARMORA, June 11—(Examiner Correspondence). — The play, "Red Acre Farm" was presented in Marmora Town Hall on Friday evening. Members of the A.Y.P.A. of St. James' Church, Tweed, supplied the cast of characters and proved very entertaining throughout. St. Paul's A.Y.P.A., under whose auspices the play was given, entertained the visitors at the conclusion of the play to first class refreshments at the rectory. Responding to the welcome, the hope was expresesd by the Tweed young people that St. Paul's A.Y.P.A. would visit them in the fall.

AN IMPORTANT CONFERENCE.

The announcement that Premier Ramsay MacDonald proposes to visit the United States for the purpose of discussing Anglo-American relations with President Hoover and that Premier MacKenzie King will represent Canada at the conference, will be received with approval.

The exchange of diplomatic messages between the Governments of two countries is a method of deciding problems of mutual interest that leaves a great deal to be desired, and that compares very unfavorably with the frank discussion that is possible when the heads of such Governments come together in a round-table conference.

There is a common-sense aspect to the suggestion that the British Premier and the President of the United States should confer on subjects that are of importance to the people of their respective subjects that will commend it to the judgment of Britishers and Americans alike, while the inclusion of Premier King would be a tangible recognition of the important part Canada plays in interpreting Britain to the people of the United States and the United States to the British people.

THE SLOW DRIVER.

A motorist was heard boasting the other night that he rarely drove above twenty miles an hour, and apparently the impression he was seeking to create was that he was a careful driver who deserved general applause.

As a matter of fact, he is the type of motorist who, strange to say, is becoming a menace by his very carefulness.

When he gets out on a provincial highway and dawdles along at 20 miles an hour he creates a condition that breeds accidents.

The traffic behind him either has to slow up to his speed or drivers have to take chances cutting out around his car, the process being repeated by each succeeding car that comes along from behind, thus setting up the possibilities of a collision or a side-swipe.

The legal speed on the highway is 35 miles an hour under normal conditions, and the motorist who drives at half that speed on a good road is almost as dangerous as the other fellow who reverses the conditions and attempts to double the legal limit.

The dawdler should stay on the sidelines; he is contributing to the perils rather than the safety of the provincial highways.

THE ADVENT OF THE TALKIES.

With the advent of talking pictures entertainment in Peterborough enters upon a new phase.

The audible motion picture represents a fresh development in the amusement field, containing such tremendous possibilities that few are bold enough to predict what will come next.

The present "talkies," amazing as they are, will likely appear decidedly crude when looked back to in a few months time.

So fast indeed are the advantages of this form of entertainment being enlarged upon that the picture of a few months ago is outclassed by to-day's product, and who can say what next month will reveal?

Through the medium of a talking screen it will be possible to bring to playgoers in small cities and towns metropolitan attractions that they have up to the present had no chance of seeing, and at prices that make it feasible for nearly everybody to attend.

That is a most significant development, transforming the amusement industry.

The one fly in the ointment is the fact that the talkies may finish the task of killing the legitimate theatre, and that eventually the stage attraction will disappear, a result that will be regretted by those who feel that no screen presentation no matter how convincing or realistic can substitute for the personal appearance of a stage star.

AN IMPORTANT STEP.

The signing of the old age pensions agreement by Hon. Peter Heenan, Federal Minister of Labor, and Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, bringing this Province within the scope of the Federal Pensions Act passed several sessions ago, represents a most important step in social legislation.

With Ontario now in line with the Federal system, all persons in this Province who have lived here for 20 years, who are at least 70 years old and are without other sources of income, become entitled to yearly pension not to exceed $240 a year.

The Act will come into force on November 1, and as The Examiner pointed out a few days ago, it becomes necessary for municipalities to set up the machinery by which the local administration of the pension system may be handled.

This is an important matter that should receive early and earnest consideration, inasmuch as it is desirable that the applications should be dealt with by a body that will be entirely sympathetic and at the same time not likely to be imposed upon.

Those who are eligible to relief under the Act should be treated as persons who are asking for something to which they are entitled, and the matter should be handled in such a manner that legitimate applicants will have no hesitation in claiming their rights under the Pensions Act.

LOOKING FOR A JOB.

A Stratford man who employs a good many hands, told the Beacon-Herald that he was impressed by the number of young men who were applying for positions. "I recall reading an article in your paper some weeks ago about young men who do not go about it to learn a trade or master any particular line of business, and I have been rather impressed in recent weeks By what I have noticed.

"Of course, at this time of year we have more applications than usual, because there are always a number of older boys who are seeking employment for the summer months when they will not be attending school. That is all right, because it is a good thing for a young man to work during the summer, but apart from that there have been a good many who are not going to school. They come in and ask for a job; many of them use that word, and it about describes the situation. They are willing to take on anything that we have to offer. A good many are not over twenty years of age, and nearly all of them have been working before. Some of them belong in the city, but about an equal number come from outside places, and a few from the country around here. They are not mechanics, and none of them in recent days have mentioned that they would like to learn a trade. They want employment at anything we can give them to do.

"I can't help thinking at times that in ten years from now they may possibly be doing the same thing. They have not been trained, they are not in line to increase their earning power, nor are they preparing to get into positions where people will be seeking them out for advanced positions.

"It is one of the weaknesses of our present way of doing things. We seem to have passed out of the old stage where young men learned trades. In some lines of business machinery has done away with the mechanic, but in others there are so many new developments that call for special knowledge that it may to a great extent compensate for the changed conditions.

"It may be too much to expect, but I cannot get away from the idea that many young men are not looking ahead far enough. If they could just try and get a mental picture of where they will be ten years from now in the way of employment and mental equipment perhaps they might see the extreme need of becoming masters of some trade or business. As long as they are simply looking for a job they remain in a field of constant competition and comparatively low wages."—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

ENFORCING THE LAW.

President Hoover went into office on a platform that contained a strong prohibition plank. Even before he secured the Republican nomination he declared, in answer to Senator Borah's question, that he stood for enforcement of the prohibition law. The indications from Washington are that Mr. Hoover is trying to make good on this promise. He has just dispatched a special note to Congress calling for reorganization of the Federal bureaus connected with prohibition enforcement and recommending that a joint committee of Congress be appointed at once to study the problem in conjunction with a departmental committee and the newly-appointed National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement.

It will be noticed that Mr. Hoover makes no specific suggestion as to how the reorganization should be accomplished. It is understood, however, that he plans to have all enforcement activities transferred from the Treasury to the Department of Justice. It is well known, of course, that there has been much criticism of the prohibition enforcement machinery being left to the department of the treasury, a branch of government presided over by Mr. Mellon. The criticism is based on the contention that the justice department is the proper organization to handle the work and that the effectiveness of the enforcement machinery is decidedly reduced by virtue of the personal opposition that Mr. Mellon is said to have for the prohibitory law.

From Washington yesterday, also, came an announcement of plans for an intensive summer campaign to check the flow of smuggled liquor across the Canadian border in the Windsor-Detroit area. Customs, prohibition and coastguard forces are scheduled to cooperate, under the direction of Mr. E. R. Northwood, who is being transferred from Northern New York to take charge of the Detroit section.

Another incident this week was the resignation of Mr. Carey D. Ferguson, collector of customs for the Michigan district. Mr. Ferguson stepped out, apparently, under pressure, for he has issued a statement that he has no apologies to make for "not having been successful in stopping completely the flow of rum from Canada." Though admitting his failure, the retiring collector asserts that lack of funds, equipment and personnel seriously handicapped him in his efforts.

That a more determined attempt to enforce the American dry law than we have ever seen before, is about to be made, is very evident. Mr. Hoover evidently appreciates that his administration is on trial before the bar of public opinion. The President, in his previous capacities, achieved a great reputation for "getting things done." That was the chief quality that landed him in the White House. One of the things that Mr. Coolidge failed signally to "get done" was the enforcement of prohibition. Certainly it should not be difficult for Mr. Hoover to at least surpass the Coolidge record in this respect.

The other day a large group of very prominent men issued an appeal to the American people asking for personal observance of the Eighteenth Amendment. Mr. Ford, Mr. W. C. Durant and Mr. Alfred P. Sloan were among the great industrial leaders who signed it. This week in Washington, Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador to the United States, announced that in future he and his associates would not utilize the liquor-immunity privilege granted all representatives of foreign Governments. Mr. Ford is pleased with this move and says that other embassies will follow suit "if they have any sense." And probably they will, because Sir Esme's action practically forces them to. Really, it is ridiculous that in a country that is officially "dry," the representatives of other powers should be allowed alcoholic privileges that the citizens of the nation to which they are accredited do not possess.

Progress is being made by the United States in a prohibition way. There is still much to be done, there is still a long road to be traveled, but there are signs that the lesson is sinking home, that the country is beginning to appreciate, in a very general way, the advantages of a law which says that alcohol is a delusion and a snare.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Saskatchewan can sympathize with Great Britain in that they both are suffering from the results of an indefinite election.

The Brandon Sun, when it remarked that the only qualification some seem to have for driving their car is their license, must have been thinking of conditions in Ontario.

Members of Parliament at $6,000 are a luxury that the people of Canada are quite prepared to forego.

British pilgrims from the Free churches of the British Isles sang "O Canada" as their ship reached Montreal. If all of them sang the same version they accomplished a feat that many Canadians would find impossible.

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Adverse planetary influences are strong to-day, according to astrology. It is a time to proceed cautiously.

Under this sway there should be a deference for tradition and a disposition to accept what is best in past customs. The old should benefit.

Farmers are subject to an encouraging sway to-day when the stars seem to promise new business methods in agriculture.

In all parts of the country home owning will receive a great impulse this summer, the seers forecast.

The garden idea, which is to cause wonderful landscaping effects in the country, will take hold of cities, astrologers predict.

Flat buildings of the future will have as a main attraction beautiful lawns and flowers on roofs that grow trees and shrubs in abundance, if the prophecies come true.

Constructive work of all sorts may be impeded under this rule which makes for delays and obstacles.

It is well not to trust the judgment under this sway which makes for enthusiasm that is not justified. It is not a lucky day for choosing a wife.

Initiative may not be successful to-day and important beginnings should be postponed, except in rare cases.

July is to bring an international understanding that unites Great Britain and the United States, astrologers foretell.

The remainder of this month, which will be marked by conflicting planetary aspects, should be a period of careful preparation for vacations.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE SMILE.

What would this world be like without a smile? If human beings were incapable of smiling, life would not be nearly so attractive and it is doubtful if we would get along as well as we do.

Very few if any of the lower animals can be said to smile, although some of the more intelligent animals come pretty close to it.

The smile is in the same class with the growl, the sneer, the snarl and like reactions. Human beings share many of these traits with other animals. But in proportion as we get away from the savage stage we rely more on the smile and less on the frown and snarl.

In growling and snarling, the dog shows his sharp fangs as a warning. It means that he is unfriendly and is ready to defend himself or to attack. The human sneer approaches this type of reaction. Two of the upper teeth and the sharpest were once long enough to extend over the lower lips and were bared when our animal ancestors growled These teeth are still called canine, which means dog like.

In the uglier reactions such as the growl and sneer the face becomes hard and has a sinister aspect. The obvious purpose is to strike terror. The muscles are drawn and tense. Everything is in readiness for a battle.

The smile on the contrary is a relaxed situation. The face is made softer and more attractive. This must be the reason the photographer tells most of us to smile.

We smile when we are pleased. But that only happens when we can afford to relax. We don't smile when the joke is on ourselves or when we are in an embarrassing position. The situation is too painful for that.

There are smiles and there are smiles. Each is supposed to have a meaning. There is the smile of triumph, the smile of genuine happiness, the smile of mirth and hilarity, the smile of pain and, possibly, the forced smile of hate.

Whether genuine or artificial the smile serves the purpose of putting others at ease, of letting them know that we are kindly disposed towards them. Some people accompany every statement with a characteristic little laugh to emphasize their good intentions. These are usually people that are more than commonly sensitive to the wishes of others and are afraid to give offense in the least particular.

We smile, then, because we have the mechanism for doing it. This mechanism developed in the interests of friendly co-operation and is replacing the growl, the sneer and the snarl.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald, tries to get an interview with Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marraige.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It has been burned by a fire in the marsh until it is entirely unrecognizable except for the fact that it is a woman. Dr. Cavanaugh is called to help with the identification. The only thing by which the body can be identified is a patch of scalp with some hair attached. Dr. Cavanaugh takes this home with him. He asks Don Ellsworth to secure for him a strand of Sheila O'Shay's hair, and Don violently refuses. Dr. Cavanaugh goes to the Ellsworth house to see if he can secure the needed hair. Mrs. Kane the waiting woman who has been with Sheila O'Shay throughout her career, is suspicious and hostile, but Dr. Cavanaugh gets what he is after. Peter Piper hopes to get advance information about the body found in the marsh from Dr. Cavanaugh through Barbara in whom he has become interested.

"He either dreads his fate too much, or his deserts are small, who fears to put it to the touch, to win or lose it all," Peter chanted under his breath. He did not reflect that the words had been written as a love poem-nor that "hard-boiled" reporters are not supposed to be given to the quoting of seventeenth century lyries.

Once again he slid "Bossy" to the curb opposite the Cavanaugh entrance, and waited.

Barbara's tennis dress had not been a fancy "sports costume." It was built for real play, and her racquet showed signs of hard usage. If she was the kind of girl who got up at eight o'clock in the morning to play tennis, the chances were that she did not merely play occasionally. Peter was placing a long bet that the morning tennis was a daily "workout." Not being a psychoanalyst he was untroubled by the suspicion that his subconscious was arranging a possible opportunity for him to see Barbara again—and that he was pinning his faith on her because he desperately wanted that faith.

But by the time he had waited half an hour, a chill grayness had seeped upwards from his toes and spread until it absorbed even the pale sunny blue of the sky. He was a fool—a fool without excuse. She was not coming. Dr. Cavanaugh had doubtless sent his report by mail. Even now it had been received at the police department on the morning delivery, and Jevons of the Record was pounding out the story. He was so deep in despondency that he did not even see the shiny little sports coupe until the corner of his eye caught a flash of white and rose as Barbara slammed the door of the car behind her. With that, he was across the street.

"Thank God!" he said loudly and fervently.

"Oh, yes?" The corners of Barbaras lips turned upward. "Is that the way newspaper men say "Good morning?" "

"You bet it is!" Peter agreed. "Look here," he hurried on, glancing uneasily at the closed front door of the Cavanaugh house. "The other day I asked you to do something for me, and you wouldn't. Now I'm going to ask you to do something else."

"Meanwhile, you've done something for me," Barbara said gravely. "I don't think you reporters are half as inhuman as you pretend to be. I haven't looked in the papers lately, but I'm so sure you didn't write anything about me—that I'm going to thank you."

Peter flushed. It was a rare opportunity that the staff of the Herald local room missed, for not one of them had ever seen Peter blush.

"I don't know what I'd have done," he said with difficult honesty, "if a big story hadn't broken and let me out."

"I'm glad you said that," Barbara said simply. "I like people who tell the truth—when it isn't necessary. It's one of those impractical virtues you remember? Now what is it you'd like me to do?"

"It's this," Peter answered with a directness equal to her own. "Your father is supposed to go to the city hall this morning with a report. I want you to stand here talking to me when he comes out, and introduce me to him. He'd naturally stop to meet one of your friends. I'll do the rest."

"It sounds simple," Barbara said. "The only trouble I can see with your very neat little plan is that I've never been actually introduced to you myself. The friends whom I ask to meet my father are not usually acquired so suddenly!"

"Don't quibble!" Peter said sharply. "The statement, you understand, will be public property in a few hours anyway. If I can get it from your father personally, and get it first, I'll have a whale of a good story. If I don't—well, I'm sunk, that's all. And if he's more likely to mail it than to take it himself, I'm sunk anyway."

"No," said Barbara. "He won't mail it. Father ever wastes time."

"Thank God for that!"

"Are you always so devotional, Mr. Piper?" Again that demure, upcurving suggestion of a smile.

"Only an special occasions of a crisis. Will you do it?"

"Well," Barbara considered a moment. "I think for the occasion of a crisis, you almost might be one of my friends."

At that moment the front door opened, framing Dr. Cavanaugh's bulky figure for a moment before he descended the steps with his usual air of deliberation covering the speed that comes of no waste of motion.

"Can you wait just a minute, father," Barbara called out. "I want you to meet Mr. Piper. He's a friend of mine, who works on a newspaper."

Dr. Cavanaugh held out his hand with his grave, but friendly smile.

"My dealings with the newspapers have usually been at second hand," he said. "But this younger generation has a way of adding to our education."

"I hoped I might meet you if I came around," Peter said with a disarming grin. "In fact, I'm supposed to be cooling my heels outside Camberwell's doorstep at this moment, but I cooled them outside yours instead. I'm working on the Tule marsh story for the 'Herald'. We have it from Camberwell that certain evidence was turned over to you for identification, and that your report would be submitted this morning. Would you have any objection to giving me the substance of that report these few minutes in advance? I take it that it will be made public at once, of course; but if I had it from you direct and—well, a few minutes before the other boys got hold of it, it would be a help."

Dr. Cavanaugh paused ,his face devoid of expression, while Peter felt his hands grow icy with anxiety.

"Some day," he said at last, "I am going to write a monograph on occupational psychology. So you're trying to work a little gentle graft through Barbara here?"

Peter swallowed.

"Yes," he said, looking rather as if he were backed against a wall in front of a firing squad.

"A queer thing, human nature," Dr. Cavanaugh mused. "If you had denied it, I should have sent you packing. But I see no real harm in telling you that the body found in the marsh is that of Mrs. Don Ellsworth!"

"Whoop-ee!" Peter's face was illumined with an incredibly wide grin. His wide-set gray eyes were sparks of excitement. He turned to Barbara, his arm extended for an eager hand clasp.

But Barbara was leaning against the side of the car, her knuckles white where her fingers clung to the door handle for support. Her eyes were closed. Her lips were only a faint compressed line against the pallor of her pinched, wan face.

Then, with an effort that summoned the last reserves of vitality, she opened her eyes.

"I'm glad you got your story, Mr. Piper," she said, and crumpled to the running board.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

THE END.

Like the closing of a book
Is the passing of a friend:
One more leaf, the final look,
And our eyes behold "The End".
One more story is complete,
One biography is done;
After sorrow and defeat,
One more victory is won.

On the shadowed shelves of time
Now another book appears.
There are pages glad with rime,
There are pages wet with tears.
There was tragedy, God knows,
There was comedy as well;
Now the lovely book we close,
There is nothing more to tell.

But the hearts that understood,
As they put it in its place,
Now will underscore the good,
And the errors will erase.
All his virtues shall be told,
As the final chapter ends,
And the leaves shall turn to gold
In the memory of friends.

DUNNING NEEDS REST.

Hon. G. N. Gordon Brings News of Minister of Railways and Canals

The Honourable G. N. Gordon returned from Ottawa on Saturday and stated that the Honourable Charles A. Dunning, minister of railways and canals was still in the Ottawa civic hospital and would likely be there for some time as it would appear that he would require an operation for appendicitis. It is understood that Mr. Dunning will leave as soon as he is convalescent and take a rest as he has been in poor health for some time.

Mr. Gordon stated that he feared Mr. Dunning would not be able to take the trip over the Trent Canal this summer as he had hoped.

THE YOUNG IDEA.

"It seems only yesterday that Flossie was just a little thing, and now she's murdered her husband!"

If you walk in your sleep it is a splendid time to go out and have your teeth fixed.

If the crazy names they paint over the doors of summer cottages won't keep the mosquitoes away, nothing will.

It is easy to imagine Lindbergh's wife saying, "No, he didn't say whether he was going to Los Angeles or to New York, but he will be back for dinner."

Ramona: What's a Grecian Urn?
Chiquita: Oh, about $25 a week unless he owns the restaurant.

HAVANA—The use of American silver dollars for floor tiling for a newly opened bar, raised a loud clamor from the Havana Post, American Legion, and a formal protest from the Embassy. The English owner of the bar, one H. H. Stanley, thought the bright silver a grand decoration and a compliment to his American customers, but the Vets called it "Desecration of the American Eagle," and demanded that they be glassed over or dug up. They were dug up.

THE LAST STRAW.

He argued with the Government for three years about his 1925 income tax without losing his temper.

He was shipwrecked and in the water for two days without impairing his health.

He rode in the subway during rush hours for twenty years without getting desperate.

But one day—he got every telephone number he called, promptly and correctly, and at the sanitarium he is considered a hopeless case.

RATE FIXED.

Victoria County Council Fixes Rate For Road and General Expenditures.

LINDSAY, June 11.—(Special to The Examiner).—Victoria County Council fixed the rate Saturday for the general expenditure of the county at 5.1 mills and for road expenditure 4.25 mills. The rate for roads is the same as last year, but the general rate is up from 4.4 mills to 5.1 mills. The chief reason for this increase is the extra expenditure owing to the county's increased share for highways built last year.

CALL MONEY RATE UP ONE

LIST TURNS IRREGULAR.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 11.—(A.P.)—The stock market turned upward after an early sinking spell to-day but trading continued rather dull. Fears of a mid-month credit stringency kept small speculators out of the market, and tended to postpone operations of professional trades except in a few issues in which special developments are pending.

Call Money renewed at 8 per cent., as against 7 yesterday. Banks called about $20,000,000 in loans during the morning, but new funds quickly appeared and no further advance in the rate was looked for during the day. Money is expected to go to 170 or 12 percent. later in the week.

While reports of Premier MacDonald's proposed visit to the United States were not a market factor, bankers unofficially expressed the opinion that an xchange of views with President Hoover would be helpful to both countries. Burrough's Adding Machine directors announced a 5 for 1 stock split up, and the stock broke nearly 12 points on the traditional "selling on the good news."

POSSIBLE EFFECT OF NEW STOCK TAX REGULATIONS CAUSE OF MUCH COMMENT

Editorial Comment of Border Cities Star Represents Feeling in Many Financial Circles—Blow Falls on the Little Fellow, Paper Says.

MAY CURB LEGITIMATE TRADING IN LOWER PRICED MINE ISSUES

Might Mean Transfer of Mining Exchanges To American City To Escape Provisions of the Dominion Legislation.

(By Allister Grosart, Special to The Examiner, Copyright)

TORONTO, Ont., June 11.—The proposal of the Canadian minister of finance to revise the schedule of taxes on the transference of mining stocks through the medium of the brokerage houses is causing both comment and consternation in financial circles throughout the Dominion. The object of increasing the tax (100 to 200 per cent. in some cases), the minister announced in the House of Commons, was to curb such reckless speculation as led to the debacle of the memorable "black Tuesday" of March of this year. The effect, many financial men believe, will be to curb legitimate trading in all the lower priced issues on the mining exchanges.

The accompanying editorial in the 'Border Cities Star", (reproduced by permission) is written by a man with a long experience in observing the market, and his opinions in this particular case will be accepted by many of the financial writers of the Dominion.

"Canadian financial circles are genuinely alarmed by Mr. Robb's stock tax proposals which have already been passed by the Commons, accepted by the Senate and are due to come into force in July 1. The effect of the proposals is to increase tremendously the taxation on transactions in low priced issues, indeed to such an extent that many persons are likely to be debarred from trading or to make their purchases across the line where taxation of the same character is lower.

"It is pointed out that purchasers of high priced stocks are not affected so seriously by the increase. The blow falls on the "little fellow" the man who can only afford to buy issues of low valuation. Brokers with offices in the United States can get around the change by placing their orders through their American branches. It has even been suggested that the Standard Mining Exchange in Toronto seek an American or New York state charter, and transfer its whole activities to Buffalo. It is admitted that this is a remote possibility, but certainly it is not impossible.

Denounces Proposals

"In the house a week or two ago when the matter was under discussion, Colonel Malcolm Lang, a northern Ontario Liberal M.P. denounced the new taxation proposals as calculated to work a definite injury on Canadian mining interests he was supported from the Conservative side, but the finance department's proposals were accepted.

"Back of it all, some persons say, is a belief in government circles that steps should be taken to curb stock market trading, particularly by people of slender means. This, rather than a desire for more revenue, is set down by some critics as the administration's real reason for the move. If such be the case, one can only describe the action as overstepping paternalism. Surely people are to be allowed to use their own funds for investment or speculation as they see fit.

"It was confidentially expected that the Senate would throw out the proposal and there were even suggestions that the Government would rather welcome such action in the Upper House. Predictions to the senate's attitude were, however, far astray, for the increase taxation on stock sales has been accepted and, prsumably, will go into effect on the date set July 1, inasmuch as the Conservatives opposed the change in the House, a reversing vote in the Senate was more or less taken for granted. With a Federal election in prospect for next year, however, it may have been deemed good business from a party standpoint to allow the government's plan to go through and thus create one more argument for the forthcoming campaign."

C.P.R., Massey-Harris and Page Hersey Only Issues To Register Change.

TRADING IN WALKERS.

TORONTO, Ont., June 11.—(C.P.)—Price changes on the Toronto stock exchange to-day were not sufficiently large or numerous enough to indicate any particular trend. The only issues to show any pronounced change were C.P.R., Massey-Harris and Page Hersey. One share of C.P.R. changed hands, four points lower at 220, while Massey-Harris weakened two to 60 and Page Hersey declined three to 121.

A turnover of a little more than 2,700 shares of Hiram Walkers relieved an otherwise extremely dull session, the price easing 1-2 to 19¾. Nickel lost 3-8 to 47 1-8, while Hayes Wheels at 61 and Steel of Canada at 52 were both one point lower. Pressed metals at 31 recorded a single point gain.

GANANOQUE ENTERTAINS 50 EDITORS

Newspapermen From Canada and States Celebrate International Day.

TOURIST TRADE DISCUSSED.

Visitors Are Shown Wonders of St. Lawrence and Thousand Islands.

GANANOQUE, Ont., June 11. — (Canadian Press). —Newspapermen were yesterday the guests of Gananoque, when International Editors Day was observed by about fifty representatives of the daily and weekly papers between Toronto and from New York State and Idaho. All the citizens at this Canadian gateway to the Thousand Islands led by Mayor W. J. Wilson Cooper joined in entertaining the editors and showing the beauties of this part of the lower St. Lawrence.

After luncheon at the Golden Apple Tavern the visitors were taken on a cruise through the Thousand Islands touching at Alexandria Bay, N.Y. They returned to Gananoque where they were dinner guests at the Blinkbonnie hotel. Mayor Wilson who presided at the dinner welcomed the representatives of the press to whose aggressive advocation of good roads, a big factor in the development of Canada, he said the country owed so much.

Centralization Tourist Information

Dr. P. E. Doolittle, President of the Canadian Automobile Association who had also done considerable newspaper work cited the teamwork at Gananoque as an example to the whole country in developing tourist trade but he urged every good beauty spot to be unselfish in its praise and tell visitors of other attractive parts of the country. There were spots from coast to coast and he felt the recent formation of the Tourist Association of Canada would do a great deal to encourage tourists to visit the dominion. He said literature from all tourist resorts would be available to those in Canadian tours.

In proposing the health of the press Fred J. Skinner, M.L.A., Leeds, emphasized the value of fet-together meetings both to Canadians and Americans alike. Speaking on behalf of the American visitors F. W. Spaulding of the Watertown Standard and ,Mrs. Evelyn Melvin of the Salmon, Idaho, Recorder Herald thanked the citizens of Gananoque for their hospitality and extended the hand of fellowship from the south. Prof. MacMachin of Dalhousie University, Halifax, .N.S., spoke of the rich charm of the Maritime provinces with their 300 years of historical background. He reminded the editors that they were indebted to Joseph Howe, a Nova Scotian, for the freedom of the press in Canada through his great victory in winning acquittal on a libel charge. Often he had through the columns of his paper attacked the magistrates of Halifax for malfeasance in office in 1830.

Several of the visiting editors also made brief addresses thanking Mayor Wilson and his fellow townsmen for the opportunity afforded them of viewing the beauties of the Thuosand Islands and their hospitality.

MINOR LOSSES MANY ISSUES

TORONTO, Ont., June 11 (C.P.).—Though losses were insignificant they were still numerous and gave evidence of a steady downward movement on the Standard Mining Exchange today. Trading was still backward and was again monopolized by Newbec and Ajax Oil. Ajax broke to 1.31 and then recovered to 1.36, off two, while Newbec, after sinking to 65, firmed at 69, off four points. Amulet lost three to 1.25, Sterling Pacific 23 to 1.67 and Big Missouri 8 to 1.28.

Noranda had a turnover of less than 1,000 shares and remained at the morning's low of 52.00, off 25 cents, while Falconbridge Nickel reacted 1.00 to 12.00, Pend Oreille 10 to 5.00, and Calgary and Edmonton Land 1.00 to 10.00. Sherritt-Gordon and Teck-Hughes were slightly improved at 7.25 and 8.30 respectively.

Wheat Prices Gain After Early Setback

CHICAGO, Ills., June 11(C.P.).—Wheat scored quick advances to-day after an early setback that was associated with uncertainty over the Senate vote to-day on farm relief. Standing orders to purchase on declines led, however, to a sharp rally, with much of the buying attributed to the East. Opening ⅞ to 2c down, wheat later rebounded to well above yesterday's finish. Corn also developed strength, starting ¼c to ¾c off; and subsequently showing gains. Oats were relatively weak. Provisions held about steady.

were presented by J. J. Turner, who was the chairman of the evening, and filled the office in a very satisfactory manner. His opening remarks were brief and to the point, and consisted of a reference to the pride felt by the community in these annual events in the life of the Hospital and also a reference to the splendid auditorium in which the exercises were held last evening.

Prizes to Intermediate Class.

The prizes to the Intermediate class were won by Miss Hattie Hooper of Campbellford and Miss Lottie Ball of Cavan. They were presented, in the name of the donors, the Medical Staff of the Hospital, by Dr. D. W. Clark, who took occasion to address a few words to the young ladies of this class, seated, with the members of the Junior Class, in the front rows of the auditorium, presenting an attractive appearance in their blue and white uniforms.

Dr. Clark complimented the graduates and spoke of the fine grounding in their work received at Nicholls Hospital, and characterized them as second to nine in any institution, either in Canada or in the United States, in the matter of capability for the filling of responsible positions. He advised them to remember at all times the necessity of maintaining scrupulous cleanliness, both in person and uniform.

To the Intermediate class, the doctor recommended great care and precision in filling out the charts, with keenness and alertness in detecting symptoms. He also spoke of the necessity for kindness and sympathy in attending those who had lost their health, and relied on the nurse to help them in its restoration.

Dr. Yelland Makes Presentation.

Dr. H. M. Yelland, with a few words of congratulation, presented the prizes, donated by the Trustee Board, to the Junior Class for bandaging, and won by Miss Edna Harrison of Lakefield and Miss Olive Carl of Fraserville.

The Affirmation, from the Florence Nightingale pledge, made by the graduates, was read over by Mr. Turner and repeated by the young ladies, standing on the stage with its background of palms and ferns, its large bowls and vases of roses and lily of the valley. They made a lovely picture against the pure white wall at the rear, in their white uniforms with their red roses in their arms. The conferring of medals and diplomas was carried out by Mrs. E. M. Leeson, superintendent of Nicholls Hospital, assisted by Miss Elleda Walsh, assistant superintendent. Miss Edyth G. Young is instructress at the Hospital.

Address to Graduates

The address to the graduates was made by Dr. E. A. Hammond, while the chief speaker of the evening, in an opening inspirational discourse that was replete with interest and eloquence, was the Rev. D. Wren, pastor of Trinity United Church.

The Rev. Mr. Wren congratulated the graduates on the attainment of their ambition, and spoke of the high standard maintained at Nicholls Hospital, and of the courtesy and efficiency of its staff.

Going on to base his remarks on the changing ideals of the times in which we live, he referred to the ancient standards of knighthood, when deeds of heroism and bravery were looked upon as the measure of a man.

"But each age has its own measure." Standards of position and possession have changed to those of service and we look with pride in modern times on the goodly company of folks who go out with joy to serve in the interests of their fellow men.

"Can anything good come out of Nazareth?" was the parrot cry of the folk who criticized the actions of the Saviour of Men, when he began His ministry by washing the feet of His disciples and drying them with the towel with which He was girdled. "Think of Me always as the Servant of Man," he told them.

"No longer," said the reverend speaker, "are frills and ruffles or badges and titles, the insignia of greatness. The intrinsic worth of the badge of servitude is glorified in these greater days in which we live. Not what you can get out of life, but what you can do to make it fuller and richer for others; is the watchword. Not income, but outgo; is the ideal.

"You come into your graduation days in one of the greatest eras and in some of the greatest days in the history of the world. There has never been a time quite like this into which we are born. We live to-day, not in the lap of sophistry, but as belonging to an army of conquerors and adventurers. The spirit of daring is abroad. Eager hands are outstretched to pull back the curtains which obscure the unexplored lands of the world. We are passing through an era of exploration. Ours is a creative age. The creative genius belongs to the men of to-day as never before in the history of man.

"In other days, humanity was content to sit back and listen to the voices of nature and to find in the words of water and of birds a sweet music. But now we listen to these with a holy ambition waking in our hearts. We burn with the desire to create music of our own and we are not contented to look on at the beauties of the sunset and the sunrise. Men have gone into their studios and they had dipped deep into their crucibles and they have created masterpieces which are all their own. They have dominated and conquered and re-created life. They are penetrating the night of ignorance with the beams of their own intelligence and they are asking what lies beyond the unknown.

"In the two thousand years that are gone, no improvement has been made in the cell of the honey bee, in the dam of the beaver or in the web of the spider. But man to-day has made the whole world new and he has opened, among other things, the door of service."

Coin of the Tribute

Speaking of money, as realized from their service to humanity, as being only the coin of their own personality, and as having stamped upon it ineffacably the traces of their own service to mankind, the speaker went on to speak of the influence made by a beautiful character and the manner in which life may be made graceful and sweet by those who strive to possess the virtues which will help others.

Dr. E. A. Hammond, president of the Board of Nicholls Hospital, gave the address to the graduates, a pleasing, quiet, informal talk that held the interested attention of his listeners to the close of his remarks, which were lucid and much to the point.

He referred to the three years of "good, hard, honest work" which the young ladies had just completed, to the long hours and constant service necessary to the attainment of their goal on graduation day and to the efficient training given at Nicholls Hospital.

It was necessary to obtain the difficult rating of seventy-five per cent. on each paper, at the examinations of the nurses in their work, said the doctor, alluding to this as only one item in the course of training.

Many paths were open to the graduates, he reminded them. They might go to other hospitals and take special courses to perfect them in their profession, and if they did so, he recommended a quiet tongue and an attitudte that coincided with the ancient adage: "When in Rome, do as the Romans do."

"In the nursing profession, new things are constantly cropping up. Keep abreast of the time. Get the latest books and study them.

"If you are nursing in a private home, remember that conditions there are quite different from those in a hospital. Do your work conscientiously, to the best of your ability, so that you will not be regarded so much as a stranger as a friend who has come to help out in time of need.

Quoting the old lady who said she had always wanted to have a trained nurse in times of sickness, but felt that she could not afford to get someone to wait on her, Dr. Hammond said that a nurse would not lower the dignity of her profession by assisting in some things that were needful in private homes and by trying to be helpful in small ways.

Musical Program

A very pleasing portion of the exercises last night was the musical program, which was in charge of G. F. Liddle, who also played the accompaniments of the evening. The music was listened to with manifest appreciation on the part of the large audience, and commenced with a lovely opening duett by Mrs. H. F. Doig, soprano, and Mrs. Edith Parker Liddle, contralto, entitled "Love is Meant to Make You Glad." Further vocal numbers, in splendid voice, were those of Mrs. Doig, singing "Love's philosophy"; Mrs. Liddle, in Oley Speaks' "Morning," and E. V. Morphet, bass, singing "A Bachelor Gay" and its encore, "The Desert Song."

A youthful performer who brought much applause for his skilful playing of the violin was Roy Rome. Playing from memory, with a delicate, singing tone and a fine technical grasp of difficult music, he rendered the "Czardas" of Monti, with ease and proficiency that brought him renewed, appreciative applause. His encore was the haunting sweetness of "The Old Refrain," set by Kreisler to a Viennese Street song of melodic beauty.

At the conclusion of the program, Mr. Turner voiced the thanks of the Hospital Board to Mr. Liddle and the musicians of the evening.

Ushers last night were four young lady probationers: the Misses Olive Parker, Anna McDonough, Sylvia Battisby and Margaret Thompson.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

McMILLAN GOLD.

Reports on McMillan Gold at Sudbury by Percy Hopkins, geologist, now in board's hands, said to be generally favorable. Recommends deepening shaft to 625 feet and opening levels at 450 and 625 feet.

BREAKS ALL RECORDS.

May production Turner Valley breaks all previous records by nearly 20,000 barrels with total of 88,702 barrels. Home No. 1 and No. 2 provided 22,872 barrels of naphtha and 1,632 barrels of crude, or quarter of June's total.

HOME No. 2.

Home No. 2 recovery of over 400 barrels under present adverse conditions, due to lime rock still blowing from hole. No back pressure applied. Frequent delays necessary to clean separator, and warm weather which always reduces recovery considerably. Results very satisfactory and well better than Home 1 at similar stage, which was tested in cold weather. It took Home No. 1 over three months to jump to over 900 barrels.

IMPERIAL.

Imperial Oil will start six new wells this month in Turner Valley. These will include Lowery Pete, Hargal, Home No. 5, Mayland No. 3, Baltac and Sterling Pacific. This will make twenty-five drilling strings operating simultaneously.

CANADA IS MUCH TO FORE AT SESSION IN MADRID

Satisfactory Formula Expected to Meet Minorities Question.

OPIUM REPORT DUE.

Canadian Delegate Succeeded in Organizing Force to Fight Dope Traffic.

(Copyright, Special to The Examiner)

GENEVA, June 11. — The Council of the League of Nations, which opened its 55th session at Madrid yesterday, is expected to liquidate one of the most irritating of European post-war problems—minorities.

The special commission, which was composed of M. Adatchi, Japanese representative and president of the coming session, Sir Austen Chamberlain and M. Quinones de Lean, are understood to have devised a method of procedure in dealing with the scores of complaints received monthly by the league. The solution, it is hoped, will prove satisfactory to all concerned.

To Senator Raoul Dandurand, Canadian delegate, and Gustav Stresemann, German Foreign Minister, falls the credit for leading Europe out of the labyrinth of prejudice and distrust which has encompassed the post-armistice relations of Poland and Germany and of Hungary and her Balkan neighbors. The Dandurand scheme probably will furnish the basis for future council procedure and the Stresemann principles will be adopted in eliminating national animosities which exist from the Baltic to the Balkans.

If the Madrid council does nothing more than solve the solution of the minorities controversy, it will have proved one of the most successful in the league's history. But there are a score other questions of interest.

Awaited With Interest.

The report of the jurists' committee will be of interest to Canada, inasmuch as it touches upon the question of the Dominion and the subject of litigation. Elihu Root and Sir Cecil Hurst have supported the contention that Canada, although a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations, is a "separate international entity," and is not represented by a judge of British origin. Smaller European states opposed this view. A notation is included in the jurists' report to the council to the effect that the previous "discussions" should not be regarded as prejudicial to future consideration of the subject.

Senator Dandurand of Canada is scheduled to submit a report on the traffic in opium and dangerous drugs. The "central board," created largely through the enterprise of the Canadian delegate who has acted as rapporteur, has completed its organization and will swing into action in its fight against the illicit drug traffic shortly. The appointment of the staff now rests in the hands of the secretary-general and the council.

Senator Dandurand also is expected to review the work of the fifth session of the child welfare committee.

FLYING CANADA'S NORTHLAND PROVIDES THRILLS IN LEGION FOR DAUNTLESS AVIATORS

TALES OF EPIC HARDSHIP.

Freight Zooms Through Storms, Perils of Barrens and Planes Save Millions.

By James Montagnes
(Special to the Examiner. Copyright)

Toronto, Ont., June 11.—The airplane has been called the workhorse of the north. To those who live in the region that stretches from the 50th parallel of latitude to the Arctic Ocean, the airplane is in truth the only quick method of transportation. Therefore if is put to all uses. Its pilots must be men with skill and ingenuity.

It is one thing to have a minor breakdown or a forced landing near telephone and telegraph wires. It is quite another thing to have such a happening occur many hundreds of miles from the nearest town. The pilots of Canada's northland air express are men picked for endurance, quick judgment, resourcefulness, and tact.

Captain D. S. Bondurant of the Canadian Airways Limited, has been flying in the Canadian north for some years. He interchanges that and flying the air mail between Toronto and Montreal. He can get into the most difficult scrapes or the most awful weather, in the north or on the mail, and somehow his resourcefulness will get him out, where others might be forced down.

Forced to Make Landing.

"Bon," as his friends know him, was one day flying a big seaplane in northern Ontario on the way to Red Lake with mining supplies. Red Lake is some 200 miles east of Winnipeg and some eight hundred miles northwest of Toronto. 120 miles north of the railway. It is in the midst of one of the biggest mining strikes in the last four years.

The day in question, he was sailing northward in his H. S. 2L flying boat with its wing span of 74 feet. Innumerable lakes dotted the panorama below. There is water everywhere in that north country. Suddenly his gears meshed, forcing him to glide down into a small lake. The lake happened to be extremely small for the size of the boat, but it was the only one he could make. So with sliding and slipping he managed to land on its waters. It did not take him long to make repairs, and soon the motor was working properly again. Now came the question of how to get out. If it was hard to get down, it was incredibly harder to get up again.

The lake was blind at one end. At the other end a big cliff, tree-clad, hid a curve which led into an adjoining larger lake. Paddling the big ship with its heavy load to the dead end of the lake, Bondurant started the motor. The ship was now as far as possible from the stream which connected the two lakes. "Bon" climbed in, gave her the gun and taxied for the opening. But the ship would not rise. The load was too heavy for that small lake. So he tried again, after paddling into position. Once more she went skimming over the water without rising. There were more attempts until it looked as if the boat would be stranded owing to lack of gasoline.

Makes Second Lake.

One more try, however, as "Bon" doesn't give up easily. She taxied over the water, then rose, and with one of those long wings trailing in the water as Bondurant banked her into a turn, she made the connecting stream, rose enough to clear the trees on either side and settled on the other lake, from where it was easier to take off.

Mining supplies, medical necessities, mail, prospectors, engineers, financiers, constables, doctors nurses, everything and everybody travels the air lanes in the Canadian northland.

Bondurant with whom I have travelled the air mail trails, while daily flying in winter about a year ago, was forced down by a frozen motor. He landed in a snow drift ten feet deep. He might have known something like this would happen, for it registered 45 degrees below zero when he left. Half an hour later he was stranded twelve miles from the nearest camp, with his ship and its big load ,nose on into a snow drift.

He did not fancy a mush of twelve miles on his snow shoes to the camp, but there was nothing else for it. So with his small red moustache among the few things visible through his heavy aviator's cap, he set out.

He reached his destination, but at what cost! Face black, chin black, nose frozen, ears frozen, hands frozen because he had taken up snow to rub on his ears; face stiff, legs stiff, feet frozen, he was more a solid icicle when he did get in than a human being.

Up along the Hudson Straits the Canadian government had six flying planes last winter. They were on a survey patrol of this channel which will open in 1930 for the wheat vessels plying between England and Canada. Along this northern waterway the wheat ships will carry the grain direct from the prairies to Europe, the grain having been shipped along the new Hudson Bay Railway to Fort Churchill on the Hudson Bay. Information on tides, currents, ice and weather conditions along the Straits had to be procured, so airplanes were sent up for a year and a half to make a daily patrol. The pilots of these ships had some adventures, as can be imagined. This is one I was told in Ottawa by one of the expedition.

A certain ship had gone aloft in its regular routine schedule flying a course now familiar to its pilot. There is a great deal of fog in that territory, and on this particular occasion it became heavy while he was up. Besides which the few hours of light which they were enjoying, this being in winter, were fast going, and darkness surrounded the pilot, his mechanic and the Eskimo who accompanied each plane for just such an occasion as this which I am about to relate.

Sight of Base Lost.

Sight of the home base was lost. The pilot was not sure where he was, for the compass, due to the proximity of the north magnetic pole, is not reliable. Rather than take a chance and drift into one of the towering crags which line both sides of the Straits and are prominent on all the islands, he glided down, and landed on what he thought was an island.

The three of them spent the night in an igloo the Eskimo built in half an hour. Outside it was thirty below zero. The following day, not knowing their whereabouts and prepared to explore with their Eskimo, the fog lifted. To their amazement they found themselves on a cake of ice the size of a city block, with the base not far off in the hazy distance. The Eskimo was saved a great deal of work.

A plane of the Fairchild Aviation Limited, while on an inspection tour in Northern Quebec, in the middle of winter, landed on a lake which from the pilot's position looked quite safe. No sooner, however, had he started to taxi along the snow-covered ice with his skis than the ice began to crack, to open up here and there, soon entangling the skis in a jungle of broken ice.

The pilot was far from any point of civilization; in fact, he was eighty miles from the air harbor from which he had started and about seventy miles from the nearest telephone. He could not get out without new parts.

Indian is Despatched.

An Indian with him was despatched to the nearest communication point. It was in the middle of January and the weather was by no means warm. For four days and nights the Indian made his way on foot to the nearest telephone.

The Indian did not have long to wait before a ski-equipped machine landed at the telephone outpost he had been using. Getting aboard he guided the relief pilot to the exact spot where the fast plane was stuck in the ice. For four days and nights he had walked to get to the nearest telephone; he was back in an hour.

There are no clanging fire engines roaring along paved roads in the northwoods. No traffic stops for the fire engines there, for there is no traffic to stop. Yet fires occur, and a fire in the bush may cost many lives as well as a destruction of much valuable timber. It is indeed lucky that the most wooded parts of Canada are supplied with many lakes and rivers.

The Ontario Provincial Air Service is primarily a fire fighting force, charging down on blazing forests with their pumps and hose from sky-freighters. Many is the fire that has been put out before it went too far by means of the men and equipment rushed in by air.

Typical is that fire in the Red Lake district of Northern Ontario, which was detected one morning by an aerial scout at 7.30 o'clock. Three hours later the pilot had brought the first load of men and equipment to the scene of the fire. Immediately returning for more men he dropped the second detachment at 2.30 in the afternoon.

Fire at Last Subdued.

Throughout the day he continued bringing men and equipment. Then he transported tents, food, and other supplies which a small army of forest fire rangers need when they combat a holocaust which rages for ten days. acres of valuable forest land had been burned over. Over five tons of men and supplies had been transported from various districts into the fire zone. Half of this tonnage was equipment, most of which had to be flown back again.

The pilot on the job had flown forty-eight hours actual flying time, bringing the men and equipment in and out, making 35 trips. Twenty-seven men had gone in to fight this fire, and not one of them had set foot in canoe to reach it. All had come the airway.

The air mail trails that lead to the sub-arctic were inaugurated this past winter with a service of surplus mail being taken in air from Edmonton to Fort Simpson on the Mackenzie river. One of the crack pilots of Western Canada Airways took the air with a load of this surplus mail.

Flies Arctic in Mid-Winter.

C. H. Dickins, better known in the west as "Punch" Dickins, flew into the sub-Arctic towards the middle of January. He stopped on his way at Fort McMurray, Fort Smith, Resolution, Hay River and Providence, arriving in this manner along the frozen water courses of the north at Fort Simpson.

Minus his heavy mail, he was about to start out alone, when a fur trapper agreed to ride back to Edmonton with him. A load of furs was to go along. They took off with the thermometer hovering around 40 below zero, taking their time, and stopping off at some of the stations visited on the northward trip to take on board mail destined for points south.

Heavy winds and snowstorms played havoc at times with the ship, at one time taking part of the under-carriage off and necessitating repairs in the open at fifty below zero. But the ski-equipped ship kept going, arriving back at Edmonton sixteen days after it had left, completing a round trip of 1,500 miles, which would have taken the regular dog team several months.

ONCE POOR, HE SAVES MANSION.

Famous for its beauty, Montcombe House in Dorset, England, has just been saved from demolition by a former humble tenant on the estate. He is Charles Prideaux. While living in his cottage and working in a subordinate position in a small railway freight office at at Sembly, Prideaux bought the "gate" for Sembly pony races, clearing less than $300 in two years. With this sum he became a produce dealer, devised the system of buying milk from farmers and establishing a central creamery. He now owns a chain of creameries. Montcombe House is one of the largest country houses in England, and was sold with its large estate by Lord Stalbridge two years ago.

TWO DOCTORS GOING NORTH

Volunteer Medicos Are Being Sent to Work Amongst Eskimos.

VAST HINTERLAND AREA.

By JAMES A. COWAN
(Special to The Examiner. Copyright)

OTTAWA, Ont., June 11.—Officialdom is now turning its attention to sanitation in the Arctic regions and the dissemination of public health information in the language of the Eskimos.

Some time ago, the ministry of the interior began a search for medical men willing to risk the rigors of the upper north and minister to the ailments of igloo communities. As a result, two volunteers have stepped forward. Dr. R. D. Martin of Barrie, Ontario and Dr. H. A. Stuart of Sydney, Cape Breton. One lone Canadian physician, Dr. Livingstone, has hitherto patrolled the immense stretches of Eskimo territory in the interests of medical science. Now he comes south to what, for him, is civilization. When the S.S. Boothic sails from Pangirtung in Baffinland, she will bring the medico to his new station at Chesterfield on Hudson Bay.

The northward march of progress has already begun to reach the little bay port and numbers of whites are to be found in the area as well as the natives who wander in and out. The newcomers are chiefly prospectors, hot on the scent of Arctic gold, for Chesterfield is becoming a jumping-off place for adventurous mineral exploration.

Small Hospital Going.

There, the Roman Catholic Mission is erecting a small hospital one of the most northerly to all the outposts of healing. Dr. Livingstone will have the hospital facilities at his disposal and will, in addition, give the nuns and missionaries, the benefit of his advice and aid in medical matters.

Meanwhile, his two new confrerers from Older Canada will take over two of the larges practices known to medicine. They splot the Arctic regions between them, one in the west and one in the east. One consulting room will be located at the mouth of the celebrated Copper Line River where patients, whiling away their time in the waiting room will look over the waters of the Arctic Ocean. The other will be Dr. Livingstone's present residence in Baffinland.

As civilization moved towards the Aurora Borealis, it brings with it mixed blessings and one of the white man's gifts to the dark-skinned native is usually a variety of new diseases. To offset this almost invariable result, the Canadian Government is seeking to provide medical service and skilled care for the sick.

BRITISH SEAMAN IS GIVEN MEDALS

CALCUTTA, India, June 11.—(Canadian Press).—A British seaman's heroism was honored here recently when Chief Officer C. Macfarlane, of the Pacific and Orient steamship Manela was given a medal on board the ship and later the same day was given a medal at the Indian Chamber of Commerce, both medals being for bravery in rescuing the master of a coasting vessel from almost certain death in a storm in which the boat was drifting helplessly and breaking into pieces. The rescue took place in November, 1927, when Mr. Macfarlane was serving on the steamship Chalka, on her way from Bombay to Karachi. In the midst of a storm the Chalka sighted the coasting vessel breaking up under the mountainous seas, her engines stopped.

The Chalka stopped her engines and drifted towards the helpless boat, which was in imminent danger of breaking into pieces. Lines were cast and five men from the latter managed to scramble aboard the steamer. But the master, who was advanced in years, remained behind. Perhaps, he felt that though he was but the master of a small boat, it was his duty to stick to his charge till the last. Mr. Macfarlane did not intend to let the aged captain meet a watery grave. He descended the rope ladder and waited for the boiling seas to wash the coasting vessel within reach. For half an hour he clung there with the waves lashing their fury over him till, realizing that he could not hold on much longer, he made a desperate lunge and jumped on board the disabled boat, which threatened every moment to be dashed into bits.

How he managed to drag the aged captain aboard the Chalka was in view of those who saw the deed—one of the finest acts of heroism ever done by a British seaman.

Many caterpillars of the "wooly" variety have an irritable effect on the human skin, something like that of needles.

LABORER DIES FROM INJURIES

EMPLOYER ALSO INJURED.

LINDSAY, June 11.—(Special to The Examiner).—Benjamin Badgley, of Marlbank, Ontario, died in the Ross Hospital here Saturday from injuries received at Victoria Road on Friday evening. S. E. Hall, of Toronto, contractor, Badgley's employer, also sustained a broken leg. The two men were loading a car with heavy timber at Victoria Road when a tackle on a timber which was off balance broke, knocking both men down. Badgley received the full force of the blow. His back was severely injured and he also received serious internal injuries. Coroner Dr. Logan had not definitely decided on an inquest.

W.M.S. MEETS.

Entertaining Program Provided By Members of Keene Church Society.

KEENE, June 11.—The W.M.S. of the United Church, Keene, held its monthly meeting in the church on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The president extended greetings to the visitors and reports of the W.M.S. conference branch, given by Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Bookout and Mrs. Thornley, of Peterborough.

A solo, "Carry the light'" y Miss Bryce and the leaflet, "Is Lithing Practical" by Mrs. Mary Stewart were much enjoyed. The address on "Home Missions" by Mrs. A. L. Richards, of Whitby, was very interesting. Mrs. McNeely in few well chosen remarks, moved a vote of thanks to the ladies for the very interesting reports and address, seconded by Mrs. Fred McIntyre.

The gathering then adjourned to the basement, where refreshments were served followed by a social hour. This Society intends holding the annual gathering on Wednesday, June 12, in the basement of the church.

We use about 23 billion cubic feet of wood a year; forest fires and insects destroy about 2,000,000,000 feet more.

Fifty Thousand For Lindsay Hospital Fund

LINDSAY, June 11.—(Special to The Examiner).—The local campaign inaugurated to raise the sum of $75,000 for an addition to Ross Memorial Hospital was given a big boost. Victoria County Council adopted a resolution to the effect that $50,000 be granted to help build the wing on condition that another $25,000 be raised by the Board of Governors. The $50,000 voted by the county is to be raised by debentures issued at 5 per cent for 30 years.

SOCIAL EVENING.

Supper Held in Honor of Opening of Norham Church.

NORHAM, June 11. — (Examiner Correspondence).—A very successful supper and entertainment was held in the Codrington Church on Monday night as a conclusion to the opening services of the new church on Sunday.

Between three and four hundred people were served to a sumptuous repast in the basement by the ladies of the congregation.

Was Tortured With Eczema For Years

Mrs. George Shambler, 119 Creighton St., Halifax, N.S., writes:—"After being tortured with eczema, for years, and trying everything possible from doctors and drug stores, a friend recommended me to take

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

I sent my husband to get me a bottle, and after I had taken it I noticed the cooling of my blood, so he advised me to continue, and after taking several bottles I can truly say it is a wonderful medicine."

ANOTHER PAINFUL CASE OF LUMBAGO YIELDS TO HUSKY

"The Pains Have Disappeared and I Want To Say That This Is the Only Medicine To Give Me Permanent Relief," Declares Pleased User of This Preparation.

GEORGE DAVISON

"Husky is the only medicine to give me permanent relief from my awful lumbago and therefore I know it is the best to be had for such trouble," says George Davison, of 23 Brock St., Brantford, Ont.

"My lumbago was very bad," said Mr. Davison, "and the pains were so severe all through my back that I could lift anything. I would have to stay at home from my work as I couldn't bear to move about. My bowels became very irregular, too, and I felt bad all over.

"A friend recommended Husky to me and three bottles of this medicine have done more for me than I ever expected anything would. Those pains in my back, that used to keep me home and make me feel so miserable, have disappeared and my bowels are normal. In other words, I cannot say too much about this wonderful preparation. I feel sure it will help everyone as I have never seen anything else like it."

Begin using Husky to-day and note how soon your food tastes better, sleep is more sound and restful and you feel stronger and better in every way. It is nothing short of marvelous what this medicine will do for you in a few days.

If you would like to know more about "Husky" call on the expert from the Husky Laboratories, who is now making his headquarters at Bond's Drug Store. He explains, free of charge, how best and quickest results are obtained from the use of this medicine. Call at Bond's and ask for the Husky Expert to-day. His information has led thousands to find the relief and new health they had been seeking for years.

ECZEMA CAUSED MUCH PAIN

On Fingers. Lasted Ten Years. Cuticura Healed.

"When I was two years old eczema broke out in a rash between my fingers and caused much pain. My fingers were swollen and inflamed. The itching and burning caused me to scratch, which made it worse. I lost sleep on account of it.

"The trouble lasted about ten years before we began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After one week's use it looked better, and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Eileen Cavanaugh, Enterprise, Ont., June 3, 1928.

WEDDING BELLS

KIERNAN—CARR.

HAVELOCK, June 11.—(Examiner Correspondence)—Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church was the scene of a quiet wedding at 9.30 o'clock, on Wednesday morning, when Myrtle Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carr, of Belmont, became the bride of H. F. Kiernan, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Kiernan and the late Joseph Kiernan, of Havelock. Rev. Father McCarthy performed the ceremony.

The church was pretilly decorated for the occasion with ferns and spring flowers and the wedding march was played by Mrs. J. H. Moore.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an attractive gown of white georgette with touches of Hungarian embroidery. She wore a lace trimmed mohair hat and carried sweetheart roses and a mother of pearl rosary. The bridesmaid, Miss Mary Carr, of Toronto, was in orchid crepe and wore a small hat to match. She carried yellow roses. Francis Voyer, of Whitby, acted as groomsman.

Following the nuptial mass, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, where the decorations were carried out in pink and white.

Mr. and Mrs. Kiernan left on a wedding trip to New York State, the bride travelling in a frock of figured crepe, with green sports coat and figured hat and scarf to match.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Kiernan will reside in Havelock, where the groom is employed with the C.P.R.

HAMILTON—SAGE.

A pretty wedding took place at Sunnyside Slope, Lakefield, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Sage, when their eldest daughter, Gladys Coraline, became the bride of Mr. Chester H. Hamilton, son of Mrs. Crowe and the late Mr. H. Hamilton.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, made a charming picture in a gown of ivory satin, princess style, with a long train of chiffon bordered in satin. Her cap of embroidered silk net was caught with orange blossoms and a gracefully draped train and veil of tulle. She carried a bouquet of butterfly roses and lily-of-the-valley, and wore the gift of the groom, a necklace of pearls.

The mother of the bride wore a handsome gown of biscuit chantilly lace and corsage bouquet of red roses, and Mrs. Crowe wore a gown of russet satin and corsage of roses.

Mrs. Fred Armstrong, in a cocoa brown georgette with matching hat, and Mrs. Lawrence McCracken, who wore beige and matching hat, received the guests.

Mrs. Gertrude McConkey played very beautifully the wedding music, and during the signing of the register, Mr. Henry Batten sang "Love's Coronation."

In the artistic drawing-room decorated with spring flowers and carnations, the bride and groom received many good wishes for their future happiness. The guests then passed out to a large marquee on the lawn, where tulle and roses were prettily arranged on a table, and a dainty buffet luncheon was served, catered by Hooper's, of Peterborough. Mr. Wesley acted as toastmaster, and Mr. Herrington was called upon to toast the bride, the groom responding, and Mr. B. B. Kennedy of Toronto very fittingly toasted the bridesmaid and maid-of-honor, the best man replying.

The bride and groom left among showers of confetti to spend their honeymoon in the States, visiting Niagara Falls, Lachine, Mich., and points south, returning by Sault Ste. Marie and Northern Ontario, the bride travelling in a beige broadcloth coat trimmed with squirrel, blue crepe dress with beige trimming and hat and shoes to match.

OBITUARY

THOMAS O'NEILL.

DOWNEYVILLE, June 11—(Examiner Correspondence)—The funeral of the late Thomas O'Neill was held from his late residence, Lindsay, to St. Luke's Church, Downeyville, on Saturday morning and was largely attended by many friends from Lindsay and Emily. Requiem Mass was chanted by Rev. Father Galvin, who afterwards said the prayers at the cemetery. Burial took place in St. Luke's Cemetery. The pall-bearers were six sons of deceased, Ambrose, Cyril, Joseph Eugene and Leo all of Detroit, Mich and Fergus, of Lindsay.

The deceased was 64 years of age and was born and raised at Downeyville and lived here until about ten years ago where he went to Lindsay and for the last seven years resided with his sister, Miss Julia O'Neill, where he died after a lingering illness.

His wife predeceased him several years ago. He leaves to mourn his loss six sons, Ambrose, Cyril, Eugene, Joseph and Leo, all of Detroit, Mich., Fergus of Lindsay, and three daughters, Mrs. Arthur Winn of Emily, Miss Katie O'Neill of Detroit, Mich., and Miss Antionette O'Neill of Lindsay; also five sisters, Mrs. F. Gilliece, Mrs. P. Milloy anti Miss Julia O'Neill of Lindsay, Mrs. J. Corbett and Mrs. Ed. Hoolihan of Emily, and four brothers, William and Michael of King's Wharf, Patrick of Omemee, and Morgan, of Seattle, Wash.

MRS. MARGARET McNEIL.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret McNeil took place from St. John's Church, Ida, on Friday, June 7, at 3 p.m., and was very largely attended. A short service was held at the home of her brother-in-law, James Swain, Valentia, before departure was made for Cavan, interment being beside her husband, the late Charles McNeil, in the family burial plot at the North Cavan Cemetery.

Mrs. McNeil, whose maiden name was Margaret Noble, was born in Haldimand Township, and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Noble, pioneer settlers in the vicinity of Cobourg. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Annie Campbell, of Peterborough, and Mrs. aJmes Swain, of Valentia, and by one brother, William Noble, who resides on the family homestead on the Cobourg Road; there are a number of nephews and nieces.

In February, 1911, deceased was united in marriage to late Charles McNeil, a member of one of the pioneer families of Cavan Township, and after residing for some years on the homestead, Eighth Line, Cavan, they moved to Millbrook, purchasing the residence of the late J. Wesley Walsh, King Street, where they were living when Mr. McNeil's death took place nine years ago last December.

A faithful member of the Anglican Church, Mrs. McNeil took an active interest in its various activities, and for some years held an official position in the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Thomas' Church, Millbrook, continuing in office until about one year ago when failing health led to the giving up of her home here, though she intended returning for the summer months, and had not illness prevented, would have occupied the cosy bungalow on Tupper Street built by the late Mrs. Henry Mulligan.

A number of citizens from this vicinity, as well as from Lindsay and Peterborough, motored to St. John's Church for the funeral on Friday, the service being conducted by the clergyman in charge of the parish, Rev. W. P. A. Roberts. Rev. Aleck Edmison had charge of the short service at Valentia, where Mrs. McNeil's death took place on Wednesday of last week. The pall-bearers were six nephews, Messrs. Leonard, Herb., and Charles McNeil, H. Routley and C. Elliott, Peterborough, and Noble Swain, Valentia. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

GEORGE HAROLD JOHNSTON

The funeral of the late George Harold Johnston was held from his late residence, Crawford's Grove, to Little Lake Cemetery on June 1. The Rev. J. D. Paterson officiated at the private service in the family home and at the public service held in All Saints' Church.

Deceased was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. David Johnston of North Monaghan. He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife and six children. One sister, Mrs. Gordon Deyell, lives in Peterborough.

Relatives from out of town attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. H. Dearborn, Hiram Dearborn, Mrs. N. Dearborn, Miss Lillian Dearborn and Mrs. A. McTaggart of Oshawa, Mrs. L. Ritchie and Mrs. William Edmison of Brantford.

CENTRAL SCHOOL PICNIC ON JUNE 21

Fine Program of Sports Is Being Arranged By Home and School Association.

The regular monthly meeting of the Home and School Association of Central was held last night in the kindergarten room of the school. A fairly large attendance of parents and teachers were present. Mrs. W. Flannery, president, presided, and the meeting opened by the singing of "O Canada" in unison, with Mrs. J. Boorman at the piano. A report of the relief work done was given by Mrs. J. Stanger. Arrangements were made to hold the school picnic on the afternoon of Friday, June 21, in the school grounds. A good program of sports is being arranged, and these, with a plentiful supply of ice cream, soft drinks, and refreshments, if the weather is good, ought to give the children a splendid time. The banner for the largest attendance of mothers was won by Miss Dix's room.

A special feature of the evening was a splendid report read by Mrs. Simpson, who was the Peterborough delegate to the convention of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations, held at Toronto.

The account of this convention, which was both educational and interesting, was given in a clear, lucid style, and much appreciated by all the parents.

A musical treat was given the audience in a piano duet, entitled "Invitation a la Valse" (Weber), and beautifully played by Miss Pearl Smith and Miss Dorothy White, both pupils of Miss Bessie Elcombe.

Mrs. Foster of Toronto delighted the audience with two solos, extremely well rendered. They were "The Desert Song" and "Jeanine" (in Lilac Time), to which Miss Lily Bacon played the accompaniments.

The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

If Australia could be placed in the Atlantic ocean, it would fill up all the space between the United States and Great Britain.

COUNCIL MEETS AT MILLBROOK

ACCOUNTS PASSED.

MILLBROOK, June 11 (Examiner Correspondence). — At the regular meeting of Millbrook Council held this week in the Council Chamber, Reeve Wood reported as follows on recent debenture issue:

Annual payments for corporation, $1,452.77.

Annual payment, owner's share, $359.00.

A communication was received from the Globe Indemnity Company explaining in detail what the municipal policy with this company covers, and the same was accepted as satisfactory to Council.

It was decided that the flagpole in front of the Town Hall be taken down, and later decision made as to further action in regard to erecting a new one. The upper section of the flagpole was broken off during a heavy wind storm in the spring.

The following accounts were ordered paid:

Hydro-Electric Power Commission, Town Hall current, $4.71; street lighting, $71.17—$75.88; Workmen's Compensation Board, assessment, $18.06; Municipal World, extra dog tags, $2.21; I. W. Larmer, cedar for bridge, $170.25; William Budd, timbers for bridge, $45.00; W. Budd, work on bridge, $31.15; H. C. Lord, work on bridge, $34.30; J. Guthrie, work on bridge, $30.80; Gerald Todd, work on bridge, $2.00; B. Raper, work on bridge, $12.25; S. Donnelly, work on bridge, with team, $57.75; Richards & Richards, second quarter's printing, $22.50; J. J. Clarke, postage on assessments, $2.50; H. Nattress, salary $25.00, work $2.50, $27.50; G. Freelove, cleaning street, $8.10; Millbrook Rural Telephone Company, account, $3.70; W. G. Russell & Sons, account lumber, $5.07; Town Hall license renewal, $3.00.

The matter of holding an official street opening, which was held over from last fall owing to the late date when the two miles of paving on the roadway was completed, came up for discussion, and was left until the next regular Council meeting.

PAVING PROGRAM IS PROGRESSING

West End Streets Ready for Surfacing as Other Roads Are Prepared.

Paving operations in the west end of the city are progressing rapidly. Excavations on Gilmour, St. Joseph, and Walton streets and Leslie, Belmont and Homewood avenues have been completed by the steam-shovel crew and the streets are ready for the paving gang. Monaghan road and Park street south are being prepared. The city men are going ahead of the paving operations installing and repairing drains and constructing the necessary sewers. Sewers have been laid on St. Joseph street and Leslie avenue and surface drains are being built on Park street.

Considerable resurfacing is being caried out on the streets in the west adjacent to Charlotte street between Park street and Monaghan road is about finished. In the process of resurfacing the road is stired up and levelled off then rolled. Different grades of fine top material are spread and the rolling is repeated. The roads thus treated are put in excellent condition for traffic.

Building Estimates

Estimates for other building and construction work around the city for this year up to the end of May are considerably ahead of those for the same period of last year indicating increased activity in this line over last year. The total building estimates up to May of 1928 were $146,634, whereas the corresponding estimates for this year amount to $232,810. The increased estimate is due to the building of the Kresge store.

Estimates on other classes of building for 1929 show a decrease in some cases, the total for dwellings and service stations up to May of this years being only $48,350 against $80,090 of 1928.

Have you all of your own teeth?

Unless you take preventive measures now, the day is coming when you may know, to your sorrow, that the true meaning of the phrase "artificial denture" is often the extravagant price of self-neglect—false teeth. Here's the reason and the way to help safeguard health against the coming of this day.

Teeth are only as healthy as the gums. And gums, undernourished and under-exercised, soon surrender to dread diseases that ravage health and often destroy teeth. To prevent this, avail yourself of the best care that modern dentistry offers. Place yourself in the hands of your dentist at least twice a year. And brush your gums when you brush your teeth, every morning and night.

But for this purpose—use Forhan's for the Gums... the dentifrice designed to help firm gums and keep them sound, thus protecting them from the attack of disease.

Use Forhan's regularly. You'll be delighted with the way it makes your gums look and feel. In addition, you'll notice that it effectively and safely cleans teeth and helps to protect them from decay. Get a tube of Forhan's—today!

Sour Stomach

Sweetened instantly

Just a tasteless dose of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in water. That is an alkali, effective, yet harmless. It has been the standard antacid for 50 years among physicians everywhere. One spoonful will neutralize at once many times its volume in acid. It is the right way, the quick, pleasant and efficient way to kill the excess acid. The stomach becomes sweet, the pain departs. You are happy again in five minutes.

Don't depend on crude methods Employ the best way yet evolved in all the years of searching. That is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

SEEING TOO MUCH.

Schools and camps like to have visitors. Nobody enjoys working unless he has an appreciative audience and our visitors are our audience.

There is one sort of visitors we all dread. That is the one who sees too much that should not be seen, at all The sort of person whose eyes have never been trained to see essentials and overlook the unessentials.

Every teacher knows the supervisor who sees every slip of paper on the floor, every pencil mark on the walls, every blot on the compositions, every uncovered text book, every gum-chewing child. All the children who were not chewing gum escape observation. All the well kept books and the neat compositions are overlooked. The mechanically minded supervisor catches the defects in the mechanics of the work and loses the spiritual overtones every time.

I agree that if the mechanics are not sound there will be no spiritual overtones, but it is very rarely the case that mechanics are neglected. They are the amateur's salvation, the artists' taken for-granted routine. Only the untrained eye halts at the minor defection.

A mother goes to a well managed camp. Her son has gained in height and weight and color. His character traits have improved immeasurably. Especially his disposition. His mother arrives in the middle of his handball match. His face is smirched with grime and his paws are the paws of a playful pup. "Horror, child. Don't you ever wash yourself?"

That is enough to make the camp director swear off visitors for the rest of his season. The boy is upset for days. The group leader and the counselor are peevish whenever the boy is mentioned. After all their hard work and his co-operation to be treated as that woman treated them—etc. and etc.

If you goa-visiting put on your most gracious spirit. Remember to look beyond the mechanics of the job to the intangible result. Find something that you like. Pay no attention to things that a duster can remove with a flick of a rag but study the spirit and intention of all that you see.

When you talk over the visit with the teacher or the director remark on the fine things you saw. Praise them mightily. And ASK about the things that seemed doubtful. Ask about them. Don't tell the teacher or the director what you thought about them because you may be wrong.

Once a lady gave a teacher a fine long scolding for having little boys seated in the full sunshine doing nothing at all when the other children were in swimming, having a good time. When she drew her breath he said, "But these children are the ones sent for rest and sunning. They have a physical defect that does not permit of their swimming just now. They are doing just what their physician ordered us to have them do. We hope that by following their present program they will be able to swim next year."

Praise mightily what you see that is good and ask about the rest. Above all, don't see too much of what is unessential to the job.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

THE IDEAL VACATION.

If some one should tell you that you had to do without your food or your sleep for a period of three days you'd think that he was a "mental" case, and yet if you try to do without a vacation once or twice a year, you are doing the same to that body of yours as if you did without food or sleep. Why?

Because everybody needs a change of routine at times. And every member of the household needs this change.

The youngsters get away from the routine of school and homework, and parents need this same change if they are to keep themselves young and interested in life.

You will remember the quotation of last year.

"Recreation is intended for the mind as whetting or sharpening is to the scythe."

If you spend all your time in recreation or sharpening no work will be done.

If you spend all your time working or mowing your work, nill not be as good, as "clean cut" as it would be if you stopped to recreate, to sharpen.

The other suggestions for a successful vacation were:—

To do what you would like to do for two or three weeks.

To rest the first two days of your vacation.

To plan about packing, accommodation, railway or boat tickets, so far ahead that there is no exhausting rush at the last minute which tires you out mentally and physically just when you are ready to enjoy yourself.

Now the ideal time to take a vacation is before you are too tired.

As mentioned before "an hour of sleep before midnight is worth two after midnight."

Is this true?

Yes, because when you stop work, have an evening of reading, or attend a meeting of any kind, and get off to bed when you are not exhausted, but just nicely tired, you will need about twenty to thirty percent less sleep than if you continue to work or stay up until you are completely exhausted.

So a vacation taken before you are too tired is better, other things being equal, than waiting till the end of the summer.

Where to go is not for me to say because the seaside, the mountains, the quiet of the country, the whirl of the big city, all have their attractions for different individuals, and to go where you want to go, and do what you want to do, with the boy or girl spirit within you, is the ideal way to spend a vacation.

TIME FOR work,—yet take Much holiday for art's and friendship's sake.
—George James De Wilde.

* * * * * * *

We have been having such warm weather in Peterborough lately that I am sure most housewives are looking forward to vacation time, with high enthusiasm.

* * * * * * *

This is a glorious time for everyone and a happy-go-lucky attitude is taken on. Everyone is out for a good time and no doubt they have it.

* * * * * * *

Very little housekeeping is done during holidays. One cannot enjoy herself when weighed down with housekeeping worries and the wise housewife will leave these worries behind for a time, at any rate.

* * * * * * *

Summer is indeed outdoor time for every member of the family and I am sure there are few people in Peterborough who do not take advantage of it for one week in summer anyway.

* * * * * * *

Of course, there are those who are not able to get away from the city. Even if this is the case, spend as much time as possible out doors and enjoy the fresh air at night.

* * * * * * *

For your summer cottage have you everything fixed up just as you would for winter or does it look cool and somewhat bare? I do not think one is wise in having a lot of furniture and hangings in the summer cottage. Of course it is all right to make the rooms convenient, but do not have too much in them.

* * * * * * *

Have you ever stopped to consider how nice and cool a bare room looks? On a hot summer day it is very inviting to have a cool bare room. If you have not enjoyed such a room, try this idea out.

* * * * * * *

Then for those who do not own a cottage and who must stay in the city all summer, I would advise them to try to make these homes as cool looking as possible.

* * * * * * *

You can obtain amazing results in this, you know, with just a few alterations. These alterations are sometimes very simple and the results really justify them.

* * * * * * *

Do not be content to have small screens for your windows. Really, you know, these do not let in nearly enough fresh air, because they are not large enough.

* * * * * * *

Make screens large enough for the whole window. I am sure you will be greatly pleased with the results. Try it, just for fun.

* * * * * * *

If you have many trees and vines about the house, you are lucky, because these are a great benefit. Unlike blinds on the windows, trees and vines exclude the sun, but the fresh air is not kept out.

* * * * * * *

In many of our Peterborough homes we find rich, heavy window draperies and upholsterings. I wonder how many realize that these help to make the house very warm in summer.

* * * * * * *

I think housewives would be very wise in taking these down for the summer months, and substituting light hangings made of cretonne or gingham, since it is very popular this year. And when you are buying these, be sure to get cool colors such as green or blue. You could, too, make cool looking slip covers for your chairs.

* * * * * * *

And don't prepare heavy meals during the summer months. One should eat very little meat but fruits and vegetables in season. Drink lots of water or milk and don't forget that you'll be benefited if you miss a meal or two.

* * * * * * *

Italian quilting is one of the smartest trimmings and has the advantage over regular quilting that it does not add to the actual warmth of the garment on which it is used.

* * * * * * *

This week's help tells exactly how to do this work and shows how it may be used to finish a smart little jacket. For your copy of this help, please fill in the coupon and enclose with a two cent stamp.

* * * * * * *

I wonder how many Peterborough housewives know that they can keep washable kid gloves spotless if they are put on the hands and sponged off every day with a damp cloth, dipped in soapsuds? After this has been done, rub dry with a clean cloth.

* * * * * * *

A few nights ago we had a thunder storm in Peterborough and I was very much surprised to find that a great many people are actually afraid of thunder.

* * * * * * *

I think lightning is worse than thunder and can understand people being afraid of it. Perhaps those who are afraid of lightning have a reason to be.

* * * * * * *

I remember one time when visiting at a certain home, a terrible storm came up and the lightning was very vivid and close. Everyone in that household seem afraid and all huddled together. The expressions they wore on their faces told how they dreaded such a storm.

* * * * * * *

I think the real reason of their being frightened was that their home had been struck by lightning before and had done a great deal of damage. Some folks say that lightning never strikes the same place twice, but I know of the exception—a house which has been struck three times within a few years.

* * * * * * *

Those who have been fortunate enough in escaping damage to their homes and property by lightning really do not know the terrible feeling one gets when something real near has been struck.

* * * * * * *

Again I can remember when I was in a house that was struck. It happened one night and I don't think I shall ever forget it. Everyone happened to be down stairs when the lightning struck the house.

* * * * * * *

Just as soon as it had been done, the house filled with something like sulphur fumes. A pail of water was sitting on the floor and the water in it splashed right up to the ceiling and the house shook as if by an explosion.

* * * * * * *

Fortunately, however, the rain came down in torrents which prevented the house from catching fire. One of the members of that household happened to be holding a lamp in her hand at the time.

* * * * * * *

She was stunned for a time and the lamp chimney fell to the floor, but somehow she was able to keep hold of that part of the lamp which contained the oil. Had this fallen, I am sure it would have exploded.

* * * * * * *

So you see people who are afraid of lightning may have real reason to be, and more so those who have been struck and bodily harm inflicted.

* * * * * * *

In the most terrible and nimble stroke.
Of quick cross lightning.

—King Lear.

HISTORIC LETTERS ARE MADE PUBLIC

LONDON, Eng., June 11.—(By The Candian Press).—The last letters of Lady Augusta Stanley (1864-1876) have just been published and discussed by the Times.

These letters cover the short period—little more than ten years—of Lady Augusta Stanley's married life.

Queen Victoria's retirement had taken her out of touch with her people, and Lady Augusta, who noted her diminished popularity with real anxiety, seeks to interest her in the life of her humble subjects. One day she chats of a Peninsula veteran, another of a poor old woman overjoyed at being freed from debt. It is all very human, and gives the other side of the picture of that famous tea party at the Deanery at which the Queen met Carlyle, Browning, and the Grotes. Even more significant is the plea that notice should be taken of Ireland. Patriotic Scotswoman though she was, Lady Augusta felt that the Queen was too fond of Balmoral. She urges her point with the tact of a born courtier.

If they (the Irish) could find some day that the Highlands of Donegal or of Connemara on their wild iron-bound coasts, which so few visit, were admired and appreciated by Your Majesty, and that poetic legends and traditions of their land and language kindle in Your Majesty the interest I know they would—it would warm and cheer and fill with enthusiasm thousands and thousands of hearts. Your Majesty's experience of Gaelic would make it easier to understand and retain the names than we found it.

In 1865, when Lady Augusta was visiting Queen Victoria's half-sister, Princess Hohenlohe, at Baden, the Queen of Prussia—not yet Empress—came in for a friendly chat.

She sat down and poured forth a continuous flow of questions:—(1) How old is the world? (2) What is the oldest portion of the human race? (3) What difference is there between the Jews in Palestine and the Jews in Europe, and do they retain their ancient usages? (4) Are there any likenesses between the Jewish religion and the Egyptian?

"LITTLE BUTTERCUP'S SONG"

I'm called little Buttercup,
Dear little Buttercup, y;
Though I could never tell wh
But still I'm called Buttercu p,
Poor little Buttercup,
Sweet little Buttercup, I.

I've snuff, and I've baccy,
And excellent Jacky;
I've scissors, and watches, and knives;
I've ribbons and laces
To set off the faces
Of pretty young sweethearts and wives.

I've treacle and toffee,
I've tea and I've coffee,
Soft tommy, and succulent chops.
I've chickens and conies,
And pretty polonies,
And excellent peppermint drops.

CHORUS:
Then buy of your Buttercup,
Dear little Buttercup,
Sailors should never be shy;
So buy of your Buttercup,
Poor little Buttercup,
Come, of your Buttercup, buy.

Six pints water; 3 lbs sugar; boil till clear. Add 6 pounds pineapple. Boil three minutes.

FUDGE CAKE.

(Contributed by "Mike")

Sift together 1½ cups flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt. Cream ¼ cup butter and add 1 cup sugar and beaten egg. Mix and add 1 teaspoon vanilla and 2 squares of melted, unsweetened chocolate (I use 3 teaspoons coca). Then add ½ cup water and sifted dry ingredients alternately till all is used. Put in greased, floured square pan and bake in moderate oven for thirty minutes. Cool in pan and cover with chocolate icing; one square chocolate, butter size of a walnut, three tablespoons hot water. Heat until it thickens, take from fire and add confectioner's sugar until of spreading thickness, add vanilla and beat to the consistency of fudge.

NURSES ARE OVERWORKED

Rev. Dr. Laidlaw Urges Members of Profession to Seek Culture

TORONTO, June 11.— (C.P.) — "Magnify your calling," Rev. Dr. Laidlaw said to some nurses here the other day, "and encourage your efficiency." He regretted, however, that nurses did not have more leisure time in which to obtain wider culture. "I believe that they are overworked." he said "and 12-hour duty too long. Nurses must feel the need of religious comradeship," he concluded, "if they carry the lamp of love as well as the lamp of light."

"With all the improvement in scientific knowledge and method the responsibility of the trained nurse has been much increased," Dr. H. A. Beatty told the graduating class of the Toronto orthopedic hospital at the commencement dinner at the Granite club recently.

"When I was a house surgeon in Westminster hospital, London, in 1901 the nurses on duty at night were not allowed to give hypodermics," he said. "If morphia or strychnia had to be given the house physician of the ward had to be aroused from his sleep to administer it.

Uncle Wiggily

A Bed-Time Story by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SAND SIFTER.

(Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

One afternoon Baby Bunty took Cutie and Tootie, the newest little rabbit girls in Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow, down to the end of the yard to play in the sand pile. Uncle Wiggily had made a fine, large sand pile for his little bunnies to play in.

"What are you going to do, Bunty?" asked Cutie, for this was the first time she had taken to the sand pile to play.

"Oh, we'll make holes in the sand and pretend they are wells," said the little orphan rabbit. "And we'll make hills of sand and then we'll make sand pies."

"What are sand pies?" asked Tootie, for it was also her first visit to the play spot and she didn't know very much, anyhow.

"Sand pies are pies made of sand," said Baby Bunty. "I'll sift some sand nice and fine to get out all the sticks and little stones. Then we'll wet the fine sand with water, that I'll get at the pump, and we'll put the sand and water in clam shells and make believe they're pies."

Baby Bunty began to sift the sand.

"Oh, goodie! What fun!" said Cutie "But where will you get the clam shells, Baby Bunty?"

"Here they are!" said the little orphan rabbit, taking some out from beneath a bench at the sand pile. "I had them when I played here yesterday."

"But where is the sand sifter?" asked Tootie.

"I'll have to go in and get Nurse Jane's coffee strainer to sift the sand in," said Bunty. "You wait here for me and be good."

Well, Cutie and Tootie were as good as they knew how to be, but that wasn't much, I can tell you.

For Cutie tossed some sand up in the air and it fell down on Tootie's head and got in her fur and Tootie cried. Then she threw some sand up in the air and it fell down and got on Cutie's back and tickled her and she cried and when Baby Bunty came back with the coffee strainer sand sifter, both little rabbits were sobbing.

"Oh, don't do that!" begged Bunty. "I knew something would happen if I left you for a moment. Now I'll sift some sand and we'll make pies and have a lot of fun and you must stop crying."

So Tootie and Cutie stopped crying as they watched Baby Bunty begin to sift the sand, but the little orphan rabbit had not sifted more than enough for half a pie before Nurse Jane, in the kitchen bungalow of the hollow stump bungalow, cried:

"Ho, Bunty! Did you take my coffee strainer?"

"Yes, Nurse Jane," answered Bunty. "I'm using it to sift sand to make pies for Cutie and Tootie."

"Well, I'm sorry," said the muskrat lady housekeeper, "but your Ma has company and she wants me to make some coffee and I'll have to strain it and you'll have to bring that strainer right back here."

"All right," said Baby Bunty politely; "I will," and she hopped up, knocked the sand dust from the coffee strainer and started for the bungalow with it.

"Oh, but then we can't sift any sand for pies!" exclaimed Cutie and Tootie, as they began to cry again.

"Hush, please!" begged Bunty as she came back. But for all that she felt sorry for the little rabbits. She had promised to make sand pies for them: but how could she without a sand sifter? Bunty didn't know what to do, but all of a sudden along hopped Uncle Wiggily.

"What's the matter?" he asked, as he saw tears in the eyes of the little bunnies.

"We—boo-hoo—we have no—so sand sifter!" sobbed Cutie.

Then Bunty told what had happened. Uncle Wiggily laughed and said:

"How will this do for a sand sifter?" and he held out a wooden box that he had picked up as he hopped around.

"That can't be a sand sifter," said Bunty. "It has no holes in it like the coffee strainer."

"That is easily fixed," chuckled Mr. Longears. Looking up in a tree he saw a woodpecker bird drilling holes in a branch to catch worms and bugs living beneath the bark.

"Ho, Woodpecker!" called the rabbit. "With your strong beak will you please make some holes in this wooden box so Baby Bunty can use it for a sand sifter to make sand pies for Cutie and Tootie?"

"Yes!" answered the Woodpecker, "I will!"

It did not take him long to make a lot of little holes in the bottom of the wooden box. Then Bunty sifted sand through it and soon Cutie and Tootie had made as lovely pies as heart could wish.

The little rabbits had a wonderful time on the sand pile.

Washington, June 6.—To the probable sorrow of his neighbors, Harold Davidson can't lose his saxaphone. He lost it recently for a time when it fell into the water when his canoe turned over. In was in a case, however, and floated. Walter Keech found it, turned it over to police, who returned it to Davidson.

"PUTTING children through school is expensive and calls for greatest economy. Girls need the pretty things others have, and, thanks to Sunset Dyes, I was able to give my children more than they could have had without them.

"My daughter was getting ready to leave for her first teaching position. She had a white dress and took it to the dyers. He wanted eight dollars, so we decided to try it ourselves. We dyed it the loveliest shade of dark green and were delighted.

"If there is ever a time when Sunset Dyes are appreciated it is after death in the family. My son died just before my daughter left for her school work. I had a brown suit which I dyed black. Then I dyed my print dresses.

"I never wear anything shabby or the least faded now. Sunset Dye makes them bright and pretty again. I dyed old silk handkerchiefs for trimming a house coat I made. I quilted the trimming and it was the prettiest house coat I ever saw.

"We make slips from our worn silk dresses and dye them to match some dress. I could go on and on but it would just be repetition. Sunset Dyes are to me almost a bank account. They keep us well dressed." From a satisfied Sunset user.

For fast dyeing use Sunset Soap Dyes, 15 cents a cake. For beautiful tinting use Dytint, the wonderful new tint, in the big box, only 10 cents. Made in Canada.

WEARING Penmans New Full-Fashioned Silk Hose, the truly modern Canadian girl literally "walks in beauty" . . . A beauty that sweeps from trim, slim ankle to shapely knee. New Style Garden Party Sees Guests Come By Air

TORONTO, Ont., June 11.—(By The Canadian Press).—A farm of 200 acres is a good place in which to hold a flying party. So thought Mr. and Mrs. Norman Irwin when they gave the first aviation garden party on record in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin were host and hostess to the flying club members. Sped on by a strong tail wind, the aerial visitors from Leaside Airport arrived at the Irwin home, situated on the Kingston road, near Whitby, just fifteen minutes after leaving Toronto.

Twenty-four of the seventy guests present arrived by air in twelve multi-colored Moth light planes that stood in imposing array on Mr. Irwin's private aerdrome, while their occupants enjoyed his hospitality. During the afternoon, exhibitions of stunt-flying were carried out.

MISSION BAND MEETS.

The Junior Mission Band of St. Johns W.A. held their last meeting for the season, yesterday afternoon with a large attendance.

The superintendent, Mrs. N. Stanger presided.

After the routine business had been concluded, Dr. Blagrave presented the certificates to those who were successful in passing the examinations on the mission study "Prairie and Bush Missions" for this year.

Dorothy Pitchford, Phyllis Pitchford and Jacquil Ford were warmly congratulated on having completed a six years course. They were presented with gold seals. Two others were successful in their intermediate work and were presented with silver seals.

A social hour was spent in games and amusements after which tea was served.

Mrs. Stanger was assisted by Mrs. Clee and Mrs. Budd, who took Mrs. W. G. Howden's place, owing to her beinng indisposed.

CHURCH SERVICES.

WARSAW ANGLICAN CHURCH

WARSAW, June 11.—(Examiner Correspondence). — The choir and clergyman from All Saints' Church, Peterborough, visited Warsaw Anglican Church, on Sunday afternoon. The choir led in the evensong service, and rendered an anthem, "Send Now Thy Light", during the offertory. Rev. J. T. O'Conor-Fenton read the prayers and the first lesson. Rev. Mr. Paterson of All Saints' read the second lesson and preached the sermon which held every one with intense interest. His text was taken from Ezekiel, chapter eleven, verse sixteen, the clause: "Yet will I be to them as a little sanctuary." Mr. Patterson reminded his hearers that Judah was in captivity, and that their greatest sorrow lay in their separation from the worship at Jerusalem. There their hearts were there the psalms and hymns with which their minds were associated had been sung. The sanctuary was closely connected with their natural and religious existence.

He went on to explain the meaning of a sanctuary, as any place where God is; it is a name given to any church. Throughout the length and breadth of the land there are churches large and small, and all make contribution towards the uplift of humanity. At a gathering of bankers it was said that they could do no business where there was no church.

God has always had established places for especially meeting with His people. All through the Old Testament we find places where God met His people. In the New Testament Jesus Christ had places set apart.

In the history of all nations the principal places are hallowed with holy associations. In England and some other countries the cathedral is the centre of many cities, and other places grow up around, and life radiates from it. Our own sanctuary is a place hallowed by our own associations, perhaps we were baptized, confirmed, joined in the holy bonds of matrimony there. Perhaps there for the last time, those we love may meet with us.

Those places are sanctuaries where God loves to abide; if so we do well to make them as beautiful as in our power, and Mr. Paterson congratulated the congregation on the beauty of the re-decoration.

There is a tendency to make much of that which is big. There is something inspiring in great crowds, but God is near when two or three are gathered together in His name.

Ordination usually takes place in some large church or cathedral, before perhaps thousands of people, but he was thankful he was ordained in a little log building, to which the people came on logging sleighs. He felt as though he had found a speical sanctuary in the wilderness. God fulfilled His promise. He spoke of another service away north where a little Indian baby was baptized, and no outward sanctuary but the majesty of God's glory was there.

There are times when we are shut away from public worship, but God is not shut away from us. Religion is God Himself. There is no place where God is not. Wherever he is sought He is present. He finds His home in the hearts of His people.

Cavan

Cavan Women's Institute was well pleased with the result of the supper and entertainment given in Cavan Community Hall, on Friday evening, May 31. The supper was good and the members provided generously. Seven dollars worth of home made candy was sold during the evening and the remainder was taken to the market at Peterborough and sold.

The Society is not having a short course this year. The next regular meeting of the Institute will be held on the afternoon of the third Thursday in June at the home of the president, Mrs. R. M. Howden, when a detailed full account of the finances of the evening's entertainment will be given.

Acidity and Rheumatism

Team mates travelling together—uric acid and rheumatism. Where there is rheumatism, there is likely uric acid biting the kidneys; uric acid inflaming the nerves; uric acid swelling hands and feet.

Where there is this excess of uric acid in the system, there is a very immediate need of ABBEY'S to neutralize this poison—and give relief.

For many years the use of salines such as ABBEY'S has been an important part of the treatment for rheumatism.

Because of its uniform quality, the care in its preparation and the intrinsic value of its formula, ABBEY'S is regularly prescribed in those cases where pain or sickness is due to an excess of uric acid in the system. 441

ON EIGHT GREAT MOTOR CARS

FISHER BODY BRINGS YOU STYLE

AND VALUE-LEADERSHIP

IN EVERY PRICE CLASS

In each of these eight cars, superior performance and mechanical excellence are combined with body style and value which Fisher Body and only Fisher Body can give. ¶ The body value which General Motors cars with Body by Fisher gives is so great that for anything comparable one must go to cars several hundreds of dollars higher in price. ¶ This value is apparent. Every Fisher Body, even at first glance, conveys a conviction of greater value and quality which becomes the more vivid and impressive, the closer the inspection. This value is revealed to any motor car buyer in the finer, richer, obviously more expensive upholstery cloth; in the better, more durable grade of carpeting; in the genuine selected plate glass; in the painstaking craftsmanship which creates perfection of finish both inside and outside; in the artistry of the appointments and in the smooth, lustrous, lasting finish which is applied to the exterior of every Fisher Body. It is honest value through and through—value which is present in the hidden parts of the frame work and the roof—value which accounts for the celebrated staunchness and long life of every Body by Fisher. ¶ The eight cars which bring you this finer style and greater value of Fisher Body are exceptionally fine cars in the way they perform and in the satisfaction they afford. ¶ You will serve your own interests well by selecting your next car from among this group, the names of which are listed above, all with Body by Fisher.

Leafs Drop Third Game of Series to Orioles

BALTIMORE WINNERS BY 2 RUN LEAD

Defeat Leafs 5-3 After Two Hours and Twenty Minutes of Tight Baseball.

WINGS AGAIN VICTORS.

Bisons Score Seven Runs in Seventh Inning to Defeat Cats 8-7.

BALTIMORE, June 11.—(C.P.)—Another earnest all battle was unfolded at the local pennant plant yesterday afternoon when the Birds took wing and flapped their way to a pulse-warming 5 to 3 victory over the Toronto Leafs in the third game of the series.

The struggle, although consuming two hours and 20 minutes, still remains as a hot one in the minds of the faithful present and it takes a lot of baseball to make the fans feel satisfied after a session that etxends over two hours.

Guy Cantrell, who at one time flapped his wings in the Birds' nest, started against the locals and outside of a wave of wildness he pitched a splendid article of baseball.

CATS LOSE OUT.

JERSEY CITY, June 11.—(C.P.)—The Jersey City Black Cats won the third game of the series yesterday from the Buffalo Bisons, 8 to 7.

A six run lead the Cats enjoyed for five innings went for naught when the Herd pounded Don Miller, the Cats' starting pitcher, for six hits to score eleven runs in the seventh and forge to the front.

SIXTH VICTORY FOR CARLETON.

READING, Pa., June 11.—(C.P.)—Rochester slammed two Reading pitchers for an 11 to 3 decision here yesterday. Nelson Greene was pounded off the hill in the seventh and the Wings continued the attack on Joe Zubris.

While two Key pitchers were easy to solve, Tex Carleton held the Keys to five hits to register his sixth victory of the season.

LOSE OUT IN FINAL.

NEWARK, N.J., June 11.—(C.P.)—The Montreal Royals outhit Newark in the third game of their series here yesterday, but the Bears made their blows count and took an 8 to 6 decision.

Chic Davies, southpaw twirler, was nicked for 15 hits, but he was most effective with men on the bases. Davies contributed three hits in his own behalf and drove in two runs.

Dick Bates Meets With Hard Luck

Dick Bates had hard luck in the races at the C. G. E. picnic in Oshawa on Saturday. Bates was away to a nice lead of over twenty-five feet in the quarter mile race when he ran off the course. With about one third of the distance yet to go and running well within himself, he made the wrong turn. This disqualified him.

The race was won by Bill Engle of General Motors and Herb Trantèr of C. G. E. was second. It is likely that Bates would have won except for his unfortunate mistake.

YOUNG GOLF WONDER

Norman Wallace with four years golf to his credit and still that many yeahs from being able to cast his first vote, is the golfing sensation of the Pacific Coast. He is a native of Victoria, B. C., and gives promise of bringing much fame to his home town within the next few years.

At seventeen he ranks as the premier golfer in British Columbia. He broke the hearts of all the stars, both old and young, in the recent British Columbia amateur championship, which drew players from various parts of the coast states, including Bon Stein, of Seattle, U. S. western amateur champion two years ago, and "Chuck" Hunter, of Tacoma, intercollegiate champion of the U. S. He came second in the qualifying round and then breezed through his rounds in match play, beating three of Vancouver's best players, including Monty Hill, their champion. Wallace reached the finals and was pitted against Hunter, who won the B. C. title two years ago, and has won many other amateur crowns. Hunter just gained the decision on the home green, but he declared that it was the toughest match he had ever engaged in.

REDS WIN OUT.

Cards Take Third Straight Game By Defeating Phillies 10-9.

CHICAGO, June 11 (Canadian Press). — Chicago advanced to within a half game of the league leading Pirates by trouncing Boston, 10 to 8, here yesterday.

English, with four hits, and Wilson, with three, led the Cub attack on four Brave hurlers.

Leverett started, but failed to last, and before the game was over Delaney, Hearn and Greenfield had taken a turn on the mound.

TAKE THIRD STRAIGHT.

ST. LOUIS, June 11 (Canadian Press). — The St. Louis Cardinals made it three wins in a row over Burt Shotten's Phillies by taking a free-hitting contest yesterday, 10 to 9.

SECOND DEFEAT FOR GIANTS.

CINCINNATI, June 11 (Canadian Press). — The Reds drove Larry Benton from the mound yesterday to hand the Giants a second successive setback by a 7 to 3 score.

Benton lasted only four innings, yielding eight hits and five runs, Carl Mays and Joe Genewich succeeding him. Genewich crowded in the final Cincinnati run with a base on balls.

ROBINS DROP PIRATES.

PITTSBURG, June 11 (Canadian Press). — A six-run rally, featured by Hendrick's homer with two men on bases, gave Brooklyn a 7 to 6 victory over the Pirates yesterday.

The rally came in the fifth inning when the Pirates had a 2-1 lead, five hits and a walk off Steve Swetonic turning the trick.

PLAINVILLE WINS.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, June 11. — The local ball team motored to Plainville on Saturday evening and played a game of ball against the Plainville nine. This game opened the East Durham Tuxis League, and at the end of the seventh inning the game stood 5 to 2 in favor of the home team.

The battery for the locals was M. Woods, pitcher, A. Watt, catcher. For Plainville, Wiley, pitcher, Muncheon, catcher.

Umpires, Muncheon at plate; Dunbar on bases.

The next league game will be held on Saturday evening next when the local boys will clash with Garden Hill on the home diamond.

Yankees Take Fifth Game From Browns

NEW YORK, June 11. (C.P.)—The Yankees won their fifth game in as many starts from the St. Louis Browns yesterday, taking a pitching duel between Waite Hoyt and Alvin Crowber by a 33-to-2 score.

Hoyt held the Browns to one hit in the first seven innings but weakened in the last two. St. Louis bunched three singles with two out in the eighth and Manush hit a homer in the ninth.

BOSTON, June 11. (C.P.) — Three successive passes by Pitcher Charley Ruffing in the seventh inning after Heilmann had singled, gave the Detroit Tigers a 1 to 0 victory over the Red Sox here yesterday. Ruffing issued only one other base on balls and yielded only four hits.

The Sox threatened in the early innings, but remarkable fielding by the visitors prevented a score. In the second inning, with two out, Williams doubled, and after Burr had walked Ruffing singled sharply to left, but Johnson's perfect throw to Shea but off Williams at the plate.

BETHEL-HOARDS IN DRAW TILT

Visitors Rally in Fifth Inning To Overcome Lead of Opponents.

GOOD FIELDING.

BURNBRAE, June 11 (Examiner Correspondence).—Seven innings, no decision, was the verdict in the Bethel-Hoards' tilt on the latters' diamond Friday night, when darkness halted the fun with a score of 14 all. For four innings, Pierce was master of the situation, the Hoards' fielders were on top of every play and one homer by the Bethel pitcher was the only semblance of a score.

Hoards' batters were steaming right along and with a nice total of 8 to 1 looked good to take down the decision. Then came the fatal fifth. A number of timely taps brought in a run and the bases were full. G. Broadworth stepped to the plate and with mind intent on winning his own game drove one of Pierce's fast ones to the left field fence for the circuit and Hoards' lead looked small. Continuing in the next frame Bethel drove in another quintette, while Hoards were blanked. A trio of counters was the best effort of the easterners in the seventh, but a score of 14 to 9 looked pretty safe. Hoards nearly upset things with a batting spree which sewed up the score but Thompson was out on a foul tip with the winning run on third.

While both teams showed lack of training in the pinches, some sparkling indvidual plays were pulled off. Bethel made one double play: Dodwell to M. Gibson. Heavy batting was the feature of the encounter.

The replay of this tie game will probably be at Hoards on June 17.

Teams:

MENIE WINS 27—17

On Tuesday evening the Menie team, last year's champions, won a hard-hitting affair from Springbrook on the eastern village lot by a score of 25 to 17.

The standing to date, not including tie games:

Bethel	1	0
Pethericks	1	0
Menie	1	1
Springbrook	0	2

On Monday evening the undefeated league leaders meet in Stirling. With their batting power and experience, Bethel are expected to win. On Wednesday night, Hoards go to Menie, and a second place winner may be declared for the time being.

The sporting public is taking a great interest in the games, and attendance is large with great excitement over the close finishes to the games to date.

DOMINION DAY SPORTS BILL

Varied Program To Be Staged Under Auspices of Athletic Association.

AT MARMORA.

MARMORA, June 11.—(Examiner Corespondence).—Deloro is preparing once more for the Dominion Day celebrations which are sponsored by its very active and many sided amateur athletic association. Greatest interest again naturally centres in the two road races. The first race is for possesion of the Kent Challenge Cup which has been won for the two years since it was donated by E. Fairweather of the Stirling district. The distance to be covered in this race is approximately six miles. The race is open to contestants who have resided in Hastings County since January 1, 1929, and who were under 21 years of age on that date. The second race is for a distance approximately three miles with the same residence rule applying to it. The age is to be under 17 years of age January 1, 1929.

Valuable prizes will be given to each runner who finishes these races. Entries or enquiries will be gladly received by H. Ford Berry, Deloro, who is this year's secretary-treasurer of the association.

In the afternoon Belleville visit Deloro to play a C.O.B.L. fixture so that there is much to induce a visit to the Smelting village on that day.

Two points for a win; one for a draw.

Referee Resigns

John Middleton, who was appointed official referee at the beginning of the season, sent a written statement requesting that the board of directors accept his resignation.

Players Released

New Registration

Didn't Accept Resignation

The Quaker Oats informed the executive last evening that they would not participate in the local competitions, owing to them being unable to field a full team. Two players—T. Craig and John Ward requested that they be released from the Quaker Oats. The association would not accept the Quakers' resignation.

Game To Be Played

Lengthy communications were received from the Dominion Woollens and Deloro club in reference to the game that should have been played last Saturday. It was decided that the match be played in Deloro at a later date.

Forthcoming Games

Saturday, June 15—Deloro versus Canadian General; Referee, J. Clark. Brintons versus Quakers at King Edward Park; A. Aitkenhead, referee.
Wednesday, June 19.—Brintons versus Woollens at King Edward Park.

BETHANY WINS FROM HASTINGS

GOOD MOUND WORK.

In a ding-dong game that featured good baseball throughout, Bethany defeated Hastings 6 to 4 in an East Peterborough League fixture played in Bethany last evening. Both teams played sparkling baseball, but the defence of Hastings wobbled at times behind Scriver, and this was the only cause of defeat.

Ernie McGee played an outstanding game in left field, making several sensational catches after long runs. Bruce Ryly supplied the longest hit with a clean double in the fifth innings just when it was most needed.

The pitching of Ralph and Scriver left nothing to be desired on either side. Ralph twirled steadily, and was never in trouble, keeping the seven hits that were obtained from his offerings well scattered.

Scriver had a great deal of steam on his throws, and with better support in the pinches would likely have won.

The line-ups:

Score by innings:

Bethany . . . . . 000321x—6

PRINCE OF WALES SCHOOL CAPTURES LEAGUE HONORS

HEAVY HITTING SPREE.

Both Pitchers Hurl Sterling Ball For Their Respective Teams.

Leading all the way and the game apparently tucked away safely in their bat bag with the score 8 to 1 at the beginning of the seventh and final innings, King George School was defeated 9 to 8 by Prince of Wales. It was that last gigantic flurry that netted Prince of Wales' eight counters that won them the victory, after many of their supporters had gone away disappointed and dispirited.

By their timely victory Prince of Wales won the championship of the Public School Baseball League. A championship and a trophy that has been striven for by hundreds of ball players during the past ten years and more.

After such sterling baseball in which they had been assured of victory by their big lead, then only to lose in that frantic last innings brought tears to the eyes of many of the King George young players. While to sweep to the all unexpected victory raised Prince of Wales to the absolute pinnacle of jubilancy.

It was a snappy ball game the youngsters put up all the way through and the last innings brought such excitement as could be heard a mile away.

Both pitchers, Dunkerly, for Prince of Wales, and Calladine, for King George, took an outstanding place in the struggle. Dunkerly unleashed a burst of speed that kept the King George batsmen swinging at the empty air far too late. He allowed but three hits, but at times he was very wild and issued many walks. His speedy balls often got out of the mitt of his catcher, B. Wilson, and many got to first after he had struck them out.

Calladine, on the other hand, twirled cannily, and although he did not have the speed of his opposition, he was more effective and always had the game well in hand. His battery mate, Starr, a little fellow who handled his big decker and threw around the bases like a veteran, gave him great support and when he struck out a batter they stayed out.

The King George infield did their work in masterly style, and they had a great deal more to do than did Prince of Wales. Gardiner at first caught cleanly every ball thrown at him. Dixon at short had several hot ones to handle and he nipped off several runners by wisely throwing around the bases for forced outs.

The King George outfielders had an off day, and in the final innings when Prince of Wales was clouting them to the outer gardens, they failed to get under a single fly.

In that final innings Prince of Wales by their clean, hard hitting redeemed themselves for all their former misplays. Craig was the big hitter of the game with three safe clouts, one in the final frame going for three bases and helping materially in his team's win. Kingdon poled out a great two-bagger also in the last innings, just when it was needed. In the last innings every member of the winning team swung their war clubs mightily and hammered their way to the unexpected victory.

Score by innings:

Prince of Wales	0100008—9
King George	1024100—8

The line-ups:

NORTH-ENDERS BLANK CLOCKS

FINAL COUNT 8-0.

Percy Harrison's North Enders, softball champions of last season, fielding practically the same team as last year, shut out the Westclox team to the tune of 8-0, in the opening softball fixture held in the Central school grounds last evening.

The Riverside Bowl, unfit for playing at present time, the game was taken to the school ground, where a good crowd watched nine innings of nip and tuck ball until the Westclox team went up in the air in the eighth. Up to this frame Harrison's were leading by a 2-0 score, but the Northerners began to find Delahey's curves and the whole Harrison team lined up in turn before the Westclox hurler. Six runs were scored, making the total 8 for Harrison's.

There is no secret to the success of the Harrison victory. The boys have been practicing for three nights each week and when they stepped on to the diamond they were in midseason form as was demonstrated in the game. They played practically errorless ball for nine innings to earn the shut-out. Smith at first base covered miles of ground and turned in a pretty game. Ross on second was not far behind, travelling once behind first to nab a pretty fly for a neat put-out. Montgomery at centre field did not encourage any long hits in that direction while E. Vinette in left made a pretty catch of Delahey's drive and threw to third to catch Goodson. Dorrington on third and Ward at short rounded out a perfect infield. The rally of the Harrison men was brought to a close by Batten, Westclox shortstop, who made a one-hand string catch of Smith's fly.

Delahey hurled nice ball for the Hillmen with the exception of the eighth innings, and had three strikeouts to his credit. Goodson at centre field took everything in hand that came his way. With a little more practice the 'Clocks should give Harrisons a good run for their money. If the rest of the games are anything like the one last night, the softball league this year is going to be one to be remembered. Last night's fixture kept the crowd on their toes as both teams played practically errorless ball which is unusual for an opening softball game.

Western Clock—Batten, s.s.; Goodson, c.f.; Delahey, p.;; Foley, c.; Barrie, 2; Hayden, 3; Field, r.f.; Curry, l.f.; Kitchen, 1b.

Harrison's	101000060—8
Western Clock	000000000—0

Strike-outs—Delahey 3, Dundas 0.

Umpires—Scotty Maudsley and H. Dugan.

Sonnenberg Retains World's Mat Honors

MONTREAL, Que., June 11.—(C.P.)—Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg, once of Dartmouth University and now of Providence, R.I., retained possession of his world's heavyweight wrestling championship before 7,000 spectators at the Mount Royal Arena here last night, throwing Charlie Olsen, Scandinavian challenger, twice within 58 minutes. Sonnenberg took the first in 39:35 minutes after three of his deadly flying tackles had rendered Olsen practically unconscious.

The champion clinched the issue 18 minutes later, levelling Charlie with a headlock that followed another flying tackle.

Four Countries In Semi-Final Round

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 11.— (C.P.)—Davis Cup play in the European zone has reached the semi-final round with Great Britain, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Germany still in the running.

Under the draw, Germany and Czechoslovakia are matched in one-half of the semi-finals and Great Britain and Hungary in the other. Advance forecasts indicate a meeting in the final round between Germany and Great Britain with the latter favored to gain the right to meet the United States in the inter-zone finals at Paris, July 19-20-21. The winner of that series will meet France, the defending holder, in the challenge round at Paris July 26-27-28.

HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS IN THE SPORTS WORLD

BOOSTS AND KNOCKS For EVERYONE

(By "TED" OUTRAM)

YOU NEVER CAN TELL.

The result of the final game in the Public School Baseball League for the championship will illustrate most soundly to the youngsters that a game is never over until the last ball is pitched. The sensational and all unlooked-for rally of Prince of Wales in the final frame that furnished them with eight runs and the victory 9 to 8 over King George, will never be forgotten in Public School annals.

Both teams played clever baseball and proved that the youngsters are not going back in their understanding of the game. Prince of Wales played inside baseball at several points to stave off the steady progress of King George. The catcher, B. Wilson, made a short throw to Kingdon at short one time when there was a man on third, and a runner stole second. Several times nice bunts were sent down in attempts to sacrifice runners.

Scouts for any of the Juvenile City League teams would have found good material among the eighteen players that were fielded. Starr, the diminutive catcher for King George, handled himself like a big leaguer, and the manner in which he talked to the pitcher showed that he had been a close student of Max Swanson's style. Gardiner at first, covered the bag like a veteran. Both pitchers would be an acquisition on any of the minor city teams.

WINNERS BY CLOSE MARGIN.

The McCarthy clan of Hastings, and Dr. Hamilton's men of Bethany played smart baseball in their E.P.L. game last night. The game went far to substantiate the claim that there will be keen competition in this league this year. The teams appear very evenly-balanced the way they have lined up so far. The Cogs are out in front because they have a crew of seasoned players and they got the jump on the others by getting in early season practises. But Crescents and the two county teams will come on as the season advances.

Although Bethany won last night, it was by a close margin, 6 to 4, and the story will likely be changed when Bethany goes down east. Scriver for Hastings pitched a sterling game. He is going better on every start.

SOFTBALL FANS SATISFIED.

It is stated that the opening game in the Softball League furnished the many fans that clustered Central School grounds with a smart exhibition The nine innings were raced through in something just over forty-five minutes.

It was even-Stephen until the sixth when the Harrison stalwarts seemed to solve Ab Delahay's delivery ,and got close to him for many hits and six runs. Harrison's made good their threat of being the team that is out to cop the championship for a second time by winning 8 to 0.

GREATEST TEST MATCH BATSMEN.

The question has often been raised in cricket circles as to the best batsmen of all time, and the controversy associated with Dr. W. G. Grace, K. S. Rajitsinhji, Victor T. Trumper, C. G. McCartney, G. A. Faulkner and J. B. Hobbs, is always an interesting one. But when the question is asked: "Who is the greatest Test match batsman of all time," the answer is easy, as at once the name of John Berry Hobbs is announced.

Without doubt, Hobbs has taken his farewell of Australia as a Test batsman, and his record in Test match cricket is phenomenal. Figures recently published in England show that Hobbs, in Test matches in which England, Australia and South Africa have taken part amongst themselves, has scored 4,833 runs, representing in the matter of aggregate 1,433 more runs than his nearest rival, who is Clem Hill, with 3,402.

Ruth Is Going On Fishing Trip

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 11.—(C.P.)—Babe Ruth is going fishing. The big Yankee slugger has asked, and received, permission of his manager, Miller Huggins, to spend a week at a lake and golf course near Washington, where he will rest until just before the Yankees' series with the Philadelphia Athletics, starting June 21.

"I am going to fish and play golf," said Ruth. "Huggins said I might violate the club rule against golf in the playing season. I feel strong enough to go back into our line-up now, but the doctor says I can't take any chances and Huggins agrees with the doctor."

SECOND STRAIGHT FOR THE DRAFTSMEN

Defeats Punch Press Department 12-10 in C.G.E. Softball League Fixture.

The Drafting Room made it two straight wins last night in their second battle of the season by defeating the Punch Press department 12-10 in the C.G.E. softball league.

Both pitchers were very wild and only sterling fielding on the part of the Draw Makers after the first innings saved them from defeat. Allin twirling for the winners issued five free passes and Turley, his opponent walked three.

The teams:—

Umpires—Woods and Raney.

Wire Falls Before Office

The Wire Department team was no match for the heavy hitting Office crew who hammered in 21 runs to win the battle 21-2. Jerry Routley pitched nice ball for the Office and only allowed six runners to reach first base.

The teams:—

Umpire—Cy Hall.

Pete Gavuzzi Again Regains Derby Lead

YUMA, Ariz., June 11.— (C.P.)—Pete Gavuzzi, of England, again was in the lead in elapsed time in the Pyle New York-Los Angeles race at the start of to-day's 50 mile run to Calexico, Calif.

Johnny Salo, Passaic, N.J., who had been in first place for several days, suffered another attack of stomach trouble yesterday and finished the 44.2 mile lap from Wellton in seventh place. Gavuzzi went into the lead by finishin gsecond. Pat Harrison, of Miami, Ariz., was first.

Golf Club Will Hold Field Day On Saturday

The big Field Day of the Beaver Meadow Golf Club will be held this Saturday. All the arangements have been carefully planned by the executive and a complete list of events has been drawn up. Suitable prizes will be awarded and a large turn out of both players and spectators is confidently expected.

The events include: Men's mid-iron competition (4 holes Medal play); ladies' putting competition; ladies approaching competition; men's driving competition; ladies' driving competition; men's approaching competition; ladies' 3. holes medal play; men's putting.

In some parts of Sibera it is a custom to kiss after mass, and old enemies have been reconciled in this manner.

"BROADWAY MELODY."

Packed to capacity for its two shows last night and with a large audience present for the matinee performance of the afternoon, the Capitol Theatre turned them away yesterday, their first day to present the talking movies, or "movietones," as they are termed, in Peterborough.

The big screen at the Capitol has vocalized itself and pushed itself a lot farther forward to the front of the stage, in a laudable desire to be seen and heard that gave its watchers and listeners many a thrill yesterday as they listened to its first attempts in a conversational line. Anyone who listens to the screen now, would be sorry to hear it relapse again into its deaf and dumb state, although, as far as the Vitaphone is concerned, the machine appears to suffer from an acute attack of tonsilitis. A little operation along this lines would improve it immensely.

You can hear them when they cry and when they laugh, even when they swear. There are no reserves to the talkies. The lady who catches her breath, the lovers who kiss, and the gentleman who blows his nose, even the faint whistle of the man who stutters and tries to conceal it in this way; all are audible to the audience. It is a jolly screen, too; at least so far as yesterday's program was concerned. It does a lot of laughing and a lot of jazz shimmying in a delightful little bit of fun called a Paramount Sound Novelty, where a ducky small nigger baby, of the type familiar in the Aesop Film Fables, cavorts through the melody of "Old Black Joe" in a manner that brings applause from a tickled audience. She jazzes up the famous old tune, while an animated ping-pong ball, to the sound of an invisible metronome, marks off the time in the pictured words.

The first words that the Capitol screen spoke for its listeners were a portion of a calling-down scene, when a dark-browed business man with a bullying manner told a lagging salesman just where he got off at. "I want you to go there and no-one else. Sit down. This is your last chance," he tells him, and with these historic words, the talkies made their debut in Peterborough. This film, by the way, demonstrates quite well the new technique of the moving picture screen. It contains a nice little flirtation, and the lady of the piece looks straight out at the camera, very effectively, as he delivers her ultimatum to the ardent suitor. She has extremely good eyes, but the ladies of the silent screen never, by any chance, looked at the camera. They were warned not to. The three salient rules for the deaf and dumb movies were: "Don't look at the camera. Don't move quickly. Don't try to act." If you watch the talkies closely, you will ifnd that these three rules have been shoved into the desert of forgotten things and contrary rules have taken their place.

As for "The Broadway Melody," the feature picture of the program for this week, it is a wonderful piece of work. Here, you have the silent movies, the speaking stage, the musical score of a comedy success, and also the mechanism which controls the equipment back stage, all rolled into one. The talkies embraces them all.

If you go to a musical cemedy, you watch the dancing, hear the singing and the talking. You haven't any chance to see the strings which control the piece, back stage, nor to know anything of the intimate lives of the actors. In the Talkies, in a piece like "The Broadway Melody," they are all on view, and the effect is quite wonderful. Here are the beautiful girls, speaking their parts, and here is the music rolling out from invisible horns; "The Broadway Melody" itself, "The Wedding of the Painted Doll" and "You Were Meant for Me." "The Wedding of the Painted Doll" is one of those superb, colorful bits of musical comedy where nothing has been spared in a gorgeous stage setting, and the voice of a heart-smashing tenor rolls lusciously out as the bride; "see the little cutie, see the little beauty," and the "nervous" bridegroom, and the frolicsome minister who turns cart-wheels as a way of relieving the strain, make their appearance in a jazzy interval.

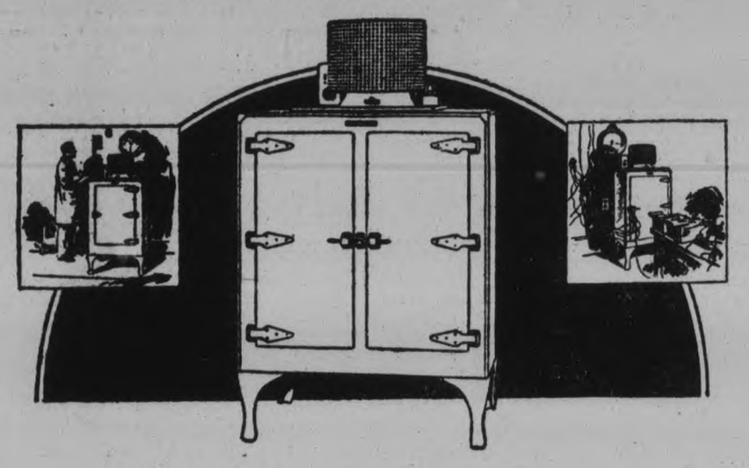
DISTINCTIVELY ELECTRIC



GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

The General Electric Refrigerator, designed and built after fifteen years of painstaking development by the Research Laboratories, is an electrical achievement and the outstanding electric refrigerator. Among the 250,000 users of the General Electric Refrigerators, not one has spent a dollar for service or repairs.

All its mechanism is assembled in an hermetically sealed steel casing and placed up on top, leaving the entire cabinet space for food storage. The mechanism, thus enclosed, is dirt-proof, worry-proof, so automatic you do not even oil it, so quiet you hardly know when the motor is running.

It preserves food always at the scientifically correct temperature, well under 50 degrees. It has an easily accessible temperature control for governing the speed of freezing ice cubes or frozen desserts.

Come to our display rooms and see the new all-steel cabinets that will not warp. You can buy any model on deferred payments.

INSTITUTE HEARS INSTRUCTIVE TALK

Members of Warsaw Society Hear Address On Historical Research.

WARSAW, June 11. — (Examiner Correspondence).—A large number of ladies were present to hear Miss Appelbe on Thursday afternoon in the Institute room. Miss Appelbe is the provincial convenor of the committee on historical research, and gave a talk on the necessity for the work. Until recently, as Miss Appelbe explained, history noted the affairs of large towns and cities and the lives of prominent men.

"Many people do not know much about Confederation, how the country was settled, anything about their forefathers, or how the places where they live got their names.

"Our grandfathers and grandmothers may not have been illustrious people, but they were energetic and brave. We should be proud of them and remember we owe what we have and are to them. Our pioneers are rapidly passing away, and many of these old stories will die with them. Even written material in private hands is often lost."

The speaker told some stories of actual cases where things which should have been remembered were forgotten.

There is necessity for names being properly registered. She cited a case where a girl was registered with one name in the church and another in the registrar's office.

Cases were told of where long lost relatives were found, and sometimes even property rights were proved. She warned her hearers not to allow old records to be destroyed. Learn how, when and why a certain bridge was built, the first mill, the first church, the past industries. Keep in mind how the first houses were built, how provisions were bought, and do not let family traditions die out.

She asked if any one knew where there was an old-time baking oven; also if any one knew of Canadian dishes, and told of one which was made by boiling corn in lye until the outer husky was removed, then rinsing and boiling in milk.

Family re-unions may often be made more complete by means of historical research.

Miss Appelbe had many stories to tell to illustrate every point she made.

After a little sing-song, the meeting was closed and the committee served refreshments, and there was a quiet exchange of news. Several ladies interviewed Miss Appelbe, and among them Mrs. J. A. Crowe. The speaker had mentioned the name of a township where her father had lived with an uncle when a boy. She asked Miss Appelbe if she had ever heard of James Anderson. Miss Applebe had and was able to tell Mrs. Crowe that her great-uncle, James Anderson, had the first cutter in that part of the country and it was painted blue. Thus little interesting family incidents come up.

Ladies' Meet.

The Anglican Ladies' Guild met in the church on Wednesday afternoon when the main business was to arrange for a strawberry social some time near the end of June.

Sectional Meeting Held.

Notice was suddenly given to Warsaw United Church W.M.S. that there would be a sectional meeting in Knox Church, Lakefield, on Tuesday afternoon. The ladies who went were Mrs. Herrington, who gave the report of the convention at Kingston; Miss Charlotte Dewart, Mrs. Sargent and Mrs. David Taylor.

Attend Convention.

Those who attended the Women's Institute district convention from Warsaw were Mesdames Weller, Anderson, A. McQuaig, H. Clements, D. Miller, Miss Valetta Drain and Mrs. Thomas Cooper.

Mrs. T. Cooper was elected district vice-president and Mrs. George Weller district representative.

Begin Work on School.

Work on the new school has begun and W. Darling is drawing sand. The McIlvena property has been purchased and this will make an oblong school ground, fronting on the main street.

Signs Erected.

The Warsaw signs made by V. Jackson and T. Douglas have been erected at the three main roads leading from Warsaw. On nearing the village the visitors sees, "Warsaw, the Gateway to Stoney Lake," and leaving it, a sign with the words, "Till We Meet Again." This work was done through the courtesy of the Women's Institute.

KILLED ON UNFINISHED HIGHWAY

TORONTO, Ont., June 11. — The third person killed on the unfinished highway at Mimico is Cleo Froat, 24, Hespeler, who died on the way to the hospital here after his motorcycle collided with a truck yesterday. This is the same spot where the death occurred of Edward Gross which a coroner's jury blamed "on those responsible for the unfinished condition of the highway."

Henry Scott, this city, was fatally injured there five weeks ago.

WHETHER you are entertaining company or are just by yourselves, serve fresh, tangy salads during the warm summer months and win a reputation as a charming hostess and a capable housewife.

Be most particular about your salad dressings. Every salad dressing—French, Mayonnaise, Thousand Island, Russian, Cream or Boiled Dressing—needs the racy, appetizing flavour that Keen's Mustard alone can give.

Use Keen's Mustard in all your salad dressings and thus make sure that your salads are appetizing and flavourful.

Salad Secrets FREE—Send for a copy of our book, "Salad Secrets", containing recipes for many new delightful salads.

BOILED DRESSING

Into a ½ cup of milk put 2 tablespoonfuls of sugar, 1 tablespoonful of flour, 2 teaspoonfuls of Keen's Mustard, ½ teaspoonful of salt. Stir the mixture smooth and add to a ½ cup of cream already heated. Cook resulting mixture over boiling water until thick, then add the beaten yolks of two eggs and ¼ cup of vinegar. Cook for 3 minutes more. When using dilute with whipped cream if desired.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: West's double of the Club is a normal negative double. North's bid directly over the double shows a particularly strong Spade suit; but South, with the singleton Deuce, denies twice, once with No Trump and again with three Clubs, desiring the opening lead to come up to him rather than through him to the high cards in West's hand shown by his double.

West considers doubling North's three Spade bid but decides to pass it, because, though his holding looks to him as good for two Spade tricks, two Hearts and a Diamond but one Heart trick would be forthcoming should the King be in North's hand. Moreover, three Spades doubled would give North game, should he make the contract. Also, doubles, more particularly positive doubles are sometimes boomerangs in that they furnish information to the opponents as to the location of high card strength of such value as frequently to cost a trick.

Contract: Because of the strength shown by West's informatory double of one Club, North cannot jump to a high Spade bid without feeling out whether or not South holds strength outside of Clubs. Consequently North makes a forcing take-out bid of two Spades to demand a further bid from South. Should South, in response, rebid Clubs, he would simply be furnishing North with information already given. Consequently South infers that North's demand for a further bid was predicated upon his desire to obtain information regarding South's side strength. Therefore South bids two No Trumps. North, reading the bid as indicating some strength in Hearts and Diamonds, bids four Spades. West doubles positively counting his own hand as worth at least four, possibly five tricks, against a Spade bid.

The Play

East opens the Jack of Hearts which, winning, he follows with the 10 of Hearts, which North trumps. North leads a low Diamond and Dummy's 10 forces West's Ace. West leads the Ace of Hearts, North trumping. North puts South in with the Jack of Diamonds and then leads Dummy's Deuce of trumps for a finesse, which wins. North leads the Queen of Diamonds and Dummy's King holds the trick. Declarer leads Dummy's Ace and King of Clubs, followed by a third Club, upon which West discards a Diamond and North plays the 6 of trumps. North leads the 7 of trumps, West winning with the 9. North, in tenace position over West's King-10 of trumps, takes the last two tricks. Declarer therefore makes four Spades, the adversaries winning but one Spade, one Heart and one Diamond trick.

BESSIE LOVE and ANITA PAGE in "THE BROADWAY MELODY"

At the Capitol All This Week

CAPACITY HOUSE VIEWS SHOWING OF THE TALKIES

centers about the stage career of the two Mahoney sisters, "Hank" (Bessie Love) and Queenie (Anita Page), the latter a beautiful, and very dumb, blonde. Her good looks bring her instant success as a picturesque adjunct to a Broadway success for which Eddie Kearns (Charles King), her sister's lover, has written the theme song and sings it in solo. The two girls are very much attached to each other, and when Eddie and Queenie fall in love, Queenie decided, in order to save her sister's feelings, to conduct an affair with a wealthy stage-door John who offers her everything from a diamond bracelet to a Rolls-Royce and a handsome apartment. Things happen in quick succession. The progress of the musical comedy is cluttered up with the heart-burnings and jealousies of the trio, but things fthally simmer down to normal and the show goes on in a shimmer of life and sound.

It is a notable introduction of the talkies in Peterborough and it holds the rapt attention of its watchers right to the last musical, vivid moment.

"Silence is Golden," appears on the sign which greets the patron, as he or she enters the theatre. But the inevitable baby who is such a constant attendant at public performance of all kinds can do a lot to spoil the effect of the talking films, as was demonstrated at the matinee yesterday. However, the growing youth must be educated and possibly a portion of the upbringing of infants requires their attendance at premieres of talking films.

The successor of the person who used to read the titles aloud from moving films, has been found for the Talkies. She is the lady, or the gentleman, who repeats the words of the performers just after they have spoken, for the benefit of the slightly deaf companion who sits beside her or him.—Jeanette.

In Police Court

The silent enigma, who formerly had been called William Burke, on remand on a charge of vagrancy, appeared before Magistrate Langley in police court this morning. This man previously had proved to be a "talkless wonder," and the magistrate and police officials spent a good twenty minutes striving to get something from him this morning. It was useless, the man would not talk, but kept moving toward the door, as though anxious to shake police court dust from his feet.

He did spell out his name in an almost inaudible whisper and it was Wiliam Berthieaum. But that was all.

After the magistrate had plied him for several minutes patiently with questions, oft repeated, he asked: "Can you understand me? Do you know anything?"

"He always knows when it's time to eat," said the sergeant.

The man was told that if he pleaded guilty to the charge of vagrancy he would be allowed his freedom if he left the city. At this me moved cautiously toward the exit, but said nothing.

Failing to get a word from him it was finally decided to take him out of the city and let him go free. As the sergeant was leading him out the door, he turned and said to the magistrate with a grin, "We'll hand him over to the "talkies."

Berthieaum was conveyed in the police car about three miles out of the city on the Port Hope highway and there told to get out. Last seen he was winding his way over the hills at a swinging gait that marked him as an old Knight of the Road.

NO PROFIT TO GAIN WORLD AND LOSE SOUL

President of Canadian Manufacturers Association Urges Quality in Immigration.

PROSPERITY REVIEWED.

Halifax, N. S., June (By the Canadian Press)—Quality, not quantity, should be the guiding principle in immigration, declared L. W. Simms, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in his review at the annual meeting of the association which was held last week.

Mr. Simms said one of the mottoes that might very profitably be kept before the country was, "What shall it profit Canada if she gain the whole world and lose her own soul?" No nation, he declared, had so fine an opportunity to build into its human stock the best physical, mental and spiritual life that the world had ever known, this by a process of assimilation that conversed and elevated the high ideals in our native citizenship and imparted these ideals to those selected newcomers whose traditions were not too far removed from our own to prevent their thus adding to our total strength.

That it had been an exceedingly pleasant year in which to have been president was Mr. Simms' opening remark. Marked prosperity and progress in every section of Canada had created an atmosphere at every point visited that had lent zest to each occasion. He noted that through the increasing opportunities for studying trade and financial conditions and statistics, a broad educational process was going on. Among other things this helped to reach the interdependence of all economic factors. Thus a new realization was being brought home to thoughtful people throughout Canada that there could not be one policy that was good for the West and not good for the East or the reverse; or good for the agriculturist and not for the manufacturer or consumer.

Great Field Ahead.

In the board field of production, embracing both rural and urban efforts he felt that there lay great and, as yet, hardly touched opportunities for an unselfish pooling of effort toward the general well-being. One of the most basic of economic truths was the inseparable interdependence of all who produce, distribute and consume. "When men come to fully realize this," declared Mr. Simms, "both the manufacturer and the agriculturist, having passed through a Gold cure for selfishness, will cease to allow their relationship to pivot around the bargain counter of mere price and will concentrate on a joint effort to reduce drudgery and enhance efficiency for the man and woman on the farm and in the factory. Why should we have such difficulty in perceiving that, when brains are used to lighten labor on farm or in factory, costs are inevitably lowered and purchasing power heightened for all of us; also that these opportunities are so tremendous and so challenging as to demand the attention of all in earnest co-operation?"

Referring to the difficulties through which the Maritime Provinces, once the most prosperous section of British North America, and passed, Mr. Simms noted that when once the belated Maritime agitation had got under way it was a natural question for people to ask, "What is wrong with the Maritime Provinces?" The real question however was, "What is wrong with Canada that such a chronic condition could continue to exist for so many years?" In his opinion the Federal government was deliberately placed on an eminence in order to keep the whole social and economic life of the people in proper perspective. This involved keeping to the forefront such questions as, are the people of each section afforded the best opportunity, through provisions that are controllable, to develop and apply their best potential capacities in the place where they lived? Are they given the best opportunities to develop their natural resources? Do these opportunities insure a standard of living equal to that in other sections, opportunities that will attract and hold strong native sons? So far as the Maritimes were concerned it was his conviction that they could in a shorter time than was dreamed of to-day, if backs were put into it as a nation, discover unsuspected economic opportunities in these provinces which would attract boys from any other province to come down and share in these enterprises. "And," he declared, "until the opportunities in any section look attractive to other sections, they are not as attractive as they ought to be for the good of the section itself and the whole dominion."

A shifting of perspective with regard to centralization was necessary on the part of those in control of large factors in financial, production and commercial fields. Few in industry but had no more than one occasion been approached by promoters who had held out the alluring prospects of a combination, with a long list of theoretical economic advantages. There might be factors in individual cases that made such a course justifiable, but the spectre of empty plants—and there were many in the Maritimes—well nigh empty streets and broken family circles were also facts that it behooved manufacturers to weigh very carefully, not only that they might not be sacrificed too cheaply on the altar of manipulation or even economic efficiency but to be sure that at such a price, in the long run, real economic gain would be achieved.

Touching on the progress of the "Produced-in-Canada" movement, Mr. Simms mentioned as outstanding in the year's record, the attitude of the two great railway companies who had not only been insistent on the purchase of Canadian products for their vast requirements but had by their direct influence brought into being the manufacture of new products, not previously made in this country.

He spoke with appreciation of the effort of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind in placing blind people in industry. They were working on the theory that the proper handling of this problem would demonstrate that the great majority of blind people could be soundly-self-sustaining when given the proper opportunity. Difficulty had been encountered due to prejudices but there were now a large number of successful demonstrations of the theory within the industries of the members of the association and he believed it was the desire of the association that every assistance be lent towards the successful completion of the programme.

Referring to the prominent place taken by the C. M. A. in the promotion of technical education, with its result in an unprecedented per capita production in Canada, he pointed out that whatever such education might have lacked in cultural curricula, it was inevitably laying the only practical foundation for the economic freedom without which no widespread true culture was attainable. Many were, however, becoming more concerned that, in leading groups into greater efficiency in making a living, there should be greater clearness as to what we were really living for. Education was life, not alone in the school, but beyond, and in this connection he quoted Roger Babson: "We are giving too much time to teaching the incidentals of life and too little to teaching the fundamentals of life. As young people are given more material, political and intellectual power, they must have more spiritual power to correspond or civilization gets top-heavy and out of balance."

As to the work of the League of Nations, Mr. Simms claimed that exactly the same principles of intercourse and acquaintance that were so evidently essential to national accord must operate in the League if they were to exert any important influence toward world peace. Also, the League's influence for peace would be in proportion to the righteousness that characterized its members.

If "independence" was the catchword when the United States budded into nationhood, "inter-dependence" was the foundation stone on which Canada was being built, Mr. Simms continued. In this word Canadians had no limiting, isolating conception, but one which, applied in the home made better citizens of the community; applied in the community, better fitted for the responsibility of nationhood, and applied in the nation made, the people more worthy to participate in affairs of the Empire and of the world itself.

Concluding on a high note, Mr. Simms said: "The only outstanding democracies, with one exception, that have survived to-day are those cradled in the British stock. This is not because Britain is the Mother of Parliaments, but because so many of her sons came nearer than any other people since the earliest Christian era in applying the teachings of Christ to their individual lives and their daily affairs and in their sacrificial application discovered them to be the most profound principles of economics ever laid down for human guidance."

Incredible Number of Illnesses Have Origin in Faulty Diet

The medical profession knows today that most of all ills can be traced almost directly to faulty diet. Modern foods, prepared to please the appetite, too often lack the precious elements which the body needs for its proper nourishment.

Grape-Nuts was deliberately designed to overcome this. Grape-Nuts has a distinctly different, delicate, nut-like flavour that is the favourite of millions of people the world over. Made from whole wheat and malted barley, Grape-Nuts contains a wealth of body nourishment. It supplies five of the essential elements of nutrition: dextrins, maltose and other carbohydrates for energy; iron for the blood; phosphorus for teeth and bone; protein for muscle and body-building; and the important Vitamin-B.

Grape-Nuts is made by a special baking process which leaves it ready for quick, easy assimilation. Its form—crisp, nut-like grains—is an added advantage, for Grape-Nuts must be chewed, thus giving healthful exercise to teeth and gums.

How's Your Digestion?

If you've had digestive troubles, one of the finest foods you can eat is Grape-Nuts. First of all it is specially prepared for easy digestion—baked for twenty-two hours. Then it is crisp and crunchy—so delightfully so that it encourages you to chew it so that you may completely enjoy its wonderful nut-like flavour—and this gives the needed stimulus to the digestive juices in mouth and stomach. Why not start eating it at breakfast tomorrow?

on the say-so of millions

YOU'LL love the delicate, different, nut-like flavour of Grape-Nuts! And Grape-Nuts is so good for you—gives your body five important nutritive elements. And in easily-digested form. In crisp, crunchy form—to tempt you to give healthful exercise to teeth and gums through chewing.

Tell your grocer to include Grape-Nuts in this week's order. Serve it right from the wax-wrapped package—with milk or cream. And save money by eating Grape-Nuts. A serving is four teaspoonfuls—costing less than one cent.

OBITUARY

MRS. HARRY BALLARD

The many friends in Peterborough and vicinity of Marion Tebb, beloved wife of Harry Ballard of Port Hope, will be sorry to learn of her sudden death. The deceased came to Canada from England about ten years ago, residing in Peterborough until two years ago when she moved with her husband to Port Hope. She was in her thirty-fifth year. Although she was in Canada a very few years, she had made a host of friends.

The funeral was held Sunday, June 2, from the Jackson-Smith funeral parlors in Port Hope. Many of the members of the local A.O.F. Lodge and the Vimy Ridge Lodge to which she belonged, attended the funeral in Port Hope, along with numerous friends from Peterborough.

MRS. GERTRUDE WILKINSON

The funeral of Mrs. Gertrude Wilkinson will be held on Thursday at 8.45 a.m. from the Church of the Sacred Heart to St. Peter's Cemetery.

HERBERT CROUTER

Herbert Maxwell Crouter, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Ormond Crouter, died at their home, 20 New Chamberlain street, to-day. The child was born in North Monaghan. He was one year old.

The funeral will be from his home to Little Lake Cemetery, at 3.30, June 12. Rev. J. D. Paterson will conduct the service.

THOMAS BILLINGS

The death of Thomas Billings, who was born in Peterborough and lived here for 40 years, occurred in Detroit on June 5. He was aged 75.

The deceased was the son of Sergt.-Major and Mrs. Billings of Peterborough who have predeceased him. While in Peterborough he was a painter by trade. He served in the Northwest Rebellion in 1885. A widow, four sons and two daughters survive him.

The funeral was held on June 8 in Detroit.

WILLIAM ROBERTS.

Mr. Roberts was a highly esteemed and respected resident of the city and township, for the past 22 years. He was a man of real Christian character, always ready and willing to do a kindly act and assist a neighbor in any way possible, and in all his dealings with his fellow man he never fogot the "Golden Rule."

He was born in the County of Norfolk, England, Feb. 6, 1850, the oldest of a family of ten children of whom three are still living. On September 29th, 1870, he was united in marriage to his now bereaved widow, and came to Canada in April, 1873, settling near Grafton, Township of Haldimand, where he followed farming, and moved to Peterborough in the spring of 1907.

To this happy marriage there was born eight children, seven boys and one girl, of which four boys are still living: John of Grafton; Fred of Cobourg; Charles, of Welcome, and Albert at home. On September 29, 1920, surrounded by their surviving children and a number of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts celebrated the anniversary of their golden wedding.

Mr. Roberts was a valued and esteemed member of Mark street United church, a Liberal in politics, and a real good citizen.

The funeral will be held from his late residence, Beaver Mead Farm on Thursday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, to the Little Lake Cemetery, conducted by his pastor, Rev. Mr. Thornley.

BIRTH.

ELMHIRST.— At Nicholls Hospital, on June 7, to Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Elmhirst (nee Phyllis Borland), of Indian River, a son.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

NO FIRE CALLS.

No calls were received by the Fire Department yesterday afternoon or this morning.

HIGH IN THE WORLD.

The workmen who are busy on the top of the tower of St. Peter's Cathedral unquestionably hold the highest job in Peterborough. They have been at work now for more than two weeks in their elevated position.

ENTIRELY AT HOME.

A group of pedestrians on George Street yesterday afternoon displayed great interest in the activities of a workman in the new Kresge building. A man was to be seen strolling along a girder up on the second floor level in a very nonchalant manner, and smoking contentedly. Although the girder was only a few inches in width the individual seemed to be as much at home as those who walked on the street below. The feat was evidently harder on the pedestrians than on the workman.

RECORD ATTENDANCES.

When the Capitol screen came to life yesterday, the event was greeted by record crowds. In the afternoon the theatre was filled to overflowing. At the seven o'clock performance patrons began to assemble about six-thirty, and a long line-up waited for the nine o'clock performance. At this hour there were queues waiting on George Street as far south as the Grand Opera House and as far north as Barrie's northern entrance. Some of the disappointed patrons learned that the theatre had been sold out before they could purchase their tickets and turned home.

GRADUATION CLASS.

The nurses of the graduation class from Nicholls Hospital posed for their portraits at the Roy Studio this morning. A group picture of the class was taken with the candidates in their graduation uniforms, as well as individual pictures of the members, were taken.

Any photographer would have been glad to have had a photo of a group of the nurses as they stood in front of the studio on Hunter Street this morning as they made a very becoming sight with their huge bouquets of flowers.

BEAUTIFY SMALL LAWNS.

Work was in progress this morning on the strip of grass in front of the bill boards, located between Coleman' paint store and the Bethany Tabernacle on George Street. This once velvety piece of grass so far this year has been neglected, and had grown a rich crop of fuzzy dandelions, but a man was busy on the green this morning with a lawn mower and rake whipping it into an attractive lawn.

REPAINTING BILL BOARDS.

H. Rose and W. Rose, Peterborough painters, have been busy for the past few days renovating the frames around the bill boards of the E. L. Ruddy Company. These painters have been applying a soothing color of green to the woodwork, and to-day, with about a dozen more signboards to paint, they expect to complete their work.

WILL ASSIST IN PARADE.

The Victoria and Haliburton Regiment will bring 150 men to Peterborough to assist in the celebration of Old Home Week in the city. A call for volunteers in that district has been very heartily answered.

The Lindsay Post says: "The Victoria and Haliburton Regiment's call for recruits received a hearty response, and already more than 100 men have signified their intention of going to Peterborough with the Regiment for three days beginning with June 29 and ending on the evening of the first of July.

"Only 150 men can be taken from here, and it is expected that the required number will have signed up to go by to-morrow night."

ERECT SUPPORT.

Workmen of the Peterborough Utilities were busy yesterday afternoon erecting a support for the pole at the corner of Hunter and George Streets. This pole takes a great deal of the strain of the wires, as it is the last one on the line.

IMPROVING STREETS

A crew of men from the Board of Works was busy filling up the pitfalls in the Charlotte Street pavement yesterday afternoon. The oiler from the Municipal Oiling and Spraying Company of Toronto also was noticed on the city streets. A great deal is being done to put the streets in shape for the summer.

NO PARKING PROBLEMS.

Some cities have been experiencing annoyance because drivers of automobiles have persisted in parking their cars all night along the streets. This trouble is not met with in Peterborough, according to police authority. Dealers used to leave their cars parked along the streets, but this has been cleared up to a favorable degree. Most people now have their own garages or park their cars in the yards or somewhere off the streets.

You will find many things in the Classified Ads. of The Examiner.

MUSICAL SERVICE IS SUCCESSFUL

Park Street Baptist Church Hold Special Service Sunday Afternoon.

The first of a series of musical services was held in the Park Street Baptist Church Sunday afternoon and proved to be very successful.

Special musical numbers were provided and were much appreciated.

Two violin solos were rendered by Mr. Roy Rome; two vocal solos by Master Orvil Wainman, Peterborough's boy soprano, and two selections by the St. James' Male Quartette.

The Pastor, the Rev. J. L. Harton, B.Th., discoursed on "The Autos and Steam Cars of the Bible," or the tragedies of time, which proved very interesting and helpful.

Next week the musical part of the service will be supplied by the Peterborough Male Voice Choir.

encomiums you have heaped upon me, but I cannot persuad myself they they are merited."

Other directors of the C.P.R. accompanying Mr. Beatty were Grant Hall, vice-president; Hon. Mr. Beique, W. A. Black, Sir Herbert Holt, H. McMaster, Col. Frank Meighen, James A. Richardson, Lord Shaughnessy, and W. N. Tilley.

the budget speech of Mr. Bennett had been so long delayed. The Conservative leader had been exercised over the action of the United States' Congress which was attempting to determine how much more it could tax the milk, butter and bread required by the people of that country. Canada would take care of the new tariff situation as she had in the past, "in the light of events." Canada was not trading with the United States alone, but with all the world. This country believed that it could best improve its trade within the British Empire. The leader of the Opposition was careful not to go into details as to where our trade would stop. Until the Opposition was more definite as to just what its policy was, the Minister of Finance thought the business of the House should be proceeded with and the necessary supply voted.

The tariff discussion was interjected into the Commons this forenoon on a motion to go into supply when the estimates are up for consideration. At the conclusion of Mr. Robb's speech, the debate terminated and the House went into supply.

Orchestra Uniforms Supplied By Sharpe

Ken Morris and his Playing Parsons at Chemong Pavilion, appeared recently completely attired in snappy clothes secured at Al Sharpe's store. These suits are in the latest single-breasted style of light weight for summer wear. They are a brownish tan in color and the red ties worn with them blend nicely. To complete the ensemble the players have brown and tan sport shows. The seven members of the orchestra make a pleasing appearance in this up-to-the-minute garb.

BASEBALL GOSSIP

The Petes will travel to Oshawa to-morrow for a league game with Manager Ike Sutton's crew, who are at present leading the Central loop a half game ahead of the local talent.

The team will leave LeBarr's at one o'clock sharp.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Harry Kinney, who passed away 11th June, 1926.

I am thinking of you to-day, dear Harry Thinking of the past,
Picturing you in memory,
Just as I saw you last.
You left behind an aching heart
That loved you most sincere,
That never did, nor ever will,
Forget you, Harry dear.
Not dead to us who loved you,
But only gone before.

RUM RUNNERS DECLARE WAR

JUNIOR MINISTRY IS APPROVED BY ENGLISH PEOPLE

Dr. Addison, Secretary to Minister of Agriculture, Received Special Request to Join.

NOTABLE APPOINTMENTS.

LONDON, June 12.—(By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent). — Filling of the twenty-two junior posts in the new Labor ministry obviously caused Premier MacDonald as much anxiety as the bestowal earlier of the major offices but again he receives at least the implied congratulations of his political opponents. The names of the junior ministers were announced last night.

Among the most notable of the new appointees, perhaps are Rt. Hon. Dr. C. Addison, formerly Minister of Health under Lloyd George, who now becomes parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of Agriculture, Miss Susan Lawrence, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Health. Addison is rather vividly remembered as the first minister in charge of housing when the shortage here was most acute. During the recent election Mr. Lloyd George roundly asserted Addison "got the sack" for incompetence to which Addison retorted he had resigned because Lloyd George "surrendered to reaction" and failed to support him, Addison, in his plans.

Request by Premier

It was announced to-day Dr. Addison takes office at the urgent special request of the Prime Minister to promote various agricultural schemes in the preparation of which he has taken an active part.

Miss Susan Lawrence is the second woman in the ministry and has abilities which many on all sides of politics deemed to be such as might have carried her into the cabinet at the start. No doubt her present appointment indicates she is destined for such advancement

Place Guns on River Boats

"Big Shots" From Chicago Will Match Wits and Guns With Patrols.

FIREWORKS HAVE STARTED.

Man Who Knows "The Racket" Says Officers' Fire Will Be Answered.

WINDSOR, Ont., June 12.—(C.P.)—"Big Shots" in the liquor racket from Chicago are to match wits and guns with the United States coast guard cutters and customs border patrols in the new offensive against the Detroit River and Lake Erie rum running enterprises, and Lewis machine guns are to guard the cargoes it was learned to-day.

This did not come as a direct threat to the prohibition enforcement officials of the United States but as a plain statement of purpose and outline of campaign mapped out by persons in the contraband liquor business whose identity cannot be revealed for obvious reasons at this juncture.

Fireworks have Started.

The law enforcement crews in American waters and not the rum-runners, started the fireworks display along the Detroit River, it was charged by these interests, and it was the claim of one man who for several years has been identified actively with the shipment of liquor from Essex border docks to foreign United States gunboats have seemed all too eager to fire at suspected craft. This man knows the "racket" because he has handled liquor into forbidden territory.

The enforcement details, he said, whether coast guards or customs, have fired repeatedly within recent weeks at our rum runners without hailing them or giving them an opportunity to surrender. But in this connection he added that the patrols "got a taste of their own medicine a few nights ago."

FLYERS MAKE TRIAL FLIGHT

WEATHER IS FAVORABLE.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, June 12 (Canadian Press). — Captain Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish flyer, who is on a trans-Atlantic trip from Stockholm to New York, made a trial flight this morning testing repairs made after his arrival here from a forced landing at Skaftaros late on Sunday.

When the Swedish airmen took off, it was first thought they were headed for Greenland on the third lap of their flight, but the flyers soon came back. The flight was made in order to test repairs made on the plane's cooling apparatus.

The cooler was taken from the engine after her return this morning. Mechanics brought it ashore saying it was possible to repair the cooler here, and they could finish the repairs to-day. Captain Albin Ahrenberg was informed, however, that the weather outlook toward Greenland was favorable.

Postponement of the departure of the Swedish aviators on the third lap of their flight from Stockholm to New York was made until to-morrow. The cooler caused great trouble to the flyers in their three attempts to get away to Greenland yesterday. They said they had to adopt the expedient of pouring coffee from their bottles into the cooler when returning from their last attempt.

ELECTORS GO TO POLLS IN SOUTH AFRICA

Many Constituencies Have Been Divided Since Last Election.

STALEMATE IS FEARED.

Defeat of Several Labor Ministers Is Expected in Rural Seats.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, June 12 (C. P. Cable via Reuter's). — Today's general election in South Africa is expected to be a prolific producer of surprises and even sensations. Fifteen entirely new constituencies have been carved out of former ridings and many other retain their old names though with greatly changed boundaries. There are many instances where the transfer of a homogeneous group of two or three hundred voters may change the political complexion of a constituency. This chiefly applies in the country ridings where the trend of opinion is most difficult to predict.

The best prophets class from forty to fifty seats as doubtful of which about half, it is generally thought, will return government supporters while the other half will go to the South African party. All the ministers except the Labor members of the government represent country constituencies and it is on the cards that two or three may be defeated.

Outlook Less Doubtful

In the towns the outlook is less doubtful. The urban constituencies with the exception of those in the Rand district are generally expected to be solid for the Opposition party, with some loss from Labor to the South African party, and even on the Rand that party may make a few gains from the Laborites.

The general opinion is the National Council of the Labor party, which seceded from the "pact" government will be wiped out and the "pact" faction will be much weakened. The result of the British elections make the idea of a stalemate popular with the man in the street, but political experts and calculating prophets were never more cautious than in this

MARTIAL LAW IS ENFORCED

No Further Trouble Is Expected in the Dutch West Indies.

GOVERNOR RELEASED.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Dutch West Indies, June 12 (C.P.).—Martial law is being enforced here until every danger of repetition of Saturday night's successful raid by Venezuelan filibusters is past.

The Governor of Curacao, who was kidnapped by the raiders Saturday night and forced to accompany them as a hostage to the Venezuelan coast where he was released, said he was confident the additional precautions would frustrate any further attempts by either Venezuelan rebels outside the colony or those possibly still on the island.

Publication of news that Dutch warships were en route here from Holland with marine detachments to furnish additional protection has served further to allay public anxiety.

DAY IN PARLIAMENT.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 12 — The House of Commons will discuss estimates.

Yesterday in Parliament

The Senate met and deferred consideration of amendments to the Criminal Code until Thursday.

The House of Commons considered estimates for the Departments of Agriculture and Interior, but only ar item of $2,050,000 for experimental farm was passed. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Leader of the Opposition, discussed the tariff question, as it was affected by recent amendments to the United States Tariff Act. The House gave third reading to nine divorce bills.

BRUSSELS SUGGESTED AS HEAD

BRUSSELS, June 12.—Suggestion of the experts committee on reparations at Paris that this capital be made the seat of the proposed International Bank of Settlement has met a sympathetic reception here by the Government, which already is preparing for that eventuality.

Countries Fyle Protests Against New U. S. Tariff

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 12. A formal note from France protesting against the proposal to increase tariffs on certain French products imported into the United States has been delivered to the State Department by Ambassador Claudel.

Formal protests against the tariff also have been filed by Spain, Italy and Persia, and retaliatory action has been urged in these countries as well as France. More than a dozen nations have forwarded material through the State Department for the consideration of the House Ways and Means and Senate Finance committees.

BELMONT MAN FREED BY JURY

Crown Fails To Prove Arson Charge Against John J. Maloney.

DEFENCE PRESENT CASE.

"Not guilty" was the verdict brought in at 12.35 p.m. to-day in the case of the King versus John J. Maloney, of Belmont township, charged with arson at the General Sessions of the Peace at the Court House. The jury had been out forty minutes when they brought in their decision freeing the men.

W. F. Huycke, lawyer for the defence, made a strong plea for his client lasting forty minutes, in which he stated that most of the evidence brought in had shown mutual illfeeling between the father, John J. Maloney, his wife and the children, but little to prove that the accused had actually set fire to his own home.

Defence Presents Case.

The evidence for the defence was short, only five witnesses being called, who mostly gave testimony to the high character of the accused. Fred Johnston, an auctioneer, who knew the accused well, was the first witness called. He was with the accused when the cheques for the sale were cashed and the accused had put the money in his pocket, not depositing it in the bank.

W. C. Hubble, a merchant and Justice of the Peace at Marmora, next called, stated that he adjusted the transfer of property from a Mr. Flynn to the accused. The accused was to have had nearly $900 on his person on May 7 to make the final payment for some lots in Marmora to Mr. Flynn.

Cross-examiner the witness stated that the accused had agreed to pay $2,000 for the four lots in Marmora. This he considered quite sufficient for the property, but he refused to say that it was too much when pressed by Acting Crown Attorney McElderry. He admitted that there were four years of arrears in taxes against the lots. The accused had appeared before the court at Marmora charged with swearing on the public highway.

Calvine Yeoman lived near the accused and saw him throw water on the car house the morning of the fire.

Worth Over $2,000.

Clarence Fitzpatrick, also a neighbor of the accused, stated that the value of the burned house was easily $2,000. He saw the accused on the morning of the fire standing by the car house with a pail of water and the accused had thrown water on a burning post in the fence. He stated that John, son of the accused, had told him on the morning of the fire that when John had first seen his father he (the accused) was carrying two pails of water.

W. A. Richardson, the insurance agent, recalled by the defence, stated that there were two men accompanying the accused when he visited his home the night after the fire. The accused had stated that he did not want the insurance money because his family would swear anything against him.

This concluded the case and the jury retired to bring in the verdict at 12.35.

Another jury was immediately empanelled and the case against John S. Moore of Warsaw, on a charge of arson commenced.

NO CONTRACT SIGNED

OTTAWA, Ont., June 12—No contract has been signed between the government and the Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company in respect to the proposed power development on the St. Lawrence, between Lake St. Louis and Lake St. Francis, but negotiations are under way. This statement was made in the House of Commons this morning by Hon. J. C. Elliott, Minister of Public Works, in reply to a question by A. N. Smith (Liberal-Stormont).

HEAVY SLATE PRESENTED TO JUDGE HUYCKE

CROWN ATTORNEY ABSENT.

Five Criminal Cases and Several Civil Actions on Docket For June Sessions.

The Spring sittings of the General Sessions of the Peace opened at the Court House before His Honor Judge Huycke yesterday afternoon at one o'clock. A large slate of cases including five breaches of the Criminal Code and several civil actions awaited the attention of this court. It is confidentially predicted by court officials that the sittings will last all week.

Adjournment did not take place until 6.30 and a great deal of work was accomplished. Nine applications for naturalization were heard. The Grand Jury sworn in and a true bill brought out in the case of John J. Maloney who is charged with arson. A petty jury was sworn in and the complete case for the prosecution heard.

In an eloquent address to the Grand Jury, His Honor Judge Huycke briefly outlined the seriousness of their duties both in weighing the evidence in the criminal cases and in making their report on their inspection of county buildings and institutions. He regretted the absence of Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton K.C. and hoped for his speedy recovery from illness. He announced that V. J. McElderry K. C., had been appointed Acting Crow Attorney.

Comments on Youth of Prisoners

In reading the report of the county goal His Honor commented on the comparative youth of the nine prisoners confined. Three are on remand, and of the six serving sentence, three are nineteen, one eighteen, one in his twenties, one thirty and the other in his fifties. Three have been convicted of theft; one of receiving stolen goods, and the other two breaches of the Liquor Control Act.

In a brief outline of the criminal cases to be tried His Honor stated that two were for arson, one alleged to have been done in Warsaw and the other near Havelock. A strange similarity in both these cases was remarked, in that each man was charged with having set fire to his own dwelling. Usually when a man sets fire to his own building as a means to defraud someone, it is to be considered just as bad as though he had burnt another man's place, said the Judge.

In speaking of the other criminal cases it was declared that there was too much shooting going on in the county. The Judge characterized the other three cases as of a painful nature, since two young boys are charged with shooting with intent to maim several Indians. "The shooting occurred on the river or the lake and arose from the old dispute concerning trapping rights," stated His Honor.

Respect for the War Memorial

In concluding his address Judge Huycke said, "We realize that we are beginning to live in another age. Those of us who were living twenty years ago had little idea of what would take place. The Great War has passed into history; but a beautiful War Memorial to the glory of those 717 young men of this county who laid down their lives for you and me has been erected on Confederation Square. This memorial should be looked to with pride by your children and mine for the deeds that our Canadian boys accomplished."

He referred to the unveiling of the Memorial on Sunday, June 30, stating that it should be a red letter day in the history of Peterborough County.

The Grand Jury brought in a true bill against John J. Maloney for arson at 3.25 p.m., the Petty Jury was immediately sworn and the witnesses for the Crown called.

It was stated that the accused was very deaf. The charge read as follows:—In Belmont Township on May 7, 1929, did wilfully without legal justification set fire to his own dwelling contrary to Section 511 of the Criminal Code.

In outlinng the case Acting Crown Attorney McElderry stated that it was one of arson in which the accused was charged with burning down his own house. The motive was to defraud his wife and family of their right to his house. The burning was done as a result of bad temper.

John D. Maloney, 21, son of J. J. Maloney, the accused was the first witness called. He stated that on the morning of the fire his mother, father, two sisters and himself were in the house. All except the accused were sleeping in the upstairs of the main portion of the

Former Saskatchewan School Teacher Resigned the Conservative Leadership At a Party Caucus Held in Regina Yesterday.

THREE PARTIES UNITE AND DEFEAT OF LIBERAL GOVERNMENT IS ASSURED IN SASKATCHEWAN

Premier Gardiner Will Make An Announcement Next Monday —No Action Is Expected To Be Taken Until After Deferred Elections.

REGINA, Sask., June 12 (Canadian Press). — Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, former rural school teacher, is to-day leader of the combined Conservative, Progressive, and Independent forces elected in the recent Provincial balloting. After resigning his Conservative leadership yesterday, Dr. Anderson was unanimously chosen as leader of the three groups, representing 35 seats of the 61 decided Legislature positions.

Resignation of the Conservative chief came as a result of a pledge last November at a political meeting in Battleford, when he declared that in the event of the Opposition defeating the Gardiner Government he would proffer the elected members the opportunity of naming a new leader

In last Thursday's balloting, the Liberal Government, which has held power from the formation of the province in 1905, found its representation in the House decreased from 51 seats to 26. Two deferred elections, in Ile La Crosse and Cumberland, cannot prevent the Conservative-Progressive-Independent members from controlling the Legislature.

Moved by Progressive.

Moved by Dr. Reginald Stipe, Progressive, Hanley, and seconded by W. C. Buckle, Conservative, M.L.A. for Tisdale, the motion that Dr. Anderson should be endorsed as leader of the tri-partite coalition was unanimously endorsed by the combined caucus.

Following the caucus, the Conservatives, Progressives and Independents were guests of the Regina Conservative Association at a further gathering. Here Dr. Anderson made pronouncements in regard to the school question, Civil Service, immigration, law enforcement, and return

PRESBYTERIAN PENSION SCHEME IS REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

Existing Regulations Will Be Continued in the Meantime.

NEW PROPOSAL OPPOSED.

Standing Committees For Ensuing Year Are Struck By Assembly.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 12 (C.P.).—Objection to what was termed the overloading of the Committee on Church Architecture with members who favored the "High Church Chancel form of architecture," was voiced at this morning sederunt of the 55th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada meeting in St. Andrews' Church here. It was contended by Rev. S. Banks Nelson, D.D., Hamilton, Ont., and others, that this overloading had a tendency to destroy the Canadianism of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. The result was that Dr. Nelson was added to the committee.

Besides the appointment of the standing committees for the year this morning's session was occupied with the further consideration of the report of the Pension Board. As a result of the decision taken the whole question of contributions to the pension fund has been referred to a conference of the administration with the Pension Board to report at the next Assembly. In the meantime the existing regulations are to be continued.

Meets With Opposition

The Pension Board's recommendation to amend the method of collections from congregations from a straight five per cent tax on minister's salaries to a sliding scale, according to salaries, brought considerable opposition.

Rev. D. T. L. McKerroll, D.D., chairman of the Pension Board, asked how the board was to carry on during the year and a resolution was adopted permitting the board to continue as before, except that Presbyteries be allowed discretionary powers in collection of the tax in the case of weak congregations.

In view of the efficient service rendered to the Pension Board over a number of years by Rev. D. T. L. McKerroll, D.D., the assembly, by unanimous vote, granted him an honararium of $1,000.

KILLS HER SON

ILION, N.Y., June 12.—Becoming suddenly deranged Mrs. Thaddeus B. Corbin, 48, of Ilion, early to-day shot and killed her son, Louis 23, as he lay on a couch in their home and then turned the gun on herself, dying almost instantly.

HOUSE DELIVERS ULTIMATUM.

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 12.—An ultimatum was delivered to-day by House leaders against any recess this summer except for periods of three days at a time unless the Senate agrees to a definite time for a vote in the fall on the Tariff Bill.

CONFERENCE CALLED FOR LONDON

LONDON, June 12—A diplomatic conference will be held in London in July to consider the best means of putting into operation the report of the Paris Reparations conference, well-informed circles here believed to-day. The conference would probably be attended by the foreign ministers of the various countries concerned and was expected to precede Premier MacDonald's projected American visit.

Austrian Girl Wins Beauty Contest Prize

Miss Goldarbeiter, daughter of a Vienna merchant, won the title and $2,000 prize money over 34 American beauties and nine foreign damsels at the International Pageant of Pulchritude here last night. She was the first foreign girl to win the honor since the pageant became international four years ago.

Miss United States, Irene Halberg, of New York, was voted second prize of $1,000, and Miss Ohio, Dorothy Jean Davis of Massillon, third prize of $500.

WINDSOR BREWERY CO. FINED $1,500 AND COSTS

Employee Is Also Assessed $200 in Police Court Action.

WINDSOR, Ont., June 12 (C.P.).—The Riverside Brewery was fined $1,500 and costs in Windsor Police Court to-day by Magistrate D. M Brodie, the fine to be collected by a distress warrant if necessary. An employee, Stanley Ducharme of Detroit was fined $200 and costs.

The charges arose out of the seizure by Provincial officers, on March 19, of one of the company's trucks driven by Ducharme and loaded with beer. The order slips of the driver were checked and it was found that beer had been ordered for fake addresses. This had been delivered somewhere, the assumption being that through a conspiracy between the driver and shipper, it had been sent to the homes of bootleggers.

ONE FATAL ACCIDENT REPORTED BY MINISTER

Twenty-eight Serious Accidents Have Occurred Since 1925 in Dominion Penitentiaries.

OTTAWA, Ont, June 12.—(By the Canadian Press).—One fatal accident has occurred in Canadian penitentiaries since 1925, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, told the House of Commons this morning. The fatality took place in the Manitoba Penitentiary. Twenty-eight serious accidents have occurred since 1925 as follows: Portsmouth 5, St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary 15, Dorchester 3, Manitoba 2, British Columbia 3 and Saskatchewan 0. The question was brought up by Miss Agnes MacPhail (Prog. Southeast Grey).

There are several tropical species of earthworms that grow to be from three to six feet long.

Man Is Not Freed By "Not Guilty" Verdict

Immediately following the verdict of "Not Guilty," returned by the jury at noon to-day in the case of John J. Maloney charged with arson, the man was served with a writ which will involve him in another court action. His wife Christina Maloney, through her attorney, served notice upon him that she was suing for alimony. The two have been living separately since the fire, which destroyed their home and which caused Maloney to be tried for arson. The amount claimed for alimony was stated by Maloney's lawyer to be $20 a week.

MOTHERS' ALLOWANCE BOARD WILL ADMINISTER NEW ACT

Commission Will Start To Function Immediately, States Premier Ferguson.

Preliminary Work Completed.

J. A. Ellis Will Act In An Advisory Capacity For Board.

TORONTO, Ont., June 12 (Canadian Press). — The Ontario Government's Old Age Pension Act will be administered and controlled by the Mothers' Allowance Commission, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Prime Minister, announced this afternoon, following a Cabinet Council meeting.

"The Commission will commence to function practically at once," said Premier Ferguson, "while other details will have to be worked out."

Preliminary work in estimating the cost, and arranging for County Councils under the Act has already been done by J. A. Ellis, member of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board. Premier Ferguson added that Mr. Ellis would continue to act in an advisory capacity to the Mothers' Allowance Commission in regard to taking over administration.

The present Mothers' Allowance Commission is composed of Chairman Hon. Dr. J. Jamieson, Lt.-Col. T. J. Murphy, A. J. Reynolds, Mrs. W. F. Singer, and Miss B. Thompson.

It is not stated whether the Commission will receive additional salaries for acting as the central controlling body of the Pension Act. In last year's public accounts, under allowances to members of this Commission, Hon. Dr. Jamieson received $4,155, Lt.-Col. Murphy $500, A. J. Reynolds $410, Mrs. Singer $680, and Miss Thompson $708.

DECLINES TO MAKE STATEMENT

LONDON, June 12—Premier MacDonald positively declines to make any statement concerning his forecasted visit to Washington to discuss naval disarmamcat with President Hoover and Premier MacKenzie King beyond pointing out that he has not even definitely said he was going. In diplomatic circles here the rather obvious expectation is that more may be revealed following the arrival of the New United States Ambassador, Charles G. Dawes, on Friday.

Residents of Payne and Wilson Avenues Ask to Have Streets Graded.

The monthly meeting of the North Monaghan Council was held at the Court House on Monday, June 10, at 2 p. m. All the members of the council were present with Reeve Rye presiding.

Arthur Reeve complained about boys going in swimming near his home and using profane language. A resolution was passed that the Township solicitor be asked to prepare a general by-law to regulate bathing in the Otonabee River, specifying that bathers must be properly dressed in bathing suits and profane and abusive language is to be strictly forbidden. The Township of Otonabee will be asked to co-operate and to prepare and pass a similar by-law.

T. B. Henry, sanitary inspector, relief officer and school attendance officer, made his half-yearly report in regard to the sanitary conditions of the township, and also in regard to looking after children who have been reported to him as not attending school regularly.

A motion was passed that a public notice taiordlnsmcudhfwrcmhfmrdcv the township of North Monaghan, who is contemplating putting in a septic tank, must make application to the Medical Officer of Health, Dr. J. A. Morgan, for a permit for same.

Tax Collector Resigns

Albert Cheyne, tax collector for the year 1928, tendered his resignation as tax collector. The following applications for the position of tax collector for the year 1929 were received as follows:

G. D. Carlisle, C. B. Adair, M. H. Johnston, Fred E. Wilson, Clarence Laing, Fred J. Martinn.

A petition was received from residents of Payne Avenue and Wilson avenue, requesting the township to have some grading and some gravel put on the streets. This petition was referred to the township roads superintendent.

A resolution was passed that a notice be published in The Examiner, notifying all dog owners to keep their dogs tied up while not under their control and according to the terms of the township by-law governing same.

The following accounts were passed for payment: Peterborough Utilities Commission, $10.33; Dr. J. A. Morgan, $26; H. B. Rye, Board of Health meeting, $2; James Laing, Board of Health meeting, $2; A. E. Saunders, provisions, $12.73.

The following allowances for meetings of committees of the council and for salaries of officials were passed for payment: H. B. Rye, meetings of committees, $36; W. J. Waterman, meetings of committees, $33; Andrew Kent, committee meetings, $336; Herbert Bourne, meetings of committees, $30; William Whitfield, meetings of committees, $33; Bruce Johnston, clerk and treasurer, $500; Bert Sanderson, assessor, $125; T. B. Henry, sanitary inspector, relief officer and school attendance officer, $100.

Archie Patterson, township road superintendent, presented for payment the following road accounts: J. M. O'Dette, repairs on axle of grader, $4; Kingan Hardware Company, supplies, $2.35; A. McDonald Company, lumber, $13.06; Harden Welding Works, $6.10; William Hamilton Company, sharpening grader points, $4.72. Andrew Kent presented an account for work done under his supervision of putting gravel on the new road laid out in the township dump ground, for $31.50; William Whitfield, expenses to Toronto, $6.

A resolution was passed that Frederick Finnie or some other responsible person be engaged to take the levels of the drains on the north side of Edison avenue and the south side of Lansdowne street and the east side of Lock street. By-law No. 926

TWO OFFICERS KILLED.

Forces Were On Reconnoitering Expedition—Moors Lay in Wait.

RABAT, Morocco, June 12.—(C.P.)—Thirteen French soldiers were killed and ten wounded, including two officers, in an ambush of French native troops by resident tribesmen at the foot of the Atlas Mountains.

The fate of 15 Frenchmen and 25 native auxiliaries who were caught in the ambush and unable to fall back with the rest of the French force to the base at Aid Yakoub was unknown. Reinforcements have been despatched to the area with retributive measures not unlikely.

Only a fragmentary account of the ambush has reached here, but it appeared a large party of Moors lay in wait for two companies of Senegalese troops and one company of a Moroccan camel corps while they were on a reconnoitering expedition. After a sharp combat the Moors were repulsed, losing some dead and wounded.

General Vidalon, commander-in-chief of French armies in Morocco and Lucien Saint, resident general, left Rabat yesterday for the scene of the conflict. It was said General Vidalon particularly would demand an explanation of why reconnaisance was attempted in that area contrary to express orders of the resident general.

FENELLA W.M.S. MEETS.

Several Papers Are Read Dealing With Manufacture and Sale of Spirituous Liquors.

FENELLA, June 12 (Examiner June 12 (Examiner Correspondence)—At the June meeting of Fenella W.M.S., held at the home of Mesdames S. Leach and N. C. Leach on Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. F. Talling was appointed delegate to the sectional meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church of Canada to be held in Welcome United Church Tuesday, June 11.

Several leaflets dealing with the manufacture and sale of spirituous liquors were read by the following members: Mesdames W. J. Jibb, Montgomery, Talling, S. Leach and the Misses Ruth Knox and Florence Macklin.

Mrs. Knox gave a very interesting reading on temperance.

The devotional leaflet, read by Mrs. A. Nill, asked and answered some very practical questions, "Is tithing practical? Why are we so loath to try this plan of definiteness? Why do we talk about its impracticability when we are not willing to give it a trial? Are we afraid the church treasuries will be too full? Are we afraid the nine-tenths won't be sufficient for us? or are we unwilling to enter into the partnership, because we don't trust the Lord?"

Over 100,000 people replied to the question, Is Tithing Practicable? by saying "that the Lord's box meant so much to them that nothing would turn them aside from its use because the little tithe box gives to them the sense of partnership."

The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. I. C. Montgomery, when the girls of the society will have entire charge of the program.

THREE CIVIL ACTIONS SET DOWN AT JUNE ASSIZES IN COBOURG

Farm Sale Case is Dismissed After Evidence is Heard.

OTHERS ARE ADJOURNED.

COBOURG, June 12—(Examiner Staff Correspondence)—Three cases were on the docket for the June session of the County Court held in Cobourg yesterday afternoon. All of these cases are civil actions and there are no criminal hearings slated. Of the three cases, only one was heard yesterday and the other two were laid over till later dates. That of Hall vs. Town of Campbellford will be heard on June 29th.

Sues for Commission

Who sold the farm, was the question which had to be decided by the jury yesterday. It might be more correct to state the question of whether or not Isaac Needham, agent of the village of Millbrook was entitled to a five percent commission on the sale price of the farm of R. A. Robertson, which had been listed with him for sale. After hearing the evidence and deliberating for an hour and twenty minutes the jury brought in a verdict which stated that Needham receive nothing for the sale of the farm. His Honour, Judge O'Connor, dismissed the action with costs assessed to the plaintiff.

Isaac Needham, Millbrook, was the plaintiff in the case and had no witnesses to give evidence in his behalf. He was represented by D. H. Chisholm, K.C., also of Millbrook. In his evidence he stated that the farm had been listed with him as sole agent for a period of one year and three months after that period. He had not been aware that other agents had it listed as well. He had written about the matter to Robertson on different occasions, had called at his home and also telephoned him. He had shown the property to possible buyers and told others about it. He had advertised it along certain lines and attempted to list it with an agent in Toronto. In substantiation of his statements, he produce a printed document that he was the sole agent and was signed by Robertson the defendent.

Listed Farm With Needham

R. A. Robertson claimed that he had lived in Cavan township all his lifetime. Until last Fall he had been a farmer there. Regarding the listing of his farm for sale, he claimed that he had been in Millbrook one day and heard of Needham. He had gone to see him on his way home and had listed the farm with him, signed the document which he could not read because he had no eye glasses with him, and continued his way home. He claimed that Needham had told him what was in the document and that nothing had been said about the period of time of the agreement, and he believed that there had been changes in the document after his signa-

KING GEORGE IS NOW ABLE TO ASSUME DUTIES OF STATE

Ramsay MacDonald Replaces Former Premier Baldwin On Council.

TO NOT MAKE APPOINTMENT.

His Majesty Will Transact All Business Connected With Dominions.

LONDON, June 12 (Canadian Press). — King George is now sufficiently well to resume many of the functions delegated by him to a Council of State, but will not yet assume his full duties.

Publication in the London Gazette of an Order-in-Council last night revealed that the Council of State set up in December, was reconstituted at the Privy Council meeting at Windsor Castle last Saturday. Ramsay MacDonald has replaced Stanley Baldwin, whom he succeeded as the Prime Minister ,and Sir John Sankey as Lord Chancellor succeeds Lord Hailsham. The other counsellors of State remained unchanged, namely Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales, Duke of York, and the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Among the duties which His Majesty will now transact will be all business connected with Dominion affairs. But it was represented to His Majesty that for the better preservation of his health he should not for the time being resume all functions he had delegated.

Accordingly the Order-in-Council draws up a schedule of functions for the counsellors, among them appointments to or grant of office, election or appointment to a bishopric in England, presentation to or grant of a benefice, appointment of a royal commission or of new or additional commissioners to an existing royal commission, and commission in His Majesty's diplomatic or consular services originating in the Foreign Office and requiring counter-signature of the Foreign Secretary.

TORONTO, Ont., June 12.—Beverley Tilley, four year old Toronto lad, fell 40 feet from the window of the third floor of his home here and walked upstairs to his mother unhurt. Beverley, who has earned the sobriquet of the "India Rubber Boy," rose from the pavement six weeks ago in Woodstock after being hurled twenty feet by an autmobile.

Wide areas of farm lands were inundated and thousands of cattle were drowned, extensive property damage being caused.

The frightened population fled to the mountain sides to escape the rising waters. Torrents from swollen mountain streams continued to further loss of life and property damage was expected.

PAYS FIVE CENTS ON DOLLAR.

TORONTO, Ont., June 12.— Five cents on the dollar for holders of $200,000 debentures was all that was available after the assets of Milk Foods Ltd., Gananoque, were sold to the National Food Products. This was revealed in a judgment handed down yesterday by Mr. Justice Middleton on the application of Charles Richardson for payment to him out of court of money due him by virtue of a conditional sales agreement upon part of the machinery and plant originally owned by Milk Foods Ltd.

YORKSHIRE SOOT POLLUTES LAKES

LEEDS, Eng., June 12.—(By The Canadian Press).—The English Lake District is being polluted by smoke and soot from the big industries in Yorkshire, according to Professor J. B. Cohen, of Leeds University, who recently stated in an address here that he had made this discovery while investigating the smoke problem.

A phenomenon which he had noticed he said, proved definitely that smoke from industrial centres spread for many miles into the country. A rain cloud would absorb soot and smoke and become almost saturated with it, and, when that cloud fell as rain soot was liberated and came down with the rain.

"Yesterday, near Coniston," he added, "it was drizzling all day, and I noticed that the surface of Lake Windermere became coated with a thin film of greasy matter. It is significant that the wind was blowing from Yorkshire. I took out a piece of rag and held it on the surface of the water, and this is the result." He held up a rag begrimed and greasy.

RESIGNATION OF GARDINER IS DEMANDED

Three Parties in Saskatchewan Demand That Liberal Government Resign.

CONFERENCE CALLED.

Formation of Coalition Cabinet Is Expected in Western Province.

REGINA, June 12. (C.P.) — The demand of the Conservative, Independent and Progressive parties that the Government of Premier James G. Gardiner resign immediately will be considered at a conference of all Liberal members to be held in Regina next Monday.

In a statement issued here last night, Premier Gardiner said:

"The present complex situation resulting from the general provincial election of last Thursday, will be reviewed at a Liberal conference to be held here Monday."

Beyond this brief announcement Mr Gardiner refused to comment on the situation.

Met in Separate Conference.

Meeting in separate conference yesterday, the Conservatves and the Independent-Progressives adopted Independent-Progressives adopted identical resolutions demanding the "immediate resignation" of the Liberal government, and last night the formation of a coalition government, composed of the three opposition groups which now have a majority of nine over the forces of Premier Gardiner — was forecast in an official statement issued at the conclusion of a second meeting of Conservative members-elect.

The Conservative announcement last night said the Independent and Progressive groups had indicated their willingness to co-operate under the leadership of Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, the Conservative leader.

Co-operation of the Independent-Progressive groups was conditional upon the acceptance of the following terms by the Conservatives:

1—A pledge for the reform of the Civil Service of the province.

2—Retention of the identity of each of the groups; and,

3—Freedom in the matter of Federal politics.

The official Conservative statement said the terms had been accepted.

If Dr. Anderson is called upon to form a government it is understood that he will assume the Premiership, and the portfolio of Minister of Education.

With the election still to be held in Cumberland and Ile a La Crosse, the present standing is: Liberals 26; Conservatives, 25; Independents, 6; Progressives 4.

The result of the deferred elections, however, even if the Liberals capture both seats, would not change the present situation, as the combined opposition forces still would have a majority of seven.

CROWN'S CASE LASTS ONE WEEK

Harry Harcourt, of Jackson Manion, Takes Box in His Own Defence.

REFUSES DISMISSAL.

TORONTO, Ont., June 12.—(C.P.) —After the evidence for the Crown which had lasted for one week was completed at a special session last night, Harry Harcourt, charged with issuing false statements or prospectuses in connection with the Jackson Manion mine, took the box in his own defence.

Judge O'Connell ruled in answer to defence counsel that there was no reason to dismiss the case on the ground that the evidence submitted by the prosecution was insufficient. D. L. McCarthy, K.C., had contended that the word "unlawfully," as set out in the charge, had no application to the publication by Harcourt of the reports the Crown claimed were false. He also claimed that the Crown had failed to show intent on the part of Harcourt to induce people to become shareholders. After the Judge's ruling, Harcourt took the stand and gave exhaustive evidence as to the formation and transactions of the Jackson Manion underwriting syndicate. Asked by the Judge if all this evidence were necessary, Mr. McCarthy replied that the Crown had considered it important enough to give two days to it.

Earlier in the day Professor H. E. T. Haultain giving expert evidence for the Crown, clashed several times on technical points with defence counsel. When the professor said: "I don't want to quibble but I am a little afraid of you and I want to be careful," Mr. McCarthy replied, "I have never had an honest witnes afraid of me."

History of Peterborough

Written by Thomas W. Poole, M.D., and Published in Peterborough 1867

CHAPTER IX.

(1) A Satirical Production.

In the month of August, 1838, after the new Colborne District had been provisionally set apart, and during the time the building committee were engaged in the arrangements for the erection of the court house and jail, a severe cutting satire upon Peterborough, and a number of its chief citizens appeared in print in the columns of "The Plainspeaker," a small sheet then published at Cobourg. It purported to be an advertisement of "a sale extraordinary of the town of Peterborough to pay the taxes," and to be held on the first of April following. Although the writer of the document in question announced that he would ". . . . Nothing extenuate, nor set down aught in malice," some of his allusions, if reproduced, would be so pointedly offensive to many persons still living, who were probably neither better nor worse than the average of humanity, that it is better to omit them here. The documents is supposed to have been written by Mr. Frederick Forest, then residing in Peterborough. The following are samples of this remarkable production, which, as may be supposed, attracted much attention at the time, and is still referred to with interest by many of our older residents, who were familiar with the characters pointed at, whose names or peculiarities furnished a ready mark for the shafts of the satirist.

From "The Plainspeaker" (1838).

"It has been reported that this town is likely to become the seat of government! The report can only be traced to the editor of a contemptible publication, whose total disregard for truth entitles him to no credit—

"Who dares think one thing and another tell,
My soul detests him as the gates of hell.

"A court house and jail will be built immediately. For the debtor's jail it is contemplated to erect a high wall all around the town—the convenience of the inhabitants has been thus consulted, as they will be able to continue in their present houses, an advantage they could not otherwise long enjoy..

"The commissioners of public works have appointed a secretary who thinks himself WRIGHT—on all occasions, a point on which, judging from appearances, his employers are not likely to be deceived.

"About a year since a few Sentinels were established at the expense of the inhabitants. It is, however, to be regretted that they have only brought contempt and disgrace on those who had the control of them. As they appear to be guided by the motto, 'Mutare Sperno,' their hitherto supporters have lost all hopes of their amendment.

"Let us do them justice: they were seldom seen off their post—few ever having ventured beyond the limits of the town.

"Another lawyer is CUMMING to settle here—he has had only one case, which cannot be better described than in the words of Pope, 'Thou great first cause, least understood.'

"Opposition is the life of trade. So think the magistrates who hav established two separate boards c companies among themselves. Caus latet, res est notissims.

"One party is led (query misled by an individual who has adopted th motto of his lowest follower—'Nun quam hic Moe nisi in dispari.' On of the same party advertises mag isterial business gratis, no doubt hav ing apportioned the value and th price. From this it will appear ths no price is fixed for justice and a no price can it be obtained.

"It is a tale told by an idiot, fu of sound and fury, signifying nothin

"Intending purchasers, who can well pay without, may borrow mone on easy terms. The le ler CAN" well wait for his interest, having lit tle or no principle left."

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 12.—Trusting to chances that farm relief would emerge in triumph from clashes over debentures, grain traders became active buyers yesterday and rushed prices upgrade. In some cases the consequent rise of wheat values amounted to nearly 5c a bushel above a low level reached on tumbles which at the start resulted from uncertainty over the outcome of the Senate vote yesterday afternoon as to farm relief.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1½c to 2⅜c higher than Monday's finish. Corn closed ¾c to 3¼c up; oats ¼c to ⅝c to ⅜c advance, and provisions varying from 2c decline to 35c gain.

WINNIPEG, June 12.—Following a weak opening the wheat market acquired a steady tone yesterday in the last hour of trading and finished with net gains of 1⅜c to 2⅛c for the day. A flood of selling at the opening was met by heavy buying by Chicago houses and traders connected with seaboard houses. The market slowly wiped out the early morning losses and crept forward to the high levels.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, June 12. — No price changes were reported on the Montreal grain and flour markets yesterday.

Butter prices were firmer again yesterday. Eastern townships No. 1 pasteurized were selling from 36c to 36½c per pound, wholesale. Receipts were 310 boxes. Prices of pasteurized butter to the retail trade were 37c per pound for solids and 38c for prints.

Cheese receipts yesterday were the largest this season, totalling 10,412 boxes. Prices were again a little higher yesterday. Western No. 1 white and colored was 19⅜c to 19½c per pound, while Eastern No. 1 white and colored was 19c to 19⅛c per pound.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, June 12. — Butter prices continued their upward trend on the local wholesale market yesterday, and supplies were passing freely into consumers' hands on brisk trading. Butter production throughout Ontario is slightly behind the production of last year, and large dealers report that receipts are only fair on the local market. Prices again gained fractionally, No. 1 finest creamery being quoted at 36½c per pound, and No. 2 grade 1c lower.

Trading on the local wholesale egg market yesterday was again not very active, and local dealers attribute the lack of demand to the absence of call for eggs for storage purposes. Receipts were fairly good, but a great deal of difficulty was encountered in moving supplies, and prices held barely steady at the lower end of the range. Quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered, and cases returned, were as follows: Fresh extras, 27c per dozen; fresh firsts, 25c per dozen; and fresh seconds, 22c per dozen.

Prices on the local wholesale cheese market were very firm yesterday, and trading continues the briskness of the past few days. The price of No. 1 large colored, paraffined, and Government graded cheese was quoted at 19½c per pound.

ORGANIST MADE PLEA TO FRIENDS

MUSIC OBJECTED TO.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 12 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—In the Nesbitt vs. St. Andrew's Church case in division court here, William Collison was the second witness called for the defense on Monday morning. He identified himself as a member of the choir who had attended the services on February 10th. In the evening, he claimed that Nesbitt had said to himself and the choir generally, "I hope that those who call themselves my friends, will not go into the choir stall to-night." Collison claimed that two members of the choir did not go in to their regular place for the service.

Claiming a wide musical experience as his authority, he did not consider any of the music at the concert in question as being sacred. His own son had played "In A Monastery Garden" as a violin solo. He had only attended one concert and took exception to the organ music of that one.

Cross-examined by MacCall, witness said he had been at the recital given by Newcourt, the present organist, and had put the motion expressing appreciation to the Peterborough artists as he had been requested to do by the honorary president, J. A. Anderson, who had seconded the motion.

At this point, Collison began to talk loudly and stated that he wanted to go home. He was a working man and had his living to make. He could not afford to stay on in court and continue with such "Silly talk." His Honor, Judge Huycke reminded the witness that it was himself who was doing a lot of silly talking and wasting the time of the court. He also advised the witness that he would receive a fee for attending court and was not compelled to attend unless he did.

Miss Mary Watson identified herself as a member of the choir, and stated that she had been during the month of February this year. She was present on the evening of Feb. 10, and stated that the choir had met as usual in the choir room in the basement. Nesbitt had said that all those who were his friends would kindly remain out of the choir. She herself had gone in. She was also at the morning service that day, and claimed the organist rose and asked the minister if he would kindly read the announcement as written. The minister had already made a verbal announcement regarding the written one. Nesbitt, she said, had looked at the minister in a "defiant tone." Judge Huycke asked her to explain the term. Nesbitt had also written a note, and she thought this was unusual. He had spoken quite determinedly, she said, and his countenance led her to believe that there might be "More to follow." The judge also asked her to explain these words. Rev. Dr. Mark had read the announcement and the congregation had appeared to be very much disturbed. She thought they knew very little of the affair up to that time. It had been kept quiet.

Two other cases were dealt with. The first one was concerning some goods purchased at an auction sale. After hearing the case explained by the lawyers for each side, Judge Huycke suggested that the opposing parties hold a conference and attempt to settle the matter without having it aired in court. The suggestion was acted upon.

In the second, John Brennan was suing his former employer, Fred Hay, for wages. His suit was for two different amounts, which totalled more than $80. D. J. Lynch represented Brennan. N. A. MacCall appeared for Hay. Brennan was the first witness called and said that he had been hired at $45 a month, and that the deal had been made in Hay's barn. He claimed that he had not been given his wages. Questioned closely by the lawyers, he admitted that he had been given $20 one night on the street. There was also a cheque for $42.02 produced. This was made payable to him and endorsed with his signature, also that of W. S. Wiggins where the cheque had been cashed. At first Brennan did not think the name on the cheque was his signature, but thought it looked something like it. Later he guessed that it was his own. He admitted that his wages were to be $30 a month for the six winter months and $45 during the summer season. He claimed that Hay had not lived up to his part of the contract, that he had not had his washing done, had had to get his own meals and had not been used well in general. He also claimed that Fred Hay had run at him as though to attack him, and had finally ordered him off the place and refused to pay him his wages. He had hired with Hay on previous occasions and had always been treated well till this last hiring.

Fred Hay was called to give evidence in his own defence of the suit. He said he had hired Brennan on two occasions. During the summer months he was to pay him $45 per month, and in the fall he had rehired him for the winter at $35 per month. He claimed that Brennan had quit of his own accord and had asked what it was worth to let him leave without notice. Hay had asked $25. It was in the spring and the important work on the land just starting. Brennan said he had not the money but Hay claimed that he had since he had put it in the bank for him. He claimed that he had not charged him at the milk stand as Brennan had claimed, and denied that he had to get his own meals. The only exception was when Mrs. Hay was ill in the hospital in Peterborough and he had been spend- and the farm. There were a few and the farm. There were afew days during that period of two weeks, when Brennan had been alone and had to get his own meals. But that was all. According to his estimates, he only owed Brennan $10.75 and he had told him that he would pay him.

After hearing the legal argument of the counsel of both parties, Judge Huycke gave his decision in favor of Brennan and ordered the defendant to pay $40. In giving judgment, His Honor remainded those present that hired men were not Beau Brummel, that they were employed to work in the fields and not to set an example of table etiquette. He did not consider that Hay had been justified in dismissing Brennan.

Board Asking For Continuation School

(Examiner Correspondence)

BETHANY, June 12.—A resolution from the Trustee Board of the public school here has been sent to the Minister of Education asking that a continuation school be opened here this fall.

Should the resolution find favor, it will be a great benefit to the community as a great many children from the neighborhood are travelling daily to and from Lindsay to attend High school there.

Some of the modern hair styles were in vogue 400 years ago in England.

THREE ACTIONS SET DOWN

ture had been placed on it. The farm had been sold for $7,800 although he had it listed at $8,000. He had not heard from Needham for some time then and had paid Thomas Lang, agent, $200 as his commission for making the sale. During the period the farm was listed with Needham, he had received no phone calls from him and only two visits.

R. J. Roland, a retired farmer for several years and now occupying the farm in question, said he had been looking around for a farm for his son and heard about the Robertson farm being for sale. He believed it was generally known throughout the district since he had heard it from three agents and several citizens. He had stated that he would not be in the market for a farm till he sold his house in Millbrook. Finally this was done and he bought the farm. Needham, he said, had no part in the sale. They had never gone there together and Needham had had no influence on his decision.

Thos. Lang, Millbrook agent, said the farm had been listed with him for about three months before the sale was made. He showed it to several prospects and took the purchaser there three or four times. He had sold the house for him previous to selling him the farm. The farm had been listed with him at $8,000 but the price had been reduced and he had also received his commission.

This completed the case for the defence and the plaintiff was recalled. He denied certain of the defence evidence. Walter Widdes, farmer in Cavan Township, claimed that he had visited the farm and stated that he had told Robertson that Needham had sent him. He claimed that the price had been too high and it was too far from the school.

Both Good Citizens.

At 3.45 the evidence had all been heard and the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., of Peterborough, the counsel for the defence, began his address to the jury. He spoke fluently for twenty-five minutes. D. H. Chisholm, K.C., spoke for the same length of time in the interests of the plaintiff. His Honor Judge O'Connor required almost the same length of time to charge the jury. He began by explaining the complicated nature of the law in such a case. He believed that both the plaintiff and the defendant were good citizens, and that neither of them had any intention of either fraud or perjury. In the heat of examination and cross examination counsel sometimes used strong words to drive home their argument. It was for the jury to decide whether Needham, the plaintiff, had done any act to bring the buyer and seller together, and whether or not the sale had been made as the result of this act. If they brought in a verdict showing that this had been the case, then the plaintiff was entitled to collect his commission. If not the case, then he could not recover it. In conclusion. His Honor reminded the jury that this was not a criminal case and a verdict of ten out of twelve was all that was necessary. The jury filed out of the court at 5.05 p.m., and returned at 6.25 p.m. The verdict was brief. It simply stated that the jury believed that Needham should receive nothing for the sale of the farm. Judge O'Connor heard the verdict and dismissed the action. At the request of Mr. Gordon, the costs were assessed to the plaintiff.

BANK MANAGER GIVES ADDRESS

ROTARY CLUB LUNCHEON.

(Examiner Staff Correspondent.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 12.—Some real good information regarding the affairs of the Dominion of Canada, was given to the local Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon in the St. Lawrence dining room lats Monday noon. John Elliott, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville, and also secretary of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, was the speaker. His remarks were highly interesting and his method of treating the subject was such as to command constant attention during the full length of his oration.

Mr. Elliott elected to picture what the immigrant saw of Canada as he came up the St. Lawrence for the first time. To people coming from the more densely populated Eastern hemisphere the wooded shores of the great river with their comparatively sparse population, presented a remarkably attractive panorama, but did not divulge much of the information which any new-comer desires. There was a tendency, Mr. Elliott thought, to look upon the new arrivals as strangers. This should not be the case, since there were many of Canada's prominent men, both of the past and present, who were immigrants into this country. Canada was a free country and any man could attain any position here if he went after it.

By quoting numerous statistics, Mr. Elliott showed how the wealth and industrial status of the Dominion had increased during the past five years. In 1900 the per capita bank account amounted to thirty-three dollars. At the present time it was estimated at one hundred and sixty-eight. In the world's trade Canada enjoyed one-fifth of the volume. In 1913 she ranked seventh and in 1927 she ranked second. The exports of the U.S.A. per capita was $40 while that for Canada was $135. He did not touch on the railroad earnings. In the last two years the national debt of the Dominion had been reduced by $120,000,000. Canada's population in 1900 was 5,300,000. In 1925 it had reached nine million. To-day Canada's population is estimated at almost ten million. He would like to see these figures printed in every text book used in the schools.

Among other things, Canada has the largest railroad system in the world, and the third longest river. He recounted many progressive changes since the time of Confederation. He said that at one time Canada had 39 banks. Now there were only ten, and commpetition was keener now than then. He thought every Canadian should make up his mind to spend his money in his own country. It would be a great asset. Canada had a big debt and was not in the least ashamed of it because her citizens knew how it had been accumulated. It was possible for Canada not only to retain her present standing in the affairs of the world but to rise to even higher levels. Of the list of nineteen of the world's largest banks three Canadian banks were mentioned. He thought the Rotarians might be interested in knowing that the Mid land Bank of London, England, was the largest bank in the world, and not the Bank of England. But before Canada could increase her greatness she must realize that spiritual and industrial progress go hand in hand. He also had statistics to show that the religious life of Canada was not being neglected.

Of the 1157 motor ships in service during 1920, only 27 flew the American flag.

The finer quality of "Canada Dry" is the difference between mountains and plains

THE thrill of going from the warm, moist air of the plains to the cool, fresh breezes of the mountains is the thrill of drinking "Canada Dry," a better, purer, finer, more delicious beverage.

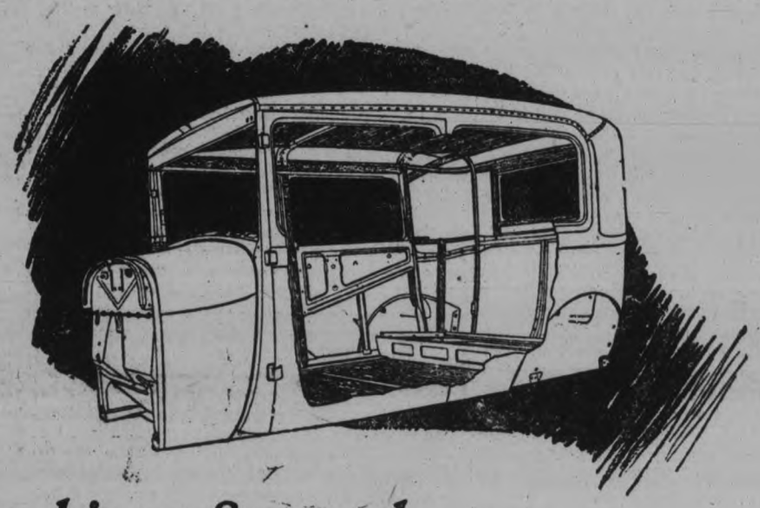
THE FORD CAR STEEL BODY



Combines Strength with Beauty

THE high grade steel used in building Ford car bodies gives maximum driving protection. Beauty of design has been combined with rugged strength in these all-steel bodies. The wood parts shown in the diagram are used only for attaching the interior trim and roof material.

If this body—that of the Tudor Sedan in this instance—mounted on a Model "A" chassis, were turned over and resting on the roof, it would support the chassis, engine and all without even bending the narrow window pillars. Such is the strength and high safety factors of Ford engineering.

Vision obstruction is reduced to a minimum by the use of narrow steel pillars. Lower rear panels, including the wheel housing, are made in one piece. This unusual feature on body construction gives additional strength.

Electrical welding adds greater rigidity and reduces the possibility of squeak and rattle. Panels and frame sections are welded or riveted. In assembly of large units where bolts are necessary, strips of anti-squeak material are used between sections. Sound deadening material is also used. Soft roof construction, of heavy padding over galvanized mesh wire, provides an additional element of quietness.

THE ROYAL YORK.

The official opening of the Royal York Hotel yesterday was an event in which all Canadians were interested, for this mammoth and beautiful structure is looked upon as a demonstration of Canadian enterprise and vision as well as a proof of Canadian prosperity and progress.

The Royal York tells the world that the Dominion is fast forging to the front; its size, its equipment and its beauty are eloquent of faith in Canada and of unbounded confidence in the future of this great Dominion.

It has been a big job done in a big way, as the Canadian Pacific Railway has always done big jobs, and Canadians rightly regard it as an institution in which they can take a legitimate pride and interest.

In its completeness it is typical of that efficiency and enterprise that has characterized the Canadian Pacific since its early days; efficiency and enterprise that developed the greatest transportation system in the world and gave Canada advertising around the globe.

The whole country will wish the Royal York well.

SHOWING THE PROPER SPIRIT.

The spirit of co-operation shown by the T. Eaton Company, Limited, in connection with Old Home Week will be appreciated by citizens generally as indicative of a desire on the part of the organization to assist in worth-while community enterprises.

The offer of the company to place its own special window dressing expert at the service in an advisory capacity of any local firm which wants to make a special display in connection with Old Home Week is a gesture of good-will and anxiety to co-operate that will be received in the same spirit as it is made.

The Eaton organization, in sending an expert here and placing his ability at the service of the community, as it were, is making a very valuable contribution to the success of one important phase of the Old Home Week celebration.

It is co-operation such as this that will make a certain success of Old Home Week, and The Examiner is certain that it can be counted upon from individual citizens as well as from firms and organizations.

THE RIGHT RING.

There was a ring of robust Canadianism to the speech delivered by Sir William Mulock at the opening of the Royal York Hotel yesterday.

In his references to the United States tariff policy the venerable jurist expressed the feelings of most Canadians when he pointed out that great as was the United States she was not the whole world, and that this country must and would seek out other markets if our neighbors to the south chose to shut us out from their market.

There was no suggestion of tariff reprisals in Sir William's remarks.

But he was emphatic in his declaration that Canada would not shut up shop because one market might be closed to her; on the contrary, this country with its triple ocean front would find new markets, new avenues of trades, and in finding these would at the same time find a fresh spirit of self-reliance and independence.

The applause that greeted his stirring remarks was doubtless silently echoed by newspaper readers and radio listeners.

THE SALARY GRAB KILLED.

It is announced from Ottawa that the Government has definitely decided not to increase the sessional indemnities of members of Parliament, a decision upon which the administration will be congratulated by the public generally.

There has been strong pressure from private members to increase the yearly allowance to $6,000, and it is well known that the raid might have succeeded had not the Prime Minister, the Minister of Finance and Hon. R. B. Bennett, leader of the Opposition, made a firm stand against the proposed increase.

These leaders deserve thanks from the whole country for checking an unjustified attempt on the part of members of Parliament to vote themselves larger salaries in the face of the knowledge they must have had that the step they proposed was completely out of joint with public opinion.

Newspapers in all parts of Canada have unreservedly condemned the salary grab, and their views are undoubtedly those of the vast majority of the people of the districts they serve.

The Government deserves thanks for the backbone it has displayed on this occasion.

INCREASED INDEMNITIES.

A year ago a report was current that a movement was on foot among the members of Parliament at Ottawa to increase their sessional indemnities from $4,000 to $6,000. The proposal, however, met with so strong a protest from every part of the country that it was placed on the shelf.

The shelving of the proposal, apparently, was only temporary, for it is again reported that the matter is being given serious consideration by the members of the House. The Liberal members, it is said, are wholly in favor of the increase, and, since human nature is as it is, there is not much likelihood of other parties making much of a protest against it.

From the standpoint of the people who have to pay the bill, however, such action would be decidedly unpopular. The average man, and even the man of more than average intelligence, is unable to see one valid reason why the salaries of members of Parliament should be increased by fifty per cent. at this time.

The principle of the thing is entirely wrong. When the present Parliament was elected, the members were sent there on the distinct understanding that they were to be paid $4,000 per session. There has never been any mandate to the members to increase their salaries by a five cent piece, far less by a sum of $2,000.

Four thousand dollars is quite a large sum for the time which the members have to spend in their official duties. Some of the members, of course, are worth a great deal more than that to the country, but the rank and file of the parties, to be perfectly frank, do not earn even that amount. And the other privileges which go along with the status of member of Parliament made the office worth a good deal more than the mere sessional indemnity.

This is a time for retrenchment in governmental expenses rather than for expansion of expenditures, particularly when no added value will be received from the increase. To add $2,000 to the indemnity of each member would mean an added expenditure of $470,000 a year, and Canada's finances, while satisfactory, have not yet reached the point where the country can afford to waste half a million dollars.—Oshawa Times.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

In the current issue of Interdependence, the organ of the League of Nations Society in Canada, the editor reports that it is believed the main objective of the recent membership drive—the doubling of the membership from sixteen to thirty-two thousand—will be attained; but disappointment is expressed over the results in the big cities. The real work, it is asserted, has been done "in hundreds of small towns and hamlets," where "a genuine group pacific sentiment seems to exist." It is admitted that there were exceptions among the big cities, some of which did well, and it is to be hoped that Hamilton is included in the latter category. Another feature of the report is the "discouraging response of the churches." Though ministers had been approached, many of them written to personally, and though the endorsation of church leaders had been obtained and a "tremendous newspaper publicity had been given," it is complained that "nothing resulted from all these endeavors." This is, not unnaturally, described as a "surprising failure," and surprising it is, if, as alleged, "little or no response" was given by the churches in general to the urgent appeals made to them on behalf of the campaign. It is admitted that reports have been slow in coming in, and one can only hope that when the complete returns have been received, the cities—and the churches—will be found to have made a better showing.—Hamilton Spectator.

NO INCREASE FOR M.P.'s!

We do not believe for a single instant that the Government at Ottawa will listen to the more or less insistent demand of some of the members of Parliament that their sessional indemnity should be increased from $4,000 to $6,000. That is a preposterous amount to pay for four or five months "work," especially as this "work" consists in many cases of talk and nothing but talk. Indeed, if one goes back over recent years and not only reads the speeches made in the House of Commons but surveys the work done, it will be seen that most of the sessions have been unduly drawn-out and that all the actual work could have been compressed into a couple of months. Granted, however, that each session should last a full six months in order that all the necessary work might be done, we still hold to it that $4,000 for six months is more than enough to pay to the House and Senate members—for, of course, if the M.P.'s were given the increase the poor, poor Senators would have to be taken care of also. Certainly it is a good deal more money than many men of equal ability earn in a whole year outside and it is about three times as much as the average working man earns after a weary struggle three hundred days a year.

We believe that brains and intelligence should be rewarded—and rewarded properly and fully—but we do not subscribe to the idea that talk-fests are necessarily evidence of surpassing brain-power. In any event, the country simply cannot afford to pay 6,000 a year to these men at Ottawa. What is more, it is doubtful if the majority of them now there even earn the $4,000 which they receive.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

ROAD GEESE.

The public, motoring and pedestrian, is familiar with the road hog whose name is legion and whose offenses many. Another pest of the highway is the road goose whose honking means nothing except the evidence of inexperience or the total disregard of a desire to be a general nuisance.

Primarily an automobile horn is placed upon a car for the purpose of allowing the giving of warning. In serving this purpose it is so valuable an adjunct to motoring that the highway regulations insist that every automotive vehicle must be equipped with one which must be kept in perfect condition.

As an adjunct to joy riders and some other types of motorists, the auto horn is a pest. The road goose toots and honks when he is in line and the car at the head doesn't move even though it may be because the way is not clear. He honks when he sees a friend on the sidewalk. He gets outside the home of his girl friend and honks until she responds through sheer desperation. Above all he gets into a procession—it may be a line of new cars coming in to the dealers, or a motor parade, or a wedding procession, which cavorts through the streets with every horn of every vehicle honking to attest that there is a newlywed pair in the first car. Here he is at the height of his enjoyment. But what of children who thereby get a lesson in disregard of an auto horn as a warning of danger? What of those adjacent to the street unable to carry on their work because of the incessant noise? What of the mother, tired after a strenuous day's work who had just got the baby to sleep—to have it awakened by a passing marriage procession?

The road goose is a violator of ordinances which limit the use of the auto horn to its primary purpose—that of giving warning. It would bring much comfort if offenders against this ordinance were given a lesson on how a motor horn should be used.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

A Hamilton bridegroom-to-be eloped with $1,000 of the bride's money. She can console herself with the thought that it was worth that much to lose him.

From remarks made in the House, it might be safe to assume that Mr. Rowell is not as popular as he doubtless would like to be with some followers of the Government.

Aviation is making rapid progress in Canada as the record registration of 52 planes in May undoubtedly proves.

The Porcupine Advance quite bluntly informs the politicians that what the North Country needs is not promises, but better roads. Something for all parties to remember.

The people who used to read aloud the screen titles will now turn their attention to an audible discussion of how the plot is going to turn out.

Horoscope

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Thursday, June 13, 1929.

(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syn.)

This is rather an uncertain day, according to astrology. Good and evil planetary influence contend, the good dominating.

Women are especially favored under this sway which seems to promise much in romance as well as in business affairs.

It is a lucky wedding day making for love more than for material prosperity. Happiness is forecast, even though it is the thirteenth of the month.

Theaters to profit greatly in the autumn when the desire for amusement will be strong. Dramas of real worth again are foretold.

All through the summer music is to benefit, and for musicians great prosperity is indicated. Song writers will be especially fortunate in reaping large returns.

All the signs seem to presage for the air supreme achievements in the next few months. The radio as well as aviation will benefit.

If the stars are rightly interpreted, changes in radio operation will be made, owing to marvelous improvements in broadcasting. The air may be no longer free, the seers foretell.

Changes in fashions will benefit, manufacturers as well as merchants in the autumn. Increased extravagance in dress is indicated.

While this planetary government prevails, there may be haziness in the minds of college graduates about the next step in their careers, but this will pass for many new callings beckon.

Much foreign demand for Americans in many lines of work again is forecast. Women as well as men will be employed.

New streaks of gold ore will be reported before the end of the month, it is foretold, and there may be excitement in the west.

Persons whose birthdate it is, have the augury of odd experiences in the coming year when there may be an impulse toward secrecy and lack of frankness. This is dangerous, especially for those who are married.

Children born on this day probably will be intensely fond of all that is beautiful. The subjects of this sign are physically as well as intellectually courageous and many are natural leaders.

General Winfield Scott was born on this date 1786.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE ARE SORRY.

"I'm sorry" is equivalent to "excuse me" among the English. It is the universal formula for the common apology.

To say that you are sorry implies that you feel badly over making another feel badly. It means that if you had the thing to do over again you wouldn't do it. It means a change of mind and heart.

We use the same expression to cover practically all cases. We say "I'm sorry" after brushing against a person in a great crowd. We say the same thing when we have caused severe loss and anguish. The reason is that there is nothing further to say.

Remorse and self-hate, possibly terminating in suicide, are the extreme forms of being sorry.

We are often sorry for doing not only what brings loss to others but also what brings loss to ourselves. Sometimes one type, sometimes the other type is strongest.

In either case we have offended our conscience, our principles, our standards of action, and have compromised our reputation in the bargain.

Every occasion for saying "I'm sorry" implies some inconsistency between what is and what ought to be, between acts and ideals, between acts and social usage, and above all between impulse and the ideal self.

We are made to suffer sorrow when we act contrary to our best light, contrary to our best judgment and against out better nature.

Saying that you are sorry places you in the proper attitude to avoid the mistake in the future. It indicates the desire and willingness to make a fresh start. You are virtually asking for another chance to prove your true motive or to compensate for the injury.

It is also a means of self-defence. To say that you are sorry helps release the anger of the offended one. Humility is quite becoming under those conditions. And humility disarms the other. "He did not even say 'I'm sorry' is a terrible accusation, it rankles.

To say that you are sorry and mean it, is the least that you can do for being careless, stupid or downright malicious. And perhaps, in most cases, it is also the most and the best that you can do. (Copyright McClure Newspaper Syn.)

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

THE STORY THUS FAR

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald, tries to get an interview with Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It has been burned by a fire in the marsh until it is entirely unrecognizable except for the fact that it is a woman. Dr. Cavanaugh is called in to help with the identification. The only thing by which the body can be identified is a patch of scalp with some hair attached. Dr. Cavanaugh takes this home with him. He asks Don Ellsworth to secure for him a strand of Sheila O'Shay's hair, and Don violently refuses. Dr. Cavanaugh goes to the Ellsworth house to see if he can secure the needed hair. Mrs. Kane the waiting woman who has been with Sheila O'Shay throughout her career, is suspicious and hostile, but Dr. Cavanaugh gets what he is after. Peter Piper hopes to get advance information about the body found in the marsh from Dr. Cavanaugh through Barbara in whom he has become interested. Dr. Cavanaugh tells him that the body is that of Sheila O'Shay, and Barbara, who is present, faints when she hears this.

CHAPTER 17.

Dr. Cavanaugh, despite his age and his position on the steps, several feet farther away from the curb, was the first to reach Barbara's side. Peter, in fact, was rigid with astonishment, his face a blank mask of amazement. Only the sight of Cavanaugh's dark figure bending low, obscuring Peter's vision of the little heap of rose and white on the running board, brought his feet into tardy action.

Dr. Cavanaugh turned his head as Peter reached his side.

"If your reaction time is always as slow as that," he observed, "you'll be at a disadvantage in a number of situations."

"What do you think——" Peter stammered inanely.

"It's nothing to be upset about," Dr. Cavanaugh assured him. He did not add that the degree of Peter's concern was rather excessive. The sight of a faint could hardly be in itself alarming to an experienced newspaper reporter. "Too much tennis before breakfast. I've warned her before that she played too hard," he continued, extracting a small bottle from his pocket. He withdrew the cork and waved the phial under Barbara's nose. "She'll be all right in a few minutes."

Peter abstractedly picked up the tennis racquet from the sidewalk and stood turning it in his fingers.

"But can't I do something?" he asked miserably.

Barbara's eyes opened wearily and closed again. In another moment she had struggled unsteadily to her feet.

"Don't be in a hurry," Dr. Cavanaugh advised. "You've gone at things a little too hard and you paid the penalty in a fainting attack. Nature's way of enforcing withdrawal from the scene of activity. A day's rest in bed will set you up finely."

"Mayn't I carry her in?" Peter had never in his life felt so incompetent.

There was a hint of humor in Dr. Cavanaugh's glance.

"No such romantic measures are necessary, young man," he said. "My arm will be quite sufficient—though less spectacular. I'm not saying this to hurry you, but wasn't there something about your trying to get a story to your office ahead of time?"

He was half way across the street when Dr. Cavanaugh called him back.

"By the way," he said, "you might return my daughter's tennis racquet."

For the second time that morning, Peter blushed, as he looked down and saw the racquet unconsciously clutched in his hand. He bounded back to the curb and tilted it against the side of the car.

Barbara said nothing. She leaned against her father's encircling arm, and as far as Peter could judge, was oblivious of any other presence.

"If you're sure there's nothing I can do," Peter said hesitatingly. It seemed heartless to leave her like that. It did not occur to him that he had left bodies strewn by the roadside after a wreck in order to rush to the nearest telephone with his story, without a similar qualm. He wanted Barbara to look at him. He wanted to know whether her eyes would be those of Alice in Wonderland grown up, or the wary defensive orphan asylum girl, or of the self-possessed young woman who drove an expensive sport coupe.

'I assure you there's no cause for anxiety," Again Peter had to submit to the doctor's grave scrutiny, with its undertone of amusement.

Feeling very much like a small boy who has made a blundering nuisance of himself, he once again crossed the street and jerked "Bossy" into gear. It was only with the familiar hard smoothness of the wheel under his hand that his mind lurched into clarity. It was a clarity so disturbing that he fought it off with an almost physical sense of struggle. But it was no use.

Peter's brain, temporarily numbed, was once again functioning alertly. His emotional bias—and he admitted wryly that only an emotional earthquake could make him forget that Jimmie at the city desk was waiting for his report was powerless against the relentless chug-chug with which the events of the morning fell into place.

Barbara did not look like the kind of girl who would faint easily. She had not seemed in the least exhausted when he talked with her. She admitted that she had not read the papers recently—therefore, she probably knew nothing of the body found in the marsh. His memory raced back over the words of their conversation. He had mentioned a "big story" but had not said what the story was. Of course there were plenty of people who paid little attention to the papers. On the other hand, might she have deliberately kept away from them through fear of what she might read? It was a futile but very common defence which led people unconsciously to act as if what they did not know for certain was therefore non-existent.

She had fainted just after her father's announcement that Sheila O'Shay had been murdered. Was there a connection there? She had once been engaged to Don Ellsworth—and she did not want the fact to be known. Was she protecting Don? Or was her father—who, come to think of it, had been very anxious to get rid of Peter before Barbara should fully regain consciousness—protecting her? Was he afraid of what she might say when she once again realized the discovery from which she had recoiled into unconsciousness?

Peter faced with tightened lips and sick eyes the last question of all. Was her friendliness toward himself a deliberate device to secure him on her side because he might find out too much? Was she using the age old chicanery of women to beguile and confuse men? He recoiled, despising himself for the suspicion. But his dislike of the idea did not make it any the less possible. After all, the method, if it was a method had been disconcertingly effective! But he knew the danger of believing what you want to believe, and he forced his mind to meet squarely the image of her face.

"Damn it all," he grunted. "I don't know but I've got to find out!"

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

TO PASS THE TIME.

"I don't know how to pass the time,"
Some people say, and that's a crime.
For time's the only thing I know
There's not enough of here below.
There is so much that could be done
To make this world a better one
I never knew a year, I say,
That had a day
To pass away.

From heaven many blessings fall,
But time's the greatest gift of all.
The world is much inclined to scold
The man who wastes his gifts of gold.
And yet the greatest spendthrift is
The man who wastes this life of his,
Within a world that has such need
Of song, of seed,
Of friendly deed.

And yet how swiftly time will pass
To those who call it slow, alas.
It slips away before you know,
The slowest life is never slow.
The empty tale is soonest told,
And suddenly you find you're old.
To pass the time was all you knew,
But, while you do,
Time passes you.

POPE HAS AUDIENCE WITH SENATOR MARCONI

Pontiff May Construct Wireless Station on the Vatican Grounds.

VATICAN CITY, June 12.—(Canadian Press).Pope Pius gave an extended audience to Senator William Marconi yesterday with whom he had a long talk over the possibility of construction of a wireless station on the Vatican grounds. The Pontiff asked a number of questions showing a surprising technical knowledge of the problem and thanked the distinguished inventor warmly for putting his services at the disposal of the Holy See. He imparted a special blessing upon the Senator.

The Return

The sun was shining brightly upon the snow as Olga Petrinoff was led into the court-yard of the prison.

The sudden transition from the gloom of her cell to the glare of the outside world dazzled her. For a moment the sight of the sun that had been for so long denied to her made her forget why they had brought her here. And then she remembered that to-day was to be her last. They were leading her to her doom.

Mechanically she followed her guards along the path that led to the scaffold, trying not to show the fear that was in her, while the world seemed to totter and tremble under her feet. Then as in a dream she saw strange shapes hurtle over the wall, heard shots and the rattle of weapons, saw Nicholas Nicholavitch rush towards her, his face distorted with rage, saw him clutch his breast and fall to the ground, and then she felt strong hands bearing her away.

When the mists cleared, she found herself in a sleigh with Sergius Maskinoff beside her, his left hand in a band age and the other grasping a revolver. Realizing what was required of her she grasped the reins and turned to the horses. Sergius looked up at her with a smile.

"Well, little dove," he said, "your friends have not forgotten you. Now what do you say?"

"Giddap," replied Olga.

TORONTO CURB REMAINS DULL

OIL SECTION STEADY.

TORONTO, Ont., June 12.—(C.P.)—It rested with one of the most recent additions to the list to supply interest on the Toronto stock exchange to-day. Trading was again extremely dull and prices fluctuated only fractionally. Steel of Canada Preferred was an exception, advancing 3½ points to 54½, while Cockshutt Plow weakened one to 38, as did Nickel to 47½.

Ajax ran up to a high of 167 and held at 162, a net increase of 11 points. More than 12,200 shares of Ajax changed hands. Other oils were steady.

Wall Street Rallies After Quiet Beginning

NEW YORK, June 12. (C.P.) — Quiet strength characterized to-day's stock market; prices slipped off moderately in the early trading in sympathy with the decline in wheat futures, but fresh buying support quickly appeared, and the market rallied again under the leadership of the Alcohol, Public Utility and Railroad Equipment issues; trading continued extremely dull due to the absence of public participation and the restricted activities of professional traders.

Call money renewed unchanged at 8 per cent with a small volume of offerings reported available in the "outside market" as low as 7 1-2. Indications of a general easing of the general credit situation and the likelihood that the mid-month stringency will not be as bad as previously expected, have helped to revive bullish confidence in the market. Pools, except in a few public utilities and specialties, show little inclination to resume operations however until after the June credit strain is over.

MONTREAL CLUB HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Beaconfield Golf Club Suffers Loss of $100,000.

MONTREAL, Que., June 12.—(By the Canadian Press.)—The club house of the Beaconsfield Golf Club at Pointe Claire, near here, was almost completely destroyed by fire early today. Damage is estimated roughly at $100,000, the only part to escape the flames being a section of the women's wing. The fifty occupants of the place escaped, but two of them were slightly injured in jumping from upper storey windows.

The structure as it stood before the fire, was completed in 1913.

RIO-GRANDE OIL COMPANY

The Rio Grande Oil Company is a holding company which, through its subsidiaries, operates complete units for production, refining and marketing of petroleum and its products. The company has four subsidiaries and owns refineries in California, Arizona and Texas. It also has two casing head gasoline plants and a half interest in another which have a combined capacity of 60,000 gallons a day

It has storage facilities for nearly 1,700,000 bbls. of oil and according to last reports has 37 producing wells, 11 in process of drilling and 15 idle in California and Texas. It controls the entire output of 1000 acres of leases in the Elwood Terrace field in California under contract with the Barnsdell Oil Company. In addition it has 3500 acres of royalty properties in Texas, 48,800 acres of undeveloped leases in Texas. California and New Mexico, a harbor site, 57 miles of pipe line, 102 tank cars and 49 retail stations.

Sales have advanced steadily except in 1927. Net income amounted to $1,649,600 in 1928. This compares with $225,423 in 1927 and $256,954 in 1926. The increase was the result of a heavy demand for crude and lower operating expenses.

There is no funded debt, the former bond issue having been called May 1, 1929. Capital stock outstanding consists of 1,200,000 shares of no par value. The dividend rate is $2 a year payable semi-annually and dividends have already been declared payable July 25, 1929, and Jan. 25, 1930. Two stock dividends of 1½ per cent. each, also were declared payable April 25, 1929, and Oct. 25, 1929.

As of Dec. 31, 1928, total current assets amounted to $2,869,295. Current liabilities amounted to $2,047,201 and net working capital was $822,094. Book value applicable to the capital stoc kamounted to $33.62 a share.

MRS. BLANCHARD IS CHOSEN DELEGATE

OMEMEE, June 12.—(Examiner Correspondence). — The monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church was held in the Sunday School room on Thursday afternoon. A short program was given after which the remainder of the time was spent in sewing.

Mrs. Blanchard presided for the devotional exercises after which reports were heard from the secretary and treasurer. The group system, which was adopted the beginning of the year, has proven very successful and the work will continue as before for another quarter. Mrs. Blanchard was appointed the delegate to attend the third annual sectional convention in Lindsay on June 20 or 21.

Mrs. F. G. Sandy and Mrs. W. Brown kindly consented to be responsible for the program for the next three months and Mrs. R. Bradley will give the missionary talk in the Sunday school the first Sunday in July.

Through the kind invitation of Mrs. D. Weir, the society will meet at her home in July.

The devotional leaflet, "Is Tithing Practical?" was read by Mrs. J. Widdiss.

Several articles of clothing were completed for the bale after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. H. Gardiner, Mrs. T. A. McConnell and Mrs. J. Bushnell.

Recital Given.

The piano pupils of Miss Isobel McKee were heard to good advantage in a pleasing recital in Coronation Hall on Friday evening. The playing was very good in every instance, showing the careful tuition of the teacher. The hall was beautifully decorated with lilacs and tulips. Rev. J. T. E. Blanchard acted as chairman and in his remarks spoke very highly of the numbers given.

Miss McKee was assisted by Miss Helen Lamb, of Dorothy Allan Park Studio, and Jack McKone, a pupil of Donald Heins, who delighted the audience with his violin selections. Miss Gwen Mary Donley played the accompaniments for Miss Lamb and the young violinist.

At the conclusion of the program Miss McKee was presented with a beautiful bouquet of roses, by her youngest pupil, Miss Jean Southworth.

The program was as follows:

The Merry Peasant (Schumann)—Jean Parsons.

Queen of the Meadow (Graham)—Milburn Jones.

The Drum Major (American—Arthur Jamieson.

(a) Peter, Peter, (b) Fiddlestrings—Jean Southworth.

La Scintilla (Gartschaulk)—Gertrude Pogue.

Valse Elegante (Nolck)— Mabel Thorn.

Vocal solo, selected—Miss Helen Lamb.

Picnic Much Enjoyed.

The annual high school picnic was held to Chemong Park on Saturday afternoon under ideal weather conditions. Promptly at one o'clock the pupils and teachers gathered with their well-laden lunch baskets and soon were off in the numerous cars, which were in waiting. Sports of all kinds were indulged in during the afternoon, and needless to say many an appetite was created which was amply satisfied from the well stocked picnic table. The party returned home in the early evening, pleased with their afternoon's enjoyment.

The bake sale held by the flower committee of Trinity church was very successful on Saturday afternoon. About twenty dollars was realized.

Mr. Joseph Morden disposed of his house on King street west, his workshop on Victoria street and several lots between Athletic Park and Alma street to Mr. G. Sheriff of Dunsford.

WHEAT DROPS IN HEAVY SELLING

LIGHT RALLY LATER.

CHICAGO, Ills., June 12.—(Canadian Press).—A volley of selling orders, attributed to rejection by the Senate yesterday of the conference report on the farm bill, brought down grain prices precipitately as the market opened to-day. Wheat started 2¾ to 4¾ cents a bushel lower than Tuesday's closing prices and sagged still further to a maximum drop of 4¾ cents before reinforcement came from confident buyers and a sharp rally ensued.

Opening prices for wheat were from $1.03 to $1.04 for July contracts and $1.08 and $1.09 for September. Corn averaged around two cents a bushel lower at the outset, July delivery opening at 90 to 91¼ cents and September at 89½ to 90. The rally brought wheat back 1½ to 1¾ cents from the bottom level.

Taken On Motor Drive Through Kingston Early To-day.

VISIT QUEENS.

KINGSTON, Ont., June 12.—(By the Canadian Press.)—A warm welcome was extended to the pilgrims of the British Free Churches on arrival here his morning from Hamilon, by Kingson church folk. The party was met at station by several hundred people who escored them to the various United churches of Kingston, where breakfast awaited them.

Following the welcome by the local church people and the responses by members of the pilgrim party the pilgrims were taken on a motor drive through the city. Of the various points of interest, Queen's University and the Royal Military College aroused interest amongst the pilgrims. After their motor drive the visitors were taken to the City Hall, where an address of welcome on behalf of the city of Kingston and the local Chamber of Commerce by Mayor William J. Craig.

At Brockville the pilgrims were entertained at a civic luncheon and taken on a motor drive around the city.

NEWBEC UNDER HEAVY SELLING

Ajax Is In Big Demand and Price Soars To 167.

OILS ARE EASIER.

TORONTO, Ont., June 12 (Canadian Press).—Newbec and Ajax, which have practically monopolized trading on the Standard Mining Exchange for the past few days, worked in opposition to each other to-day. Newbec was subjected to heavy selling and in a turnover of more than 251,500 shares, broke 10 points to 62, while a strong demand for the oil stock sent the price soaring to a high of 167, with the noon quotation of 163 indicating a net advance of 14 points. Numerous rumors of heavy production from the well recently brought into production, accompanied the spectacular run in this stock.

Other oils were inclined to be easier, Mayland dipping 45 cents to 7.40, while Home lost 70 to 20.05, East Crest 25 to 2.45, and Dalhousie 15 to 3.60.

Noranda in a turnover of less than 500 shares, held unchanged at 52.00, while Sherritt-Gordon strengthened 15 cents to 7.25, and Ventures improved 10 to 8.35.

DALHOUSIE

Shares of Dalhousie are pretty well on bargain counter. With quite a drilling program under way, recent new successes have increased earnings materially. May output was 5131 barrels of crude and naptha as against 2577 for April.

Though no official announcement from Premier Gardiner, Liberal leader, is expected until next Monday, it is reported that he has decided not to resign until after the two deferred elections have been held. Such a movement probably would postpone the next meeting of the House until some time in August. The date of the Ile La Crosse election has been set as July 16, but it is expected that the Cumberland vote will be at a later date.

Premier Gardiner will meet his supporters on Monday next, according to announcement. A caucus is to be held at which will be present all Liberal members-elect and those Liberal candidates who were defeated in the recent election. The official returns should be known by Thursday of this week, when official reports from returning officers will be submitted.

HOME OIL.

Turner Valley May production figures as detailed from Calgary read: Naptha, Home 1 and 2, 22,872 barrels, crude, Home 1, 99 barrels and Home 2, 1534 barrels, or a total of 24,505 barrels. Taking this at low average of $3.50, makes $85,767.50 monthly, or $1,029,210 annually. These figures contain little naptha from No. 2, while June figures should show this well averaging at least its present capacity for the 30 days or about 12,000 barrels.

Labor Prime Minister Is Welcomed At Elgin

So eager were his women constituents to do him honor that they attached ropes to the Premier's car and pulled it from the Lossiemouth railway station to the MacDonald home.

It was Mr. MacDonald's first visit to his Scotland home since the Laborite election victory, and the constitution of the Laborite Government and a great crowd was at the railway station.

Royal York is The Biggest Hotel in the British Empire

Greatest hotel in the British Empire and highest building in Canada, the Royal York Hotel in Toronto has reached the final stages of preparation and is receiving the finishing touches prior to the arrival of the Vice-Regal party from Ottawa and its official opening by the Governor-General of Canada on Armies of men and women are unpacking 100,000 pieces of glassware and 150,000 pieces of china. They are checking 160,000 items of linens and putting the last polish on 84,000 pieces of silver. All sorts of mechanical equipment are being tested and tuned up for the inaugural ceremonies — automatic roll-warmers, puree-making machines, electrically-operated potato peelers, apple corers and vegetable parers, motor-driven sausage stuffers. Thirteen hundred telephones are being tested ready for the squad of 28 hand-picked operators who will take charge of them. Carpets are being laid along nearly seven miles of corridors and windows and plate glass, sufficient to cover several acres are being washed and shined. Seventeen elevators which can go from the basement to the top of the Empire's tallest skyscraper in 35 seconds, have been given a thorough tryout and are in perfect condition.

In the mammoth convention hall the largest organ in the Dominion with a portable five-manual console is installed and the process of tuning is almost finished—a delicate task which took weeks. On the same floor, radio engineers are completing the world's largest public address system which links up the thousand and more rooms in the mighty structure with loud speakers and, for the bedrooms, individual radio outlets.

The regiment of 1,500 men busily at work a few days ago, has dwindled to several hundreds as painters, plasterers, plumbers, steam-fitters and assembly crews completed their tasks. Marble-setters are among the last trades to leave the new Canadian Pacific hotel. Pillars and stairways are the final sections to receive the attention of the decorative squadrons.

Chefs, engineers, head waiters, housekeepers' assistants and scores of other employees needed to make up the Royal York's personnel of 1,200 members are now arriving daily. Reservations for guests are pouring in for dates as far distant as next December and in a few days another and the greatest unit in the coast-to-coast Canadian Pacific hotel chain will make its official debut.

Manager B. A. Neale and his executive staff moved into their offices in the Royal York some days ago and the skyscraper hotel passed, partially and semi-officially, from the architects and builders who have been erecting it, to the officials who will operate it when it opens.

Mr. Neale is now at the end of one of his most arduous tasks—that of picking the aspirants for positions in the hotel out of an avalanche of applications that has been continuous since last November. Naturally the undertaking of recruiting a regiment of such strength was something requiring the supervision of more than one man. Important executive posts were filled weeks ago and each department head is fully responsible for the work of his own particular division. The superintendent of services is in charge of the uniformed staff—porters, doormen, elevator operators and starters, pages and bellboys. The chef has between 125 and 175 skilled culinary experts under his control. The headwaiter commands a group of more than 300 workers. The housekeepers with a large number of assistants have been on the job some time now. Carpets and rooms have already been made spick and span and are being kept so with daily cleanings exactly as if the great hotel were running full blast.

There were a number of unusual positions to fill. A night auditing staff is required which comes on just before midnight and checks each day's receipts to the ultimate cent. There is a corps of 28 picked telephone operators. The printing establishment has three presses and a linotype machine to be manned. Special operators were needed for the radio and public address system which is the largest in the world and is handled from a separate control room on the convention floor.

There is now underway the interesting and involved job of training each employee in the specific requirements of his or her particular duties. There was no lack of experienced workers but the Royal York is unique among hotels and introduces a great amount of new equipment for the first time. Everything must be ready to start with machine-like precision at the zero hour on opening day and continue so without interruption for all the years of the hotel's operation.

If a telephone call to the Royal York brings the response that the line is busy, the inquirer can take it for granted that not one but 80 will be 1,300 individual telephones trunk lines are all in use. There handled by three private exchanges and requiring the services of 28 operators. A special public telephone room has 16 booths and a private exchange through which also pass the connections for 35 other public telephones in the building. Departments of the hotel must never lose contact with each other. Guests must be able to call the next room, overseas, or their distant homes with promptness and despatch. In addition to extra telegraph facilities radio outlets in every room and one of the mightiest of all public address systems provide all the inter-communication imaginable.

Food is not the least of the attractions of a first-class hotel and the Royal York has facilities proving its unbounded regard for that fact. The great new Canadian Pacific hotel has a series of kitchens, bakeries, shops and associated establishments which cannot be surpassed by any other similar institution in the globe. Beginning with the roof garden kitchen which overlooks Lake Ontario from an eminence of 24 storeys, the list continues with banquet kitchen on the convention floor, supplementary kitchen on the main floor, a kitchen in the basement for the grill and a separate kitchen for the cafeterias where employees of the hotels will be served. All pots and pans are nickel-copper. Table tops are all of stainless steel, monometal or marble. Dishwashers are mammoth affairs, two of those in the main kitchen having a capacity of 25,000 dirty dishes an hour apiece. There are countless refrigerators, more refrigerators proper, in fact, than any other hotel on earth, all shapes and sizes. One handy type, it is stated, rejoices in the name of the "step-in."

Ventilation furnishes one of the most interesting examples of the huge expenditures on construction for the particular purpose of looking after the comfort and health of visitors to Toronto. Air which the guests breathe is drawn from the heights, four hundred feet above ground, through special intakes high up in the hotel's upper tower. It is washed, heated and humidified according to the needs of the moment. There are in a huge tower chamber eleven supply fans capable of bringing in 325,000 cubic feet of ozone per minute from the higher regions of the city's atmosphere. Eighteen exhaust fans have a capacity of 450,000 cubic feet per minute. In the great halls and public rooms the air is changed every six to ten minutes; in the toilets every three to six minutes; and in sections like the hotel's laundry, every two minutes.

To recapitulate: It is the tallest building and largest hotel in the British Empire. Exact height is 404¾ feet. It has 1,089 rooms and its exterior design has been inspired by the architecture of medieval Lombardy. It is built of red sandstone at a cost of $16,000,000. It was built and will be operated by the Canadian Pacific Railway, as the premier unit in its coast-to-coast chain of hotels, stretching from Halifax to Victoria. Total staff will be in excess of 1,200 and annual payroll will exceed a million dollars. Food supplies purchased in the immediate vicinity of Toronto will represent a yearly expenditure of $750,000. Two whole floors are devoted to public rooms and halls for meetings, conventions, etc. It possesses the largest "public address" system in the world.

OPTIMISTIC SPIRIT PREVAILS AT ANNUAL MEETING OF EAST DURHAM WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

REPORTS READ.

Mrs. T. A. Skitch, Bailieboro, Is Chosen President at Election of Officers For Year.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, June 12.—Encouraging reports, interest of a very practical nature, and an optimistic spirit that viewed the future as an ever-widening sphere of bigger and better opportunities for service, featured the annual meeting of the East Durham Women's Institute held in the Town Hall, Millbrook, on Friday, beginning at 1:30 p. m., the district president, Mrs. T. A. Skitch, of Bailieboro, being the presiding officer.

There was a good representation from all of the eight branches in the district with the exception of two—Carden Hill and Charlecote failing to send delegates.

Prosperous Year

The president's address covered the work of the year in a comprehensive manner, appreciation of the ready assistance and co-operation which she had received from the executive, and the various branches, being particularly mentioned by Mrs. Skitch. That interest in Institute activities is not only well sustained, but that the individual branches are taking forward steps as they are seized with the importance of the work, and the many directions in which it is widening out, were points stressed by the president as she went on to mention business that must be settled at the district gathering, and to outline undertakings for the months ahead. The large and representative attendance was spoken of as a matter of especial satisfaction to the district president personally, and to the other executive officers as well

The report of the district secretary, Mrs. J. R. Eakins, whose office is no sinecure and whose duties are always exceptionally well performed, presented a number of important facts regarding the financial situation in the East Durham Institute, and among many other items of information gave some necessary instructions about the proper filling out of the annual report forms for each branch, one of which the secretary retains while the other is forwarded to Mr. Putnam at Toronto.

The reports from the branches were especially interesting, some questions and discussion bringing out helpful facts, and as a result of this interchange of information new features will be added to the various programs to be planned and carried out throughout the district, in connection with the regular monthly meetings, for the days that lie ahead.

BAILIEBORO BRANCH

Bailieboro branch, Mrs. T. A. Skitch president, reported 115 members, with a total raised of $208.34, and a balance now on hand of $131.50. This branch maintains the street lighting of the community, sent $10 to the Welsh Miners' Relief Fund; had lecture courses, helped with the judging competition, gave plants to its members, cultivated the social side in its meetings, and included charitable work among its activities.

CAVAN BRANCH

Cavan branch, Mrs. R. M. Howden president, has 44 members, and raised $355.64 during the year; the balance on hand is $131.36. Flowers and bulbs were supplied the members; a play, bazaar, dance, banquet, picnic, donation of prizes to the school fair, inauguration of a loan library, delegate to the annual convention at Toronto, with donations of $10 to the Christie Street Hospital, Toronto; $5 to the Star Santa Claus Fund; and $10 to the Welsh Miners' Relief Fund, were among the activities listed for the past twelve months.

BETHANY BRANCH

Bethany branch, Mrs. H. E. Reynolds president, reported 20 members, with $515.02 raised and a balance on hand of $167.37. This branch assumes the financial responsibility of the street lighting for the village, raising the necessary funds by the sale of ice-cream n the summer months, and by social evenings and entertainments, etc. in the winter. With the exception of the president all new officers were elected at the annual meeting, and the branch will adopt the plan of using the official program at its regular meetings for the current year.

ELIZABETHVILLE BRANCH

Elizabethville branch, Mrs. A. Muldrew, president, has 33 members enrolled, and raised a total of $113.-31, with a balance now on hand of $45.95. Plants were given the members, flowers were sent to sick and shut-in folks in the community, help given in the judging competition, and as a special item the redecorating of the church was undertaken at considerable expense. The regular meeting is on the first Wednesday of each month.

MOUNT PLEASANT BRANCH

Mount Pleasant branch, Mrs. G. Graham, president, has a membership roll of 21, raised $118.58, and has a balance on hand of $24.13. A purchase of a hall in the village, and its thorough renovation for community purposes when public gatherings are held, has been the big item in the program for this branch during the past year. Further improvements to the hall are planned as funds are available. Flowers were sent to the sick, help given with the judging competition, the vice president, Mrs. Ira Lowes, made a member of the League of Nations, and other activities undertaken with marked success during the year.

GARDEN HILL BRANCH

Garden Hill branch reports 17 members, total amount raised $267.-79, and balance on hand of $160.50. This branch had a booth at the school fair, and successfully maintains the community hall at Campbell croft, finding its rental a source of revenue; it gave prizes for the school fair, donated money for charitable purposes, gave plants to its members, and donated first aid kits to the schools. It pays the caretaker's salary for the W. I. Hall, and held a dance for the purpose of adding to its funds. Its regular meeting is on the first Tuesday of each month.

CHARLECOTE BRANCH

Charlecote branch has 45 members, raised $279.23, and has a balance of $84.54. It held a picnic, held a booth at the Port Hope fair, gave plants to its members, held a sale of quilts, did work for the Children's Shelter at Port Hope, helped with the school concert, donated $5.00 to the Shelter, $5 to the Star Santa Claus fund, and $5 to the Welsh Miner's Relief fund, and gave assistance to the Port Hope hispital. It was the only branch in the district that paid the fee to the Federated Women's Institute, sending $4 for this purpose. It recently celebrated its twentieth birthday.

MILLBROOK BRANCH

Millbrook branch reported 97 members, year's receipts $585.58, balance on hand $430.42. Activities included a banquet, picnic known as 'Grandmothers' Day', a St. Patrick's Day social, a delegate to the annual convention at Toronto, prizes for the school fair, baskets of good cheer at Christmas, flowers for the Cenotaph, a new dresser for the Town Hall, money spent for charitable purposes, and a euchre that was largely attended and added a goodly amount to the treasury.

Mrs. Charles Thorndyke took the chair during the election of officers, and Mrs. H. J. Armstrong acted as secretary. The list for 1929-30 is:

President—Mrs. T. A. Skitch, Bailieboro.

Vice President—Mrs. Gardent Shields, Mount Pleasant.

Secretary-Treasurer — Mrs. J. R. Eakins, Millbrook.

District Director—Mrs. Ira Lowes, Mount Pleasant.

Directors — Garden Hill, Mrs. R. Gardiner; Mount Pleasant, Mrs. Mrs. Garnet Shields; Bailieboro, Miss E. Jackson; Millbrook, Mrs. J. W. Hilton; Charlecote, Mrs. R. Davidson; Bethany, Mrs. W. McCartney; Elizabethille, Miss V. Blanchard; Cavan, Mrs. Lloyd Sutton.

At the conclusion of the business session lunch was served, and a pleasant social hour enjoyed.

OPPOSITION TO LAYMAN MEMBERS

OTTAWA, Ont., June 12.—(Canadian Press).—A great deal of interest at the Presbyterian General Assembly in St. Andrew's Church here centres in the report of the conference held between representatives of the Board of Administration and other Boards of the Church to consider the question of re-organization of church government. At last year's assembly a committee convened by Rev. L. R. Drummond, D.D., of Hamilton recommended that drastic changes should be made in the composition of the Board of Administration by the addition of ministers to its lay membership, that its name should be changed to "the General Board" and its powers be extended to make it practically supreme in all administrative matters.

There was vigorous opposition to this especially in the matter of the appointment of ministers to the Board. It was also felt by many that the return to the "General Board" form of government would give too much power into the hands of the paid officials of the church. The Assembly appointed eight ministers to the Board as an experiment and referred the recommendations to the conference whose report is now submitted to this year's assembly.

This report includes the recommendation that the name "Board of Administration" be retained rather than changed to 'the General Board.' On the other hand, the recommendations of the Drumomnd committee regarding the definition of the duties of the Board of Administration, recommending that the General Assembly re-open consideration of this question. It is expected, however, that some satisfactory solution will be arrived at without undue contention.

Chemist Tells How to End Dandruff and Stop Falling Hair

That dandruff is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair is a well-known fact. We appreciate, therefore, the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. For this reason it is a pleasure to give herewith the prescription which a famous scalp specialist states he has found, after repeated tests, will completely end dandruff in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair growth after years of partial baldness. This prescription can be made up at home, or any druggist will put it up for you—6 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavona de Composee, one-half drachm Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly, and after standing an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger tips. If you wish it perfumed, add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume—you'll be delighted!

JUNIOR MINISTRY IS APPROVED BY ENGLISH PEOPLE

whenever circumstances permit it. Even the Tory writers long before the new government was contemplated regarded her as a possible first woman Chancellor of the Exchequer. Blue books are her staple literary diet. The law is in her blood as her father is a solicitor, her grandfather was a judge and one of the present Lords of Appeal is her uncle. During the debates on the derating scheme at the last session she was one of the keenest and best informed critics of this complicated legislation.

The appointment of F. W. Pethwick-Lawrence to the important post of Financial Secretary to the Treasury betokens he is slated eventually for even higher office. An old Etonian and a former wrangler at Cambridge, he once owned a London evening newspaper, long since defunct, on which Premier MacDonold was an editorial writer. In the suffragette days, Mr. Lawrence was sufficiently ardent for the cause to go on a hunger strike and suffer his home to be searched. During the war he was mobbed as a pacifist at Aberdeen.

Two Members of Lords

Minor posts will go to two members of the House of Loard. Earl Russell, who will represent the Labor ministry there as Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Transport, bears a name long honored in Parliamentary annals. He has expert knowledge of the matters he will now be called upon to deal with, for he was chairman of the London County Council Highways committee as far back as 1897. He is 63 years old and joined the Labor party in 1916. A Conservative journal remarks Russell's entry into the government marks anew the continuity of British Parliamentary tradition in the old families of what used to be called the "governing classes."

Although Earl De La Warr, who takes up the Under-Secretaryship of the War Office, is of considerably lighter calibre, he has already participated frequently on behalf of Labor in the debates of the House of Lords. He is 28 years old and was Lord-in-waiting to the King during the previous Labor government. During the war he served on a mine-sweeper.

It is noted that while the Premier has continued to draw largely from his north country adherents the trades union element is not unduly prominent. The Morning Post remarks the minor ministers reflect pretty well the more moderate socialism of the cabinet.

Several Posts Vacant

There are still several posts awaiting occupants. The chief among them is the Parliamentary Secretaryship of the Treasury, commonly known as the Chief Government whip which, it is expected, will again be filled by T. Kennedy.

Arthur Ponsby, in taking on the Under-Secretaryship of the Dominions will likely have an especially onerous time with his chief, Rt. Hon. Sidney Webb, being in the House of oLrds. The fact that the Imperial conference is to meet next year will throw a considerable burden on the holder of this office. The Manchester Guardian thinks, too, this office will have a heavy responsibility in as much as the Labor government is bound to resist the demand for "continuity" in colonial administration.

Dr. Hugh Dalton who becomes Under-Secretary for foreign Affairs is primarily an economist. He is another old Etonian who finds himself in the Labor ranks and during the war he served on both the French and Italian fronts. His father, now 90 years old, was tutor to King George and his brother, the late Duke of Clarence.

20 Years in Post Office

C. G. Ammon, financial and Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty spent twenty years in the post office, starting as a telegraph messenger and finishing as a sorter. He entered politics via the Postal Trade Union and is regarded as a solid member of the House of Commons who expresses the views of the average man. He got his early inspiration from such worthy sources as Wesleyan class meetings and quiet Trades Union gatherings.

Nothing so far has been said of the secretaryships to the Department of Overseas Trade and the Ministry of Pensions, of the Assistant Postmaster-General, the Lord Advocate of Scotland or the Solicitor-General for Scotland. There are also three Royal Household political appointments still vacant, namely Vice-Chamberlain, Treasurer and Comptroller. The holders of these also act as Whips. The posts will probably fall to J. S. Hayes of Liverpool, former Metropolitan policeman; Ben Smith, member for Rotherhithe and long associated with the Transport Workers' Union, and W. Whiteley, a miners' leader of Durham.

Several Names Missing

Among the other members of the last Laborite ministry whose names do not yet re-appear are Vernon Hartshorne, Rhys Davies and Major C. R. Attlee. The absence of the latter, however, is officially explained by the fact that he has been assigned to the Indian Statutory Commission and that the Prime Minister feels that until the commission has completed its work it would be improper to attach him to the government. His claims will be considered later.

Nothing, however, is said about the non-inclusion of Commander J. M. Kenworthy, one of the most prominent recruits from Liberalism to Labor of the last couple of years. His activity in the House, especially at question time, is prodigious.

Knighthoods are being conferred on W. Jowitt, K.C., the new Attorney-General, and J. B. Melville, K.C., new Solicitor-General.

POLICE UNIFORMS HAVE ARRIVED

Peterborough's police force will soon be attired in their snappy new uniforms, supplied by the local firm of Riley and Hickey. This same firm were the ones to receive the contract also for the Firemens uniforms which were received a few weeks ago.

The officers have been trying the new suits on and have found them satisfatcory in every way. Ten days after the contract was received, which was issued by tender, the new uniforms were in the stores and delivery will take place in the near future.

ELECTORS GO TO POLLS IN SOUTH AFRICA

Against Government

The Civil Service vote and also the votes of the railwaymen are expected to swing solidly against the Government but owing to the wide distribution of these voters it is difficult to calculate their aggregate effect.

The South African Party stalwarts naturally predict a swing of the pendulum in their direction, with sweeping victories for their candidates. The Nationalist Party officials say, "With luck we shall have a victory that will astonish the country."

Results in urban constituencies will be announced to-morrow night and may give some indication of the feeling of the country. They will have to be interpreted with reserve, however, as the issue will really be decided by the voting in Cape Province, Transvaal, and Northern Natal rural areas from which it is expected the results will be declared Thursday afternoon or evening. Some results will come in much later, but by midnight on Thursday the fate of the government should be clearly indicated.

2,800 ATTEND BRILLIANT BALL IN NEW HOTEL

Empire's Largest Hotel Has Cost $16,000,000 To Equip and Build.

YEARS OF PLANNING.

Many Notables Deliver Speeches at Opening Ceremonies.

TORONTO, Ont. June 12.—(Canadian Press).—With its soaring tower illuminated by flood lights and every window agleam, the Royal York, largest hotel in the British Empire, was the scene last night of one of the most brilliant social functions in the history of Toronto, a ball attended by 2,800 persons. The event marked the culmination of the official opening ceremonies attended yesterday by leaders in every section of the life of the dominion.

Viscount Willingdon, Governor General of Canada, shortly after noon, spoke the words which officially opened the vast building to the public and then preceded by pipers, walked through the entrance and placed his name at the top of the first sheet in the guest book. The ceremony was performed in the presence of 1,300 members of the Toronto Board of Trade and representatives of the dominion government, the senate, representatives of foreign countries, the Ontario government, and the directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway, owner and operator of the hostelry.

Years of planning and 18 months of actual construction were climaxed by yesterday's opening. It has been announced that $16,000,000 was expended in construction and furnishing of the hotel which has 1,100 guests rooms, ball rooms, convention halls and equipment ranking it with any other building of its type in the world.

Distinguished guests at the opening, Viscount Willingdon, Premier Ferguson of Ontario, Mayor Sam McBride, Toronto, Sir William Mullock, Toronto, hailed the completion of the edifice as a sign of Canadian advance in particular and empire advance generally. E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was singled out for congratulations.

Sir William Mulock, Administrator of the Province of Ontario in the absence of the Lieut-Governor and Chief Justice of Ontario, speaking at the luncheon held the empire fabric would be closer knit by reason of the construction of the hotel.

Land of Progress

"It tells to the world that Canada, the young giant of the north, is a land of progress, of prosperity, of confidence, a land dominated by an indestructible national spirit," he said.

Sir William made an unexpected reference to United States tariffs while speaking of national prosperity and Canadian facilities for pursuing world trade, "If the United States closes its markets against Canadian products we must discover others, and this we can and will do," he said.

Premier Ferguson in responding to the toast "O Canada" referred to himself as head of a publicly owned railroad in Ontario which was in a position of leadership in Canada. The Canadian Pacific railway he said, reflected Canada and spread the news of Canada throughout the world.

Following the luncheon parties of guests inspected the hotel from cellar to garret, listened to the pipe organ, witnessed talking movies and saw the marvels of mechanical equipment.

Last night four ballrooms echoed to the sound of dance music and the hotel swung into place as a unit of a great transportation system, a stopping place for travellers, a convention centre and a pivot in the social life of Toronto.

BANK MANAGERS HOLD CONFERENCE

District Heads of Canada Bank of Commerce Meet in Chamber of Commerce.

At the group meeting of managers of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, held yesterday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, many topics of interest with regard to improvements of service to the public in banking circles, were discussed.

Those present for the meeting were managers from the district: H. W. Lapp of Campbellford, W. A. Johnson of Cobourg, S. Sutton of Colborne, W. R. Belt of Grafton, R. E. Nevison of Lakefield, C. R. Jewell of Lindsay, A. G. McDermott of Norwood, A. J. Reynolds, manager, and J. G. Whyte, accountant, of the local branch, also R. A. Rumsey, assistant general manager, of Toronto, and W. Hogg, superintendent, of Toronto.

WOMEN HOLD SOCIETY RALLY

SPECIAL ADDRESSES.

LAKEFIELD, June 12 (Examiner Correspondence).—The sectional rally of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held recently in the school-room of Knox United Church.

Owing to an oversight the notice given to the officers of Knox United Church W.M.S. was so short that it was well nigh impossible to reach all the branches in the district. However, every effort possible was made and the meeting was very successful and helpful and though the attendance was not as large as it would have been if sufficient notice had been given, nevertheless it was gratifying to those who had braved the difficulties of getting a scattered district together. Unfortunately, owing to the absence of both Rev. and Mrs. Totten, it was impossible to get in touch with Bridgenorth.

Mrs. Richards of Whitby was the speaker and her talk on "Mission work in our own land" was helping and inspiring.

Mrs. Richards had first-hand information on the subject, as she, with her husband, had been engaged in this work for some time. She had helped to teach some of the new Canadians English and had learned some of their languages at the same time, as there were children of many races who are in our great West and these new Canadians form one of our problems and responsibilities.

Mrs. Herrington of Warsaw gave the report of the annual meeting held in Kingston in April and early May. Mrs. Herrington stressed the urgent need of the women writing to fight the great menace which the liquor question constitutes in our fair Canada, and feels that concerted action on the part of the women would do much to lessen the evil.

During the afternoon suitable and very acceptable musical selections were given by Mrs. G. Craig Bell and Mesdames J. R. Hull and G. E. Renwick.

A delightful social hour was spent after the meeting and the ladies were enabled to ask questions and to exchange ideas about the work. A hearty vote of appreciation was extended to Mrs. Richards for her splendid address. Delegates were present from Regent Street United Church, Warsaw, Selwyn and Wesley.

The annual picnic of the Young People's Society of Knox United Church was held on Thursday of last week to Chemong, where about twenty-four young people including Rev. T. M. Wesley were present and had a delightful time.

Invitations are out for the closing exercises of The Grove School on Friday afternoon commencing with the chapel service at 2.30 p.m.

house while the accused occupied the summer kitchen, in which the fire started.

He first became aware of the fire when awakened by his mother and sister calling "Fire." Partly dressed he had rushed as quickly as possible to the back of the house, but when opening the door leading to the summer kitchen the flames and smoke were bellowing up. He shut the door; secured a pail of water and threw it on the flames by means of the window. The window had already been partly consumed by the fire.

He met his father standing on the steps of the winter kitchen. The accused was doing nothing, just standing there, but he was fully clothed, even to a hat. Despairing of extinguishing the blaze, he, his mother and his sister began taking out the furniture from the front part of the house. The father did not assist, but may have brought out two chairs. The accused even refused to aid in removing the piano to safety.

Upset the Piano

Later the accused had brought up the stone boat with a horse and made motions as though to move the piano from the house by means of the stone boat. The witnesse tried to deter him and the accused became violently angry yelling, in the words of the witness, "Stand back, or I'll lay you cold." The accused placed the piano on the stone boat and later upset it as he drew it away.

When he returned for a load of furniture he became angry when two chairs fell off and ran to the back of the house, returning with an axe in his hand. A neighbor wrestled with him and took the axe away.

The accused and the rest of the family were not on good terms, and the father had removed to the summer kitchen, where he slept and even cooked his own meals. He did not speak to his wife or daughter and the witness stated that he had slapped them.

The witness stated that he had found a coal oil can nea rthe gate after the fire, having first noticed it while the house was in flames. There was about a quart of oil still remaining in this can. He had seen a similar can full of oil in the car shed on the previous day. The can had been partially conecaled by rags.

The accused had slept in the summer kitchen since Christmas and he had kept his clothes on hooks around the walls. Some of his personal belonging including clothes and a shaving kit had been found after the fire by the witness in the car shed and in an unused part of the pig pen.

Threatened to Burn House

He had previously threatened to burn the house, witness stated, when he requested that his insurance papers be brought to him.

Under cross-examination, the witness stated that he worked on the farm, and that he was not first awakened by men calling; it was women's voices that called him.

There were five bedrooms in the house and two were unoccupied at the time that the accused was sleeping in the summer house.

The witness could not remember who was present when the threats about burning the house and other violence had been made. He maintained that there were plenty of hooks for the accused's clothes and there was no necessity for him hanging them in the car shed.

He did not notice any peculiar odor of burning coal oil on the night of the blaze. There had been a chimney fire in the house some weeks previous.

Re-examined the witness was asked: "Was it possible for anyone to remove anything from the summer kitchen after he had first looked at the fire." The answer was "No."

Gertrude Maloney, daughter of the accused, was next called. She stated that she was a nurse at Campbellford and was spending a vacation at home at the time of the fire.

She substantiated the evidence of the previous witness on the inactivity of the accused in trying to aid in removing the furniture. She also told of the accused threatening her brother with the axe.

Her father had been acting strangely since Christmas and at the time when her brother was ill had continued in a violent rage for several days. He would not give his wife money and would not provide food for his family.

Under cross-examination she stated that she had not smelt coal oil on the night of the fire. She had heard that her father had been examined by doctors.

Vera Maloney, another daughter of the accused, was next called. She reiterated most of the evidence of the former witnesses. She stated that the accused had not had a fire in the summer kitchen all day, but that he might had lit one at night. She had seen him carrying some of his clothes to the car house on the evening before the fire.

Under cross examination she stated that her relations with the accused had not been bitter. The stove smoked badly in the summer kitchen. She could not say whether there had been a fire in this stove the night of the fire.

Had Quarrel With Father

Donald Maloney, eldest son of the accused, stated that he had worked all his life on his father's farm until he had been ordered off. The accused had torn down a house on his farm in Hastings during the past winter. Part of this building he had moved into Marmora and other portions still remained on the road. He told of an agreement between the accused and himself for renting a farm, the property of the accused. This agreement had been concluded before its expiration by the accused. All relations had been good between the two until near Christmas, when he noticed a decided change in the behaviour of his father.

There had been several disagreements leading to court action arising from property on the farm which he had leased.

Cross-examined, the witness admitted that the house torn down had been unoccupied for at least five years, and that the accused owned lots in Marmora.

William Richardson, an insurance agent in which company the home had been insured, stated that the amount of the insurance was $500. Tuesday evening, the same day as the fire, the accused had called at the witness' home and had stated that he did not desire the insurance although his home had burnt down.

Cross-examined, the witness stated that ha had inspected the house and doubted if it could be built for $3,500. Small insurance was carried on all the buildings.

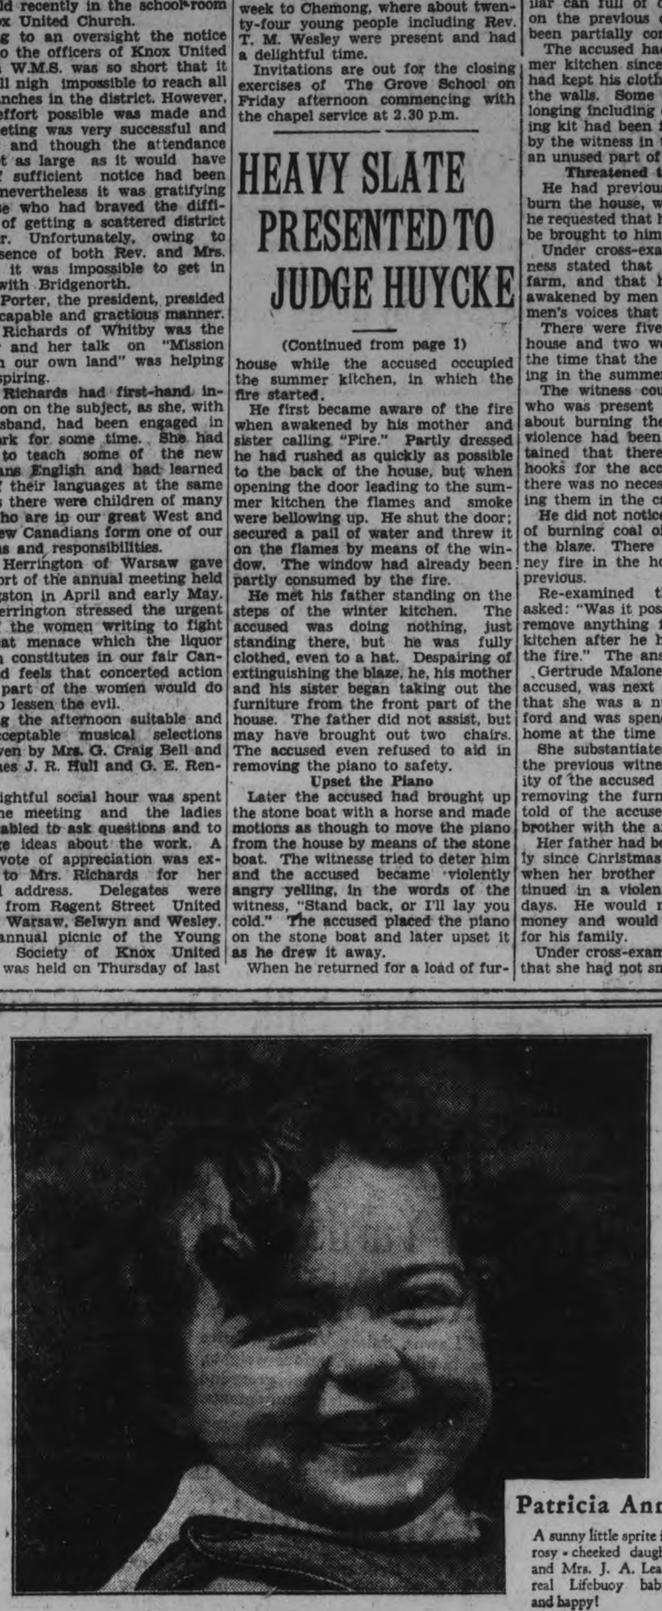
At 5 p.m. the Grand July brought in a true bill in case of the King versus John S. Moore for arson.

The Grand Jury is composed of: H. Archambault; E. L. Adamson; Albert Bullock; S. Belfry; John Coughlin; Elwood Crapp; David Darling; John Drain; J. F. Leeson; Frank Rome (foreman); Charles Tanner and David Thompson.

The members of the Petty Jury are Herbert eBavis; Thomas Collins; A. C. Wolfe; Milford Northey; J. E. Gallagher; Ernest Harvey; Harold Weir; F. D. Leahy; Irvine Chittick; William Gamble; George Bebor and Harry Short.



Patricia Ann Leason

"Patricia has never been sick a day in her life

. . . . and frequent washing of her hands and face with Lifebuoy has been a big factor in keeping her healthy"

"OUR little daughter, Patricia Ann, is two years and five months old and she's never had a sick day in her life, nor even suffering a cold.

"She's so chubby and bright, she just seems to radiate health. The constant use of Lifebuoy soap for her bath and frequent washing of her hands and face with Lifebuoy has been a big factor in keeping her healthy, I believe.

"In fact, I attribute the splendid health of my whole family in large part to our habit of washing with Lifebuoy many times every day and getting rid of germs that we simply can't help getting on our hands.

"Lifebuoy is a marvelous soap for the skin, too, it's so mild. And at the same time, it's so invigorating that my husband calls it his 'pep' soap. We certainly do think Lifebuoy is the best soap ever!"

Guard your family's health!

Mrs. Leason's letter is typical of the way millions of mothers rely upon Lifebuoy to help them keep sickness out of their homes.

Your own family has to wash with some toilet soap anyway. So why not use Lifebuoy? Its gentle, antiseptic lather removes germs with dirt. And because it purifies the pores Lifebuoy is a perfect soap for the complexion.

You'll quickly learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant extra-clean scent, which tells you it purifies and which vanishes as you rinse. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOSIAH BULLOCK.

LAKEFIELD, June 12 (Examiner Correspondence). — The funeral of Mrs. Josiah Bullock took place on Sunday afternoon from the family residence on Queen Street, and was largely attended by friends and relatives. Rev. J. B. McCormack was in charge of the service, which was held at one o'clock owing to Mr. McCormack's afternoon service at Selwyn.

Mr. McCormack took as his text, "And the last enemy to be destroyed is death." Death to us means separation, the tear-stained cheek and the vacant chair. God is not the friend of death and corruption meets its end in what we call death. Christ, by His sacrifice on the cross, abolished death and brought about everlasting life, delivering the soul from sin and death. We have His personal assurance of immortality, and He came to seek and to save sinners and bring them to the place of many mansions prepared for those who believe. The deceased lady did not fear death, but looked on it as a gate to life eternal, where she would be freed from the pain which for so long had racked her earthly body. The enemy which separates us from our loved ones has been destroyed and we wake with Christ in His likeness, waiting beside the river for our dear ones to join us. Our sister believed all God told her, and followed along the path which leads to the way of life, and now she has her reward as she is for ever with the Lord. This comes to all of us, for we know not the day or the hour that our soul shall be required of us, and we know where we are going and what to expect, and in a little while we shall meet again.

The beautiful hymn, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," was sung, and the funeral cortege proceeded to Lakefield Cemetery for burial, the pall-bearers being six sons-in-law: Messrs. William McIlmoyl, Herbert Matthews, Ernest Harvey, John Hurl, William Payne, and Aaron Tackaberry.

The late Mrs. Bullock was Elizabeth Ann Northey before her marriage, and was the daughter of the late William Northey and his wife, Ann Perkins. She was born in England 88 years ago, and came to Canada when an infant, living all her life in Smith Township until twenty-one years ago, when the family removed to Lakefield. Mrs. Bullock had been in bad health for the past sixteen years, and had been a patient sufferer, for her illness was of an intensely painful character. She was a member of the Baptist Church.

She is survived by her husband, Josiah Bullock, five daughters, Mrs. H. Matthews and Mrs. E. Harvey of Young's Point, Mrs. William Payne of Dummer, Mrs. John Hurl of Lakefield, and Mrs. A. Tackaberry of Lion's Head, and three sons, Charles Wesley of Smith, Samuel of Lakefield, and Josiah, Jr., of Young's Point. One daughter, Mrs. William McIlmoyl, and two sons, William John and Peter, predeceased her.

MRS. GEORGE AEKER.

MARMORA, June 12.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—The funeral of the late Mrs. George Aeker, a former resident, whose death occurred in Toronto on Saturday, took place on Monday afternoon. The remains arrived on the early afternoon train and proceeded to the United church for service, which was taken by Rev. C. J. Beekley, pastor. Sons of the deceased, Herman, John, Richard and Charles, and two daughters, Mrs. T. McWilliams and Mrs. Mulligan, attended in addition to the local relatives. Interment took place in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

FRANCIS JAMES McILMOYL.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, June 12. — The funeral took place on Monday afternoon from his late residence in Smith, of Francis James McIlmoyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McIlmoyl of Smith.

Mr. McIlmoyl was born 53 years ago in Smith, on the farm where his life was spent, and had been a worthy and useful member of the community of Selwyn, being active in church work and in the community, where he was well known, and had many friends, who valued his friendship, and respected him for his integrity. Besides his wife (formerly Lily Edmison of Bridgenorth) he is survived by his parents, one sister, Mrs. William Hillman, of Lakefield, and two brothers, William and Gilbert, of Smith. He was a member of the Selwyn United church, and the funeral service, and the funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. O. Totten, pastor of Bridgenorth and Selwyn United churches.

The funeral was very largely attended, and the cortege proceeded from the family residence to the Lakefield cemetery for interment.

REPORT OF COUNCIL GIVEN.

Monthly Meeting of Marmora Council No. 279, C.O.C.F., is Held.

MARMORA, June 12 (Examiner Correspondence)—The monthly meeting of the Marmora Council No. 279 C.O.C.F. was held at the home of Friend Mrs. W. S. Narrie on Tuesday evening. Chief Councillor W. J. Cottrell gave an interesting report of the recent bi-ennial grand council held in Hamilton. Dainty refreshments were served at the close.

BIRTHDAY PARTY HELD.

FOWLER'S CORNERS, June 12.—A very pleasant and social time was spent at the home of Harry Fowler, 2nd Line Smith, on Wednesday evening, June 5, when he entertained about twenty-five of his relatives in honor of his birthday.

Dinner was served at seven-thirty o'clock. The dining room being decorated with mauve and lilacs. During the evening Mr. Fowler was presented with a gold watch and chain by Mrs. Joseph Madill on behalf of the relatives. Miss Lila Deyell reading the address.

Mildred Fowler, whose birthday falls on this date, was also remembered with gifts.

Althought taken by surprise, a suitable reply was made by Mr. Fowler. The remainder of the evening was spent in speeches, games and music; closing with God Save the King.

This is truly an international goodwill program marking the first time in history that a program originating in Canada has been given such widespread publicity by United States radio stations.

Louis A. Witten will be guest master-of-ceremonies and will fly from New York to Toronto especially to officiate at this event.

The program as arranged promises excellent entertainment. The 48th Highlander's Band of fifty musicians under the baton of Captain John Slatter, has been specially engaged by permission of Colonel G. H. McLaren, O.C., and the officers of the 48th Highlanders, one of Canada's outstanding military units, who are allied with the Gordon Highlanders of Scotland.

Captain Slatter, whose band experience was largely gained with the famous organization of the 1st Life Guards, has led the 48th to many triumphs. They travelled the United States and Canada for three years, and have been selected many times to represent Canada at World's Fairs and Exhibitions, and have the honor of having played before the largest audience ever assembled at Madison Square Gardens, New York, to hear a band concert.

The guest artiste will be Madame Jeanne Dusseau, soprano. Madame Dusseau was born in Scotland, but received her training and first experience in Canada. As a leading soprano of the Chicago Opera company, where she sang with Galli-Curci and Mary Garden, she created the role of Ninetta in the world premier of Prokofieff's opera, "The Love for the Three Oranges." Madame Dusseau is ranked with the foremost sopranos of the day.

During the program, an address on international good-will will be delivered by Rt. Hon. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario. The complete program for the broadcast is as follows:

1. God Save the King (accompanied by band)—Madame Dusseau.
2. Star Spangled Banner (accompanied by band)—Madame Dusseau.
3. International Medley (arranged by Paul Deville)—48th Highlanders Band.
4. Group of Songs: (a) Annie Laurie; (b) My Lovely Celia (Old English); (c) D'ou viens-tu (French-Canadian. Arr. by Laliberte); (d) The Banks of the Daisies (Old Irish); (e) The Highland Lad (Scotch)—Madame Dusseau. Accompanist for Madame Dusseau, Mrs. A. M. Russel).
5. Address on International Goodwill—Premier G. Howard Ferguson.
6. Blue Jackets Patrol (Meacham)—48th Highlanders Band.
7. O Canada (accompanied by band)—Madame Dusseau.

RADIO PROGRAM

Paul R. Mallon, head of the Capitol staff of the United Press, will be the speaker presenting "A Political Review from Washington" to radio listeners over the National Broadcasting Company's System, Wednesday night, June 12, at 7.45 o'clock, Eastern Daylight Time.

Mallon has been associated with the United Press in Washington for more than ten years, most of which time he has been assigned to cover the proceedings of the House and the Senate. He was formerly a reporter on the Louisville Courier-Journal. He was with ex-President Coolidge at the time President Harding died in San Francisco, and covered the story when Colonel John Coolidge administerd the oath of office to his son. He has also traveled with Coolidge on several important trips.

Mallon's talk will be broadcast from the NBC System Washington studios over the following stations: WJZ, New York; WBAL, Baltimore; KDKA, Pittsburgh; KWK, St. Louis; WLS, Chicago, and WRC, Washington.

WHIPPOORWILL CHOOSES SLAG DUMP FOR NEST

No Usual Nesting Material Is Used By This Bird.

CARMORA, June 12 (Examiner Correspondence).—A whippoorwill is nesting at the extreme end of the slag dump at Deloro in a little cavitiy on the bare slag surface, needing no usual nest material for its comfort or the safety of the two large brown mottled eggs upon which the bird is sitting.

Upon the approach of anyone, the creator of this unusual scene tamely retires a few feet from the nest as much as to suggest, "When you are through with your inspection, I will be grateful if you will let me return."

Madame Jean Dusseau, distinguished Canadian soprano, who will sing to-night over CKGW.

PREMIER NAMES JUNIOR MINISTRY

List Includes Ben Turner, Arthur Ponsonby and Susan Lawrence.

APPOINTMENT PENDING.

LONDON, June 12.—(Canadian Press).—The junior ministers of the Macdonald government were announced late yesterday, the list including Ben Turner, Miner's leader, Arthur Ponsonby and Miss Susan Lawrence.

Admiralty—Parliamentary and financial secretary, C. G. Ammon, civil lord, G. Hall.

Air ministry—Under secretary of state, F. Montague.

Mines Department—Parliamentary secretary, Ben Turner.

Ministry of Dominions—Parliamentary secretary, Arthur Ponsonby.

Colonial Office—Colonial undersecretary, W. Lunn.

Board of Education—Parliamentary secretary, Morgan Jones.

Foreign office—Undersecretary, H Dalton.

Ministry of Health—Parliamentary secretary—Miss Susan Lawrence

Financial secretary—F. W. Pethick-Lawrence.

Home Office—Undersecretary A Skort.

India Office—Undersecretary Dr. Drummond Shiels.

Ministry of Labor—Parliamentary Secretary, J. J. Lawson.

Ministry of Transport—Parliamentary secretary, Lord Russell.

War Office—Undersecretary, Lord De La Warr.

Financial secretary—E. Shinwell.

In connection with the appointments as Lord Commissioners of the Treasury an explanation was attached to the official list that Major Clement Attlee's name did not appear because he was assigned to the Indian Commission and the Prime Minister felt that until the commission's work was finished it would be improper to attach him to the government.

GORDON MUNRO IS SEVERELY INJURED

Scafold Collapses On Which He and Another Man Were Working—Madoc News.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, June 12.—Gordon Munro was severely injured on Saturday morning, owing to the collapse of the scaffold on which he and another man were working.

Dr. Beatty was called to attend both men. Mr. Munro was badly shaken up and is suffering severely from shock, but is expected to be up and around again the first of the week.

Coaching Class Held

The first Coaching class was held in Community hall, Madoc, on Friday.

Springbrook and Madoc Branch Institutes are sending in recommendations that these girl's classes be held in July as it is highly undesirable that these should clash with regular school work.

W. I. Meets

Madoc Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. William Kilpatrick, Marmora Road on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Meyers of Dundas, was the Government speaker for the occasion and besides offering very timely and useful suggestions on Institute work in local branches and general spoke on "Whither Bound?" in a very interesting and instructive address which was enjoyed by all. Mrs. C. N. Whycock, assuming the duties of her new office, presided.

Presentation Made

Trinity United Sunday School gathered as usual on Sunday morning with all officers and teachers in their places when after the lesson session all assembled promptly. After the day's report had been given and Mr. Keene, superintendant, called on Byron Richmond and Miss Ethel Richmond, who have been faithful librarians for a number of years to come to the platform. Mrs. C. Derry, secretary, read a pleasing address of appreciation for the long years of work and faithful continuance of duty also regretting their resignation. George White spoke on behalf of the teachers and officers asking their acceptance of the gifts of remembrance. To Miss Richmond was presented a silk umbrella and to Byron Richmond a gold headed cane, fittingly inscribed with his name and the total of fifty-three years of successive service as librarian, three in the Bible Christian Sunday school, then in the Methodist Sunday School and now four years in the greater United Church Sunday School.

Mr. Richmond spoke briefly, his thanks for the gifts and hoped that his successor might improve and enlarge his work. He was proud of his record and glad to have served the Sunday School in this way.

FOREIGN MINISTERS HOLD CONFERENCE

German-French Problems Are Believed To Have Been Discussed.

MADRID, June 12.—(Canadian Press).—Considerable significance was attached here to a conference yesterday afternoon between Dr. Gustav Stresemann and Aristide Briand, foreign ministers for the Reich government and France, respectively. Both are members of the council of the League of Nations, which is in session here.

It was believed the conference would provide opportunity for discussion of essentially German-French problems such as, particularly, evacuation of the Rhineland zone, a move which, since settlement of the reparations problem, Germany is prepared to seek immediately.

The committee on minorities was engaged in secret sessions yesterday to discuss resolutions on procedure in minority cases to present to a plenary session of the council today. Action by Dr. Stresemann in taking directly to the president of the council a question relating to German minority property in Poland was made particularly significant whatever action the committee may take.

The Polish government has answered the German request for direct council action in Upper Silesia with a communication containing observations which it is expected would be taken under consideration.

TO-NIGHT

Hindering Flow of Pancreatic Juice

One of the first things a sprinter tries to develop is a fast start. If he can get away practically "with the gun" it often means just the difference between winning and losing a race.

Now this good start applies very much to digestion.

If you work hard outdoors your appetite is so good that you get a good start with digestion naturally; you don't really have to think about it at all.

However if you are an indoor worker, with little real labor to perform, or if you are not feeling any too well, you will get a poor start in digestion.

Therefore you may find it necessary to develope or cultivate a good start.

How?

By spreading your meals far apart, and more particularly by patronizing a restaurant or cafeteria whose cooking and arrangements appeal to your brain-taste, smell, sight—because these stimulate, or prevent the stimulation, of the flow of the digestive juices.

When it was learned some years ago that the sight of food stimulated the saliva or digestive juice in the mouth it was naturally hailed as a great discovery.

Then a little later it was discovered that the sight and smell of food could stimulate the digestive juice in the stomach.

And now research men have discovered that the digestive juice in the pancreas is stimulated to action by the smell and taste of food.

Now just as the sight and smell of inviting food can stimulate these digestive juices to flow, so also this flow can be prevented or lessened if the food is not inviting.

However Dr. A. C. Ivy tells us that fortunately for our health the pancreas is not affected quite so much as the saliva and stomach juice when food is not inviting.

On the other hand however, physical and mental distress can lessen the flow of the pancreatic juice.

This means then that in addition to having food inviting in appearance, that only a small quantity should be eaten at one time where there is any physical or emotional disturbance. Heavy meals at this time will mean just so much undigested food to cause distension and distress in abdomen.

CALICO FROCK.

A cute summer frock has a brightly printed red and yellow flowered calico skirt, an off-white batiste shirt that tucks in, and a flowing four-in-hand tie of the calico.

FEMININE BLOUSE.

A delicate pink georgette blouse has a square neckline with six long, narrow streamers trying in three bow-knots across the left shoulder, with the ends falling gracefully down either the front or back. Fine nervures trace out a leaf pattern through the blouse and across the puff sleeves.

"It Helped All My Troubles"

"I was all run-down and out of spirits before my third baby was born, so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I had heard so much about it. It helped me with all my troubles and gave me an appetite where before I didn't eat at all and had to stop work and rest every once in a while. I did all of my housework up to the day my baby came, as I am a farmer's wife and could not afford help before. I feel just dandy now and I will answer any letters and I will tell every one how good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is."—Mrs. Ina Arnold, Box 63, Rocklake, North Dakota.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

LEAVING HOME.

Help grownup children to leave home. Nature never intended that a family should live together throughout a long lifetime. Each individual is to go out into the world and establish himself there. At least he is to assure himself through experience that he is able to sustain himself apart from the family.

I would make a special plea for the girls. In a family where there are three daughters and one son, it is not uncommon to find all three daughters staying at home in a more or less active warfare, and the boy out doing for himself. The girls must stay at home. Even though they are thirty and forty years of age. They are still girls and are still to stay at home.

A girl needs to know that she is able to hold her own in the world single handed quite as much as a boy needs that knowledge and experience. She has just as much common sense, just as high incentives, just as strong a desire for power over life as her brothers have, perhaps more, and ought to be freeto find her place.

Some daughters get as far as the finishing school or the college. Then they must return to the home next. The fact that they have outgrown it, that there being there is cirtually a prison sentence, is blissfully vinored by the household. The girls belong at home.

Home is the starting place, not the whole of life. It is a place of comfort and certainty, of refuge and inspiration. But it is not and it ought not to be the only place where a girl may live and move and develop. There can never be happiness in a home where the leadership is in question and if the girls have grown to maturity in mental and physical power, that question must arise. Either mother or one of the girls must lead. Then what?

Train the girls to look upon home as the place to which they are to return, bringing their victories, their achievements, their troubles if need be, but never a place of bondage.

I have heard mothers and fathers say, "The children are free to go if they wish. We wouldn't put a straw in their way" and all the time building a barricade lest the children escape.

"Lucy would like to go to the city for the winter to take a course in music, but I'm so poorly—and she's the only one we have left. I tell her she owes something to us. We ought to have one child left to comfort our old age."

But why Lucy? Son didn't stay, the elder daughter got married as soon as she could. Why make Lucy the prisoner? Or any child a home prisoner? Wean them from home and rejoice when they can go alone. The freer they are to come and go the closer they stick. The door opens two ways always.

The Whatnot

A Column for Little Bits of Everything of Interest to Women Readers

Conducted by Marion (Copyright)

PERSONS who borrow or who lend books should protect them. The person who lends should see that the books are distinctly marked as belonging to him or her. Such an autograph reminds the borrower that the book should be returned, yet in so unobtrusive a way that it is liked rather than objected to. It is a usual thing for a person to write one's name on the fly-leaf of any volume owned.

No one should loan or borrow a valuable book. The responsibility put upon the person to whom the book is loaned is too much. The person who loaned the book is anxious lest it be harmed or lost, while the borrower, if trustworthy, is anxious lest harm befall the volume or lest previous marks and mars may be credited to his or her carelessness, although such criticism may never be voiced.

Every borrowed book should be covered by the borrower, for only in this way can the spotlessness of the book covers be preserved. If the book has "jacket," it is wise to take this off and put it one side in some place where it will be kept good until the book is to be returned, when it should replace the paper cover the borrower has put on the volume for protection.

A borrowed book should never be re-loaned without permission of the owner. There are too many instances of books being lost through this to make it a light matter.

The first borrower usually knows to whom the book is re-loaned, but a book once out of the hands of the person to whom the owner loaned it, is well on the way to getting lost.

Books sometimes are passed about several times before getting back (if they ever do!) into the owner's possession. The person to whom a book is loaned should feel responsible for its careful use and its prompt return when read.

Some questions that are of never-failing interest to every intelligent person are where do thoughts come from? and How do we get ideas?

Do they spring into our minds from within ourselves? That is, do we create our thoughts and originate our ideas? Or do they come to us from the outside, and if so how?

These are matters for weighty consideration that have puzzled master minds without any solution having been reached.

So, since they remain unanswered problems, they continue to pique curiosity, and stimulate the imagination, and cause speculation.

Let us indulge in a little of this speculation, and see if some of the points may not prove helpful in home life, and the suggestions be of value in training children.

The invention of the radio has helped to make persons open-minded, and to stir doubting minds into the belief that the impossible may be possible.

Sounds can be captured and heard thousands of miles from the spot where words are spoken or where music or noise makes the air vibrant. Therefore it is within the bounds of possibility that thoughts may be captured and ideas also if a person's mind is in tune with certain thought waves or vibrations.

Supposing that this be true, how can we get in tune? One definite way would appear to be indicated and that is to deliberately turn the attention to the matters on which we should like to know more.

A mind so tuned would then catch the vibrations made by thought-waves of like kind, if it is indeed true that thoughts create wave-currents or vibrations of air. It is not beyond the power of imagination that original thought-waves may exist, and if so could then be captured when a person 'tuned in' correctly.

A mother sometimes says to a child, "Do think of something pleasant." She knows that if the child's mind can be turned to some pleasant thought, a whole train of other pleasant ideas will soon come from somewhere and fill her mind.

When the child gets to be a little older, in what is called the junior age, the wise mother endeavors to direct her attention to fine things, worthy books, strong and beautiful personalities, worth-while music, choice pictures, and everything that will help her to concentrate on loveliness. She appreciates that by attention to such things the child will be influenced to become fine in character. The child opens her mind and becomes receptive to the thoughts that her mind is tuned to.

The ideas that come to them from that mysterious 'Somewhere' in which thoughts exist can be drawn toward their minds like sound-waves to a radio provided the wave-lengths are happy ones. This may be true. Who knows?

Try catching fine and happy thoughts from the air, by tuning in on them as described and see how it works.

TOO MANY ATTEND ACADEMIC CLASSES

Trustees' Association Advises That Means be Taken to Explain Courses to Parents.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., June 12.—(Canadian Press).—"Your committee quite realize the necessity and desirability of a good education, but those who pay for it should be assured that the education given the pupils is what will be of the most use to them in their future life, calculated to make them the best possible citizens and at the lowest cost consistent with efficiency," read the report of the committee on the costs of education presented at yesterday morning's session of the Urban School Trustees Association of Ontario by R. H. Foster, Hamilton, vice chairman of the committee, in the absence of the chairman, Cecil Bethune, Ottawa.

"To accomplish this," the report continued, "some better means should be devised to inform parents and pupils of the widely different kinds of education offered by our secondary school systems. At present, with the exception of Toronto, where the attendance is about equally divided, there are about from three to five pupils attending the academic schools to evry pupil attending the technical or commercial schools. These figures, we think should be just the reverse."

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG, That old and antique song we heard, last night.

OLD GREY BONNET.

(Contributed by "Sunbeam")

On the old farm veranda, there sat Silas and Miranda,
Thinking of the days gone by;
Says she, "Deary, don't be weary, you were always bright and cheery
But a tear dear, dims your eye.
Then the old man's eye did brighten and his stern old heart did lighten
As he turned to her and said.
Chorus:
Put on your old grey bonnet,
With the blue ribbons on it
While I hitch old Dobbin to the shay,
And through the fields of clover,
We'll drive up to Dover,
On our Golden Wedding Day.

It was the same old bonnet with the same old ribbons on it,
In the old shay by his side
That he drove her up to Dover through the same old fields of clover
To become his happy bride.
And that night while stars were streaming the old couple lay a-dreaming;
Dreaming of the words he said.

In spite of the salt sea's dashing spray,
We landed safe on the Crimea,
All on the route for Alma.

That night we slept on the cold ground,
No tent nor shelter could be found,
With rain we all were nearly drowned,
To cheer us on to Alma.

Next morn a burning sun did rise,
Beneath a cloudless Easter sky,
Our gallant chief Lord Raglan cries,
"Prepare to march for Alma."

And when the Alma came in view,
It would the stoutest hearts subdue
To see the mighty Russian's crew
Upon the Heights of Alma.

They were so strongly fortified,
With batteries on the mountain side,
Our general viewed the forts and cried,
"There'll be hot work at Alma."

The balls did fall as thick as rain,
When we the battery tried to gain,
And many a hero there was slain,
Upon the Heights of Alma.

Our Highland boys with kilts and hose
They were not last you may suppose,
But boldly faced the Russian foes
And gained the heights of Alma.

And when the Heights we did command,
We fought the Russians hand to hand,
But the Russian force could not withstand
The British charge at Alma.

Their guns and knapsacks they threw down,
And ran like hares before the hound,
While Vive "L'Emperor" did resound
From the sons of France at Alma.

Although the battle we have got,
And gallantly our heroes fought,
Yet dearly was the victory bought,
For the thousands died at Alma.

Between the wounded and the slain,
The Russians lost eight thousand men
And had three thousand prisoners ta'en
Upon the Heights of Alma.

Two thousand British, I heard say
Did fall upon that fatal day,
And fourteen hundred Frenchmen lay
In bloody graves at Alma.

To Sebastapol the Russians fled,
They left their wounded and their dead,
The river that day ran crimson red
With the blood that was spilled at Alma.

From orphans' eyes the tear-drops roll,
And none the widows can console,
While parents mourn beyond control,
For the sons they lost at Alma.

And many a pretty maid does mourn
For a lover who will ne'er return,
By cruel war he's from her torn
And his body lies at Alma.

To Sebastapol our troops are gone,
'Tis news we'll hear before very long,
And if our foes were twice as strong,
We'll have avenge for Alma.

With France and Britain hand in hand
What force on earth can them withstand
So sound the news throughout the land
The victory of the Alma.

BAKER'S COCONUT

CHIFFON YOKE.

An autumn toned printed chiffon frock, for afternoon, gets a charming effect of daintiness by using plain beige chiffon, the tone of the print's background, for an off-the-shoulder yoke. The pointed lower edge of the skirt reveals a slip's edge of similarly pointed edges, in the plain beige.

UNUSUAL BLOUSE.

The egg-shell crepe blouse that tucks into a midnight blue suit has its batteau neck finished in a one-inch standing collar of the satin side of the crepe and four one-inch bands of the satin appliqued around the cuff puff of the sleeve.

KNEE FLOUCES.

Tiers and flounces are posed lower on skirts than they were. A leaf print in beige, navy blue and orange has its circular flounce from the knee. The frock has severe princess lines, with flaring cuffs and collar.

CAPE VEIL.

One version of the June wedding veil is a fine silk net cape, with a circular flounce of exquisite lace that dips in the back.

BETTER BRAN FLAKES

Compare the action of this Penetrating Foam

with ordinary toothpastes which fail to get down into crevices where food particles collect and decay begins

*How Colgate's Cleans Crevices Where Tooth Decay May Start

This diagram shows how Colgate's active foam (having low "surface - tension") penetrates deep down into the crevice, cleansing it completely where the toothbrush cannot reach.

VASTLY more important than mere surface polishing of teeth is the daily removal of the lurking, decaying food particles and mucin deposits lodged in the tiny crevices of the teeth. Some toothpastes merely polish the outer surfaces of the teeth. They cannot reach the hard-to-clean places . . . where decay starts.

However, everyone using Colgate's feels secure, knowing that it has a higher penetrating power* than any of the leading dentifrices on the market today.

The active Colgate foam, containing the world's greatest cleansing agent, literally washes away all the hidden impurities, leaving the teeth really clean, protected from premature decay. When you brush your teeth with Colgate's, you do more than safely polish the surface. Colgate's penetrating foam possesses a remarkable property (low "surface-tension"). This means that it penetrates into every tiny crevice. There it softens and dislodges the decaying impurities, washing them away in a detergent wave.

In this foam is carried a fine chalk powder, a polishing material used by dentists as safe yet effective in keeping teeth white and attractive.

Consider Colgate's two superiorities. It not only polishes the surface thoroughly but because of its greater penetrability, it cleans where brushing can't . . . an extra not found in ordinary toothpastes.

More economical, too . . . The 25c tube of Colgate's contains more toothpaste than any other nationally advertised brand priced at a quarter.

This simple afternoon frock from the Germaine Lecomte collection is in navy blue crepe satin, with the mat and shiny sides of the material forming an interesting design.

SIMPLE AFTERNOON FROCK IN NAVY BLUE SATIN.

By Mme. Germaine Lecomte.

There is unusual feminine grace in this very simple afternoon frock in navy blue crepe satin, in which I have used the dull and shiny sides to form a very effective design on the bodice. The skirt with two volants which flare at the sides maintains the slenderness of the body, emphasizing its most graceful lines.

NEW STORE TO OPEN THURSDAY

STAFF OF 20 CLERKS

The bright red front of the Great Atlantic and Pacific store on Charlotte street is already attracting prospective customers. Although not open until Thursday many people are attracted to the interior by the fascinating display that is inside.

As one enters the right hand door, there is the grocery department in charge of E. E. Thompson, with its complete line of canned goods all clearly marked, and the bulk articles ready in packages of convenient size. In the rear is a huge refrigerator that contains the butter, eggs and dairy products, all under refrigeration and spotlessly clean. Fresh fish, both of the salt water and the fresh water variety are received daily in the store. On the left hand side, entering from the front is the fresh fruit department and immediately behind this is the meat department under the charge of C. Jones.

Received Daily.

The fruits and vegetables are received daily from Toronto and the meats are kept under constant refrigeration even while in the show cases.

The counters of the store are finished in light oak and a large panelled mirror runs the length of the meat department while the whole store is made bright by modern non-glaring lights.

The refrigeration systems consists of an Arctic cooler and a modern Frick refrigeration plant, with which all the A. and P. Stores are equipped. The installation of this was in charge of S. Gregory of Toronto.

The windows displaying the fresh fruit and vegetables is to be changed daily, while those used for groceries will be changed each Thursday when the weekly special will be announced and featured. The special will run the entire week.

Staff of 20 Clerks.

At the start, a staff of 20 clerks will operate the store. A great number of the employees are Peterborough men while others come from Toronto. Two demonstrations in charge of separate demonstrators will feature the opening on Thursday when Weston's Biscuits and Bokars Coffee are displayed.

The policy of the store is not self serve. The manager states that the clerks know where the articles are and can get them faster than the customer can. In this way better service is rendered. While a cash and carry system is the usual way of operation, a delivery service will be available for those who wish to take advantage of it.

The public are invited by those in charge to make an entire inspection of the store from bottom to top any time during business hours.

The Chinese and Japanese use the same written language, but the spoken languages are quite different.

MARION'S MAIL

"Dear Marion:—

Enclosed you will find fifteen cents for the sun suit style No. —. I still enjoy reading the Whatnot, also the Neighbors' letters. I saw a request for Rhubarb wine so am enclosing mine:

Wipe 25 lbs. of rhubarb with a damp cloth, cut in small lengths leaving on the skin. Put in earthenware vessel, cursh and pour over five gallons of cold water. Leave for ten days, stirring daily and for every gallon of liquid add 3 lbs of sugar, 1 lemon cut up. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Leave for ten days then bottle. Do not cork too tightly.

I would like to know if any neighbor has a recipe for putting down rhubarb for winter use? I would very much like to do some.

The weather seems to be getting warmer. My garden seeds and flower seeds are all up and doing fine.

Liverpool"

Thank you "Liverpool" for your recipe for rhubarb wine. I hope some neighbor will supply the information you seek. It's nice, isn't it, when the garden stuff starts coming up!

"Dear Marion:—

I noticed requests for two songs on your page and thought this a good opportunity to prove my title to my pen name. So I am enclosing words of 'Comrades' and 'Please Mr. Conductor, don't put me off the train.' I am also sending 'Just as the Sun Went Down,' as I believe there are readers who will be pleased to have it—a great favorite thirty years ago.

You have some fine contributors to your page. 'Luncinda's letters are some of your 'high spots' in my humble opinion.

I was so glad to find very little criticism on my former letter, regarding the farm from the people of the farm. It is a splendid sign of a growing class consciousness in farm people. It is what all these farm movements, institutions, clubs, etc., have been aiming to foster and develop during past years. I am delighted that farm women have given up 'self pity' as unworthy of them and see that it is detrimental to human happiness whether in class or in individual.

I would like very much dear Marion, to read a Whatnot on Self Pity and its effect upon those who indulge.

Yours,
Neighborly Soul."

Your pen name has been justified "Neighborly Soul." Thanks for the songs, which I'm sure will be appreciated.

I don't believe in self pity. The woman who thinks she is indispensable is foolish—and when one realizes one's limitations, one is well on the way to sanity. Certainly, one cannot pity one's self.

"Dear Marion:—

Thank you for all the helpful hints you give, though once I did not agree with you, though I saw your point of view.

I do like the way you try to impress mothers with the need of strict supervision, kind but firm. Let it go to the boys as well as to the girls, they need it just as much

It always seems to me we who were strictly brought up had a better time because the fun was clean and wholesome, and we could all enjoy it, and have the fun over again at the table or in an evening when the whole family could hear of the good time with its ups and downs. Father and mother fully remembered that 'All work and no play makes Jack a bad boy." But they also remember that all play, or even a preponderance of play, makes Jack a useless parasite.

We had all kinds of wholesome play, dancing, music, whist, old maid, authors, nations, chess, checkers, skating, sleigh-riding, tobagganing but mother always knew where we were, and when we were to return, and with whom. In our whole crowd it was the same. Brothers were expected to look after their sisters. Guests at the homes of any of our crowd always said they never attended such jolly parties. The members of that old supervised crowd are scattered all over the earth, but they can hold their heads up, and it was the strict home training that made them 'men' and 'women' and those parents are to be thanked. None of us were blessed—or cursed—with riches. Every one knew what work meant, work that had to be done, there was no getting away from it. Some way we were taught to take a pride in doing our work quickly and well. In nothing were we helped along on stilts. There was a lesson scheme. I do not decry the helps, but like chocolates, movies and other things, good in their place, there is too much dependence being placed upon them. Pupils and sometimes teachers go to Sunday school with only their monthlies or quarterlies.

The day-schools have improved in that there is now an absolute attempt to bring the events of the day before the children. Nature study, health, and other things are splendid, also character-building, where the teacher is worth-while. We have a splendid little woman.

Girls are just as sweet, just as good, naturally, no more care-free than at any time, but there is a laxity or laziness or selfishness about so many mothers. Two women were speaking of a rather headstrong child, one remarked "How can you do as you do, it must be very hard", received the answer "It is for her own good." Mothers rather than exert themselves allow their children to over-rule them in infancy. "They cannot hear——". In later years there is much more to hear, which might have been avoided. Why do, how can mother want their daughters in their early teens to have "boy-friends"? Why do they do all sorts of running around at all hours? Times and methods change necessarily. We have things so much easier than our parents have. There is the telephone, rural mail delivery, electricity, or gasoline in the country. It is as cheap to sell cream and buy butter, as to churn, if one counts work as worth anything. Many buy their bread. All these things and many others should give more time to devote to being companions to children, instead it seems often to be spent in providing more dresses and 'keeping up with the Jones."

Sincerely Yours,
Quid Est."

I always like your letters, "Quid Est" and never more than when you challenge something I have said.

Your viewpoint is well worth considering.

Marion

CHURCH BUDGET IS $650,000

E. W. McNeill, Treasurer of Presbyterian Church, Consents to Retain Office.

$435,000 FOR MISSIONS.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 12 (Canadian Press). — The budget estimates for the year 1930 for the Presbyterian Church in Canada total $650,000 according to a statement presented to the 55th General Assembly being held here, at yesterday afternoon's session, by Hon. George B. Smith, Hamilton. Of this sum, $435,000 is for Home and Foreign Missions, $50,000 for the reduction of deficit, and and adoption of the budget the major part of the afternoon session was taken up with a consideration of the report of the Board of Education.

Mr. E. W. McNeill, Toronto, Ont., who resigned as treasurer of the Church some time ago, is to continue in that post, and Rev. George M. Dunn, who was slated as his successor, has been appointed secretary of the Budget Committee of the Board of Administration.

The special committee, headed by Judge A. G. Farrell, Regina, Sask., which considered the resignation of Mr. McNeill, reported that after consultation with Mr. McNeill and members of the Board, the resignation with withdrawn.

Elise Bock

BERLIN W. 158 KANTSTRASSE
ROME—PRAGUE—VIENNA—SANTIAGO

THE smartest women of the Mid-European world take all their beauty problems to the celebrated Elise Bock of Berlin. Madame Bock's salons de beauté in Rome, Prague, Vienna and Santiago are well known to travelled women of fashion, who consult her constantly.

Known throughout the world

Many of our own lovely women go to Europe to discover the international fame of a beauty treatment which is already popular throughout Canada.

They go to Vienna and hear from Pessl this same truth. Madame Jacobson, of London; Massé of Paris; Lina Cavalieri, of Paris—these are just a few of the more than five score outstanding international beauty specialists who advise twice-a-day use of a soap containing palm and olive oils. They recommend one soap—and one soap only—Palmolive!

Madame Bock has a special reason for stressing the importance of "foundation cleansing." Powder and rouge gradually work their way into the pores. Only a part remains on the surface. The rest combines with dust, dirt and oil. And soon, tiny, stubbornly hard masses form. Unless one washes the face this special way morning and evening—blackheads, pimples, dreaded blemishes appear.

A famous 2-minute rule

This is the 2-minute home beauty treatment Elise Bock herself would give you in her select studio de beauté: make a fine, creamy lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. With both hands, massage it gently into the pores for about two minutes, so that the olive oil suds work their way into the pores. Then rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, gradually letting it get colder.

What Elise Bock tells her Mid-European patrons, Paris long has known, for today, in France—home of cosmetics, leader in soaps and elegant toiletries—Palmolive is one of the two largest selling soaps . . . it is first in Canada and 48 other countries!

J. Nelson Day, Ltd., who operate this attractive shop say: "We heartily agree with the world's leading beauty experts that foundation cleansing of the skin with Palmolive Soap is necessary if one wishes to have a beautiful skin. The smartest women of Toronto, patrons of our beauty salon, are urged to do this with Palmolive Soap twice a day."

"A lather made with Palmolive Soap, massaged gently into the skin will not only stimulate the complexion in a healthful way but the emolient effect of palm and olive oils have the most beneficial effect."

Keys Hold Red Wings To Five Hits For 4-3 Decision.

BALTIMORE, June 12 (Canadian Press).—It was just too bad, but the Orioles had been on something of a hitting diet for several days, with only 16 hits in the past three games.

So they gave their hit appetites full sway in the fourth game of the series with the Toronto Leafs yesterday and the result was that they masticated 17 blows from four visiting pitchers to win, 14 to 6.

Herman Holshauser opened proceedings on the local peak, and despite the fact that he retired in favor of Vic Keen in the sixth, Herman uncovered a neat brand of hurling.

His retirement came when he suddenly lost control of the ball and walked five batters to force in two runs after holding the invaders to six hits and walking none in the previous innings.

BUNCH HITS TO WIN.

JERSEY CITY, June 12 (Canadian Press). — Inability to hit Vernon ("Slicker") Parks with men in scoring position cost the Jersey City Skeeters a close and hard-fought contest with Buffalo here yesterday, the Bisons evening the series by winning 2 to 1. Bill Henderson pitched good ball for the Skeeters, but Buffalo bunched hits in two innings.

REPULSE RED WINGS.

READING, June 12 (Canadian Press).—Reading repulsed the League leading Rochester Red Wings here yesterday, taking a 4 to 3 decision on Eddie Holley's five-hit pitching.

Holley allowed only two hits up to the ninth, but weakened, and then the Red Wings scored two runs on three hits and a walk.

BEARS DROP TWIN BILL.

NEWARK, June 12 (Canadian Press).—Newark lost two games to the Montreal Royals here yesterday, the scores being 4 to 1 and 8 to 6.

Chief Hogsett, Indian southpaw, tamed the Bears in the opener. In the nightcap the Royals scored seven runs in the final two innings to take the verdict.

Fowler hit a home run in the sixth inning with two men on.

HIGH-CLASS TEAM IS COMING TO CITY

T. Eaton Company is Helping to Make Old Home Week Great Success.

The T. Eaton Company, of Toronto, is co-operating heartily in the spirit of Old Home Week in Peterborough. Two of the best Clydesdale horses that are owned by the company will be sent to this city to draw the Teco float in the parade.

With these horses will be a crew of four men who will look after the floats and the horses. So valuable are these animals considered that the company is even sending water with them, so that they will suffer no harm from the change that they would experience on arriving in the city.

A special man is also being sent from the head offices to decorate the windows of the store and he will be willing to offer his services in the line of suggestions to any other Peterborough merchant for window decoration. This will be absolutely free of charge and is done only in the spirit of co-operation to make the week of celebration in Peterborough an unqualified success.

BROWNS AGAIN FAIL TO DEFEAT YANKEES

Four St. Louis Pitchers Yield Seventeen Hits—Athletics Win Easily.

NEW YORK N.Y., June 12—(Canadian Press).—The Yankees assaulted four St. Louis pitchers for 17 hits and 24 bases here yesterday and the champions won their third straight over the Browns by 11 to 5.

Combs, Robertson and Durocher tossed triples into the Yankee collection, Comb's drive being his fifth triple in his last four games.

George Pigras allowed 13 hits, but his big lead and fine support saved him. Manush got a double and two singles.

PHILADELPHIA, June 12.—(Canadian Press).—The Philadelphia Athletics gave the Chicago White Sox a taste of their batting power yesterday, hammering Ed. Walsh, Jr., and Danny Dugan for a 14 to 3 victory.

Jimmy Dykes hit the first home run of the game off Walsh with two on in the fourth, breaking a 2 all tie.

The other blows for the circuit were Simmons' thirteenth of the year in the seventh and Foxx's eleventh of the season in the eighth.

WASHINGTON, June 12—(Canadian Press).—Fred Marberry kept Cleveland's 11 hits well scattered, and Washington yesterday defeated the Indians 13 to 3. The Senators batted hard against three pitchers and scored off each one.

BOSTON, June 12.—(Canadian Press).—Detroit took the odd game of its series with Boston here yesterday by a 5 to 3 score. The Sox outhit the Tigers, getting 11 hits off Owen Carroll.

Detroit's big inning was the third when Fothergill singled with the bases loaded to score two runs, and Gehringer's sacrifice fly scored another.

MARINE GALLANT QUEERS SELF WITH SPOUSE ENLISTING LADIES' AID IN SWIM TRAINING BUT SHE FINALLY LEARNS ALL AND FORGIVES

Psuedo Tragedy of a Photograph of a Human Seal Getting Ready For Big Swim at Toronto —How They Train—Life-Savers May Have To Enforce Traffic Regulations To Avert Collisions When Mob of Slow-Motion Celebrities Start Doing Their Stuff.

By Jimmie McPhie
(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, June 11.— Road-work, mowing an acre of lawn a day, Swedish exercises, wood-chopping, riding a bicycle and sitting in the sun have all been loudly ballyhooed at one time or another as effective methods of getting into trim for long distance swimming. With more races for the professional championship of the world, scheduled for the Canadian National Exhibition this season and scores of earnest marine plodders painstakingly getting into condition, many more methods may be expected to come to light before the heat waves roll around.

Newest Idea

One of the Canadian aspirants, however, leads all-comers by a wide margin in the scramble to discover unexpected aids to training. He is Bob Johnston of the National Yacht Club in Toronto, a human seal of high standing and swimming instructor at the Baraca Club. He is now toughening himself for the long grind in August which, like the rainbow, has the pot of gold at the end. Following a preliminary canter with some car wheels which the yacht club steward was rolling out to serve as moorings, the distance star sought still more weights to conquer. The general idea seems to be that in return for the support which the strong-man marathoner is now giving the smiling maidens, they will give him their support on the day of the race when he joins the army on the breakwater for the great plunge into the water of 58 degrees or higher temperature. Nothing, it is stated, so strengthens an aquatic expert for a day in the cool waters of Canadian lakes as a great burst of soprano cheering when he takes off. That, in any case, is Mr. Johnston's story and he is prepared to stick to it.

In the meantime, waterfront habitues on Toronto Bay where the advance guard of chronic marathoners has already gathered to go through the preliminary motions, report a brisk demand for ash oars and say that a glimpse of Mr. Johnston's method has converted many who were previously devotees of diets, massage or daily sprints, to his scheme of training for a world's title attempt. In fact, hardened landlubbers are also inclined to look favorably upon it.

Ever since the ice vanished, aspirants for the C. N. E. Wrigley laurels have announced themselves as hard at work and by the dog days, beaches will be cluttered with swimmers' camps and the lifesavers may have to enforce traffic regulations to avert marine crashes among the mob of slow-motion celebrities doing their stuff.

Likely Canpro Hockey League Will Be Composed Of New Entries This Year

TORONTO, Ont., June 12. — (Canadian Press).—There will likely be several changes in the cities that composed the Canadian professional Hockey League last season, according to an article printed in the Mail and Empire. "Several of the clubs that operated last year have had about enough," says the Mail sports writer, "but other clubs are willing and anxious to take a flier at the game. Detroit, Windsor, Buffalo and Hamilton will be in line for next season, but there seems some doubt about Toronto, Niagara Falls, London and Kitchener. Rochester is a sure starter and both Chicago and Cleveland are dickering for franchises. Cleveland, if a franchise is secured, will play its first season in the old rink, and if the venture is successful the club will build a new rink. Just what interests are after a berth in Chicago is unknown outside of a small circle, but if a team is placed in that city it will play in Paddy Harmon's new arena. Toledo has been mentioned as a possible Canpro city for next winter, but there is no rink available."

Exhibition Game Between Two Plants

An exhibition game of interest that has been arranged will be played between the local C.G.E. softball team and the Toronto Office. This game is attracting a great deal of attention and will be played on Saturday at 6.00 p.m. at James Stevenson Park.

Toronto will bring down their regular line up while the local team will be at good strength. Fans are assured of a fast game by these two teams, and from the sale of tickets to date a big crowd is expected.

Frisch Hits First Home Run of the Season in Philadelphia Game.

ST. LOUIS, June 12 (Canadian Press).—Frankie Frisch hit his first home run of the season and added a triple and two singles yesterday as the Cardinals defeated Philadelphia, 10 to 3, making it a grand slam in the four-game series.

O'Doul also hit for the circuit, Eddie Delker, rookie from Topeka, Kansas, doubling for Andy High, Cardinal third baseman, who has an injured thumb, slammed out a triple with two men on base.

By their victory the Cardinals stayed a pace behind the League-leading Pirates in the standings.

PIRATES WIN BY RUN.

PITTSBURGH, June 12 (Canadian Press).—Dave Bancroft's low throw in the ninth on a double play set-up gave the Pirates two runs and a 3 to 2 victory over the Robins here yesterday in the final game of the series. Each team won two games in the series of four.

Irvin Brame and Cliso Dudley engaged in a pretty pitchers' battle, but Dudley got himself into trouble in the ninth, setting the stage for Bancroft's misplay by filling the bases with one out.

SHUT-OUT FOR FITZSIMMONS.

CINCINNATI, June 12 (Canadian Press).—Fred Fitzsimmons won his second shut-out from the Reds in four days as the Giants defeated the home team by 9 to 0 here yesterday to earn an even break in the four games.

The big right-hander gave up seven hits yesterday as against only three in last Saturday's game.

BETHEL WINS 17-6 DECISION

Stage Batting Rampage To Defeat Petherick's Corners in Softball Fixture.

FIVE INNING GAME.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, June 12 (Examiner Correspondence). — The local softball team journeyed to Stirling on Monday evening and met a not unexpected reverse at the hands of the hard-hitting Bethel squad by a score of 17 to 6. The game was late in starting due to the non-arrival of some Bethel players, and this cut the playing time very short, so that only five innings were run off. While the lead-off division of the local team and outfielder Petherick were able to hit the Bethel pitchers offering quite freely, the rest of the team fell down badly at bat. First Baseman H. Petherick was an absentee, and the work of the infield was very slack at times. Grant Kerr, local curve pitcher, was not in usual good form, and his failure to locate the platter was responsible for most of the Bethel runs in the second and fourth frames. The Bethel infield was very steady, especially Rodwell at second base.

Springbrook visit Petherick's on Friday of this week, while Hoard's play at Menie on Wednesday night. The standing of the teams will be more settled after these two games.

C.G.E. Meets K. of C. On Thursday Night

The C.G.E. and K. of C. will be the contending teams on Thursday night in the local softball league C.G.E. have a good team lined up while the K. of C. are coming along good. The latter team had a couple of workouts this week and are fast rounding into shape.

The six teams in the league this year are of the best calibre and the fans are assured of some fast ball this summer as shown by the first two games of the schedule. Good crowds have attended the games and have witnessed good fielding, hitting and pitching.

The game to-morrow night will be played at Central School grounds and will get away at 6.15 sharp.

CANADA CHOICE OF BRITISHERS

Statistics Show Over Half of Mother Country Migration Last Year Was to Dominion.

58,880 IN 1928.

By JAMES A. COWAN.
(Copyright)

OTTAWA, Ont., June 12.—(Special to The Examiner).—Canada has always been the favorite Dominion for the out-going Britisher. When the man of the Old Land decides to seek his fortune in new fields, the land of the Maple Leaf is his first choice.

Close analysis of immigration figures reveals this beyond a doubt. Last year, the British Government has announced, more than half the entire migration from the Mother Country was to Canada. In actual numbers, there was a notable increase. An army of 54,706 Britishers came to this country.

By comparing the statements of British and Canadian officials an interesting sidelight is thrown on the current trend of immigration. The British figures, just quoted, are for the calendar year. The Canadian figures, for the fiscal year ending three months later, show a total of 58,880 newcomers. In other words, the volume of recent arrivals is on the upgrade. Figures for April are not yet compiled, but the indications are that they will show even more improvement.

Attracts Large Numbers.

Canada not only remains the chosen spot of the British settler, but, at the present time, attracts large numbers as well as a high percentage of those who are emigrating.

Ottawa immigration authorities supplement the figures for the last year by statements that this country always gets more settlers from the United Kingdom than do Australia and New Zealand combined. There have been times when the Canadian total has been greater than that of all other Dominions.

In any case, the Canadian figure bears a direct ratio to the number leaving the Mother Country. When there is a large volume of emigration, Canada's share increases proportionately. When it is small, it drops off.

Since the war, the numbers have been growing steadily. In 1920 and 1921, the first normal post-war years, the figures were 59,603 and 74,262. The sudden increase was largely caused by an influx of wives and families of Canadian soldiers who had married while overseas. The record low mark was in 1918 when the figure was only 3,178, but it showed an immediate increase, the year following, to 9,914. For 1925, the British settlers numbered 37,569; increasing, in 1926, to 50,378 and, in 1927, to 51,552. The figure of 58,880, just announced by Hon. Robert Forke, is for the twelve-month period ending on March 31st last and shows a continuance of this highly satisfactory growth.

GERMANY IS UNABLE TO ACCEPT REPORT

Committees Report On Minorities Strike Deadlock at League.

MADRID, June 11.—(C.P.)—Gustav Stresemann, German Foreign Minister, to-day told the special committee of the Council of the League of Nations considering the minorities report, that he was unable to accept the report in its actual form because it did not offer a permanent guarantee for minorities.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, Senor Quinones De Leon of Spain, and M. Adachi of Japan then refused to accept the suggestion that the League Council exercise constant supervision over interests of these minority peoples. They decided that the Council could act, under the powers given by the minority treaties, only when a member of the Council reported an infraction of the treaties.

Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, to-day appealed to Herr Stresemann to accept the report as a minimum on which to form a base for further discussions by the Council itself. But his plea was without avail.

Salo Is Determined To Defeat Gavuzzi

GALEXICO, Calif., June 12.—(C. P.)—Johnny Salo, Passaic, N.J., who dropped his lead in C. C. Pyles coast to coast bunion derby to Pete Gavuzzi, bewiskered Italian from England, expressed determiantion to dethrone the fleet-footed Pete, starting with the 47-mile hike to Jacumba, Calif., to-day.

Gavuzzi, apparently taking advantage of an attack of stomach trouble suffered by Salo, succeeded Monday in passing the New Jersey runner and gaining a lead in elapsed time of 55 minutes and 46 seconds. In yesterdays lap of 53.8 miles from Alcodones, Mex., Gavuzzi and Salo finished in a tie for second place with Sam Richman of New York. Giusto Umek of Italy was first.

BANTAM SCHEDULE STARTS MONDAY.

Four smart teams are entered in the Bantam series of the City League, and it is likely that the opening game will be played next Monday at the James Stevenson Park. The teams are: Canucks, Maple Leafs, Kiwanis and Grafton's.

The Bantams were delayed in starting to allow the Public School League full opportunity to complete its schedule before outside scouts began casting covetous eyes on their players. Now that the school games are over the Bantams will get underway immediately.

All of the four teams have been busy getting into shape, but it is most likely that their ranks will be swelled by the best from the school teams. They are all evenly-balanced, and some great battles can be safely forecasted.

With Daylight Saving coming into force it is expected that a double header will be played once a week in the Bantam series. The League can only allow them one night a week at James Stevenson Park, and in order to get the schedule through in time two games each evening will have to be the rule.

TWO CANADIANS IN GOLF CLASSIC.

Ross Somerville, the London golfer, who is one of the leading players in Canada, was the only amateur to qualitfy in the Detroit district for the United States open. James Johnston, the Toronto professional, also got within the coveted circle, so that Canada will have two representatives in the American classic.

Somerville shot wonderfully on Monday, having a 77 in the morning round and a 71 in the afternoon. In the second round, he missed a grand chance to break the course record, but a bad last hole spoiled it.

DERBY ENDS ON SUNDAY.

C. C. Pyle's big bunion derby is drawing to a close and the foot-weary gentlemen who have dogged their sight-seeing trip across the continent, are getting close to their goal. They will finish their journey on Sunday, unless they meet with a couple of earthquakes and broken bridges.

It is going to be a close finish between Pete Gavuzzi and John Salo, who are in first and second position respectively, the latter losing the lead yesterday, when he was handicapped by stomach trouble. The other four of the six leaders will not likely change their positions. Philip Granville, Hamilton's grand knight of the fallen arches, will have to be content wth sixth money, as he is over 26 hours behind the fifth man, and that is a margin that he cannot overcome.

DOYLE RELEASED TO FORT WORTH CLUB.

The expected has happened. Yesterday it was announced from Toronto Leafs' headquarters that Jess Doyle has been released and will go to the Fort Worth Club in the Texas League. Coming to the Leafs from the Yankees in 1924, Doyle for the first few years showed great form and he was a popular pitcher with the fans. Last year he dropped away back and this year he has been greeted with jeers every time he went to the mound. He may have a good season in the minor company.

SWIMMERS TO ENTER MEET

Young, Vierkotter and Ross Expected To Take Part in Swimming Marathon.

AT CLEAR LAKE.

George Young, Vierkotter and Norman Ross may be among the entrants in a swimming marathon to be staged in Clear Lake August 17, according to an announcement made by the Clear Lake Sport Association yesterday. Plans for the big swim have been completed, the Association stated, and, although no agreements have been made, it is thought probable that these men, along with a number of other Canadian National Exhibition swimmers, will take part in the race. The swim will be nine miles over a quintagonal course on the south end of the lake, and is scheduled to start on Saturday morning, August 17. Cups and cash prizes are being put up for the event.

The race is being promoted by the Clear Lake Sport Association, whose efforts this year are backed by yacht clubs of Toronto and other interests in Toronto, Oshawa and Peterborough, and is going to be one of a series of big events staged this summer for the purpose of advertising the Kawartha Lakes and attracting tourist trade to the chain. It is the belief of the newly formed Sport Association that recreational activities on the Kawartha Lakes have fallen into a rut, and that the attraction of the district for tourists can be greatly increased by providing new forms of diversion. With the idea of introducing new life into the resort district, extensive plans have been laid for the next three months. About $1,000 has been spent in the purchase of cups and trophies to encourage sporting activities.

Varied Sports Program.

The plan of events for the season calls for a sport meet every week between June 22 and August 24. The big swim will probably be the feature affair of the summer, but sea flea races are to be the piece de resistance of the schedule. On June 22 the season will start off with Class "C" and open outboard motor races, in which boats from Toronto, Oshawa and Peterborough will compete. The following week the Toronto Canoe Club will handle proceedings and an open sailing race will take place. Class "B" and "C" outboard motors will race on July 6, followed the next week by another open sailing race. On the three Saturdays between July 20 and August 3, classes "A," "B," and "C" and open outboard motors will race. August 10 will see another open sailing event, and the swim is to be staged on the following Saturday. The final sport day will be August 24, when there will be open sailing and open outboard motor racing. One day, the date of which has not been revealed, is to be handled by the International Yacht Club of Toronto.

These races are being run from South Beach. The convenience of road connections to South Beach will make it possible for large crowds to see the sports. It is the hope of the promoters that tourists who have been passing up Clear and Stoney Lakes for the more widely exploited resorts in other sections of Ontario will be induced to pay the Kawartha Lakes a visit. They believe that the extensive program of sports this summer will supply the inducement that has been lacking up to the present.

Everyone is eligible to enter the events on this program, and can secure entry forms and information concerning the matter from the secretary of the Clear Lake Sport Association, W. E. Brooks, at Young's Point.

It is understood that many of the sea fleas that took part in the Frenchman's Bay contests will be present on the opening day of the season, Saturday, June 22. The Johnston Motor Company of Peterborough will be well represented, and a number of privately owned local craft are also entered. Word comes from Oshawa that Lorne Ardiel, importer of Cross motors, will enter one of his motors and boats for June 22. The Cross motor is a five-cylinder, radial type outboard motor that is rated at fifty horse-power. It is to be used on a 14-foot Pen Yan craft called the Viking. This will be the first appearance of this type of outfit on local waters, and ought to attract considerable interest.

The course on June 22 will be laid out in front of South Beach. Three laps of three miles each will be the distance.

A valuable array of trophies for the various competitions of the ten weeks is now on display at Ellis Brothers in Toronto. These will be brought to Peterborough in a few days and shown in one of the stores.

WILDCATS WIN BY 15-7 SCORE

Storemen Stage Batting Rally in Sixth and Eighth Innings.

SMART FIELDING.

The Bridgenorth Wildcats took the Teco aggregation for a ride in the softball game played at the Central school grounds last evening to the tune of 15-7. With the exception of two innings the Storemen were held scoreless by Forsythe and his fielders who played a fast brand of ball with few errors credited against them.

Carruthers on a bunt was the only one of the Teco crew to reach first base safely in the opening innings and in the next two White, on a bunt, was the next to trace the path to the initial sack, but was left stranded on second.

Then came the sixth innings, which was a real rally for Teco and made things appear dangerous for the Wilrcats for a few minutes. Gillespie and Jopling tried for Whites fly to left field and got entangled with each other missing the sphere and allowing Carruthers, who had reached first on a bunt to get to third and White to second. Two passed balls allowed Carruthers and White to chalk up the first two runs for the Storemen, and then errors by the Cats and a clean hit by Board accounted for three more credits to the Storemen, making the score five on their side of the score card.

But in this time, by heavy hitting and taking advantage of the Teco errors the Wildcats showed their superiority by gathering in thirteen runs to make the column heavy in their favor.

Heavy Battery Work.

Gillespie earned the honor of making the first circuit clout of the season when he drove one of Carruthers offerings up the alley between the schools. Frick, for Teco, did a little better in response to Gillespies challenge and made a heavy drive for a home run in the eighth, scoring Miller, who was safe on first, when his grounder bounced over Weeses head. Galbraith also featured when he made a complete circuit for a homer in the game.

Gillespie in centre field for the Wildcats turned in a whirlwind game, nabbing every fly coming in his direction. The Wildcat battery was well charged and worked well together. Connors behind the plate getting under each foul tip and Forsythe with a fast ball had the Teco men fooled for the greater part of the game, earning nine strikeouts.

Baker at third for the Bridgenorth team did not let many slip by him, while Weese at second assisted many to the out column.

Two double plays were featured in the game, the first in the third inning went to the honor of the Storemen. Forsyth popped to Board, who threw to first to catch Jopling off the bag for the putout. The second went to Bridgenorth when Weese stopped Millers drive and threw to H. Dormer for the putout at first, who tossed to G. Dormer at second for a double killing.

It will be a merry game when Harrisons and the Wildcats hook up in their fixture next week. The brand of softball played so far this year is a great deal superior to that played last year and the league promises some fast games if the games played in the last two nights are any indication of what is to be.

Line-ups:

Wildcats—G. Dormer, s.s.; H. Dormer, 1b. Galbraith, r.f. Weese, 2; Baker, 3; Connors, c; Gillespie, c.f.; Jopling, c.f.; Forsythe, p.

KEEPING RIVER OPEN FOR OCEAN VESSELS

Montreal Ice Expert Has Two Powerful Weapons for Fighting Ice in St. Lawrence.

MONTREAL, June 12.—(Canadian Press).—Two new weapons for fighting ice in the River St. Lawrence by which Dr. Howard T. Barnes, ice expert, hopes to keep navigation open to Montreal for a longer period than seven months in the year, as is the case at present, were explained at a meeting here recently by a brother of the ice expert, Wilfred M. Barnes, a painter, who is familiar with his brother's work and methods in the matter of prolonging navigation to this port. The two new weapons are themit flare and solite, comprising the heat unit with which ice-packs were destroyed during the high water this spring, when floods were thus prevented.

The thermit flare, it was explained, is projected from the bow of a ship passing through water in which there is drifting ice, and it not only gives a light which penetrates fog so that photographs can be taken showing if there are any drifting icebergs in the path of a ship. The other ice-fighting weapon solite, is a substance with which ice is melted and exploded, and it is the only agent known that will cause ice to explode.

OLD QUEENSBORO

BY C. E. L'AMI

Editorial Staff, The Border Cities Star

It would dispose of the matter simply if the rules under which such prizefighters as Tunney and Dempsey fought had been devised (as certain ill-informed American sport writers have been trying to tell us) by that Duke of Queensberry who went, in his day, under the soubriquet of "Old Q"

Unfortunately, that is not the case, "Old Q.," eminently fitted though he was to be a patron of pugilists, richly though his career is colored with the extravagances and debauchery of "sporting blood," was not the man who set up the famous boxing code which bears his family name. Neither was John Sholto Douglas, eighth Marquis of Queensberry, although he was the man after whom the rules were named.

The real author of the "Marquis of Queensberry Rules" was a humble sportsman by name of John G. Chambers, who lived out his short life between the years 1843 and 1883; and it is coincidence enough that it was just 62 years ago, in 1867, the year of the Canadian Confederation, that he wrote them. While Sir John A. Macdonald, a sporting blood himself, was going up and down the narrow provinces, appealing for unity, John G. Chambers was sitting in his study in London, carefully setting it all down—how there should be three rounds to a match, two of three minutes' duration and one of four, and two judges and a referee, and so on.

And yet the proprieties of romance, the pleasant aptitudes of antique tradition, fitted to the modern scene, are offended; for if ever a man lived who was the perfect embodiment of what we call "the sporting blood," that man was "Old Q."

His name was William Douglas, third Earl of March and fourth Duke of Queensberry, and he was, of course, one of that famous "black" clan of Scotland which has produced such widely separate types of men as the co-conspirator of Harry Hotspur, and Lord Selkirk, the patriarch of Red River. The Black Douglases have gone far afield and done many strange deeds, but there never was a quainter one of them than "Old Q."

There was no question in his day (he lived from 1724 to 1810) that "Old Q" was the greatest patron of the turf and the wildest scapegrace for wining, dicing and bruisers that existed in all Britain. His escapades attracted criticism of a dangerous sort, of a sort that seems likely to become immortal and drag the name of Queensberry in the dust to all ages. No less a person than Robert Burns, himself a fair performer at a "peck o' maut," loosed his fiery pen at him. In an epistle to Robert Graham of Fintry, Burns' diatribe still survives:

Hate, envy, oft the Douglas bore,
But thou hast superadded more,
And sunk them in contempt;
But Queensberry, thine the virgin claim—
Follies and crimes have stained the name,
From all that's good exempt!

Burns was not alone in his judgment Even William Wordsworth, pure-souled and gentle philosopher though he was, has left a poetical polemic against "Old Q" which is hardly less virulent than Robbie's

Contemporary documents make it clear, that "Old Q's" indiscretions did not stop at wining and dicing The polite legal gentlemen of his time, in winding up his affairs, put it mildly that "he died unmarried, but not without children, in London, December 23, 1810"

To discover how the Marquis of Queensberry, after whom the "rules" are named, came into being, it is necessary to trace a few generations down "Old Q's" ancestral line At his death, the dukedom of Queensberry descended to Henry Scott, the third Duke of Buccleugh, where it still remains; but the marquisate went to another branch of the Black Clan, in the person of Sir Charles Douglas, who thereupon became the fifth Marquis of Queensberry

John Sholto Douglas, the man who gave his name to the rules, and who was living up to practically contemporary times (until 1900), was the eighth marquis He was largely responsible for the founding of the British Amateur Athletic Club in 1860, and in 1867 was no doubt associated with Chambers to some extent in drawing up the famous boxing code In the same year he presented cups for the British amateur boxing contests in various weights

Since the "Marquis of Queensberry Rules" undoubtedly did govern amateur boxing up to the comparatively recent time when the prevailing ambition of the modern boxer to "knock out" his opponent brought the sport into disfavor, a rough statement of them is not out of the way

"Boxing," they set forth, "is the art of hitting without getting hit." Five weights are recognized: Bantam, not exceeding 116 pounds; feather 126 lbs; light 140 lbs; middle 158 lbs and heavy over 158 lbs. (Compare with present American weights Bantam 105 lbs; feather 115 pounds; light, 135 pounds; welter, 145 pounds; middle, 158 pounds; and heavy, over 158 pounds.) There are to be two judges, a referee and a timekeeper. Votes of the judges decide the winner, but, if they disagree, the referee has the deciding vote. Matches consist of three rounds, the first two of three minutes each, and the last of four, with one-minute rests between. Each competitor is allowed one "second," or supporter.

"Points," upon which the matches are decided, unless one competitor gives up before the finish, are awarded for attack and defense. In attack, for a hit cleanly delivered; in defence, for guarding, slipping, or ducking blows. Fouls are: Hitting below the belt, kicking, hitting with open hand, side of hand, wrist or elbow; or wrestling, or "roughing on the ropes."

Present-day American rules, which are probably only a little modified for the Tunneys and Dempseys, are substantially the same as the Marquis's. They limit the weight of gloves, however, to eight ouches, and a competitor is allowed two "seconds" at the ring. Points and fouls are the same.—Border Cities Star.

Two airplanes descending to the Hamilton airport from opposite directions collided when about 30 feet from the ground and fell locked together, seriously injuring the pilots and a bystander. A passenger in one of the craft escaped before help arrived. Layout shows: (1) Captain W. F. Shaylor, of Toronto, pilot of the Moth plane, who as seriously injured in the crash. (2) is Clarence Alexander, 15, of Toronto, who was cut about the mouth and legs when the two machines came down beside him. (3) shows the two airplanes, as they landed, locked together, with the large Pitcairn on top of the Moth.

PICTORIAL GOLF

NOVEL WAY OF GETTING PROPER SWING

A prominent golfer remarked once that he never felt as if her was really going to hit the ball properly unless he imagined that he was pulling on a rope at the top of the swing. This idea is strange but not unusual, as it makes one bring the hands up rather high and tends to straighten out the left arm—if indeed this is an advantage.

One would pull at a rope and gradually increase the power or just as we do when we swing at the ball. As we tighten the grip on the club so would we tighten the hold on the rope if we pulled it with the idea of bringing it down, or even with lifting ourself up. Bobby Jones has his hands very high at the top of the swing and Bob MacDonald drives the same way.

MODERN METHODS CLOSE CHANDOS ARMS HOTEL

LONDON, June 12.—(Canadian Press).—The Chandos Arms Hotel, Edgeware, said to be the oldest tavern in England with the possible exception of one in Chester, is to be closed, the license having been transferred to a new hotel at Colindale, to be named the New Chandos.

The Chandos Arms is full of historic associations, dating back to the eleventh century, and although 30 years have passed since the coach horses rattled into the yard the old place retains some of the glamor it enjoyed as the only change house on the Watford and Argyll street route.

Tradition has it that a room at the back, which looks out on the courtyard was used as a bedroom by Dick Turpin, and from this room he is said to have lowered himself on to his horse when forced to make a hurried flight. In the next room is a magnificent marble fireplace which came from Canons, the great house at Edgware built by the first Duke of Chandos.

Downstairs there is a trap door let into the floor. The flap reveals a narrow opening which is said to be a subterranean passage to Canons—almost a mile away. The story goes that this was used as a secret approach to the mansion, and was built by the Duke for the purpose of carrying on his numerous orgies. A frequent visitor during the eighteenth century was the famous composer, Handel, who spent two years as Karpellmeister at Canons.

Baseball Players Strike Is Settled

SYRACUSE, N.Y., June 12 (Canadian Press). — A one-day strike of the Syracuse team of the New York-Pennsylvania Baseball League over non-payment of salaries was settled today upon promise of the club owners that all back salaries would be paid in full.

The players, who went on strike yesterday prior to a scheduled game with the Williamsport Grays, agreed to resume their duties at Star Park to-day against the Elmira Colonels.

Auction: With the worthless doubleton in Spades, South bids the four-card Heart suit instead of No Trump, although three suits are stopped. West doubling negatively, North, with five Probable Tricks in support of Hearts, gives his two assists at one, bidding three Hearts.

The Play

West opens the King of Spades. East playing the Deuce. In order not to assist Declarer in the establishment of Dummy's Spades, and also because of Dummy's singleton Diamond, West switches to trumps. South winning with the King over East's Jack.

Declarer must lose two Spades and one Diamond. To prevent the loss of a Club trick and with it the contract, a Club must be discarded from both Declarer's hand and Dummy's, since if trumps are drawn there can be no more than one left in each hand and at least one Diamond and one Spade must be trumped in the establishment of those suits, and no trump would be available for the trumping of a Club trick, even should a Club discard be obtained from one of the hands. To obtain the two Club discards required, one from each hand, a Spade trick must be established in Dummy and a Diamond trick in Declarer's hand. Declarer being in his own hand, starts first in the establishment of a long Spade in Dummy, since he desires to take the Diamond finesse in establishing the Diamond suit.

West, winning the Spade trick, leads another trump, which Declarer wins with Dummy's 8 in order to take the Diamond finesse. Declarer finesses the 10 of Diamonds and West's Queen wins. West leads his third trump Declarer passing it up to his own 10. Declarer leads the King of Diamonds to establish the Jack. West covers, and Declarer trumps with Dummy's last trump. A Spade lead from Dummy establishes two long Spades in Dummy's hand. Declarer trumps the Spade trick, and then makes his Jack of Diamonds, discarding a Club from Dummy. Declarer then leads the King followed by a low Club to Dummy's Ace, and Dummy's two Spades take the last two tricks.

The result would have been the same had West, instead of leading the third trump switched to the Queen of Clubs.

FILIBUSTERS REPULSED BY GARRISON AT CORO

Rebels Are Defeated After Several Hours of Hard Fighting.

CARACAS, Venezuela, June 12.—(Canadian Press).—The Venezuelan filibusters, who kidnapped the Governor of Curaco Saturday night and looted the police arsenal, attacked the town of Coro, capital of the state of Falcon on Sunday but were defeated after several hours' fighting.

Details of the unsuccessful attack, as made public in El Nuevo Diario, government newspaper, revealed that General Gomez, former president, and now commander-in-chief of the Venezuelan army, had warned the garrison at Coro of the impending assault.

The garrison, aided by the civilian population, were ready for the invaders and drove them off.

TRIO REMANDED

TORONTO, Ont., June 12.—(Canadian Press).—At the request of the prosecuting attorney, Allen Case, Harry B. Johnston and John Bosley, Jr., were remanded until June 19 when they appeared in county court yesterday on a charge of aggravated and felonious assault upon Strathearn Boyd Thompson, editor and publisher of a local weekly periodical. The attack is alleged to have been made at the Thorncliffe race track. Bail for all three was renewed.

CHURCH ARMY IS IN LAKEFIELD

Captain Morley and Five Cadets Visit St. John's Parish.

OPEN AIR SERVICE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, June 12. — St. John's Parish was visited over the week-end by a detachment of the Church Army, which is on a route march of witness through the dioceses of Toronto, Ontario and Ottawa, visiting many parishes while on their way. The party consisted of Captain Morley and five cadets, who are giving up their lives to work "For Christ and the Church," and who on their long journey have as their motto "God is love." They arrived in the village on Saturday morning and pitched their tents on the grounds of the parish hall, very appropriately choosing the spot where the first building in the settlement was erected to the glory and worship of God.

On Saturday evening an open air service was held on the corner of Queen and Reid street, and which was attended by a large crowd, who were most orderly and reverent, and who will carry away pleasant memories of six young men clad in simple Oxford gray uniforms bearing in gold the intertwined letters C. A. (Church Army.) Captain Morley introduced himself as from Derbyshire, England, and his cadets were introduced in turn; Cadet Wheeler, aged 19, from Dunblane, Sask., a bright-faced lad, who carried the banner of the little group and who gave in simple, manly style his testimony for Christ and His church. Cadet Ayland, of Frankville, Ont., is English by birth, and Canadian by adoption; Cadet Baker, of Kitchener, Ont., Cadets Bewley and Wall are of St. Matthew's Parish, Toronto.

An open air service of an evangelical character, sponsored by the Church of England, was a novelty in Lakefield, but to those familiar with the lithurgy of the church there were no departures after all except in the informality of time and place.

Assisted in Service.

On Sunday morning the young men assisted in the service and Capt. Morley preached a stirring sermon on the feast prepared by the Lord for which the bidden guests excused themselves, putting a new light on the old parable.

In the evening Capt. Morley spoke on the value of rest, and Cadet Wheeler gave a brief but telling message.

After the evening service a short informal service was held at the corner of Reid and Queen streets, and again a crowd gathered and perchance there was in many minds the story of the young Man and His group of young men followers, who spoke to the people informally of God's love for man in old Judea more than nineteen hundred years ago. The crusaders had nothing new to tell but just the old old story of the saving power of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, which passes all understanding. One cannot help but feel that the village is better for the visit of these young men who are consecrating their lives to Christ and the Church, and who are not ashamed ed to bear public testimony of their faith.

TWO NEW MEMBERS ADDED TO BOARD

Mrs. E. E. Harvey Elected President of Y.W.C.A. Board of Directors.

The regular meeting of the Y.W.C.A. Board of Directors was held Monday afternoon, Mrs. E. E. Harvey conducting the business.

The financial statements showed an Association balance of $134.00 for the month. $250.00 was voted toward the summer linen supply.

On recommendation of the nominating committee two new members were added to the Y.W.C.A. Board of Directors, Mrs. B. Shortley and Mrs. L. J. LeClair.

The general secretary's report included a review of the last month's activities and outlined plans for camp which include an opening day on Wednesday, June 19 when all visitors will be most welcome to come and inspect the new camp. The camp committee will serve afternoon tea. Special boat arrangements will be made to conduct all motor parties from McCracken's Landing to and from the camp island. Friends who can arrange to take an extra guest or two in their cars are asked to kindly leave their names at the Y.W.C.A. This Friday, June 14, an afternoon tea in the interests of camp will be held at the local Y.W.C.A. and on Thursday, June 20, an evening camp party and campers' reunion. Admission canned goods for the camp. A cordial invitation is extended to all young people to attend. The Wohelo Club and friends will spend this week end at camp. Improvements to camp include a wide screened veranda which will be much enjoyed. The committee expect to have everything in readiness for the first campers. Requests are coming in to have camp open the last week of June and if enough register this will be arranged. The second week of July will be junior camp with a special C.G.I.T. program. Groups are asked to register early.

A discussion as to the plans for Old Home Week include a Y.W.C.A. float, open house at the local Y.W.C.A. with special exhibition of swimming, gymnasium work and afternoon tea one day during the week. The Y.W.C.A. will co-operate in accommodating transients and the "Y" Camp will also serve any girls or women who wish to spend a day or two at camp. Camp will also welcome any who wish to spend a few hours at camp the day of the excursion to Stoney Lake.

The physical director reported a large number enrolled in swimming classes. A special exhibition of canoe craft given by R. Bloomfield and A. M. Fitzgerald, also life saving demonstration by the Y.W.C.A. girls. A swimming meet will be held each Friday evening during the season.

The election of officers for the year was the main item of business. Mrs. E. E. Harvey was unanimously asked to accept the presidency during the illness of Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner. Other officers re-elected were vice presidents, Miss M. Dickson and Mrs. R. H. Harstone, treasurer Miss E. Morrow, secretary Miss A. Wood, and associate secretary Mrs. G. L. Porter.

The meeting closed with prayer after which tea was served.

RUN DOWN LADY'S NERVES STRONGER AS HUSKY'S USED

"I Have Never Enjoyed Life So Well as I Do Now I'm Taking This Medicine," She Says.

MRS. ROBERT SMITH

"Husky is helping me so much that it looks like I am through with poor health and nervousness," said Mrs. Robert Smith, of 65 Nelson St., Stratford, Ont., when she recently reported how she is being benefitted by this medicine which is receiving the praise of hundreds of people here.

"For so long," said Mrs. Smith, "my nerves were bad and I had heart attacks. I had no appetite and felt weak all the time. But since I have been taking Husky I have gotten a great relief and the heart attacks have disappeared. My nerves are so much stronger that I am feeling well again and have a splendid appetite.

"I never enjoyed life so well as I do now that Husky has put me in such good health. It is a great medicine and I most highly recommend it."

Begin using Husky to-day and note how soon food tastes better, sleep is more sound and restful and you feel stronger and better in every way. It is nothing short of marvelous what this medicine will do for you in a few days.

If you would like to know more about "Husky" call on the expert from the Husky Laboratories, who is now making his headquarters at Bond's Drug Store. He explains, free of charge, how best and quickest results are obtained from the use of this medicine and answers questions about the treatment. Call at Bond's and ask for the Husky Expert to-day. His information has led thousands to find the relief and new health they had been seeking for years.

JAMES DUTTON PASSES TESTS

Local Youth Receives License As Qualified Airplane Pilot.

TELLS OF EXPERIENCES.

James Dutton, Jr., son of James Dutton, president of Stock's Bread Company, Limited, is now a qualified pilot for flying having obtained a private license in April of this year. Mr. Dutton is very enthusiastce about flying and sometime in the near future hopes to have a plane of his own.

In November, 1927, he, with Norman Miller, were about the first pupils of Robert Elliott, who was then giving instructions in flying at Hamilton and now is connected with the International Airways Limited The cost of these first lessons amounted to $6 an hour. Here the pair stayed for three months and then returned to Peterborough to take up further instruction from Captain H. P. Ayres who was starting a flying school in this city.

Just as Mr. Dutton was ready to take his license the school failed and he was unable to complete his course while Miller was lucky enough to have his examination before the failure.

Later Dutton went to the Toronto flying club and received further instruction under the flying officer there, Edward Burton. Here it was practically a new start as the modern Moth plane was used, which was very different from the old type of plane that was used here and which would barely fly. The Moth plane is very sensitive to the controls and easy to fly. "They will do anything in the air", he said, "you can take your hands off the control and the plane will follow a set course or they will do any kind of acrobatics a plane can do." In November of last year he finished his course and tried his tests but did not take out his license until this April.

Dutton's first flight was on Thanksgiving Day in 1927 at Hamilton. The experience he tells in the following manner: "When you are learning to fly you take everything for granted and enjoy it. The aviator gave me the works such as spins and loops and when we landed he asked me if I was cured yet and I told him that I was but to carry on. I was not frightened and never have been sick but one is liable to be anytime.

"The biggest kick comes when you take the first solo flight, when you get up there and wonder how to get down all right and I was fortunate enough to. I took my first solos in July, 1928, from the local field.

"The longest flight that I have had was with Mike De Bliequy in the summer of 1928 when we flew down east as far as Tweed and distributed Dollar Day bills for The Examiner.

"I crashed once and that was when I was with Captain Ayres. It was while landing in a slow glide when the machine went into a stall or lost flying speed and the machine cracked up against a fence. I was not hurt and things happened too fast to be frightened. That is one thing about flying everything happens about ten times as fast as they do in an automibile."

The tests that were tried by the youthful flier included a flight to the height of 5,000 feet when the motor would be shut off and the candidate would have to land on the field within 150 feet of a mark without using the motor and to add to the difficulty on the way down the student would have to do a spin to the right and then to the left.

The next was to do four landings from a height of 15,000 feet and land within 150 feet of the mark with a dead motor, while on the last of these flights the flyer would have to make a series of five figure eights around two points. "This looks easy," said Jim, "but if there is a cross wind the plane is liable to drift off the course and this has to be allowed for."

The license that Mr. Dutton now holds automatically makes him an officer in the Canadian Air Force. "Flying clubs are a great thing," he said. "In this way the country is building up one of the greatest air forces of any country and there are so many people taking to flying the more of these there are the better. Commercial flying is also going ahead by leaps and bounds and is becoming more important day by day.

WEDDING BELLS

PEARSON—BYRNE.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at nine o'clock on June 5th at St. Patrick's Church, Kinmount, by the pastor, the Rev. Father Gillogly, when Anne, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Byrne, of Kinmount, became the bride of Peter A. Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pearson, of Galway.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march, played by Mrs. Charles Hartnett. She wore a lovely gown of white satin with white veil, slippers and hose, and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and maidenhair fern.

Miss Helen Pearson, sister of the bridegroom, acted as bridesmaid, wearing a sand-dust georgette, with hat, shoes and hose to match, and carrying a bouquet of sweet peas.

Little Miss Veronica Byrne was a charming flower girl, in a frock of pink organdy and carrying a basket of Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Edmund Allen, a cousin of the bride, was best man.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served to about eighty guests.

NINE APPLICATIONS FOR CITIZENSHIP

His Honor Judge Huycke Hears Applicants For Naturalization

The diversity of nationality of Peterborough County's population was amply reflected when nine applications for naturalization were made before His Honor Judge Huycke in the General Sittings of the Peace at the Court House yesterday afternoon. The applications included: two United States born, Orley DeGraw and Emil Leonard; two Poles, Michael Galan and Max Botnick; one Greek, John Econs; a Swiss, Max Arthur Weiss; an Assyrian, Abdallah Elias Said; two Italians, John Delsaar and Eydo Matuctui.

In a brief address after hearing the applications His Honor stated that the applicants must realize just what it means to be a British subject. "We consider it a very high privilege to be British citizens," he continued. "Of old it was the Roman's pride to be a Roman citizen, because Rome was so mighty. We are proud to be of the British nation not only because she is powerful but she has done such for the human race. All over the wide world British sentiments are predominate. To give you citizenship in such a nation is to grant you a very great favour."

"You must be loyal to the Empire. Speak and live for her, and yes, fight for her; praise God that it will not be necessary."

SMALL DEMAND FOR LABOR.

A number of drifters are making application for work at the Peterborough Employment Office. The term drifter is explained by those in charge as those people who have no set connection in the city of Peterborough, and who drift in here from other places in search of some kind of work.

While there have been no calls from the summer resorts in the Kawartha Lakes for help, and also a dearth of applicants for the same, there have been requests come through Toronto for those resorts located in the Muskoka district.

The men of Peterborough seem to be pretty well employed, and the list of applicants at the Bureau is small. The work of the farm is fairly well advanced and no great demand for farm labor is expected until the haying season when extra help is then needed.

ANOTHER PARKING COMPLAINT

A new complaint arises from the motorists of the city. It seems that a number of people who park on the streets where angle parking is required, each choose a separate and different angle in which to leave their car, the result being that when one driver parks and another parks at a different angle beside him, difficulty is often encountered when the first man tries to back out of his parking place.

OMENS OF CIRCUS DAYS

It seems that the omens of circus days arrive together. Yesterday with the advent of circus posters came the appearance of red bananas. These were hung conspicuously outside of the fruit emporiums. The pink lemondae is yet to appear to make the forecast complete.

STORE FRONT RE-DECORATED

Loblaw's Groceteria on Charlotte street have been brightening up the front of their store. A crew of painters from the painting division of this company were busy yesterday applying a new coat of spotless white paint to the front of the store.

RECEIVES FIRST COAT

The steeple of St. Peter's Cathedral has received its coat of grey paint and now the cross has been removed and is being gilded.

WHAT NEXT?

Smart cars, a trio of attractive girls, stockingless except for short socks, made the conservative Peterborough citizens sit up and take notice of what is ultra modern in the country to the south of us, this morning. Three pretty girls with a smart touring sport car, stopped along George street to make some purchases. Dressed in snappy sport clothes and cute socks they walked the street to the stores. People thought the circus was in town the way they crowded the windows and craned their necks to take a second look at the nonchalant tourists.

One old fellow said: "Well, I'll be darned. What next?"

PARTY TAKES SPILL

A party from the construction camp at Fraserville had a rough ride last night as they were leaving the city. The party was packed like sardines on a huge truck that was proceeding at a fair rate of speed west on Charlotte street about midnight when it struck a big hole in the pavement near St. Joseph's street. The big car lurched and threw about a half a dozen men off onto the pavement. A car directly behind the truck had to swerve across the street to avoid hitting the men as they sat in a daze on the road wondering what it was all about.

TRUCK SUMMONS DEPARTMENT.

Automobiles are beginning to show a vein of originality in the trouble which they cause. At 7.05 last evening one of Carter's trucks crashed into a pole at the corner of Hunter and Mark Streets. The pole supported a fire alarm box and the collision operated the alarm mechanism, summoning the whole Fire Department to the scene.

REPAIRING C.P.R. CROSSING.

The rough crossing where George Street crosses the C.P.R. tracks is being remedied by the city men with asphalt filling.

STEAM SHOVEL IN ACTION.

The steam shovel, in action on Park Street, continues to be an attraction to the ever-present group of small boys who watch its action eagerly as it scoops up its big mouthfuls of gravel and deposits them in the dump.

HOUSE IS PLACARDED.

Practical jokers seem to have been at work on a home on Aylmer Street South. The house is at present vacant, but is evidently to be occupied at an early date. Several signs have been attached to the outside of the premises, which are inclined to stir one's imagination. They read: "Welcome Home," "The Love Nest," and "A Home for Homeless Children."

MARKET SQUARE OILED.

A layer of oil has been laid on the dusty surface of the Market Square. Although this is an inconvenience while the oil is wet, the freedom from dust on hot days will amply make up for it.

TWO CARS COLLIDE.

An accident between cars belonging to William A. Noble and James King occurred yesterday at the corner of Townsend and Aylmer Streets. Noble was driving south on Aylmer Street, and when King was crossing the intersection on Townsend Street at a rapid rate of speed, according to witnesses, collided with the car belonging to Noble, catching the front bumper and turning the car around.

King claims that he was proceeding slowly, while Noble claims that he was coming at a fast pace. However, King agreed to repair the damaged car.

PERILS IN ARCTIC ARE RELATED IN FATEFUL TALE

Men Employed By Hudson Straits Expedition Dogged By Ill Luck.

REFUSED INSURANCE.

Trouble Started On Second Day With Accidental Death of Oiler.

By THOMAS WAYLING.
(Copyright)

OTTAWA, Ont., June 12.—(Special to The Examiner). — A workman's diary, starting with the routine of a workman's life, but plunging into terrific excitement in Arctic seas, wherein shipwreck and deadly danger put peaceful carpenters and laborers in terror of their lives, was unobstrusively filed recently with the Public Accounts Committee of the House of Commons.

The modern Pepys is F. C. Campbell, a foreman working for A. S. MacMillan, a Halifax contractor, who undertook the construction work for the Hudson Straits expedition. There were 46 men all told, some of them carpenters, some handy men, some laborers, and three foremen.

The workmen had been refused insurance by the line companies, had been refused the protection of the Workmen's Compensation Act. Before they got back they discovered they had been in need of every protection they could get.

The expedition went north in July, 1927, on the Government icebreaker Stanley and the steamship Larch. The second day out an oiler fell into the crank pit of the Stanley and was killed. The Stanley's engines were repeatedly breaking down, and the fog was almost continuous.

Erected Buildings.

At Wakeham Bay, Nottingham Island Port Burwell, the three bases for the expedition, the workmen erected buildings and did other construction work. At first everything went well, but in the fall the storms started to rage and tragedy began to leer over their shoulders.

At Port Burwell, while waiting to start back home, they saw the Canadian Raider drag her anchors and smash on submerged rocks. She was pulled off and put into safe anchorage, but she dragged her anchor and again crashed.

Finally the homeward voyage started and in simple language Foreman Campbell tells of the icy terror of the northern seas, when life seemed at an end. The Stanley was battered from stem to stern and began to sink. Later it was found someone had tampered with and opened a seacock and the water gained steadily. The pumps stuck and they had to bail. They gave themselves up for lost.

Seaman's Epic.

The diary for the most part deals with routine, but on Nov. 2, Campbell started to write his workman's epic. The diary was intended for the information of the contractor, but never a foreman's diary contained such entries, from the dread of the ice and sea to the prayer of thanksgiving when all was over.

The leaders of the expedition consulted as to the advisability of returning on the Hudson Bay ship, Nascopie, but inspecton showed that the staunch little Arctic craft could hardly be fitted up to provide the necessary accommodation.

The Nascopie and the Raider prepared for sea and the Stanley got ready to go to Wakeham Bay. The next day, however, Nov. 3, a terrific storm battered the ships. It developed into a hurricane, and about 4 o'clock in the afternoon the Raider began to drag her anchor. She struck a rock and put a hole in her forward hold, and at 9 a.m. had 10 feet of water in her hold.

The crew worked frantically to lighten her. The coal she had brought up was unceremoniously dumped overboard. The water gained and at 5 p.m. Thursday she had 18 feet of water in the hold and 100 tons of coal had gone over the side.

The Nascopie sailed the next day after the sea had gone down. The Raider had been taken into a quiet cove and beached. The pumps worked steadily clearing the water out of the hold and the crew greased up all the machinery for the winter. The Nascopie took 22 of the Raider's working crew (Russians) with her, and a polar bear for the London Zoo. The Ocean Eagle, after towing the Raider to the cove, left for Wakeham Bay and thence home. She took ten of the Raider's crew with her.

Raider is Beached.

The beaching of the Raider was a ticklish affair. The officers all took a hand in it. Major McLean was in command and there was Capt. Ahearn on the Stanley, Capt. Macks on the Nascopie, Capt. Bennett on the Raider, Capt. Pool on the Ocean Eagle, Capt. Bernier on the Churchill and Capt. Balcolm on the Larch.

The crew of the Stanley went aboard to put things shipshape on the Raider, and Major McLean asked for some of the working carpenters, but the men flatly refused. "Mr. Moriarty and myself had to do the work without men," writes Campbell.

On Sunday, Campbell collected the lumber and nails and other material for the work on the Raider. The men were again approached and they asked for $1 an hour. This was flatly refused. "They were very glad to go and work after being told just what could be done," is Campbell's next enigmatic entry.

Again Victim in Storm.

Another storm came up Sunday night and the unfortunate Raider was again the victim. She broke her moorings and swung bow on against the rocks, smashing another hole in the bottom. All Monday the storm raked and the sturdy Stanley changed her position six times during the day and twice in the night, her anchors dragging. Part of the Stanley's crew, however, went over in a launch to the Raider and helped make fast there.

The Stanley's launch was smashed on the rocks when her engines failed, but without casualties.

"All was given up for lost one time," writes Campbell, "but our Heavenly Father reached out His hand and saved all hands. I personally do thank God from the bottom of my heart for his goodness to me and all hands in bringing us all through our terrible experience, and I feel that not a man aboard but felt the same. Four times men were nearly washed overboard. The chief engineer had a very narrow escape, being over the side and holding on until pulled in by his pal. Also, the wireless operator had very narrow escapes, but I shall never forget this terrible ordeal."

One of the largest rooms in the world is said to be the passenger concourse in the Union Station in Washington, D. C.

TORONTO ORCHESTRA MAKES HIT WITH THE YOUNGER SET

AT RYE'S PAVILION.

Hall Has Been Re-arranged, Re-decorated and Re-lighted To Please the Eye.

"Hot harmony, ragtime rhythm, sobbin' syncopation." It's the essence of 'hot' music that they serve their patrons at Rye's pavilion, since Roy Locksley and his Canadians came to town. This bunch of peppy players draw the crowd every night, to the cool dancing place in the south end of the town, where the floor and the music are the main items in the entertainment. The fascinating swing of the orchestra carries them along over the glassy floor, under the soft lights, and those who make a practice of frequenting Rye's say the music is some of the best that ever struck Peterborough.

Roy Locksley comes from Toronto with a group of smooth, good-looking musicians, who pep it up nightly at Rye's from nine to twelve. They play with all the life and vim and punctuated rhythm that goes to make a dance a delight. They wear black and blue stripped blazers, and 'do their stuff' on an enlarged orchestra stand that gives them space for the thirty instruments in use. The boys are five in number, and each member of the group is an accomplished musician, playing several instruments.

Original Redcaps.

'Curly,' the drummer, is the Harlequin of the group and makes plenty of fun for the onlookers with his zippy mannerisms and his whoopee hat. Then, there are 'Red,' and 'Sam,' and 'Maxie,' the pianist, while Roy Locksley leads the quintette This is the original 'Redcap' orchestra which has made such a success of radio broadcasting, and played during the past two years in Loew's Uptown Theatre in Toronto. Mr. Locksley also manages four other orchestras in different places through the province. They have at Rye's all the favorite instruments: the piano, violin, cornet, 'cello, saxaphones, flutes, clarinets, drums and trumpets, and also go in for a lot of novelty effects in chime and bell work. During the season they plan to present many novelty features and have at all times the latest song and dance hits on their program. This week to chime in with the premier presentations of the 'Talkies' here they are featuring hits from "The Broadway Melody," in the "Melody" itself, "The Wedding of the Painted Doll," "The Boy Friend," and "You Were Meant for Me."

Rye's has been re-arranged and redecorated and re-lighted for the 1929 season. Going on the principle that the floor and the music are the major items for a dancing pavilion, they have concentrated on these, but the decorations are extremely effective, with a rich simplicity that makes them quite unique and original.

The color scheme is a combination of golden russet and ruby purple. In large round globes that are attached to the ceiling and in the wall lights that have large, pointed cornucopia shades of modernistic design, the two colors are used with striking effect, while the combining of blue and bronze is used for the lattice work of the orchestra stand and the brocade curtains which drape it at the rear.

This year, the Pavilion has been ceiled throughout and a pale green boarding was used.

There is a refreshment counter where ice cream and soft drinks may be purchased, and the side shutters open on warm evenings, allow the inflow of a cool summer breeze. Rye's Pavilion this year promises to be a favorite gathering place for the light-footed dancers of the city.

PLAN REST ROOMS FOR OLD HOME WEEK

Catholic Women's League Will Make Necessary Changes in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum.

At the meeting of the Catholic Women's League, held this week in the parish hall of the Sacred Heart Church, there was a large attendance. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for the conversion of rooms at St. Alphonsus' Lyceum into rest rooms, for use during Old Home Week.

Plans were also discussed in furtherance of the interests of the Lawn Social to be held on the 18th of this month at St. Vincent's Orphanage.

The ladies, meeting for the last time this season, were cordially welcomed by the pastor, the Rev. J. J. O'Brien, who spoke in encouragement of the aims of the society and the good work carried on by the members, and also advised the ladies to live up conscientiously and faithfully to the rules of the constitution.

A short, pleasing program was given, including a piano solo by Miss E. Armstrong; vocal solos by Miss Minnie Allen and Miss Elva Louise Jackson, and readings by Jean Doris and Geraldine McAuliffe. Accompaniments were played by Miss Margaret McCabe and Miss Louise Letellier.

PREMIER SOUNDS GOOD WILL NOTE IN CONTINENT-WIDE BROADCAST

Extends Welcome To American People Over Big C.K.G.W. Hook-up.

Tourists Stimulate Interest.

Feelings of Respect and Admiration Are No Formal Gestures, He States.

TORONTO, Ont., June 13 (C.P.).—Whatever the United States and Canada may achieve by mutual effort in the direction of industrial, educational and scientific advance, will hasten the advance of the race, and the world as a whole will be the gainer, declared Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, in a radio broadcast last night over CKGW, to the people of the Dominion and the neighboring Republic. It was the first time Canada has sent a radio program from one of her own stations, on a hook-up with a chain of stations in the United States.

Premier Ferguson at the outset of his remarks said the expression of the feelings of respect and admiration which the people of Canada entertained for their friends and neighbors of the United States was no formal gesture, but one of sincere appreciation and good-will. He also voiced the pride Canadians felt in their own country with its wealth of opportunity, free and liberal institutions, glorious traditions and high aspirations.

Tourists Stimulate Interest

Mr. Ferguson said the Canadian people rejoiced in the growing opportunities afforded them to meet and form friendships with the people of the United States. He instanced the fact that eleven million tourists, mostly from the United States, visited Canada last year and in proportion to population this courtesy was returned by the people of Canada. This exchange of visits was well worth while, if it did no more than stimulate interest in international co-operation of common concern.

"Neighbors we are by decree of nature," said Premier Ferguson, "but we are more than neighbors. Side by side we live and work out our destiny in mutual confidence and respect. No forts or guns menace our frontiers; no sleepless sentries patrol our borders. Only the forces necessary for internal security and order are maintained and only the rivalry of peaceful industry is tolerated.

"If ever two great communities were so situated as to give the world an example of the blessing of peaceful neighborliness, they are found today in the United States of America and the Dominion of Canada, the Premier concluded.

OPPOSITION IS LEADING.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, June 13.—(Canadian Press Cable Via Reuters.)— With 96 out of 148 seats reported in the South African General Elections at 8 p.m., the standing of the parties was:

South African Party (Opposition)	50
Nationalists (Government)	38
Creswell Laborites (Government)	5
National Council Laborites	3

At this stage the South African Party had gained 13 seats, the Nationalists 5, the Creswell Laborites one, and the National Council Laborites 1.

DAVID J. BYERS IS 93 TO-DAY

Early Pioneer Days Are Recalled By Aged City Resident.

BORN IN CAVAN TOWNSHIP.

David John Byers is 93 years today, the thirteenth of June and in spite of the unlucky number of the day is in good health.

Mr. Byers was born on the Fourth line of Cavan, and farmed until twelve years ago when he came to reside in Peterborough.

Mr. Byer's father was a pioneer of this country and often told his children of the road to Port Hope that was at that time merely a blazed trail. He was of old Irish stock and a coincidence was that he moved from Cavan County Ireland to Cavan Township Peterborough.

Mr. Byers received his education at first in a little log cabin at the roadside in Bloomfield, now known as Bailieboro.

Mr. Byers remained at school until he was eighteen. He then went to learn wagon making where he remained for about a year. After that he returned to his father's farm and remained on a farm until his removal to Peterborough.

Horses were little used in Mr. Byer's boyhood days. Oxen were the Pretty Port Huron Girl Is Strangled to Death in Home of Brother.

Desperate Struggle Believed.

Youth Wanted to Marry Girl, But Parents Objected On Account of Her Age.

LONDON, Ont., June 13 (Special to The Examiner). — Police search turned to London this morning for the twenty-one-year-old Alfred Loune, former London youth, who late last night is believed to have strangled to death his sweetheart, Beatrice Frye, at the home of her brother, Robert Frye, in Port Huron, Michigan.

The strangulation of the girl was effected after a desperate battle in the living-room of the girl's brother Robert, at 1445 Water Street, Port Huron. According to Port Huron information the pair had a quarrel some days ago because of the parents' refusal to permit the marriage.

Had Not Written Since March

His mother stated this morning that the boy had not written home since the end of March. His last letter gave a hint of the grim foundation for the tragic ending of the love tangle that ended last night in murder of the pretty seventeen-year-old Port Huron telephone operator. "We were to be married soon" he told his mother in that letter, "but mother objected because she is young and we will have to wait awhile longer."

Before leaving London three years ago for Port Huron he worked for the Rodding Shoe Co., here. In Port Huron he secured employment at a Fibre Board Paper plant, but last February the end was cut from his middle right finger and since that time he has had two minor operations on the digit in Detroit, and has been unable to work. In February he brought the Frye girl

RUM FLEET LIES IDLE AT DETROIT

GUNS BEING MOUNTED

WINDSOR, Ont., June 13 (Canadian Press).—The rum fleet is lying idle off shore, in Lake Erie, and the Detroit River is practically free of smugglers, according to an announcement to-day by Walter S. Petty, acting collector of Customs at Detroit. From independent but reliable sources, however, come reports of increasing activity among the rum running gentry who haven't abandoned Lake St. Clair. The runners now are waiting definite indications for heralded offensive by the United States coastguard cutters and Customs patrols, they admitted.

Confirmation was forthcoming today from "under cover" men that Lewis guns are to be carried by these rum runners who have said they'll stay in business until the last rum boat has been shot from under their feet and the last whiskey case has gone overboard.

Early Returns Have All Been From Urban Constituencies.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, June 13.—(Canadian Press Cable Via Reuters.)—Returns from the country districts are now arriving and show the rural areas running true to form in the general election of yesterday by supporting the Nationalist party. The number of Nationalist seats is now 16, while the South African party is still well out in front with 40 to its credit. The Creswellite Laborites, who support the Nationalist government, have four seats and the other wing of the Labor party has three.

The government secured both the north and south ridings of Bloemfontein and a clean sweep of the Orange Free State by the Nationalists and their Labor allies appears almost certain. In Bloemfontein North the National Council Laborite suffered a sensational defeat. Shaw, the Creswellite Labor candidate, won the contest with 1,380 votes, while Reitz, (South African) polled 894 and Barlow (National Council) secured only 340.

Leader Is Defeated.

Col. Mentz, one of the South African party leaders was defeated by a narrow margin in Zwartruggens, Transvaal. The vote was, Verster (Nationalist), 1,107, Mentz, 1,099.

General Smuts, leader of the South African party, has been re-elected, as have the leaders of both factions of the Labor party, Col. F. H. P. Creswell and Hon. W. B. Madeley. The returns from the seat contested by Premier Hertzog are not yet available.

The Oppostion leader, however, had a narrow escape from defeat. He polled 1,281 votes in Standerton, Transvaal to 1,108 secured by his opponent, Mr. Pirow, a Nationalist. The result was received with great enthusiasm in South African party circles as the seat was regarded as doubtful.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, June 13. — (Canadian Press Cable). — The first day's results in the South African elections show General Jan Christian Smuts and his South African party with a good start towards a possible majority in the next house of assembly. At noon today he had 39 of his supporters elected to the seats won at least seven were gains from the Nationalist party which with a section of the Labor party forms the present government. The Nationalists under Premier J. B. Hertzog have seven seats of which two were gains from other parties. The Laborites are divided, one section under Col. F. H. P. Creswell supporting the government and the other which calls itself the "National Council" section opposing. So far seven seats have gone to the Laborites and of these the Cresswellites have secured 4 and the National Council section three.

Radio Operator Is Killed In Forced Landing

MIAMI, Fla., June 13 (C.P.).—John M. Griffin, radio operator, was killed when a Pan-American Airways passenger and mail plane was forced down this morning about one miles west of Santiago, Cuba, officials of the air line announced here at 11 a.m.

All passengers were disembarked without serious injury, after the plane burst into flames upon landing, the official announcement said. The accident occurred at 8.05 a.m.

GENERAL DAWES AND MACDONALD TO MEET SUNDAY

Ambassador From the United States and Prime Minister to Discuss International Problems.

PRESENT CREDENTIALS.

Visit To King George at Windsor Castle Will Probably Be Made On Saturday.

LONDON, June 13 (Canadian Press).— It was stated authoritatively to-day Ambassador Dawes would travel to Scotland on Sunday to meet Premier MacDonald at Forres, a little town seventeen miles from Lossiemouth, where the Premier is spending a short vacation.

The new Ambassador will be received by King George at Windsor Castle on Saturday when he will present his credentials, the presentation taking place possibly within 48 hours of his landing at Southampton from the Olympic.

This procedure is necessary, according to the code observed by diplomats which would not sanction an interview with the Prime Minister prior to presentation to His Majesty.

Discuss Great Questions.

At Lossiemouth Mr. MacDonald told an interviewer with regard to his prospective visitor: "We shall meet over the luncheon table and in the short space of three or four hours great questions of Anglo-American co-operation in the cause of disarmament and permanent peace will be opened."

It was said plans for the Premier's projected visit to the United States depended upon the message brought him by Ambassador Dawes, who was assumed generally to have been authorized to convey a cordial invitation to Mr. MacDonald.

ROYAL YORK FAR EXCEEDS ALL REPORTS

New Toronto Hotel Is a Mundane House of Many Mansions.

FIFTEEN DINING ROOMS.

700 of the 1,100 Guest Rooms Were Occupied First Night After Opening.

(By H. T.)

A mundane house of many mansions is the Royal York hotel, Toronto, the ultimate and greatest of the C.P.R. chain of modern caravansaries.

Toronto newspapers have exhausted their literary reserves of superlatives in description of its splendors, its infinite variety and charm, and its significance as a local and national institution, but the final periods to their colorful and intimate reviews and reports of the formal opening ceremonies and gayeties leave the Royal York inadequately limned for those who have not seen it. And the provincial press could not add any clearer pictorial effect. Some of the multitudinous details, however, are at least interesting.

A Huge Investment

It may mean little to the average Canadian to know that the Royal York was eighteen months building, and that it cost more than $16,000,000; but such an immense investment reveals the confidence in the immediate future of this country which pervades the executive offices of the sane and sound old C.P.R. with its long experience in nation building.

If you go to Toronto by train you find the new Union Station and the Royal York linked by a subway under Front street, by which you debouch onto one of the basement levels leading to a broad stairs up on the foyer on the main floor. And such a foyer, an expansive vista of palms and flowers and pillars, with deep, restful chairs and chesterfields and all manner of settees, and a vast rug of unmeasured acreage whose deep pile you feel but otherwise do not notice. Around this vast rectangular rest room and newest Toronto rendez-vous extends a broad mezzanine gallery, incidentally a peacock alley for the Queen city's smart set and its visitors.

Offices, information, news and tobacco boys fringe the foyer, and at one end a flight of wide stairs rises to the main dining room beyond its

U. S. Plane Fails To Start

LEAVES BRIDE BEHIND.

The Yellow Bird, a huge French monoplane, manned by a crew of three young Frenchmen, made a beautiful take-off, and sped away to the east, accompanied by a coast guard Amphibian.

The Green Flash, American plane, with an American crew, nosed over on to the beach and swerved into a ground loop about midway of her run.

The ground loop turned her nose directly about

Lewis A. Yancey and Roger Q. Williams of the American plane were not injured.

Nearly Duplicates Accident.

The Green Flash nearly duplicated its accident of two weeks ago to-day. At that time one of the wheels dropped into soft sand and caused it to ground loop.

Assolant, a 23-year-old pink cheeked youth, was married three days ago to Miss Pauline Parker of New York. She accompanied him to the beach this morning and was very grave as she bade him good-bye, and saw the plane roar down the hard packed sands of the beach.

One half of the propellor of the Green Flash was broken when the ship nosed over, the left wing strut was broken and the landing gear smashed.

The rear part of the fuselage near the tail assemblage was badly dented and the left wing torn. The cowling over the motor also was badly dented.

When Mrs. Yancey saw the crash she cried out: "Oh my God, are they hurt?"

She was trembling, but friends quieted her and later, referring to the crash, she said: "Isn't that hard luck?"

Had Gone About Mile

The crash of the Green Flash took place about a mile from the start and the wheels were still on the sands although they had bounced up for an instant several times. Williams was at the controls.

The tail was in the air, Williams said, when he felt the wheels spread under him, and the plane swerved to the left. He closed the throttle quickly and pulled the plane to the right and she nosed over, the propeller digging into the sand and the plane whirled about and stopped.

Gasoline leaked from the tanks and spread about the ground and the throng about the plane was pushed back for fear someone might toss a lighted cigarette or match on the sand and ignite the fuel.

The big yellow plane, on the other hand, sped down the beach for a mile and three-quarters and lifted slowly from the sands. She flew to the south about a mile and a half and reached a height of about 500 feet.

Then she circled and came back over the beach and sped away on her course. The plane then headed eastward in a great circle.

MINORITY QUESTION IS GIVING LEAGUE CONSIDERABLE TROUBLE

SENATOR DISAPPOINTED.

Canadian and German Delegates Strenuously Objecting To Present Rule.

MADRID, Spain, June 13. (Canadian Press, via Reuters.)—The question of changing the procedure for dealing with minority petitions injected into the deliberations of the Council of the League of Nations by the sweeping proposals of Senator Dandurand of Canada, was under discussion to-day. The immediate matter under discussion was the report of M. Adatchi, chief of the Japanese delegation, which embodied some modifications in the procedure. Mr. Adatchi was a member of the committee of three appointed at the last session of the council to consider the Canadian's proposals together with certain recommendations pressed by Dr. Gustave Stresemann of Germany.

Dandurand Disappointed.

Senator Dandurand said that while he appreciated the improvements proposed by the report he regretted it did not come up to his expectations. In a long statement, Dr. Stresemann thanked Senator Dandurand for his intervention in the discussion and steadfastly stuck to the German position in favor of a more extended treatment of the question of the rights of minorities. The German delegate wants the matter brought before the assembly of the League if the council is not prepared to make the drastic changes in procedure that he desires.

The present procedure against which both the Canadian and German delegates are directing their opposition is to have all petitions of minorities complaining of infringement of their rights by the governments of the nations to which they belong heard by a committee of three, termed by its critics, "The Tomb of Three." Senator Dandurand's plan is to have the petitions heard by a committee of the whole council, which consists of the repre-

EIGHT BATTALIONS SENT TO MOROCCO

RABAT, Morocco, June 13.—Eight battalions of the French Foreign Legion, prize troops of the Sahara, were being rushed by motor truck today to succor remnants of a French native troop's detachment at the desert post, Ait Yakoub.

Two thousand dissident Moorish tribesmen have invested the post on three sides, and some fear was felt for the detail, its numbers already depleted by an ambush at the foot of the Atlas Mountains, June 9.

DUTY ON PORCUPINE QUILLS

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 13.—Porcupine quills are duitable at ten per cent ad valorem, according to a ruling just issued by the United States Customs Court.

A. W. Fenton Company Incorporated claimed they should be free under the Tariff Act of 1922. Canada is understood to be the principal country affected.

SIFTON APPEAL ALLOWED

OTTAWA, Ont., June 13.—The appeal of Clifford Sifton, Toronto, versus the City of Toronto, respecting income tax paid to the city for 1924, was allowed in a judgment handed down by the Supreme Court of Canada to-day. The court orders that judgment be entered for Mr. Sfton for the amount claimed with interest and with costs throughout.

FOREST FIRES BAD IN NORTH

Fire Rangers Being Rushed in By Airplane To Minaki District.

TORONTO, Ont., June 13 (Canadian Press). — Fire rangers from the Kenora base are being rushed by airplane and train into the Minaki district of Northern Ontario where a fierce bush fire is beyond the control of the small force on the scene, according to a message received here last night by Captain W. R. Maxwell, director of the Forestry Air Patrol.

Two fires are reported and the worst is around Rough Lake, north of Minaki, where the flames started in windblown timber, supposedly through a lightning bolt. The second fire is 30 miles north of the first, around Werner's Lake. Because of the small size of the lake the forestry patrol is said to be experiencing great difficulty in landing men and supplies. The fire hazard in the Minaki district is exceedingly great at present owing to the lack of spring rain.

TREATMENT UNRULY PRISONERS EXPLAINED TO HOUSE OF COMMONS

Men Who Refuse To Work Are Shackled To Bars During Working Hours.

QUERIES BY LADY MEMBER.

Under Extraordinary Circumstances "Paddling" Is Practised.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 13 (C.P.).—"Shackling to the Bars" and "Paddling" as practiced in Canadian penitentiaries were explained to the House of Commons Wednesday afternoon by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, on questions propounded by Miss Agnes Macphail (Prog., Southeast Grey).

"Shackling to the bars" was a means of dealing with prisoners who refused to work and meant that a convict is placed in his cell and his hands tied to the gate of the cell at the waist line, Mr. Lapointe said. This was only inflicted during working hours on men physically fit who refused to work; and if the prisoner changed his mind he was released and allowed to proceed to work. It prevented a man sleeping in his cell while others worked, Mr. Lapointe explained.

Prisoners Spanked

"Paddling" consisted of spanking with a small leather strap, eighteen inches long, which was not a cat-o'-nine tails. It was inflicted, Mr. Lapointe said, under extraordinary circumstances when prisoners were rebellious or guilty of beastly action, and there was nothing cruel about it.

"It does not look very good to me," Miss Macphail observed, who thought there were better ways of dealing with such cases. It was humiliating to the prisoner and awkward for the guard.

"I agree it is not a pleasant thing for either," Mr. Lapointe remarked. "I do not like it myself."

Swedish Flyers Are Determined To Start

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, June 13. (C.P.) — Despite the efforts of aviation experts here to dissuade him from the attempt, Captain Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish flyer, said to-day that he would try another take off from Reykjavik to-morrow, if the weather in Greenland continued good.

The spirits of the three Swedish flyers, who are attempting a transatlantic crossing from Stockholm to New York by way of Iceland and Greenland, dropped considerably because of the constant breaking down of their seaplane, the Sverige, in attempts to get away on the Greenland leg of their trip.

Wide Awake Conservative Woman Worker Discovers Many Votes In English Convent

RUGBY, Warwick, Eng., June 13 (C.P. Cable).—Polling is taking place to-day in the postponed election in Rugby necessitated by the death of the Labor candidate shortly before the date set for the general election.

The result of the contest may rest in the hands of the nuns at a local convent. A Conservative woman worker discovered a few day ago there were between 60 and 70 votes lying idle in the convent. She claimed the Conservatives were the only party with an equitable program regarding Catholic schools.

She found difficulties in her way, however, as the nuns are members of a cloistered order and many of them have not left the convent for twenty years and they are bound by vows to remain there. The woman worker succeeded in obtaining the Bishop's consent to suspend the cloiser rule for polling day, and a party of nuns, many of whom have never ridden in a motor car, will be secretly conveyed in closed cars to register their votes.

Premier King And British Prime Minister Exchange Greetings On Taking Office

OTTAWA, Ont., June 13 (C.P.) —Making friendly reference to the cordiality of the relations that had existed between Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, and Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, and hoping for a continuation of these during his own tenure of office, Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald has cabled the Canadian Prime Minister a message of greeting. Mr. MacDonald says:

"As one of my first acts on taking up again the office of Prime Minister, I should like to say how much I am looking forward to co-operating with you. I feel sure we can do great work together in promoting the interests of the British Commonwealth and of the world as a whole and it will be my earnest hope to continue the happy relations which existed between you and my predecessor."

Premier King replied as follows:

"May I express my warmest appreciation of your message of today. I, too, look forward with much pleasure to the renewal of our co-operation in Imperial and International matters of common interests. I very cordially share your hope that the aims and ideals which we cherish in common may thereby be materially murthered."

Rebuilding of School Starts

Impressive Ceremony at Port Hope Was Held Yesteray.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

PORT HOPE, June 13.—With ceremonies simple but impressive the cornerstone of the new Trinity college school buildings was well and truly laid here yesterday afternoon. Hundreds of residents of the town and a number of parents of the students together with a score of boys from the senior school at Woodstock witnessed the ceremony.

The laying of the stone was followed by a religious service by Right Rev. J. F. Sweeny, D.D., D.C.L., Bishop of Toronto, who was assisted by Rev. F. Graham Orchard, headmaster of the school and Rev. Canon Oswald Rigby, rector of St. Mark's Church here and a former headmaster of the school.

Grouped about the platform during the impressive ceremonies were members of the civic and professional life of the district.

The cornerstone was laid by Mary Spragge, 12-year-old daughter of J. W. Spragge of Cobourg, in the absence of Henry J. Scott., K.C., of Toronto

Inscription on Stone

The inscription on the stone reads' "O. D. Majorem Dei Gloriam. This stone was laid on 12th June, 1929, by Henry J. Scott, one of His Majesty's counsel, headboy of the school, 1869."

Following the opening of the ceremony with prayer, Rev. Oswald Rigby gave a short address, recalling the laying of the foundation stone of the temple following the return of the Jews from Babylon.

"We all remember what the old buildings were," said the speaker, "rich in old associations and traditions. The historic chapel sacred to our memory and our hearts are filled with sadness when we think of that

WOULD GIVE CONVICTS SOME SAY IN GOVERNMENT OF PRISONS

Lady Member Advocates New Policy in Canadian House.

DEMOCRACY BEHIND BARS.

Too much Like a Monarchy With Warden Sovereign Miss MacPhail States.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 13.—(Canadian Press)—Deprived of any voice in the government of the country, convicts should be given some say in the government of the penitentiaries, Miss Agnes MacPhail advocated in the House of Commons yesterday.

Penitentiaries were too much like a monarchy with the warden the sovereign, she said. To bring democracy behind the bars she suggested a sort of semi-convict government.

Governors Would Rule

Under her plan a board of governors would rule. The warden would be chairman of the board and would have with him certain of the guards. The best-behaved prisoners, elected by the prisoners themselves, would form the rest of the board.

She suggested that as a means of providing increased work with pay for the prisoners, the uniforms of the permanent forces should be manufactured in the penitentiaries.

Miss MacPhail brought up the subject of penitentiary reform when the vote of $1,897,752 for penitentiaries was under consideration. The item finally passed, but not before the only woman member had outlined the most radical scheme of prison reform ever advanced in the house.

Six Nation Indians Congratulate Vice-President

BRANTFORD, Ont., June 13. —(C.P.)—A remarkable letter has been forwarded from the Six Nations Indians here to Vice-President Charles Curtis of the United States, expressing their pride in his election to his high post.

"Proud are we indeed that one who has the blood of our fathers coursing through his veins has attained such an exalted position, but prouder still are we that you acknowledge the fact of your ancestry and glory in it," says the letter. "We also wish to congratulate the American people that in choosing their Vice-President consideration of race and humble origin did not influence their decision adversely."

SINCLAIR IS CRITICIZED BY MAYOR WEEKS

Attacks Policy of Budgeting Expenditure On Northern Development.

ENGLEHART MEETING.

Roads Are Under Different Conditions From Those in Southern Ontario.

ENGLEHART, June 13 (Canadian Press). — The policy advocated by W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., Liberal leader, of budgeting the expenditure on northern development was attacked here last night by a speaker at Mr. Sinclair's own meeting. The critic speaker was Mayor Harry Weeks.

In the course of an address of welcome to the visiting Liberal party, Mayor Weeks stated that Mr. Sinclair was wrong because he said this expenditure could not be budgeted. The roads here, he said, are under different conditions from those of the southern part of the province. Up here severe weather often comes at most unexpected times, and no one knows how much it is going to cost to keep up a road. The speaker added that he was glad Mr. Sinclair was supporting the Government in the actual expenditure on money on the north in grants of $5,000,000.

"I'm only sorry," he said, "that you didn't say you'd spend $15,000,000."

Mr. Sinclair questioned the Mayor when the latter resumed his seat, and a brief open discussion occurred. Mr. Sinclair contended that road expenditure could be budgeted as easily in New Ontario as in Old Ontario. Under the present system Mr. Sinclair declared the Government is given the $5,000,000 by the Legislature and can spend it where it pleases. It could spend the whole amount out around Port Arthur for instance, at a time when roads should be built about Cochrane or Englehart.

Mrs. Ingram Hostess To Members of St. James' Church Society.

Mrs. Ingham, of Crescent street, lent her home last evening to the W.M.S. of St. James United church for the June meeting. A large number of members and visitors were present to enjoy the splendid program prepared by Mrs. Payne, the leader of the group in charge.

Mrs. W. Sollitt occupied the chair and conducted the opening devotional service and business. The meeting opened with silent prayer and a hymn, Mrs. Sollitt, Mrs. Plunkett and Miss Kidd leading in prayer.

Reports were given by the treasurer and the several secretaries of departments. Financial statement, Mrs. Bonney; temperance education, Mrs. Plunkett; Christian stewardship, Mrs. Armstrong; minutes, Mrs. Fairbrother, also the roll call, to which response was made with a line of a favorite hymn.

A beautiful solo contributed by Mrs. Fowler was greatly enjoyed. Short readings on the work in connection were given by Mrs. English and Mrs. McAdam.

Mrs. Bonney read the Scripture lesson from Proverbs 16, which bore directly upon the subject of study, the life of an African prince, his conversion to Christ and its influence upon his people. The chapter was taken by Miss Connie Wagar, who brought the picture very vividly before her hearers and showed that missionary work in Africa bears wonderful results.

An interesting paper by Mrs. Payne, the leader, on the power of prayer, was interspersed with several hymns, and a beautiful duet by Mesdames Monk and McKinstry brought added inspiration to the service.

A vote of thanks was moved to all who had assisted in the program and to Mrs. Ingham for giving so cordial a welcome to the Auxiliary members. The meeting was brought to a conclusion with prayer offered by Mrs. Ingham.

WARSAW MAN IS BEING TRIED BY JUDGE HUYCKE

Second Charge of Arson at Present is Being Heard.

PECULIAR ODOR NOTICED.

Two Fires Occurred in Dummer Village in Short Period of Time.

The case of the King against John S. Moore, of Warsaw, charged with arson, opened before His Honor Judge Huycke at the General Sessions of the Peace in the Court House at 11.30 yesterday morning. The charge read in part: "On March 26, 1929, in the village of Warsaw, unlawfully without legal right did set fire to his own buildings, thereby did commit arson." Acting Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., appeared for the Crown and J. A. O'Brien for the defence. This is the second arson case to be heard by the court now in session.

In outlining the case, Acting Crown Attorney McElderry said that Moore was charged with burning down his own house, the motive being to get the insurance. The buildings were bought on October 6, 1928, for $1,650, and immediately insurance to the amount of $1,100 was placed upon them. Later, in February, 1929, additional insurance of $1,000 was secured on the buildings. In order to pay for the buildings the accused had borrowed $1,600 from two persons, the remaining $50 of the purchase price being his own. On March 20, Wednesday, there was a small fire in the woodshed of the Moore home, which was put out by neighbors. On the following Tuesday in the middle of the night, fire broke out again and destroyed all the buildings except the barn. The motive in this case, concluded Mr. McElderry, it will be shown, was the insurance.

Roland McCauley, a butcher, from whom the accused had purchased the property, was first witness called by Crown. The sale price was $1,650, and of this $1,000 was by cheque, $400 in notes and the balance in cash. The insurance policy taken out by the witness ran out a few days after the sale.

The witness recalled the first fire on March 20, and he well remembered the second, which occurred about twelve o'clock, March 26. Giving details, he said that he and his wife had been at Mr. Wheeler's playing cards and were having lunch when, hearing the rush of running feet, made him first aware of the blaze. He went to the fire, but did not see the accused. He started to pump water to throw on the burning building. Most of the flames seemed to come from the centre of the building. All the buildings except the barn was burnt, and the flames also consumed the branch of the Royal Bank.

Dispute Over Taxes.

The witness and accused had had a dispute over the taxes and certain chattels of the property that had changed hands in the transaction. He didn't remember having said on the night of the fire in the hearing of William J. Moore that he knew the building would go up in smoke. When he saw the accused about an hour after first going to the fire, the accused was on the roof of the barn with a pail of water. He couldn't describe just how he was dressed, but he seemed fully clothed.

On the night of the first fire the witness had seen sparks blowing from the woodshed of the accused's home, but he had not gone close to the house to render assistance.

True Bill Brought In.

The Grand Jury returned at the re-opening of the court after noon recess and rendered a true bill in the shooting charges against the two McIntyre boys, Archie and William.

The witness, returning to the box, could not say the dimensions of the barn.

Re-examined, he said that people in Warsaw said after the fire that someone had lit it.

All Insurance Payable.

W. A. Richardson, the insurance agent in whose companies the buildings were insured, said that all of the insurance except for $500 on the barn, which was not destroyed, was payable as a result of the fire. On inspecting the woodshed after the first fire, the building was scorched, but not burnt, and appeared as though some inflammable fluid had been sprayed on the walls. Twenty-five dollars had been the settlement for the damages of the first fire.

Cross-examined, the witness stated that he had increased the insurance when it was requested by the accused.

Everett Moore, brother of the accused, when called stated that he loaned $1,000 to his brother to aid him in buying the property.

William John Moore, uncle of ac-

RUM-RUNNERS ARE PLANNING CARNIVAL

Niagara Frontier Bootleggers To Take Advantage of Detroit Clean-up.

BRIDGEBURG, Ont., June 13. (C. P.) — With practically all the Great Lakes rum chasing machinery concentrated at Detroit in an effort to check liquor running there, bootleggers along the Niagara frontier are planning a carnival of rum running, with practically no one to curb their operations. A survey made yesterday indicated that rum runners here are preparing to do an overtime business this week and get huge quantities of liquor across in order to be prepared for the drive scheduled for the Niagara area as soon as the mop-up at Detroit has been concluded.

The fraternity was dealt a severe blow this week, not from American agents, but at the hands of Provincial police, who raided Navy Island and seized a great quantity of liquor. In the meantime, while they were proceeding with their campaign the runners object to publicity. A Buffalo News photographer was forced to run from an export dock under the threat of a ducking.

The Weather

METEOROLOGICAL OFFICE, Toronto, Ont., June 13. — (Canadian Press). — Pressure is low to the southward of the great lakes and over the Canadian west and high over in Quebec and the Western States. Rains have occurred in parts of Ontarion and Quebec and local showers in Sskatchewan.

VERDICT OF GUILTY RETURNED.

KINGSTON, Ont., June 13. — In County Court, before Judge Dersche of Belleville, and a jury, Daniel McEwen, of Burridge, was found guilty on a charge of unlawfully causing Vivian Freeman, aged 16, of Sydenham, to take drugs for the purpose of causing an abortion. There are six other charges to be heard against the accused. Vivian Freeman died early in February, and charges were laid as a result of an investigation carried on by the Crown.

NEWS IN BRIEF

(By Canadian Press)

BETROTHAL IS DENIED.

LONDON, June 13. — Rumors that the Princess Ingrid, daughter of the Swedish Crown Prince, was engaged or about to be betrothed to the Prince of Wales, were strongly denied last night by an unnamed "high court official," to whom The Daily Mail ascribed the statement that there was not a word of truth in any of these suggestions linking the princess with members of the British Royal Family. This official was quoted as saying the appearance of these rumors in foreign newspapers was without the slightest foundation, and was causing considerable annoyance.

LODGE SYSTEM WILL PREVAIL.

TORONTO, Ont., June 13. — Despite the pessimistic views of some "croakers," the lodge system will prevail even as the church, stated Frank E. Hand in his speech to the Supreme Court of the Independent Order of Foresters after he had been elected Supreme Chief Ranger of the Order yesterday. Mr. Hand, formerly of Brooklyn and Los Angeles, and now a resident of Toronto, succeeds W. H. Hunter, who retired after 16 years in office.

R.R. CAR PLUNGES INTO RIVER

CHATHAM, Ont., June 13.—The weight of a freight train passing over a bridge here yesterday proved too heavy and a car loaded with stone plunged into the river. There were no persons on the bridge at the time while members of the train crew were on other cars.

GENERAL SMUTS IS LEADING

From Urban Constituencies

Care must be taken not to attach too much importance to the early preponderance of opposition victories. So far the returns are practically all from urban constituencies which were expected to support the South African party in any case and in which most of the Labor vote is situated. They are therefore no guide to the final result as in the rural constituencies the Nationalists usually obtain most of their support.

The figures so far, however, are distinctly favorable to General Smuts and indicate the possibility of his receiving a majority although not a large one. The sensation so far has been the defeat of Hon. Thomas Boydell, Minister of Labor, in Greyville, Durban where he was believed to be firmly entrenched with the support of a large number of railwaymen. He was a railway worker himself and Greyville has always been regarded as his pocket borough. His defeat is due to the splitting of the Labor vote and also to resentment at his support of General Hertzog on the flag question and the German trade treaty Durban having taken the lead in pro- British projects.

Col. Creswell, Laborite Minister of Defence in the Hertzog Government, was returned in Denver, Transvaal, while Hon. W. B. Madelsy, former Cabinet Minister and Leader of the National Council section of the Laborites, was also re-elected in Benoni, Transvaal, notwithstanding a split in the Labor vote. Mr. Madeley was recently Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, and his expulsion from the Cabinet was the immediate cause of the split in the Labor ranks.

Former Minister Elected

Hon. Patrick Duncan, Minister of the Interior in the former government of General Smuts was also elected. In the Cape Peninsula there has been a clean sweep for the Smuts party. Even the railway constituency of Salt River has gone over to the South African party in the person of a 23-year-old barrister, W. Lawrence, who captured it with a comfortable majority.

Altogether there are 148 constituencies, many of which are so large that the ballot boxes will take days to reach the counting centre. The majority of the results will likely be known to-night, but it will be several days before the final figures are available.

Although the Labor vote was split in many ridings it was strong enough in East Rand, Transvaal, to enable the sitting member to defeat surprisingly both the National Council Laborite and the South African candidate. The same situation ruled in the neighboring constituency of Benoi, where Hon. W. B. Madeley beat the Creswellite Labor candidate by 50 votes, with the South African candidate a poor third.

The National Council Laborite did poorly in Pretoria West, polling only 57 votes against a Nationalist and South African total of 2,427. That is General Smut's old seat, but the Nationalist, S. M. Dutiot, was elected.

All cleaning easier, too

RINSO'S thick suds in the dishpan mean the easiest dishwashing ever! Grease loosens and soaks right off —even in the hardest water. Dishes sparkle. Pots and pans shine. These rich suds save precious minutes!

NOTHING IS NEW

PHILADELPHIA. June 13.—Just to prove that nothing is new under the sun, the American Philosophical Society exhibits record to show that horned toads, brought into the limelight last year by the news that they were able to live for years in solid rock, are old stuff. According to the minutes of a meeting of the society under President Jefferson in 1808, a live frog was found in stone by Sam Peters at Hebron, Conn., in 1770.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, June 13.— About 600 cattle held over from Tuesday at the Union stock yards were added to the fresh receipts yesterday making the offering at slightly over a thousand head. Trade was brisk from the start and prices were steady to a quarter stronger on butcher steers, heifers, and good cows. Most choice butcher steers sold from 11¼ to 11¾ cents a pound, and the odd small lot in the early sales brought 12 cents.

Good butcher cows brought from 9 to 9¾ cents a pound, with other grades firm.

Bulls were more active and shade stronger than Tuesday except for the heavy fat kind.

*Baby beef sold from 11 to 14 cents a pound, with bulk at 12 to 12 1-2 cents.

The calf trade was strong and showed a gain of 50 cents a hundredweight for the week. Good to choice veals were worth 14 to 15 cents a pound and medium kind 10 to 13 cents.

Lamb trade started slow with bids a half cent lower than yesterday at 18 1-2 to 19 1-2 cents a pound for choice.

Sheep were firm at a spread of 3 1-2 to 7 1-2 cents a pound in the entire grading. Most good light ewes sold at 6 1-2 to 7 1-2 cents.

The hog market was strong, with salesmen holding for an advance. Packers' bids were 12 1-4 cents f.o.b. and 13 1-2 cents w.o.c. The intention is to widen the spread between f.o.b. and w.o.c. prices to $1.25 a hundredweight against the recent $1.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, June 13.—Declines of 1¾c to 1 3-8c were shown at the close of yesterday's wheat market, due to weakness at Chicago and Liverpool. Breaks of 1¾c to 1 1-8c at the opening were soon eliminated by reports of frosts and cold weather in the West and a little export buying which resulted in the market attempting to gain higher levels.

Drops of 4c to 5c at Chicago resulting from the Senate's rejection of the Farm Relief Bill had a telling effect here at the opening, but this was ignored when Western weather reports reached the pit. The market, however, was unable to wipe out entirely the early break.

Cash wheat trading was at a standstill, due mostly to light offerings. Barley and oats were fairly active at firm prices, but traders failed to show any interest in flax and rye.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, June 13.—The price of butter was again very strong yesterday on the local wholesale produce market, and No. 1 finest creamery advanced ¼c. to 36¾c. per lb., with the No. 2 grade 1c. lower. Production is still on the easy side, and supplies are just sufficient to answer all demands comfortably. Trading continued to be fairly brisk, and there was no difficulty encountered in moving all receipts. Although both production and prices are still slightly behind last year's performance, dealers pronounce themselves quite satisfied with existing conditions.

Trading on the local wholesale egg market continued to be quiet, with very little demand either for consumptive or storage purposes, and buyers appeared to have fulfilled the majority of their present needs. The recent cool weather has had the effect of keeping production fairly heavy, and local dealers do not look for any appreciable lessening in receipts till the arrival of a higher temperature. Prices held steady in all grades, and quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered, and cases returned, are as follows: Fresh extras, 27c. per dozen; fresh firsts, 25c. per dozen; fresh seconds, 22c. per dozen.

The local wholesale cheese market maintained its firmness yesterday under active trading, and the price of No. 1 large, colored, paraffined and Government-graded was firm at from 19½c. to 19¾c. per lb.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, June 13. — Butter prices continued their upward climb. Wholesale levels yesterday were ½ cent higher, sales of Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized being made from 36½ to 37 cents per pound. Prices to the retail trade were advanced by jobbers to 38 cents for solids and 39 cents for prints. Demand appeared to be greater than supply. Receipts yesterday were 146 boxes.

Cheese ruled firm in price, with trading quiet. Receipts were 6,865 boxes.

Egg prices ruled steady. Receipts were 3,604 cases.

Potatoes were unchanged. New Brunswick Green Mountains selling at 50 cents per 90 pounds in bulk on track here, in carlots. New potatoes from the Southern States were selling from $4 to $6.50 per barrel of 165 pounds net.

Poultry is steady, selling to the retail trade as follows: Squab broilers, 50c to 52c lb.; selected broilers, 44c to 48c lb.; selected chickens, 39c to 44c lb.; milk-fed chickens, 43c to 48c lb.; selected fowls, 28c to 38c lb.; selected turkeys, 40c to 50c lb.; selected goslings, 30c lb.; selected ducks, 31c lb.; domestic ducklings, 34c lb.; green ducklings, 37c lb. These prices are for "standard" poultry. For "A's" turkeys at 4c lb. less, with the other lines 2c to 3c less.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 13.—In a storm of selling that temporarily overwhelmed the grain market yesterday wheat went down almost 5c a bushel and corn more than 3c. The depreciation of values followed Senate disapproval of the Farm Relief Bill, but the effects afterward were largely overcome through a renewal of buying which was associated with reports that delay of farm relief would prove short.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 1⅞c to 1⅞ below Tuesday's finish. Corn closed ¾c to 2c down, oats unchanged to ⅛c to ⅜c off, and provisions varying from 2c to 5c decline to a rise of 10c.

Biggest breaks in the price of wheat yesterday came soon after business began, and while the market was staggering under an overnight piling up of orders from all directions to get rid of wheat ownership in a hurry. A multitude of the commands to sell out were evidently given before the senders were aware that latest developments at Washington had in great degree taken the edge from the sharpness of Senate refusal to enact the Farm Relief Bill unless after aditional parleys.

The outstanding fact at the start, however, was that anxiety over the situation at Washington had led to wholesale throwing overboard of holdings of wheat and other grain.

Wave of Corn Selling

Apparently as a direct result of mis-givings relative to farm relief, country holders let go of a "to-arrive" shipment of corn yesterday on the largest scale in many weeks. This happened, moreover, in the face of official reports that corn planting is badly delayed in Southern Illinois and Iowa and in Eastern Kansas and Oklahoma. Oats were easy owing to weakness of corn and wheat.

Provisions at first were influenced by the action of cereals, but recovered later, helped by upturns in the value of hogs.

WARSAW MAN

cused, had loaned the accused $600 to buy the building, and at that time did not know how much the accused had borrowed from Everett Moore. He had been visiting in the accused home on the night of the first fire. At first the accused was upstairs said to be putting the baby to sleep. Later He had been visiting in the accused's with the witness in the kitchen. Then running feet on the verandah had made them aware of the fire.

The witness went out, looked at the fire, and then hurried home to get a pail. When he returned the accused was occupied with pails of water and had nearly put out the fire. The witness recalled that the fire had looked strange to him since it was burning with a bluish flame, not like that of a wood flame, and was burning in two separate places. He helped the accused to throw out some wood.

Cross-examined, the witness said that he understood that the accused had staid up all night watching the fire. The accused was honest and the witness did not fear to loan him money and did not believe that he would burn down his own buildings.

Rufus Payne a Warsaw merchant was the next witness called. He was in the store the first night of the fire but did not go at once to John S. Moore's but remained to put the books in safe keeping. The fire was out when he arrived but there was a peculiar odor of gas or coal oil about the place. The inside walls were blackened. At the second fire he arrived when the blaze was well under way and worked to save the other buildings. He noticed the accused on the barn extinguishing the flames there.

Euriah Payne stated the fire was in the south end of the woodshed on the 20th of March and the blaze shot along the roof. There was a smell different to the usual wood smoke about the place. Mr. Moore, he said had objected to having the wood thrown out even after several people had volunteered to pile it for him the next day. Moore asked to have the pails filled with water and that he would watch the fire during the night and to his knowledge stayed up the greater part of the night. The accused had always enjoyed a good reputation in his estimation.

Peculiar Odor

Percy Lloyd was a neighbour of Moore's and was at both fires. There was a peculiar odor at the first fire as well as at the second fire. Lights were noticed at a late hour in the Moore house from the time of the first fire to the second fire and he had been informed that these were kept as it was feared that something might happen. At the time of the second fire about midnight he heard footsteps in his lane and Mr. Moore did not use this road. It was easy to reach the accused's house by this lane and to have access to the woodshed.

Harry Clements, county constable for Warsaw testified as being present at both fires but at the first fire no suspicion was aroused. David Craig of the Pinkerton Detective Agency, Toronto, stated, how he had been detailed to Warsaw to investigate the fires by the Fire Marshall and read a statement from the accused similar to evidence given in the trial. He stated that it had never occurred in his experience to run across a man who had the number of fires in property occupied by one man as did Moore.

Elias Thompson, testified, moving furniture from the Moore house and evidence was brought out to show that this was the property of the father-in-law of the accused who had been a guest with him for some time.

This was the case for the prosecution and J. O'Brien, the attorney for the defendant moved for an adjournment on the grounds of no evidence. His Honor Judge Huycke made no statement and witnesses for the defense were called.

The Defense's Case

John S. Digweed was the first called, the operator of the telephone exchange at Warsaw who stated that he had received a telephone call about 12.15 a.m. that the Moore house was on fire.

Mrs. J. S. Moore, the wife of the accused was the next to take the stand. She confirmed the statement that the furniture moved by Elias Thompson belonged to her father Mr. Wasson who had been staying with her. "The business" she stated, "had cleared expenses and there was a surplus of $280, as well as bank accounts for the children. Her husband also made a good profit from bees of which he had 104 hives.

The accused was at sawing matches on the day of the first fire and was not home to supper. When he came home he had got some wood for her and then put the little boy to bed as was his custom, after which he came down stairs. Later they received the alarm that the shed was on fire. He stayed up all that night after the fire was out to see that it did not start again.

After the first fire lights were kept burning all night in case anything should happen again. They were afraid that it might. Two days before the second fire she moved to the front room. Both doors were kept open, of her room and her husband's room, the floor creaked so that she would awaken if anyone started to walk, as she was a light sleeper.

On March 26 she was awakened by the crackling of flames. She called to her husband who rushed downstairs and telephoned central to give the alarm. She could not testify as to how well he was dressed. The loss was about $1,100 in furniture. The most valuable was saved.

REBUILDING SCHOOL

March day. The younger generation is coming forward and the prevailing feeling of the old temple is one of sorrow."

Canon Rigby urged his hearers to bear courageous hearts in the erection of the new institution and to believe and hope that the new buildings would be more glorious and beautiful.

The cornerstone was duly blessed by the Lord Bishop of Toronto and the block was lowered into place. Miss Spragge gently tapped the foundation stone and the miniature trowel was presented to her by the headmaster while the original trowel was presented to H. J. Scott. His Lordship congratulated the headmaster and staff on the progress that has been made, and looked forward to the happy occasion next April when the buildings would be ready for occupancy.

"I wish to thank all those who have made it possible for us to rebuild," he told Dr. Orchard. "The strong committee which has stood behind all that has been done; the chairman, Dudley Dawson; the treasurer, R. C. H. Cassels; the secretary, H. E. Harcourt Vernon, and the many subscribers who have provided the funds for our great undertaking."

The speaker referred to the earnest endeavor by Britton Osler and paid tribute to the architects who ably designed the plans and to the municipal authorities of Port Hope and Hope township for the co-operation shown regarding the addition of new site.

Old Boys Attend

Lawrence Baldwin, of Toronto, and Rev. Scott Howard, of Newcastle, formerly of Toronto, were interested spectators at yesterday's function and the two old boys of the school were present when the first cornerstone was laid in 1873.

Owing to a minor outbreak of smallpox at the junior school the pupils have been dismissed from their classes and the regular speech-day program was somewhat curtailed.

DOBBIN HOLDS OWN

OTTAWA, June 13.—The automobile has not supplanted the horse in the Dominion of Canada. The Canadian Bureau of Statistics show that in 1928 there were 3,376,394 farm horses there valued at more than $235,000,000. This figure is a decrease of only 177,647 over 1925. The value of all livestock on Canadian farms at the end of 1928 is put at $861,403,000.

Every minute more than $1000 worth of candy and ice cream are made in the United States.

WHAT THE NORTH NEEDS.

The plea of the North for more roads, as voiced by the Porcupine Advance, is a practical piece of editorial writing that means a good deal more than the most eloquent references of political speakers to the boundless wealth of that portion of Ontario.

Politicians are fond of that kind of talk; spokesmen for the Government invariably indulge in it, and Mr. Sinclair, the Liberal leader, has been expressing himself somewhat on the same lines during his tour of Northern Ontario.

The Porcupine Advance brings all parties down from the heights of eloquence to the level of every-day needs and necessities when it points out that what New Ontario requires, if its settlers are to prosper, are better roads and more adequate facilities for transportation.

That is a policy upon which all political parties should be able to unite.

The need should be apparent, and any proposals directed toward giving the North what it most requires should not be the cause of political bickering, but rather a matter upon which there is general agreement.

LIQUOR SALES.

The Kingston Whig-Standard opposes the publication of returns in regard to the individual stores operated under the Liquor Control Board because, it declares, that "if complete publicity were given in this matter some cities would be put in an altogether unfair light."

The reference is, of course, to the fact that some cities which are tourist centres or situated along the border would show much greater sales than other centres.

But this objection would surely disappear if the returns showed how much liquor was purchased on home permits and how much was secured by those holding non-resident permits.

The publishing of this information would save tourist centres from being held up as "horrible examples," and at the same time the public would be placed in possession of data that it is entitled to receive.

The Whig-Standard's reasons for opposing the publication of liquor sales information are not convincing enough to lead The Examiner to change its opinion that information of this kind should be public property.

WHERE ALL CAN HELP.

So far as the decoration of down-town streets for Old Home Week is concerned, there is no need of worrying; the Decoration Committee has its plans well away, and with splendid co-operation from societies, organizations and individuals, is assured that the appearance of the business section will be in keeping with the gala nature of the occasion.

It should be the ambition of citizens generally to see that residential streets tell the same story of welcome to returning old boys and girls.

There is no reason why pracically every home in town should not contribute to the decorative side of the celebration by using flags, bunting, colored paper or some other display of similar nature.

All Peterborough should unite in this common task, so that no matter where a visitor may stray during Old Home Week he will be able to see at a glance that the whole city is one in the genuineness of its welcome and in its interest in the successful carrying out of this huge rally of Peterborough's sons and daughters.

Every home decorated should be the slogan for Old Home Week.

THE HIGHWAY TOLL.

The Globe, pointing out that there were eight killed and twenty-six injured in traffic accidents over the week-end, and that this toll is symptomatic of highway conditions generally, calls upon the Ontario Government to act.

"How much must the public endure before the lawgivers of the Province will be seized with the necessity of drastic action to remove from street and highway such motorists who are at all times a menace to human life?" asks the article.

The Examiner, while maintaining that the safety of the highways can best be assured through the development of traffic consciousness on the part of motorists, rather than through laws and regulations, believes that the Globe is right in its suggestion that the habitually reckless driver should be more drastically dealt with.

Men convicted of driving while intoxicated deserve to lose the privilege of driving at any time, and motorists repeatedly guilty of reckless driving have no reason to complain if they, too, should be deprived of the right to drive at all.

When lives are being taken by the score each week it is no time to be finicky about personal liberty or the right of the individual.

J. H. THOMAS, WHO IS TO DEAL WITH BRITISH UNEMPLOYMENT.

Described by a bitter political opponent like Lord Birkenhead as "sane, sagacious, patriotic," J. H. ("Jim") Thomas, called by Ramsay MacDonald to help solve the problem of British unemployment, is one of the most extraordinary of that remarkable group of men who form the General Staff of British Labor. Like Lloyd George, he is a Welshman. Like Lloyd George, too, he rose from poverty and obscurity, is a purveyor of the sunny smile, and is a realist who believes in the fait accompli. "Jim" Thomas, judging from his speeches, his associations and his career, is probably no more of a Socialist than Mr. Winston Churchill. He is, however, a trades unionist. He is a trades unionist who believes in labor's rights, but who believes in capital's rights as well; a man who hates violence and extremes, who knows the danger of strikes, and who has shown an extraordinary power of diplomacy in suppressing ultra-radicalism in unionism.

His career, like most of his Labor associates, has been an astounding one. Born some fifty years ago in a little town in Monmouth, he has told that when he first became a Cabinet Minister (he was Secretary for the Dominions in the first MacDonald ministry) he drove from the station in his native town and passed the drapery establishment where, thirty-two years before, he was employed as an errand-boy; that he saw the brass plate which that boy had cleaned; and that he vividly remembered carrying rivets for the construction of the Alexandra Docks. Nor did Thomas shrink from the political moral which his rise made it proper to draw. "One must feel proud," he said, "to live under a Constitution which enables a humble boy with a meagre education, surrounded by poverty, to become in so short a time an adviser of His Majesty."

Yet Thomas had to fight every yard of his way. He passed from a chemist's shop to a draper's store, and thence to a firm of decorators, where he became skilled in the art of mixing paints. We next find him employed by the Great Western Railway as an engine-cleaner. He held this job for some years, and it was while still so employed, at the age of fifteen, that he organized his first strike among his fellow cleaners. From cleaner, Thomas passed to fireman; from fireman to engine-driver; from engine-driver through all the anxious stages which intervened to the immensely responsible position of chairman of the British National Union of Railwaymen. It was a career impossible for any man who did hot possess an amazing combination of qualities.

Unlike his present chief, Mr. MacDonald, Thomas was a supporter of the war. He threw himself with tremendous energy into the work of recruiting. He did as much as any man in England to bring home to the trades unions the reality of the war and its causes. He was sent to the United States on an important mission; was publicly thanked by the Government on his return; and was created a Privy Councillor. He was a member of the Port and Transport Committee; of the Treasury Retrenchment Committee; of the Board of Trade Railway Committee; and chairman of the most important Reconstruction Committee set up during the war.

The war over, he increased his prestige. There was a day, in 1920, when his advocacy of direct action, which was little short of revolutionary, imperilled his reputation; but he more than made amends when in 1921 he took a bold and courageous stand against the first ill-fated general strike. Thomas, on that occasion, did not hesitate to set himself against the overwhelming majority of his party, risking his whole career; but in the end, as things turned out, he was completely vindicated.

In 1923, when Labor took office, Thomas became Secretary for the Dominions. He was without experience of office, without much knowledge of the Dominions or Colonies; yet upon the testimony of his officials and of the Governments of the Dominions, he made a first-class minister. He was tactful, understanding, with a quick capacity to comprehend the overseas point of view.

Personally, Thomas is both gay and engaging. He has none of Mr. MacDonald's Celtic melancholy, and is as much at home in Nancy Astor's Cliveden as in the lodge room of a Liverpool union. In his "Men of the Hour," written some years ago, Lord Birkenhead thus described him:

"He is affable and not bashful. He is a warm friend and a clean opponent. He is an adventurer precisely in the sense in which I am myself willing to be called an adventurer. And the great Disraeli did not disdain the name. Life is, in fact, an adventure, and he who (starting from nothing) fights hard while conceiving ambitiously, must be an adventurer. Mr. Thomas knows several Dukes by their Christian names. He has established an affinity (literary or what-not) with Mr. Edward Marsh. He has a mastery of the more robust vernacular believed by our forefathers beside which Sir Robert Walpole would have paled his ineffectual fires. He enjoys all that is enjoyable in life with an unconcealed and rather attractive zest. He is an extremely agreeable, if not over-silent companion; and in the merry company which the genius of Rabelais imagined he would, I think, have found himself in almost all respects well-equipped and at his ease. He could, for instance, have talked without much risk of mutual misunderstanding with Friar John. Nor do I believe that in the moon-bathed gardens of Boccaccio's romances he would have been embarrassed by the company, the narratives, or even by the nightingales. Whether his fellow-revellers would have been embarrassed when it fell to him, in his turn, to propose his own conte I cannot tell. But the standard of that delightful company was admittedly relaxed."

One may doubt whether Thomas will find it easy to solve unemployment. That grim reality is rooted in causes too deep to be mastered by the mind and force of one man. Yet if there is anybody in Britain likely to make a contribution toward it, it is this draper's boy who has risen to be a power in the land, and whose whole career is such a compound of talent, energy and character.—Ottawa Journal.

A Thought

VANITY

If you are vain, you will color everything with your own vanities. If lustful your heart and mind will be so clouded with the smoke and flames of passion, that everything will appear distorted through them. If proud and opionative, you will see the magnitude and importance of your own opinions.

Horoscope

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Friday, June 14, 1929.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syn.)

The early hours of to-day may be unfavorable in many lines of work, according to astrology, but later good aspects gain power.

It is not a lucky sway for certain industries in which labor troubles may be easily precipitated.

Farmers to-day may meet disappointments through weather conditions, but they are certainly to benefit in marketing their products, it is forecast.

Real estate may be rather inactive at this time of the month, but homeowners will be interested, the seers foretell.

In many American cities deals amounting to millions will be announced before the end of the summer. Hotels will change ownership and chain operations will increase, astrologers foretell.

Again extremes will be evident in the manner of living in the United States. While permanent residents of hotels will multiply, the trend toward the simple life outside cities will be strong, even in the autumn, if the signs are rightly read.

This should be an auspiciojs day for starting on journeys, especially if transportation be by water.

Under this sway, the intuitive faculties should be keen and it is for that reason favorable for choosing new friends or business associates.

Brain-workers may find the planetary influences rather fatiguing to-day which is unusually fortunate for recreation.

Although rest and amusement are recommended while this configuration prevails, travel in the air may not be wise.

There is a promising sign for lawyers to-day and new honors are indicated for leaders in the legal profession.

Bankers and merchants are well directed to-day which presages profit and wise policies.

Persons whose birthdate it is, may meet uncertainties in the coming year which may bring great good luck after tribulations.

Children born on this day probably will be charming in nature and well-balanced. The subjects of this sign often meet obstacles in their careers, but they overcome them. Many artists belong to this sign.

Richard Realf, poet, was born on this date 1834. Others who have claimed it as a birthday were Roswell Morse Shurtleff, artist, 1838; and Ernest Plassman, 1823.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE ARE ARTIFICIAL

By Mehran K. Thompson, Ph. D.
Author of The Springs of Human Action

"Man is born free, but he is everywhere in chains." This is how Rousseau begins one of his books. In all of his writings Rousseau emphasizes his notion that man is better off in a state of nature, that civilization is responsible for all our misfortunes.

It is not to be wondered at that he advocates a theory of education that might be called the "back-to-nature" theory.

Civilization, by very definition, is artificial in the sense that it is manmade. Social human beings born in civilized institutions and brought up in a complex social environment, can't help being artificial.

By artificiality here is meant the compulsion to live our lives according to convention and usage rather than according to our own inclinations. Speech is given us theoretically for the purpose of revealing and communicating ideas. How often it is used to conceal ideas!

The demands of polite society tend inevitably to make us artificial. One must be ever so careful not to hurt the feelings of a kind host and hostess. Consequently it is permissible that one tell a lot of falsehoods to avoid revealing his true feelings.

No doubt it is an advance to consider the feelings of others before your own. But it is hard on the individual.

An extreme view is taken by Sidis when he says, "Man's relations in life are determined for him; he is told how he must put on his tie, and the way he must wear his coat; what should be the fashion of his dress on this particular occasion and what should be the form of hat; here must he nod his head and put on a solemn air; and there take off his hat, make a profound bow, and display a smile full of delight. Personality is suppressed by the rigidity of social organization; the cultivated, civilized individual is an automaton, a mere puppet."

We are artificial because nature is not adequate to meet the demands of social living. Nature is too honest. It is too brutal. Many a complexion is improved by artificial means. So are many other human traits that without are decidedly homely.

We need nature plus art to satisfy our deepest longings. The difficulty is that we are not always skillful enough to mix the two successfully.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the herald, tries to get an interview with Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It has been burned by a fire in the marsh until it is entirely unrecognizable except for the fact that it is a woman. Dr. Cavanaugh is called in to help with the identification.

He has only a small piece of scalp from the body to work on. Don Ellsworth refuses to give him a hair of Sheila O'Shays, but he secures one unknown and after examination, tells Peter Piper that the body found in the marsh is that of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara, in whom Piper has become interested, faints when she hears this. Peter who is already half in love with her, is torn between his feeling and his suspicion that she knows something about the murder.

CHAPTER 18.

Peter's face, minus its usual bisecting grin, looked longer than ever when he dragged himself wearily across the local room to Jimmie's desk. He felt physically battered. The familiar din of the local room typewriters, the shouts of "copy boy", the "bling" of telephone bells, which usually were unregarded elements of a normal atmosphere, smote his ear as separate sounds, distinctly as if he were hearing them for the first time. All this rushing to and fro seemed futile and unimportant, like the scurrying of mice across a barn floor. What did it matter, anyway, whether the "Herald" beat the "Record" by an edition?

"Talk to me about it later," he said brusquely.

"But she's on the telephone——" the society editor expostulated.

"I don't care if the Angel Gabriel is on the telephone! Well, Piper?"

"I didn't go to the city hall——" he began nonchalantly.

"The hell you didn't!"

The familiar elixir of the local room was having its effect on Peter. He felt a faint resurgence of his customary enjoyment in baiting the excitable city editor, who leaped after news like a dog tearing after a rabbit.

"No," he drawled. "But I got an advance statement direct from Dr. Caavnaugh. He has identified the body as that of Sheila O'Shay."

Jimmie wasted no time in congratulations.

"Boy!" his voice was a raucous, joyous bark. "Go to the library and get all the pictures we have of A. G. Cavanaugh—Cavanaugh spelled with a 'C'." He peered across the room at the office clock, pushing his eye-shade back over the hedge of upstanding red hair. "Go to it, Piper. We'll hold the edition fifteen minutes over the deadline. Give us a short lead. Then get the clippings on Cavanaugh and write a good 'follow' story for the 'home'."

Peter lounged across the room to his desk, thrust a sheet of copy paper into the carriage of his typewriter, and typed his name in the upper left corner.

The face of Barbara wavered before his eyes—the face of Barbara, white, with closed eyes; the face of Barbara with the broad, childlike brow and the smooth hair drawn straight back; the face of Barbara with the determined chin telling him that she was a "gutter-snipe." The face of Barbara——

"Piper!" the voice of Jimmie at his elbow was a rumbling growl. "This is a daily newspaper, not a bienniel edition of 'Who's Who.' We're holding the presses for you!"

Peter thrust the face of Barbara out of his mind. When a story had to be written, it had to be written—" in spite of day and night and death and hell." The line, forgotten since high school days, flashed out of the darkness. Resolutely he summoned the old habit of concentration. But it was easier to ignore the world outside, the room with its voices, and bells and clattering confusion—than to blot out that other, inner confusion which made his thoughts a clamor of questionings.

He hammered out a lead-jerked out the sheet and tore it up—flung the wadded scraps on the floor in the general direction of the waste paper basket—and began again. His fingers pounded rapidly, steadily, clackety-clack, pause—clackety-clack on the keys of the battered typewriter. As each sheet of copy paper was whipped out of the carriage, with "more to cum" typed at the bottom, a copy boy at his elbow whisked it out of his hand and ran with it to the city desk, waited for Jimmie's rapid perusal, and ran again to the copy desk, where he sent it hurtling down the tube to the composing room. The city editor bent over his desk, with a man from the art room, arranging a lay-out—Canavanaugh, Don Ellsworth, Sheila O'Shay.

Peter himself took the last sheet from the typewriter and laid it on the city desk.

Jimmie looked up.

"That's a pretty good yarn," he said.

It was the highest pinnacle of praise to which a member of the "Herald" staff could be lifted. Jimmie reserved his superlatives for the unimportant. He unloosed the full intensities of his vocabulary on a misplaced initial in a two-inch item; but when by a juggling of captions the mayor of the city was labeled "Bank Embezzler," all that he had said was, "Oh dear!"

"You look all shot to pieces," he added. "Go out and get a good lunch and then walk around for half an hour. Here!" He thrust two silver dollars across the desk to Peter. "The lunch is on the house." He had remembered that it was the day before pay day—a day on which the members of the local staff were likely to lunch on a sandwich and five-cent coffee.

"Thanks," Peter said indifferently. "I'm all right."

"Do as I tell you!" snapped the city editor. "And your follow story will be page one—and sign it."

Peter drifted past the desk where the society editor was indignantly, though in cautious tones discussing the shortcomings of Jimmie with the waterfront man.

The waterfront man did not know, but he grunted sympathetically.

"When she wants her picture in Sunday's paper, it's got to go. And what was I to tell her? That Jimmie didn't care how prominent she was, compared with somebody that got murdered, I suppose! I guess Mrs. Van Alstyne Ames is just as important as any corpse. But Jimmie's positively inhuman."

"I'll say he is!"

It isthe custom of all local rooms to agree on the inhumanity of city editors. Peter jingled the two dollars in his pocket and nodded briefly to the two in passing. How important everybody thought his own concerns! Barbara didn't read the papers—she probably didn't even know what it meant to get a signed story on page one. Besides Barbara—

He ought to be elated instead of tired, and dry in the mouth as if he had been eating chips. Peter had written good stories before. But for the first time in his life he had written a good story—and did not care.

Lyrics of Life

THE LITTLE STORE

It's not the biggest store in town,
Nor on the public square,
It's just a little farther down
The city's thoroughfare.
The buildings here are not so high,
The streets are not so wide,
And maybe you may wonder why
I seem so satisfied.

But, say, I've got a finer trade
Than any other man,
Although no fortune I have made,
I know I never can.
My line is largely little things,
It's just a simple line,
But you should see the trade it brings
To this old store of mine.

I bet more children come in here
Than any store up yon,
And half the women that appear
Still have their aprons on.
Cigars, I couldn't make 'em go,
I never thought I could,
But pipe tobacco business, though,
Is darned almighty good.

I'm not their grocer, I'm their friend,
They call me by my name.
It doesn't matter what they spend,
I treat 'em all the same.
And when they come they say "hello"
And when they leave "goodbye".
You wonder why I like it so—
Well, that's the reason why.

RELIEF PLAN IS VOTED DOWN

House of Representatives Endorses Views of President Hoover.

SENATE DEMANDED VOTE.

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 13 (C.P.).—The House to-day backed up the views of President Hoover by rejecting the export debenture plan of farm relief.

The debenture proposition, which Mr. Hoover had attacked twice in public statements and which he had termed a subsidy, was voted down on a roll call vote taken at the insistence of the Senate which had approved it on two occasions.

A number of Senators had been represented, however, as demanding the inclusion of the plan in the bill in order that the House members could be recorded on it. To-day's action was regarded by administration leaders as paving the way for a recession by the Senate in its stand and a quick transmittal of a relief measure, minus the debenutre to the White House.

CAPITAL CITY ENTERTAINS FREE CHURCH PILGRIMAGE

TWO DAYS IN MONTREAL.

Old Country Knows Nothing About Canadian Church Union Leader Says.

OTTAWA Ont., June 13.—(By the Canadian Press).—The British Free Church pilgrimage reached Ottawa last night after the most strenuous day of sightseeing and speech-making of the whole tour.

Civic and United Church receptions at Kingston and Brockville, a boat trip down the St. Lawrence and banquets in both cities, made up the day's program.

Today the visitors spent the morning in charge of their hosts, the members of the various United Churches of Ottawa visitin the various points of interest in the capital. The Canadian government was host to the party at a luncheon at the Dominion Experimental Farm and a further tour of the city and district occupied the rest of the afternoon.

Leave For Montreal

Church services and meetings have been arranged for this evening and at midnight the pilgrims will leave for a two-day visit in Montreal, where the tour ends.

Referring to Church Union in Canada, Rev. A. G. Sleep, who conceived the idea of the pilgrimage, remarked: "You know that despite all you Canadians have done to tell us in the Old Country about your wonderful Church Union, we really know nothing about it. The general church-going public has not heard what a great thing it has been. If Canadian Church Union is properly presented to the congregations of Great Britain it will do more than anything heretofore in furthering unions of the Free Churches there."

Rev. Dr. D. H. Jones, noted Congregational preacher of Bournemouth, Eng., appealed for patience on the part of Canada with respect to progress in the Old Country in Church Union. In an old country, he proceeded, it was impossible to change quickly, as there were always traditions and customs as barriers to quick development.

Dr. Jones visualized a future union of Congregationalists and Presbyterians in England, and believed it was not beyond reason to expect that the Methodists would join at a later date.

Ajax Oil Makes Another Spectacular Run To New Record Peak.

TORONTO, Ont., June 13 (Canadian Press). — Spirited trading in Ajax Oil broke the monotony of one of the dullest sessions in some time on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. All the market leaders were content to mark time and in the noon quotations only a few fractional changes were shown in the general list. Page Hersey was an exception when a few small orders sent the price up 2½ points to 125. One share of Pressed Metals sold a point higher at 31 as did Massey-Harris at 62. Nickel, in a turnover of only 700 shares, held steady at 47¾. Walkers was fractionally easier at 19¼, as were Home Oil and International Petroleum at 19½ and 45¾ respectively.

Ajax made another spectacular run to a new record peak of 1.85, the noon price at this figure indicating a net advance of 21 points.

NEWBEC DROPS AT NOON HOUR

Profit-taking Brings About Recession After Heavy Trading Session.

HOME OIL LOWER.

TORONTO, Ont., June 13.—(Canadian Press).—Interest in Newbec and Ajax Oil continued unabated on the Standard Mining Exchange today Transactions in Newbec totalled 176,750 shares with the morning's high mark at 65, but profit-taking brought about a recession to 62 at noon at which point a gain of one cent was registered. Sales of Ajax were slightly less but at 1.85 the stock showed an advance of 16 points.

Home Oil was sold freely losing 85 cents at 19.00 the greatest decline of the morning. Elsewhere in the list price changes were comparatively narrow. Dome Mines dropped 20 at 9.65, while losses of five cents were recorded by Abana at 1.61, Falconbridge at 12.35 and Mandy at 85.

Mayland and Pend Oreille were the strong spots of the session, the oil stock selling up 25 to 7.25 and Pend Oreille 15 at 5.00.

SUDBURY NICKEL AND COPPER

Officially stated diamond drills on Strathcona property penetrated nickel-copper ore. Two out of three holes yielded substantial mineralization, but exploratory work is insufficient to delimit ore. On Marrow property, also controlled by Sudbury Nickel and Copper, encouraging results secured in three out of seven holes. Prospecting crews have been sent to Ventures, Sudbury Basin and Sudbury Nickel and Copper claims in Trill and Cascadden townships, which cover a distance of practically 12 miles on northwest contact of norite.

CANADA WILL BE HARD HIT BY INCREASED TARIFF RATES

Foreign Policy Association Issues Report On New Tariff Bill.

AGRICULTURE SCHEDULE.

Finance Committee Begins Hearings On Possible Revision of Bill.

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 13 (By Kenneth S. Clark, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent). — Canada will feel the effects of the increased rates under the agricultural schedule of the new Tariff Bill, a report issued by the Foreign Policy Association of the United States declares. The report was issued as the Finance Committee of the Senate began hearings on possible revision of the Bill which has been passed by the House. The report says:

"Canada will feel most the effects of the increased rates under the agricultural schedule. Canada is our best customer. In 1927 we exported more than $845,000,000 worth of goods to Canada, while we imported only $475,000,000 worth of Canadian products. In 1928 our exports to Canada were valued at $916,000,000, our imports from Canada at $488,-000,000. The principal imports from Canada last year were: Newsprint and woodpulp, approximately $156,-200,000; lumber and woodpulp, $150,-500,000; cattle and meat, $247,000,-000; vegetables, $24,100,000; milk and cream, $18,000,000; leather and hides, $17,100,000; undressed furs, $14,100,-000; wheat and flour, $12,100,000. Great Britain will be affected primarily by higher tariffs on chemica's, oils, paints, metals, cotton and cotton manufactures, flax, hemp, jute, wool and manufactures of wool.

RAIL ISSUES MAKE ADVANCE

UTILITIES POPULAR.

NEW YORK, June 13. (C.P.) — Reduction in the call money rate to 7 per cent. stimulated a revival of bullish activity in to-day's stock market. Buying continued to be of a rather selective character, however, with such important groups as the Steels, Motors, Coppers and Oils taking little part in the up swing. Public utilities were again in the forefront of the advance, with the rails joining the upward movement in the afternoon trading.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent, dropped to 7 1-2 and then to 7, presumably in reflection of the heavy accumulation of funds here in connection with mid-month dividend, interest, and Federal income tax payments. There was no quotable change in time money rates but the undertone of the market was described as easier.

ARCTURUS RADIO TUBE COMPANY

The Arcturus Radio Tube Company was originally called the Arcturus Radio Company. It was incorporated May 7, 1926, in Delaware as a subsidiary of the Sirian Lamp Company. The Arcturus Company concentrates on the manufacture of alternating current radio tubes. It owns over 30 United States patent applications and many applications for foreign patents.

The preferred and common shareholders of the Sirian Lamp Company of record of Feb. 9, 1929, were given the right to subscribe to the common stock of the Arcturus Company at $12.75 a share at the ratio of 1 share of common of Arcturus for each share of common Sirian Lamp. Three rights expired Feb. 28, 1929.

Earnings for the year ended Dec. 31, 1928, after the eliminating of royalties paid to the parent company under the agreement which was cancelled Sept. 1, 1928, and after the deduction of Federal taxes, amounted to $95,289. Since the corporated was originally a subsidiary, earnings statements are not available but the proforma of balance sheet as of December 31, 1928, which gives effect to the sale of 275,000 shares of stock shows net tangible assets of $3,315,692. With current assets of $3,444,356 most of which was cash. This compares with current liabilities of $386,972. There is no funded debt and capital stock outstanding consists of 600,000 shares of no-par value. These were offered originally to the public at $16.50 a share.

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

WORKING OVERTIME.

The De Laval Company in the city of Peterborough has been busy working overtime since the first of the year and the work is still going on.

RAPID WORK.

Praise for the trouble department of the Peterborough Utilities is called to the attention of The Examiner. Line trouble into a private house in the North-End caused the occupants a great deal of inconvenience last night about nine o'clock, when the lights went out. A call was sent the trouble department of the Utilities Commission, and men were sent up at once, who repaired the difficulty in a short time.

PERMANENT NOMINAL ROLL.

The 38th Battalion C.E.F. is anxious to prepare a permanent nominal roll of every man who ever served with that unit, and L. G. Dowsbury would appreciate it greatly if all the old members of the 38th Battalion would forward their present address to him at 172 Woodfield Road, Toronto.

MINOR ACCIDENTS.

A minor accident occurred yesterday shortly after twelve o'clock noon, on Charlotte Street. Henry R. Gill of 164 Edinburgh Street was driving his car west on Charlotte, and went to turn south on Aylmer Street, when he collided with a bicycle ridden by Nicholas De Noble, who was coming east on Charlotte. The bicycle was damaged but De Noble was not hurt seriously.

Another slight crash occurred on Tuesday, when E. V. Davies was proceeding west on Charlotte Street in his car to a point opposite St. Thomas Street, where he slackened speed. A taxi owned by Fontaine, and driven by John W. White, which was following, collided with Davies' car when it slowed up.

BANK CLEARINGS INCREASE.

The bank clearings for the week in Peterborough amount to $1,012,779 and for the same period last year $942,764.

NO FIRE CALLS.

TINTED GAS PUMPS.

Typewriters are not the only articles that are being prepared in Duco tones to match as circumstances demand. A service station on George Street is sporting, at present, gasoline pumps of a delicate shade of green. The time may come when the artistically inclined motorist will be able to procure his gasoline from a pump that is congenial in color to that of his chariot.

EXCHANGE PULPITS.

On Sunday evening, an exchange of choirs and ministers takes place between Trinity United Church at Cobourg and Trinity United Church here. The choir of the Cobourg Church, also its minister, will journey to Peterborough and take the services at Trinity United Church, while the local choir, with the pastor, the Rev. D. Wren, will go to Cobourg for the same purpose.

W.M.S. MEETS.

Entertaining Program Provided By Members of Park Street Church Society.

A very pleasant gathering of the Women's Missionary Society of Park Street Baptist Church was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Iinkpen, at the corner of Park and Princess streets. The vice-president, Mrs. G. Ray Scott, was in the chair. Mrs. A. Fallis led in prayer and the Scripture lesson was taken by Mrs. S. Sands.

The program was comprised of a vocal duet by Mrs. J. Iredale and L. Campbell; a report on the Women's Association meeting at Cobourg last week, given by Mrs. J. Booth; a paper on the life of Frances Willard and the W.C.T.U., given by Mrs. G. Whatley; a piano solo by Miss May Pollock, and a paper on W.C.T.U. work, given by Mrs. Ray Scott. The guest of honor was Mrs. A. Haddow, at home on furlough from missionary work in Bolivia.

At the close of the session, dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. G. Whatley's group, and these were supplemented very pleasingly by the service of ice cream and Christmas cake by the hostess, Mrs. A. Inkpen.

HAS LEG BROKEN IN TWO PLACES

First Accident in Several Years Occurred at Raybestos Yesterday.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

George Davis, an employee of the Raybestos, suffered painful injuries when a sizing machine that he was unloading off a car fell on him, breaking his leg above and below the knee and splintering a bone in the knee. He was rushed at once to St. Joseph's Hospital.

The machine that was being unloaded weighed about a ton and was supported by standards or legs. Davies after being told to tighten these, failed to do so, according to witnesses, and as he turned around and bent over, the heavy piece of machinery fell upon his leg.

This is the first accident that the Raybestos have had for seven years.

To-day Mr. Davis is resting quietly in the hospital and has shown a marked improvement during the night, according to a telephone call received this morning by The Examiner.

friend of Roger Q. Williams, pilot of the Green Flash on board, accompanied the Yellow Bird for a short distance and then returned, circling the beach, and awaiting the take-off of the American plane.

The French flyers had mapped two alternative courses to Paris, the choice of either depending upon weather conditions.

They planned to touch the tip of Cape Sable and then fly to the "Corner," a junction of lanes about 1,000 miles east-southeast of Old Orchard. Here the Frenchmen's two routes diverged. One going north-east to latitude 47 longitude 29, thence east to St. Nataire and to Paris; the other, east-southeast to the Island of Vayal, Azores, east to the northern coast of Portugal, and thence north-east to Paris.

By the northern route the airmen would fly approximately 3,700 miles; by the southern, about 4,300 miles.

MATINICUS, Me., June 13. — (Canadian Press).—The Yellow Bird passed over Matinicus Rock light to-day one hour and five minutes after she hopped off from Old Orchard.

The light keeper said the plane was flying fast about 1,000 feet high.

The light is 20 miles out to sea about 80 from Old Orchard. The plane was heading east.

PARIS, June 13—(Canadian Press) "They will make it" shouted M. Lotti, senior, in the telephone today when informed by the Canadian Press that his son Armand and his companions, Assolant and Lefevre had hopped off this morning from Old Orchard with Paris as their goal.

"I will be there," M. Lotti said after being further informed that the Yellow Bird might reach Le Bourget between two and three o'clock Saturday morning.

"I hope they have fair weather" was his only additional comment to his conviction that the flight would succeed.

Those were the days of hot elections when the various parties all but declared war on each other. The elections were held at Bewdley, which was the scene of many a good fight. In fact on the road from Peterborough to Port Hope there were twenty-six hotels and he added they all sold whiskey.

The first time he visited Peterborough was to a Christmas fair. Park street then was a main street while most of George street was bush Peterborough was also the centre for horse trading. They held what was known as fairs to which people from all over the county would come and barter horses.

Mr. Byers is a Presbyterian. He went to church in a little log house at Centreville and later to a frame churc hwhich was built on the same site as the present Presbyterian church now stands.

Mr. Byers is the father of six sons, W. J. Byers, Robert, George, John A., Wesley and Thomas. Mrs. Byers died at the age of 73. For several years he resided with Thomas Byers at 494 Patterson street and for the past few years he has been with Wesley Byers at Brown street.

Scarcity Of Offerings Strengthens Quotations

CHICAGO, Ills., June 13 (Canadian Press). — With offerings here relatively scarce and with Liverpool wheat quotations higher than expected, Chicago wheat prices scored substantial gains early to-day. Improved prospects for enactment of the Farm Relief Bill helped give a decided upward trend to values both here and abroad. Opening at ⅝ to 1¾ higher, Chicago wheat afterward continued to climb. Corn, oats, and provisions also were firmer, with corn starting at ⅝ to 1¼ advance and subsequently rising still more.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS IN CANADA ON PROSPEROUS SIDE

ATTENDS CONFERENCE.

Prevailing Opinion That Dominion Is On Eve of Great Industrial Expansion.

Business conditions in Canada are better now than they have ever been before, was the unanimous belief of representatives from coast to coast at the conference of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in Halifax, stated John R. Marshall, president of the Peterborough branch of the Association, and general manager of the Nashua Paper Company, Limited, who has returned from Halifax, where he represented the industries of Peterborough at the conference last week.

"It was the prevailing opinion that Canada is on the eve of a great industrial expansion that will extend to every section of the Dominion. In fact, the key-note of the convention was optimism regarding the welfare of Canada."

The conference was held in the Lord Nelson Hotel of Halifax and was the 58th annual convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. About 150 delegates from every province and section of Canada were there, bringing and prepared to take back ideas of great diversity. The sessions were followed closely by the delegates, the greatest interest being elicited by discussions pertaining to industrial development in Canada.

Outstanding Speaker.

L. W. Simms, the retiring president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, was the most outstanding speaker of the convention. He expressed his pleasure at having been favored with such a pleasant year for his presidency—a year of marked prosperity and decided progress throughout Canada. A strong plea for interdependence among all the economic factors of the nation underlaid a great portion of his remarks.

"If independence was the catch-word when the United States budded into nationhood, interdependence was the foundation stone on which Canada was being built," Mr. Simms declared.

Speaking on immigration, he stressed the necessity for quality, not quantity, to be adopted as our guiding principles in immigration. He closed his address, declaring that the only outstanding democracies, with the exception of one, that have survived, are those cradled in British stock, because her sons have come the closest of all people to applying the teachings of Christ to their individual lives and daily affairs.

Annual Banquet.

The feature of the convention, Mr. Marshall states, was the annual banquet of the Association on the evening of Thursday, June 6, which marked the close of the convention. Distinguished speakers were present on this occasion, among whom were Sir William Clarke, the British Trade Commissioner at Ottawa; Dr. Tory, Chairman of the National Bureau of Research, and Sir Andrew Duncan.

Sir William Clarke's remarks dealt with the recovery of Great Britain as a trade factor in the world. He outlined the up-grade climb that Britain has been making financially since the war, gradually regaining her former place.

Development of the Research Bureau at Ottawa, was indicated by its chairman ,Dr. Tory. The Bureau looks forward to having equipment in Ottawa, that Will make the Canadian Research Bureau equal to any other in existence. Dr. Tory advocates a bureau that would be somewhat along the lines of the Mellon Institute of Philadelphia. "What is needed," he said, "is an establishment to which manufacturers can bring their private problems and, themselves paying for the expenses incurred, have them solved scientifically. This bureau would be somewhat of the nature of the United States Bureau of Standards but, unlike the U.S. Bureau, the results of research would not necessarily be made public. The manufacturers involved could maintain absolute secrecy, if such should be desired.

Rev. Sir Andrew Duncan, widely known as the author of the Duncan report on the Maritime situation, announced that he had just returned from a study of the power problems of the United States. He said that, as a result, the power possibilities of Canada, especially those of the Maritime provinces, seemed very reassuring by comparison.

Vocational Education.

In the Association's meetings at the conference during the week, one of the important topics of discussion was vocational education. Mr. Marshall reports. It was recalled that in 1919 the Federal government authorized the spending of $10,000,000 in the provinces of the Dominion for the advancement of vocational education. This sum was to be spent within a ten-year period ending in 1929. The government has decided this year not to renew this sum. It has taken the stand that education is purely a provincial matter and should be entirely looked after by the provinces. However provinces that have not used the portion of the $10,000,000 assigned to them will be allowed to do so.

The fact that Ontario is the only province that has used the total amount allotted is an indication of the eagerness with which Ontario is pushing ahead in this matter in comparison with the other provinces.

"A visit to the Maritime Provinces is at any time an inspiration and a delight," Mr. Marshall said, "and when in company with the industrial and commercial talent of Canada, it is of inestimable value. The increasing prosperity of the Maritimes, reflected in the busy factories and luxurious hotels, is surprising.

"The outstanding feature of this year's convention was the evidence presented pointing to the vast industrial growth of western Canada," Mr. Marshall opined in a general comment on the meeting. "The prairie provinces are no longer to be regarded as merely agricultural districts but are offering keen competition to Ontario in the industrial field.

Optimistic Note Prevails.

"The very high tones of optimism now prevailing throughout the Maritime provinces, was another outstanding impression. The pessimism of former years has disappeared and our people by the sea are again prosperous and happy.

"Evidence of prosperity is to be seen in all directions. New homes, factory additions and new hotels are seen on every hand, and the Maritime provinces are again rising, like Phœnix from the flames, and doing their share in building up this Canada of ours."

SIX MONTHS' MYSTERY IS FINALLY SOLVED

Body of Prospector is Discovered on Shore of Shist Lake

THE PAS, Man., June 13 (C.P.).—Mystery six months old, surrounding the disappearance of W. J. Dawson, prospector, faded yesterday with the discovery of his body on the shore of Schist Lake, near Mile 83, on the Hudson Bay Railway. The body of Charles Peters, companion of Dawson, and missing since last fall, has not yet been recovered.

Cast up on the shore of Schist Lake, the canoe in which the two adventurers set out last summer, was discovered a month ago. It is presumed that both lost their lives in a storm on the lake.

CAVAN CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL HOLDS ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

Rev. J. C. Robertson, of Toronto, is Speaker at Both Sessions.

CHURCH DECORATED.

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAVAN, June 13. — Cavan United Church Sunday School held its Anniversary services on Sunday morning and evening, with the Rev. J. C. Robertson of Toronto, leader of the Educational Council of Canada, as special speaker at both services.

The church was fragrant with flowers. In the morning the choir was take him 120 years to visit the schools the Sunday School, with Miss A. Tinney presiding at the organ. The children sang two numbers very nicely.

The Rev. Mr. Robertson, in addressing the children, used an interesting illustration to impress them with a realization of the great army of Sunday school scholars of the United Church. He said if he, in his capacity of Head of the Religions Education Council of Canada, visited one Sunday School each Sunday it would made up from the 'teen age classes of in Canada and he reminded them that all the other churches had Sunday Schools. He said a mighty force in the lands, for good, were the Sunday Schools.

Rev. Mr. Robertson spoke from the text "Behold I stand at the door and knock: if any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come into him, and will sup with him and he with me."

He said the verse was a splendid picture of how Jesus comes to us today. He comes by the street called "What We Hear". The good things that people hear in Church and Sunday School and their homes brings Jesus very near to them A second road over which he comes is 'What We See'".

Any one who wishes to be like Jesus must be kind, unselfish and loyal. The door through which He enters is "The Will". We must be willing. He can't come in unless we are willing.

But we can be very sure that if we let Jesus into our heart and ask His help, we will get the strength to be brave, loyal, unselfish and kind and thus grow to be like Him."

In the evening Dr. Robertson chose for his text, 1 Peter, 5:2. "Feed the flock that is among you.". He said, "This was the great commission which Jesus gave Peter. In Acts we find the account of how Peter, loyally, faithfully and fearlessly, sought to fulfil this commission. In another Book we find him handing the commission on to others in almost the same words as it had been given to him.

They too, handed it on and so on through generations until it came to our fathers, and all are willing and anxious to bear testimony to how our fathers handed this on. Never before were there so many new and wonderful things being invented and given to the world. It is marvellous the progress that has been made along so many lines; but it is a very suitable time to recall what we owe, for the best which we have, to the past. It will teach us to appreciate the toil and sacrifice of the pioneers, which made it possible for us to enjoy all these good things.

It will also help us to see what we should strive to hand on to the future. Consider all we have to enjoy today and we will be unanimous in saying that the one gift more precious than all the rest was "The Gospel of Jesus Christ." Therefore it is important that we make sure that we are handing on clearly and fully the gospel of Jesus Christ. We are doing this, first through the homes. Christian homes are the back bone of any nation.

Everything challenges us to do our best, as our boys and girls leave our homes, to go out in the world, the temptations are many, but the memory of a Christian home and parents is a great safeguard. The Church is the second agency which helps us to hand on the best we have and also to send the gospel to the whole world. The boys and girls should be found in the Church services.

The Sunday School is essential. The Church service is a congregation Everyone comes together to worship; the minister leads. The Sunday School divides into groups and trys to meet the needs of each group. There is no overlapping, all are working together. The home meets the special needs of every individual. Father and mother care the most and their influence for good should go with their children. All forces should be united in handing on the gospel of Jesus Christ."

The choir contributed special music which added to the success of the services. The choir sang "I Was Glad", as an anthem. Mrs. A. Linney and F. M. Staples taking the duet part. Mrs. A. B. Kennedy was accompanist. The other number was a quartette "Rock of Ages", those taking the different parts were Reginald Sutton, F. M. Staples, Mrs. A. B. Kennedy and Mrs. R. Matchett with Miss Linney playing the accompaniment. Rev. F. Carpenter assisted at the evening service.

DATE SET FOR ANNUAL PICNIC

Farmers' Club Will Hold Outing On Thursday of Next Week.

AT WALLACE'S POINT.

MILLBROOK, June 12.—(Examiner Correspondence)—The annual picnic, under the auspices of the Cavan and South Monaghan Farmers' Club will be held at Wallace's Point, on Thursday, June 20, with H. H. Hannam, secretary of the Educational Department of the U.F.O., and Bruce McNevin, as the principal speakers.

A full program of sports, including horse shoe pitching, ball games, etc., will also feature the afternoon, and at night there will be a dance in the pavilion, H. Cardwell's orchestra to furnish the music.

George Morrison is the president of the local branch of the U.F.O., and F. H. Barnard, secretary.

Excursion To Be Held.

The annual warden's excursion to Rochester will be held this year on June 21, from Cobourg, the boat leaving at 8.30 a.m. and returning at 5.30 p.m., or with stop-over privileges, letting the excursionists return the following morning at 8.30. Warden W. T. Wood, has issued man yinvitations for the trip, and tickets are available for others wishing to go.

To Hold Festival.

Grace Presbyterian church, through its women's league, will hold its annual strawberry festival at Mrs. William McKnight's home, Seventh Line, Cavan, on Tuesday, July 9. Saint Thomas' church congregation has arranged for a similar event on Friday, July 5, to be held on the grounds at Ivan L. H. Gray's residence, Anne street.

To Celebrate Anniversary

The Men's Bible Class of the United Church Sunday School, which is celebrating its twenty-second anniversary by a special "Laymen's Day", on Sunday, June 16, will have song sheets and programs available for the entire congregation. The gathering in the afternoon will begin at 2.30 p.m., and in the evening there will be a song service at 7 o'clock, with the regular service beginning at 7.30. Morning worship is withdrawn, but Sunday School will meet at 10 a.m. as usual. The speaker for the two services is Frank J. Clarke, of Toronto, General Secretary of the Big Brotherhood Association of the Dominion. There will be a men's choir, and Douglas Carlisle, of Peterborough, will be the soloist. The orchestra of George Street United Sunday School will assist with the music in the evening. A cordial invitation is extended to the general public to attend both services.

JOLLY GATHERING HELD AT MILLBROOK

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. McDonald Honored By Friends at Social Evening.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, June 13—A pleasant surprise was prepared for Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. McDonald, whose marriage took place on May 24, when the members of Men's Bible Class of the United Church Sunday School, with which organization Mr. McDonald has been for some time connected, gathered at their home, Fourth Line, Cavan, on Thursday evening to extend congratulations and best wishes, and to enjoy a social good time together.

The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George McDonald, had evidently been let into the secret of the 'invasion', and welcomed the guests most heartily as car-load after car-load deposited its occupants at the door-step of this hospitable home. Later the bride and groom came in and added their words of warm greeting, once the necessary introductions had been made. The men, in most instances, were accompanied by their wives, and there were a number of children in the gathering as well, so that all told the guests numbered about 60, when the final arrivals had found seats in the large rooms.

Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., acted as chairman and after an hour or so of social intercourse had been enjoyed, the bride and groom were seated in the midst of the company, the chairs used being two handsome upholstered wicker ones presented by the neighbors and friends at a social gathering which had taken place in the home the previous week.

With his usual happy faculty of putting everyone at their ease, relieving the embarrassment incident to the occasion for the bride and groom, and creating an atmosphere of pleasant anticipation, Rev. Jones made some appropriate remarks, and then called upon the class president, William O'Brian, who read an address expressing the good wishes and felicitations of Mr. McDonald's fellow members in the Men's Organized Bible Class upon his recent marriage and their earnest desire that he would continue to attend the weekly sessions for Bible study and worship, and that Mrs. McDonald would understand 'there was a chair waiting for her' in the school in the class taught by Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones. Mr. McDonald's assistance in the service of song was specially mentioned, and also his ready help when the class had any unusual activity under way.

As a token of their esteem the class asked Mr. McDonald to accept a handsome wicker table, matching the chairs presented the previous week together with a jardiniere in brushed brass, the latter being supplied with a daintily-fronded fern. "Knowing that a wife of whose worth he is keenly appreciative is the sweetest flower a man may wear next his heart, we believe that Mrs. McDonald will share in the gifts with you when they find a place in your home."

The address was signed by the class president, W. O'Brian, the secretary, James H. Might, and the teacher, Mrs. (Dr.) H. Rae. The presentation was made by Mr. Might and Milton Challice.

Mr. McDonald replied briefly, on behalf of his wife and himself, and all joined singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows". Among others who spoke were L. W. Smith, an ex-president of the Men's class; J. H. Might, the secretary; W. Fred Fallis, superintendent of the Sunday School; the teacher, Mrs. Rae, and Milton Challice, the latter, declaring the bride might need some weapon of defence, laughingly presented her with a glass rolling-pin, to the great amusement of the guests of honor, and the rest of the company.

After the service of dainty refreshments, in which the hostess, Mrs. McDonald, Senior, was assisted by members of the committee in charge, the singing of "Blest be the Tie that Binds", brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

To the Editor of The Examiner:
Sir:

Peterborough and district is paid very little attention to by governments. Can't anybody do anything to get us good roads like those in Muskoka and in Northern Ontario. We are just being laughed at.

TOURIST.

WHO OWNS THE HIGHWAY?

To the Editor of The Examiner:
Dear sir:

Your article in Tuesday night's Examiner was very amusing.

Does the man, who owns a car and goes out for an hour's pleasure at 15-20 mile an hour pace, have to go on the byways (rough roads and etc.) to make room for the fool on the highway, nine-tenths of whom are rushing through space to use the gasoline that "father" pays for and before he gets through his journey is a "wreck" and very often his car is also.

CHOIR PRESENTS SACRED CONCERT

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, June 13. — Saint Thomas' church was well filled on Friday evening when the members of St. John's church choir, Peterborough, under the direction of Frederick G. Mann, organist and choir master, gave a very fine program of sacred music, demonstrating church music of the seventeenth century, and also of the present day.

The visiting choir numbered about forty voices, and their chorus rendering of the various types of music incident to the periods mentioned held the attention of the audience closely throughout the entire evening, constant evidence being given of the pleasure the listeners were experiencing.

The entertainment was a somewhat unusual one in this community, and it is hoped it will not be the last of its kind to be presented here.

The program included the following numbers:

Precessional, hymn 400.
Creed, Lord's Prayer, and Collect.
"Cherubic Hymn ..... Tchaikovsky
"Evening and Morning" .... Oakley
"Come Holy Ghost ..... Palestrina
"All People That On Earth Do Dwell" ..... Old Hundred
Address by F. G. Mann, A. Mus., organist of St. John's Church.
"When Morning Gilds the Sky".. O. Seigneur
"O God of Truth" and "O Worship the King" ..... Hanover
"Seven Fold Amen"
"Recessional" .... For all The Saints

There were a number of friends who motored from Peterborough present for the musical event, while no fixed admission fee was asked, an offering was received, the response being satisfactory.

At the conclusion of the program, lunch was served in the Parish Hall, and a social hour was thoroughly enjoyed.

C. G. I. T. Group Meets

The Wide Awakes group Canadian Girls in Training held a meeting at the leader's home on Friday evening with the vice president, Miss Annie McMahon, in the chair.

This was the first group gathering for three weeks, school examinations and studies, and other events intervening to prevent the regular meetings. It will also be the final one until after the holiday season.

Among the business items receiving attention was the election of the six girls who will represent the group at the C. G. I. T. camp, under Y. W. C. A. auspices, the second week in July. Those who received the highest number of votes were: Francis and Beatrice Jones, Marion O'Brian, Alvira Davis, Helen Mitchell, and Dorothy McDowell. The alternates are: Charlotte McMahon, Marguerite Hawken, and K. Donnelly.

Arrangements were made for specially recognizing the approaching birthday of one who has always proved a warm friend of the group, the sending of flowers and a 'post card shower', being planned.

A letter was read by the secretary, Marion O'Brian, from Miss Jessie McPherson, provincial secretary, thanking the group for its contribution of six dollars to the treasury of the National Girls' Work Board, and a communication from Toronto asking the usual contribution toward the Fresh Air Camps this summer was considered, the decision to hold a candy sale later on to raise funds for this worthy cause being arrived at.

The request that C. G. I. T. groups give some time for the study of the temperance situation in the province was complied with by having two of the girls, Misses Francis and Beatrice Jones, read clippings from recent daily papers, living vivid accounts of the evils which are abroad, among 'teen age boys and girls as well as the older people, through the ravages of the drink curse.

The leader's talk centred on "The Victorious Life", with particular mention of the verse, "My Grace is Sufficient for Thee" 'as a watchword to be recalled each morning by the girls during the holiday weeks, when no regular meetings will be held. The words of our Lord's mother at the marriage in Cana, "Whatsoever He saith unto you, do it", are also to be a motto guiding life in the weeks ahead.

The usual social hour was enjoyed at the close. When the girls return from camp there will be a picnic gathering at which a report will be given by the delegates who have represented the group.

Your Fine China Needs Special Care

How much attractive dishes add to the enjoyment of a meal! And what woman doesn't like lovely china? It is a hobby with me—and when I have lovely plates and cups and saucers I want to have the pleasure of using them.

Because I really love beautiful china I give it the very best of care. Many housewives ruin dishes by heating them for dinner. It always seems so easy just to slip them in the hot oven — but, actually, it isn't a bit more trouble to heat them with warm water.

I have found, too, that the intense cold of the refrigerator is very harmful to fine china, so I always change the food to heavier dishes before putting it away in the refrigerator.

However, the most dangerous time in the life of a dish comes when it is being washed. Before washing, I scrape my plates with a stiff piece of paper or rinse them under the tap. It fairly sets my nerves aquiver to see anyone scraping a china plate with a knife. Of course, food should never be allowed to harden on the dishes, but, even when this does happen, it is not necessary to use harsh measures to clean them.

After making many experiments in an effort to discover some way of washing china so that I could use my loveliest pieces for every meal without seeing their beauty gradually fade, I found Princess Soap Flakes. They foam instantly into rich suds, which dissolve all stickiness and grease without any harmful effects on the finest, most precious china.

In fact, Princess Flakes will not harm anything which will stand the touch of plain, tepid water. In my opinion, they are the most efficient soap for every household washing task, from the heaviest to the most delicate.

I always wash my dishes in Princess suds, too, because for dishes, one needs suds which keep alive a long time. Cold, "dead" suds are ineffective and leave the dishes streaky.

If china is carefully handled, especially when washing it, you can use your finest pieces every day without sacrificing their loveliness. Would you like to try these Princess Soap Flakes which I so often mention in this column? If so, write and let me know, enclosing 4c in stamps, and I will be glad to see that you receive a free trial package. I would also like to help you with any of your washing problems if you will tell me about them. My address is 64 Natalie Street, Toronto 8, Ont.

Here are a few simple rules for washing glassware

First rinse in clear, tepid water — do not scrape. Wash in a pan of warm Princess suds. To make your glassware sparkle, add a little washing blue or a few drops of liquid ammonia to the Princess suds.

After washing glassware, dry with a soft cloth. Then polish, using a small very soft brush or tissue paper.

GOLD OF OLD FRANCE BRINGS TREASURE-HUNT TO CAPE BRETON

Adventurous Souls in Beautifully Fitted Crafts Engage in Search.

ARE QUIET WORKERS

Prize is Approximately $90,000 of French Soldiers' Pay Which Was Lost in Gale.

By M. C. O'Regan
Special to The Examiner, Copyright.

HALIFAX, N.S., June 11.—For three summers a mysterious beautifully fitted craft known as The Robin, under charter to Dr. F. L. Ball, of Boston, has slipped unostentatiously into Cape Breton waters, making Louisburg, once the proudest fortress of France in the new world, her headquarters, and Port Nova, near the grim reef of Lorraine Head, her scene of operations.

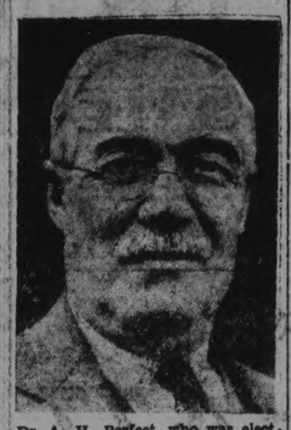
The same five men have for three years made the trip to Cape Breton, spent their summers in the same way and maintained the same silence about their quest. Four of them are former Cape Breton natives. The fifth is Dr. Ball, a man of means with a soul for adventure. For three summers they preserved their secret, but now it is out.

Sunk 200 Years

The Robin bears a crew of treasure hunters and the gold they seek has been sunk for two hundred years under the simmering, gleaming waters that play about Port Nova and fret the ledges of Lorraine Head, once known to history as Grand Lonambec. Thirty years before the siege of Louisburg that gallant French pay ship, Charmeau with a passenger list of three hundred and ten people, numbering some of France's most illustrious names, and with two hundred and ninety thousand livres in gold, for the pay of the French soldiers at Louisburg, ran into a terrific gale which swept Isle Royal, as Cape Breton was then known. The Charmeau ran aground and floundered and down into the deeps went the chests containing the treasure. Not one of the passengers or the crew survived.

In the summer of 1726 an effort was made to salvage the gold but th ose in charge became discouraged and abandoned the attempt. Came the stormy days when England and France strove for supremacy and never another attempt was made until three summers ago, when Dr. Ball, who knows something of Acadia's history, met some natives of Cape Breton and talked the matter over with them. The Robin made her first trip. She returned again and now, earlier than ever before, she has come back to Cape Breton, making Louisville her headquarters.

So far have the exploration party proceeded with their plans that Dr. Ball in an up-to-date diver's outfit is daily exploring the dangerous hills and dales of the ocean floor. But the treasure hunters refuse to be interviewed, they will make absolutely no statement and although they are closely watched their work has been carried on in a particularly sheltered but wild part of the coast, and no one knows if they have succeeded in finding any definite trace of the treasure which would amount to something over $90,000 in present day currency.



Dr. A. H. Perfect, who was elected president of the Lay Association of the United Church in Canada at the annual election meeting.

S. S. CONVENTION HELD IN DUMMER

Rev. MacLeod, of Brampton, Urges Great Effort on Part of Young People.

WARSAW, June 13. —(Examiner Correspondence.)—The Dummer annual Sunday school convention was held in Carmel church on Wednesday afternoon, June 5. Rev. H. B. Herrington, minister on the circuit, opened the afternoon session.

In answer to the roll-call, Ninth Line reported eleven delegates; Cottesloe, nine; Carmel, nine; Carmel, eighteen; Warsaw Presbyterian, two; Warsaw United, seventeen; Warsaw Baptist, none; Bethel, three; Zion, none.

Rev. Mr. McLeod, of Brampton, formerly of Park Street Baptist church, Peterborough, explained the uses made of the money sent to the O.R.E.C., also of the work of the secretaries and the great need of leadership among the young people. Five thousand are to attend the world convention to be held in 1930. He advised that the young people and children be made to fully understand the need for, and uses made of, the money given towards missionary work, and that an effort be made to have the parents understand. The missionary programs are often too monotonous. He advised community young peoples meetings; a Sunday set aside for temperance, pledge cards, with careful explanation and preparation, and that these may be used with children as young as eight or ten years, sometimes even younger.

Rev. Mr. McLeod objected strongly to organizations of any kind, unless there is a real use for them at the time and place.

In answer to Mr. Somers question Rev. Mr. McLeod said the main object of the school is to lead members to Jesus Christ. Failure is because of the lack of evangelism. At this session Carmel choir gave a music selection which was much enjoyed.

Evening Session.

The evening session was opened by Rev. H. B. Herrington, after which Mr. Patterson, superintendent of Ninth Line school, took charge and gave a short opening talk.

The report of the Nominating committee was read and adopted. The officers for the ensuing year are: President, E. N. McDonald, Cottesloe; vice-president, Dr. Munro, Warsaw Presbyterian; secretary-treasurer, Ivan Drain, Warsaw United; Supt. of Children's Dept., Mrs. David Miller, Warsaw Presbyterian; Supt. of Boys' Dept., Percy Moore, Warsaw United; Supt. of Girls' Dept., Miss Emily Drain, Carmel; Supt. of Young People's Dept., Mrs. T. H. Crowe, Warsaw Presbyterian; Supt. of Adult Dept., Dr. Munro; Supt. of Home Dept., Miss Clara Payne, Bethel; Supt. of Teacher Training, Rev. H. B. Herrington; Supt. of Missionary Work, Miss Isobel McMillan, Ninth Line; Supt. of Temperance, Thomas Patterson, Ninth Line.

In the absence of Rev. Mr. M. McCleary, E. N. McDonald suggested the whole session be given to Rev. Mr. McLeod.

Mr. McLeod stated that success depended on the kind of example one set before others. His address was under the heads: Perseverance, Knowledge, Spiritual Knowledge of the Bible; Knowledge of Boys and Girls Individually; Faith in God and in the Young People; Prayer as Necessary to our Life as the Air We Breathe; Love For Christ and For Those For Whom He Died; Purpose, to Win Boys and Girls So That They could say of Jesus Christ, "I Know Him"; Development of Life and Character.

A successful session was closed with prayer by Rev. Mr. McLeod.

TOURISTS LEAVE $250 MILLION

Increase of $35,000,000 Over Previous Year Noted in Report.

COMPARISON MADE.

OTTAWA, June 12.—(C.P.)— The tourist traffic brought $250,501,000 into canada in 1928, according to an estimate published yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This is an advance of nearly $35,000,000 over the figure of $215,763,000 for 1927.

The increase is largely due to heavier influx of motorists from the United States, the report shows. For 1928 the total expenditure in this category is placed at $167,384,000, as against $134,426,000 in 1927.

Expenditures by Canadian tourists in other countries were slightly decreased according to the calculations. Comparative figures are: 1928, $103,245,000; 1927, $103,782,000.

The increasing importance of the tourist traffic in Canada is shown by the following bureau estimates by years: 1924, $158,876,000; 1925, $177,810,000; 1926, $186,791,000; 1927, $215,763,000; 1928, $250,501,000.

	1928	1927
Maritimes	6,089,000	4,913,000
Quebec	43,915,000	31,454,000
Ontario	95,680,000	79,560,000
Manitoba	2,380,000	1,885,000
Saskatchewan.	1,027,000	1,072,000
Alberta	762,000	561,000
B. Columbia ..	17,531,000	14,981,000
Total	167,384,000	134,426,000
From U. S. by rail and steamer	72,521,000	70,265,000
Grand Total.	250,501,000	215,763,000

WHO IS YOUR SKINNY FRIEND, ETHEL?

Tell him to take McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets for a couple of months and get enough good healthy flesh on his bones to look like a real man.

Tell him, it's the only way to take those grave-like hollows from his cheeks and neck.

Tell him that thousands of thin, puny, peaked, scrawny men all over America have improved their physical health and appearance and bless the day they first heard of these wonderful sugar coated tablets so full of weight producing and health building essentials.

Ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets. McDermid & Jury, McDermid's, Bond's, Lynch and Payne, and every druggist sells them —60 tablets—60 cents—economy size $1.00. Almost any thin man or woman can put on five pounds of healthy flesh in 30 days or your money will be refunded.

One woman put on 15 pounds in six weeks. Children grow robust and strong—feeble old people feel younger in a few weeks.

LONDON CROWDS POOR ACTORS

London crowds do not make good film actors, declare directors after trying to make scenes in busy streets recently. In taking the first pictures it was found that the people were not "camera broke", and that the police interfered with the work. The producers appealed to the Home Office, in charge of the police force, and co-operation of the "Bobbies" was enlisted. But as soon as the camera began to click the crowds just stopped and gathered around the machine. Policemen tried to keep the people moving, saying, "Look natural," as they did so. So far all the picture people have been able to obtain are scenes of throngs staring directly at the machines.

FRECKLES

Don't Try to Hide These Ugly Spots; Othine Will Remove Them Quickly and Safely

This preparation is so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by all drug and department stores with a guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't try to hide your freckles or waste time on lemon juice or cucumbers; get an ounce of Othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanish entirely.

Fishes that live near the surface of the water have large eyes; those that belong in deep water have small eyes and poor eyesight.

MINE MANAGER BEING BLAMED

Harry Harcourt is Under Examination For Whole Day.

Lengthy Cross-Examination.

TORONTO, June 13. (C.P.) — Harry Harcourt, charged with publishing false statements or prospectuses in connection with the Jackson Manion Mine, was on the stand all day yesterday under examination by his counsel, D. L. McCarthy, K.C., and by Peter White, K.C., for the Crown. Regarding the newspaper articles, he declared that they were often printed before he himself became acquainted with them. He had placed absolute confidence, he said, in the reports made to him by the mine manager, David Thompson, and under cross examination he stated that Thompson had deceived him.

When he averaged a list of mine assays in court last night, the accused told the judge that it was the first time he could ever remember averaging an assay sheet. Mr. White made a lengthy cross examination of Thompson on the question of the latter's claim that he had published the reports received from the mine manager without reference to the accompanying assay sheets because they were unintelligible to him.

MISSION CIRCLE HOLDS MEETING

INTERESTING CONTEST.

The June meeting of the H. L. Mission Circle of St. James United Church, was in charge of a group of three, Jessie Martin, Marjorie Hogan and Connie Wagar, and held at the home of the latter, with twenty present.

The president was in the chair, and opened the meeting with the watchword in unison followed by a beautiful responsive service, with Faith as the theme, and in which all took part.

The Bible lesson was given by Miss Edith Wright, and in harmony with the subject "Faith" was chosen from the twelfth chapter of Luke, verses 21 to 32.

Miss Amy Fairbrother gave a most interesting reading, "How the Call Came," which was especially helpful to girls who are hoping to take up the life and work of a missionary.

A beautiful duet was then sung by Misses May Ritchie and Aileen Rose with Marjorie Dudgeon accompanying.

Reports were given by the Secretary and Treasurer and the roll was called to which each girl responded with a Bible verse.

Chapter seven of the Study Book, "Drums in the Dark," was given by Marjorie Hogan, in which she told the story of the life of African girlhood and marriage, in a splendidly prepared address, which held the undivided interest of every girl.

After a short business session this part of the service closed with the benediction.

A new fashioned spelling match conducted by a visitor, Miss Audrey Milburn created much merriment. The words were to be spelled backwards, and Zetta Wood carried off the prize for proficiency, a small dictionary.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses and the meeting just concluded was voted both interesting and profitable.

The next meeting will be a picnic in charge of Misses May Ritchie, Amy Fairbrother and Helen Crowe.

Awful Pimples On Face and Neck For Four Years

Mrs. Mary Rail, Eganville, Ont., writes:—"I am writing to tell you that I suffered terribly with awful pimples, all over my face and neck, for four years.

I had tried everything, but got no relief until one day a friend told me about and advised me to use it. I used four bottles and my face is now completely clear of pimples."

SURE TO GET HIM

SPENCER, Mass., June 13.—Homer Fredette, 45, is probably the only man to experience being struck by two automobiles at the same time and live to tell the tale. In crossing the street recently, Fredette was struck by one automobile and hurled into the path of another, which also struck him. He received a broken collar bone, abrasions of both legs and a few cuts.

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

PHONES 1780 AND 1781

O.A.C. IS OPEN FOR INSPECTION

Invitation is Extended to All Farmers to Visit Agricultural College June 17 to 20.

SPECIAL TOURS

The Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph will be open to the farmers of Ontario on June 17, 18, 19 and 20. An invitation is extended to all farmers to come and make an inspection of the various departments and their activities and a program has been arranged that will have interest for each visitor, no matter what type of farming he is engaged in. A general program that will be followed each day has been drawn up.

In the morning the visitors may spend their time looking about the lawns, flower gardens and vegetable gardens or going over the exhibits in the buildings of the Science Departments. All visitors are requested to bring their own lunch and to assemble picnic style under the shade by the gymnasium at twelve o'clock sharp. The college will provide hot tea, milk and ice cream. Immediately after lunch those interested in farm crops and livestock will go in charge of a guide, to spend an hour looking over the crop experiment plots; then on to view the swine, beef cattle and dairy cattle. At 3 o'clock there will be a special exhibit of horses and a demonstration of the best types of four-horse and six-horse hitches for farm work. After which all will be at liberty to visit other departments of the College as they see fit.

Tour For Women.

A tour for women has also been arranged. Those interested in home economics will go after lunch, in charge of a guide, to Macdonald Institute where they will be shown through the class rooms, laboratories and kitchens. They will then be at liberty to visit the poultry houses, the dairy, the apairy and the gardens as they prefer.

The campus will be available to young and old for baseball games, horseshoe pitching or such other sports as they desire at 4 o'clock.

A supply of bulletins, circulars and other information will be available at an information bureau to be established in a comfortable airy room near the gymnasium. Persons in charge will be glad to give assistance and direct visitors to any building or department which they may wish to visit. Besides this, staff officials will be in all buildings from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day, ready to give information on questions of agricultural science and practice.

The authorities will be glad to have, as many farmers as can arrange the trip, accept their invitation. It will be well worth the trouble to get the most modern information and methods in all branches of farming.

"A HOUSEHOLD NAME IN 54 COUNTRIES"

BEEF CONSUMPTION IS RECOMMENDED

Canada Only Exports Fifteen Per Cent. of Her Beef Minister States.

OTTAWA, June 13 —(C.P.)— If Canadians would eat fifteen per cent less bacon and fifteen per cent more beef, there would be no cause for anxiety with respect to the proposal of the United States Congress to increase the tariff of live cattle. This was pointed out by Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture in an interview today.

Canada only exports 15 per cent of the beef raised in this country. The remainder is consumed at home. Mr. Motherwell expressed confidence that the home consumption would be increased by steps being taken to grade beef. Tomorrow the time for receiving applications for positions as inspectors for the grading system expires. The applicants will be examined and it is anticipated that the marking of the beef will begin early in the fall.

One of the difficulties confronting Canada's bacon business in Great Britain is that the supply is so small and irregular that it brings lower prices than bacons, no better, coming from other countries which are able to keep up an abundant and steady flow. If Canada exported more bacon, Mr. Motherwell believed the price would improve. It is, of course, much more economical to ship bacon to Britain than to ship live cattle.

FOURTH ANNUAL GATHERING OF PRESBYTERIAL

Delegates From District Attend Meeting at Carmen Church.

MANY ADDRESSES.

Miss Garrett Gives Illustrated Missionary Address In Afternoon Session.

(Examiner Correspondence)

WOOLER, June 13.—The fourth annual meeting of the Eastern section of Cobourg Presbyterial was held at Carmen church on Friday with a morning and afternoon session. The president, Mrs. S. L. Terrill, presided.

Mrs. Harry Flindall, of Smithfield took charge of the devotional exercises.

Mrs. Maitland of Brighton was appointed secretary for the day and Mesdames Bennett of Campbellford, Hendricks of Smithfield and Clare of Norham were named for the Courtesy Committee.

The address of welcome was given very ably by Mrs. Stanley Mabee of armen, to which Mrs. Keith Montgomery of Brighton, replied.

Mrs. Terrill gave in a few words the object in holding this meeting which was to gain more knowledge along educational work and bring together the members of auxiliaries to discuss their problems.

Miss Garrett, returned missionary from Africa, was introduced and then the Branch officer and Cobourg Presbyterial officers were invited to the front seats.

Mrs. (Rev.) Street of Stockdale reported for Christian Stewardship taking for her subject "What is a Steward?"

Mrs. (Rev.) Neal of Wooler, reported for Circles and C. J. I. T.. She made a strong appeal for more mission Circles and more affiliated C. J. I. T. in the section. Mrs. Davey of Hilton, reported for Mission Bands and Baby Bands, stressing the need, and appealing for Christian leaders for this wonderful child work. Mrs. Maitland, Presbyterial treasurer reported $2099.26 sent to Branch treasurer at the end of first quarter, including $63.00 in bank, a total of $2162.26. The quiet hour was conducted by Mrs. (Rev.) Falconer of Colborne, who dealt with the gratitude, privilege and responsibility of Canadian Women, closing with prayer, after which the meeting adjourned for lunch.

Afternoon Session

Afternoon session opened with the hymn "Breathe on Me, Breath of Life", after which Miss Garrett, of Toronto, returned missionary of Africa, gave a very illustrative story to the school children, followed with an excellent address on conditions in the great Soudan of Africa as she saw them a year ago, when travelling there; about conditions where Christ is known, modes of travel, and of the work that has been done in our mission field in the last 30 years.

On motion of Mrs. Neal and Mrs. Mears a hearty vote of thanks was given Miss Garrett for her inspiring and instructive address.

A vocal solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple" was beautifully given by Mrs. (Rev.) Glover of Smithfield.

Mrs. Ashton of Campbellford, gave an address on "Temperance", dealing with the conditions in the provinces under government control. She suggested that pledge cards could be used among the W. M. S. members.

Mrs. Hammond of Campbellford, Literature Secretary, gave a splendid talk on the great need for missionary literature, urging that each auxiliary officer own a Blue Book and that each member subscribe for the Missionary Monthly.

Mrs Mears of Port Hope brought greetings from the Cobourg Presbyterial and added that a young girl of Plainville would be attending the Whitby Summer School under the auspices of the Women's Missionary society as her desire is to train for a missionary. For the roll call of auxiliaries, fourteen reported out of seventeen and each showed interest in the quarterly givings and the splendid methods of taking up the Study Book. Many have adopted a missionary for prayer.

A temperance secretary has been appointed and taking up the work in a number of Auxiliaries.

The Young People's work and Mission Band reports were most interesting, each having an enthusiastic leaders.

Two initiations were handed in for next year's Sectional meetings, Hilton and Warkworth. On motion Warkworth was eccepted being more central in the section.

Mrs. (Rev.) Clare of Norham, convenor of the Courtesy Committee brought in the report which was greatly appreciated by those whom it concerned.

It was decided that a letter of sympathy, be sent from this meeting to the Morganston Auxiliary in the loss of their devoted president, whose death was caused from a motor accident.

The Carmen ladies served a hot lunch, and the long tables arranged in the new shed were most attractive. After the afternoon session, again the tables were ready and tea was served to a large number.

The day was well spent in gathering so many interested women, willing to be workers in the World's Women's Missionary enterprise.

GOT ALONG FINE

LONDON, June 13.—One of the strangest cargoes ever to be shipped on an airplane arrived at Croydon airport recently. When the large air freighter pulled up at the hangars, the load inside proved to be twelve monkeys and a baby bear. They were shipped to a private animal dealer in London from the East Indies, the distance from Amsterdam to Croydon being covered in the air freighter.

There are 378 important waterfalls in Brazil, 164 of which have a potential power of at least 50,000,000 horsepower.

The Whatnot

A Column for Little Bits of Everything of Interest to Women Readers

Conducted by Marion

(Copyright)

FOR several years it has been a vogue for women to potter about in the gardens weeding, re-planting, loosening the soil about the plants, pruning some, plucking the blossoms that are ready for house decoration, and doing tasks that hitherto were relegated to gardeners.

This fashion for out-of-door work has helped women to keep well and strong as much as it has helped the gardens to prosper. It has fostered a desire to know plants and all that pertains to floriculture. It has also added another group of frocks to the woman's wardrobe and the acquisition of all sorts of dainty but practical tools and equipments. With truly feminine and praiseworthy pride, she wants to look well even though she is alone among the flowers in the radiant sunshine.

One of the first articles to be bought for the work is a suitable kneeling cushion. The worker must sit down or kneel much of the time unless she gets a tired and aching back. The cushion may be of matting, or be a feather pillow with a washable creton or fancy linen. But whatever the kind it must be soft or at least sufficiently yielding to be comfortable.

There should be a wide-brimmed hat. Those who find "sun suits" to their liking can have their frocks for garden work cut low in the back and sleeveless. The fad for going stockingless can be indulged in, for where could the conservative semi-sunbaths be more suitably taken than in the privacy of one's own back yard?

* * *

A garden basket is important. These come in the "fitted" style, handsome baskets, leather-lined with pockets and straps, each filled with the proper tool for its space. It is only a few, however, that have such an equipped garden basket. Some women even prefer a lighter type of basket, unlined and having the tools of her special choosing, and usually of her special preference of make.

Among the tools there should always be found a trowel, kept sharpened at the tip, a soil loosener, which reminds one of a tiny stubby pitchfork, a pruning hook, a pair of clippers, garden shears, and a sharp knife. To these can be added many other tools of basket size.

A spade selected for its size should not be so large that it is unwieldy in a woman's hands. There should also be an iron rake and a sickle. To these as was the case with the basket tools each woman will want to add implements of her own choice.

The name comes from the French 'toiles,' meaning textiles of cotton or linen, and Jouy the small village where the printing of the textiles by a special process was extensively carried on.

So famous did this village become for this industry that now, although the original factory was destroyed in 1815, all prints of a certain type still retain the name of toiles de Jouy.

A feature of these printed cottons is their pictorial element. Originally, designs were oriental, both the cotton cloth being manufactured in India and the decoration being done in that Far Eastern country. The pictures were actually hand-painted, and had a marvellous charm just as India prints have to this day. Scenes were realistic with repeats having the slight discrepancies so prized in all handicraft. It is these discrepancies that no machine can produce.

The chief horticultural decoration was the Tree of Life in some of its thousands of forms. Frequently scenes were interspersed with vases or urns of flowers, birds, human figures, and conventionalized ornaments. The latter clung closely to realism, as for instance scrolls encircling scenes.

The process of hand-blocking and copperplate printing took the place of hand-painting of the decoration years after when the ornamenting of the textile was done in England and France, particularly.

From the time that this happened, the designs acquired an occidental quality and became differentiated and distinctive from the Indian work. Now, toiles de Jouy may be made in Europe, in England, America, etc., but they continue to be French in character. One time patterns, not infrequently, were designed by artists who signed their paintings. These toiles are prized.

Toiles de Jouy, although once costly, are now within the purse limits of any home decorator. They come in expensive quality with choice patterns, or in cheaper quality with less intricate designs, and employing fewer colors.

Lengths of choice toiles de Jouy make excellent hangings for walls in summer homes. These may be hung above tables, desks, divan, etc., in living-rooms in summer dress, or they may ornament the walls of chambers and upstairs rooms.

* * *

Sometimes whole walls are covered with these toiles instead of wallpaper, and again wallpapers have toile de Jouy designs. These are but glimpses of the many uses to which toiles de Jouy are appropriately introduced in interior decoration

WEAKNESS DUE TO REDUCING METHODS

I have spoken before about school children, military cadets, and even soldiers, who have "fainted" or felt dizzy in the ranks, when required to stand in the one position for a long period.

You can understand how standing at "attention" might cause fatigue or fainting because of the "tenseness" of all the muscles as this position is held.

However, just simply standing causes many individuals to feel faint or dizzy.

I have spoken before about a chap who was watching an armistice day service who amused or annoyed those standing near him by his frequent rising on his toes or heels. This was his method of keeping up the return circulation of the blood to the heart. It is a long climb for the blood from the feet or legs to the heart, and the action of the muscles of the legs, in raising the individual on his toes and heels ,actually helped to pump the blood upwards.

In other words the general circulation is increased when one is in the standing position if they will raise or move themselves up on toes or heels.

All over the country physicians are finding that young girls and women who are attempting to reduce their weight, are being attacked by these fainting or dizzy spells while standing at a shop counter, getting fitted for a dress, watching a parade, and so forth.

A research worker tells us that it is easier to stand after than before a meal.

Whether this is "strength" from the meal, or whether it is because the digestive movements that follow eating a meal "massage" the blood vessels and give the blood a "quicker" return to the heart, is just a question. It has been found that "reducing" produces a lower pulse pressure. When a person presenting this condition attempts to stand for a time, the outcome may be a very low pulse pressure, as in starvation. There is no question but that many of these cases of "collapse"are due to lack of nourishment.

The thought then is that this "reducing" business may have a harmful effect upon the circulation if common sense is not used.

Fashion's Forecast

SMART FLARE AND SNUG HIPS.

THE STYLE No. 2747 is interpret ed in capucine tones in geometric print, and is a real favorite because of its smooth fit through the hips and delightful flared skirt, which suggests the fashionable Princess mode. The long-waisted bodice has shirring at each shoulder which gives a nice fulness through the bust. The deep Vionnet collarless neckline is complemented by pleated jabot frill, which breaks the width through the bodice, and makes it so suitable for woman of average full figure. Plain silk crepe, shantung rajah silk, georgette crepe and woold crepe also appropriate.

THE PATTERN designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust is explained in Picture Lessons, a most interesting method to help the amateur sewer, for it shows the entire construction of garment in course of operation. It is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew.

NEW FASHION BOOK containing all the latest styles is 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

By JEANETTE.

"Ye say that all have passed away,
That noble race and brave;
That their light canoes have vanished
From off the crested wave;
That in the forest where they roamed
There rings no hunter's shout
But their name is on your waters
Ye may not wash it out."

—L. Sigourney

In the life of the Young Women's Christian Association, that serves the community in many ways through its elevation of the standards of girlhood, and that touches so many homes through its hundreds of members, the major event of this year of grace is the new camp at Stoney Lake.

"Camp" is hardly the word for this extremely comfortable and almost luxurious summer home on Eaglemount, Stoney Lake, with its nine acres of ground and all the appurtenances that go to make it a wonderful establishment. It was called "Ingelstane" by its former owners, Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland of Toronto, but the 'Y' authorities would like to get an Indian name for it, if possible. The musical Indian names that cling to our water and rivers and cities seem to make the names of many of the provinces and of hundreds of the cities, towns and villages of our broad land, as well as the names of rivers and lakes and districts. Their name is on our waters and we do not care to wash it out.

A Visitors' Day at the new Summer home of the 'Y' and its members is being planned for Wednesday, June 19th, and a general invitation is being extended to the public to take a trip and see what the place is like. On Friday of this week, the teachers of the city and members of the Peter Robinson Chapter I. O. D. E. are asked to come to the 'Y' for afternoon tea and bring along a bottle of pickles, a jar of jam or a can of beans, as admission. The same type of admission will prevail at the Champers' reunion party which will be held at the Y. W. C. A. by the girls of the city, on Thursday, the 20th instant.

From two o'clock to six o'clock, the Visitors' Day will prevail on the 19th. There will be special car service from the Y. W. C. A. to McCracken's Landing and at two o'clock boats will meet parties there and convey them across to Eaglemount. Visitors singly or in pairs or groups or picnic parties will be welcomed on that day and afternoon tea will be served by the ladies of the 'Y' Board, with the Camp convenor, Mrs. V. Eastwood, Senior, in charge.

Although most of the camp equipment is in place, everything is not yet ready. The main items have been attended to, however, and a thorough scrubbing and cleaning campaign has been entered into. Mr. and Mrs. Arnott of Crawford's Grove have been engaged as caretaker and housekeeper.

The home is ideally situated for the purpose of a summer camp for girls. The smooth, sloping rock at the back of the grounds offers a wonderful site for picnic parties, bonfires, marshmallow and corn roasts. There is a small vegetable garden, with plenty of shrubs and some flowers, and a quantity of berry bushes. There is a bathing beach and boathouse, three rowboats and two punts.

During the first two weeks in July, Miss Leta Brownscombe will be in charge of the camp and Miss Caroline Littlefield will have the last two weeks in the month, with further arrangements to be made later for a type of supervision that is intended to be purely for safety purposes and not an irksome tie on the girls. The 'Y' Camp will not be at all like an institutional summer camp that has a set and formal program, but will aim to give the girls who go there plenty of supervision. Only in matters directly affecting their safety, such as the use of the boats in stormy weather, will the authority of the Camp director be invoked.

It is preferred, if possible, that Juniors come to the Camp during the first two weeks in July and leave the last fortnight of that month, and all of August, open to the Seniors. However, Juniors will also be accommodated, with special permission, during the later weeks of the summer. The Camp will remain open until the first Monday in September.

OATMEAL CRACKERS.

(Contributed by "Jeannine")

Four cups oatmeal; 2 cups flour; 1 cup sugar; 1 teaspoon soda; 1 cup shortening; sour milk to roll out.

HYGIENICALLY PURE

Make INTERLAKE your household standard as thousands have done. INTERLAKE is a special tissue—soft, absorbent and entirely free from alkali, acid or other impurities.

Just say "INTERLAKE TISSUE." 10c. per roll, 3 for 25c. Do not accept substitutes.

PRETTY SALAD.

Quite as palatable as it is attractive is an unsweetened gelatine salad, made with slices of cucumber, tomato and hard-boiled eggs, with pineablpe flavoring.

EYE WASH.

Eyes should be washed out mornings and evenings by use of an eye cup. Boracic acid solution is just as effective and much less expensive than commercial eye lotions.

"You are a WONDERFUL LITTLE MOTHER!"

No praise is so sweet as this tribute to your loving care of baby. For many a mother baby's food is the big problem. If it is for you, use Eagle Brand, a food so easy to digest that mother's milk is the only food comparable to it in this respect. Eagle Brand is pure, fresh, whole cow's milk, modified by the addition of refined sugar and condensed by the removal of most of the water. The sugar supplies carbohydrates, required by all infants. The milk supplies bone and tissue-building materials and growth-promoting vitamins.

A delightful gathering of yesterday was the picnic of the members and friends of the Art Study Club of the Women's Art Association, to Stoney Lake, when Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Morrison acted as hosts to the party at their summer home at Kawartha Park. The ladies motored up at noon and had luncheon and high tea at Dr. Morrison's summer place, and were joined later in the afternoon by a number of husbands of the members. Although the weather was not all that it might have been, the outing was very enjoyable, the only item which marred the program being a slight accident which befell the popular convenor of the Art Study Club, Mrs. R. J. Kidd, who fell and hurt her head quite badly. At the conclusion of the gathering, before the party broke up for the homeward journey, a hearty vote of thanks to Dr. and Mrs. Morrison was moved by Dr. N. H. Sutton and seconded by R. C. R. Cummings. The thanks of the guests to the ladies was voiced by G. R. Langley, while R. J. Kidd also spoke appreciatively of the kindness of Dr. and Mrs. Morrison. The singing of "For they are jolly good fellows" ended a pleasant gathering. Those present were: Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Langley, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Adair, Mr. and Mrs. R. Gliddon, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hiland, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. R. Cummings, Dr. and Mrs. N. H. Sutton and their guest, Mr. Ball of Toronto, Mr and Mrs. R. J. Kidd, Mrs. W. Blackwell, Mrs. H. I'm sorry, "Interested", that I have been unable to locate a course for you. Neither Dennistown nor any correspondence school conducts lessons in such work—but there are little books obtainable from the former that will help.

"Dear Marion:

House cleaning seems to keep the neighbors in fetters, judging by so few coming to you in letters. But we are not bound—though kept busy, watching us, would make you nearly dizzy. I do not know how you do, day in and day out, always having to have something to write about. We are thankful for one who so much of self spares, when, like us, you may have many other cares. Saturday's help though so brief, will be to you a little relief. We will soon be ready to receive our friends, a hearty welcome—to all enjoyment lends. Not all of us have old friends to greet, but hope to make happy the new ones we meet.

Holidays are not all pleasure to all; let us make "Home Week" a pleasure to recall. In overdue green and gaily drest, Mother Nature seems doing her very best. With paint and lamps on post and wall, one will scarcely know one's city at all, at all.

On everything we think fine and funny, we must not spent all our money, for remember that Mr. Greene us "axes", a little earlier to pay our taxes.

So much there seems yet to be done, sometimes everybody's business, belongs to none. Committees are hard at work, out of sight, may astonish us when they turn on the light. Father Time brings strange things into our lives, and different results come to one who strives. What wonderful tales will soon be related, of some mismated and other well mated—ancient history repeated and youthful tricks, just as bad as those, in which our boys now mix. Of toils and troubles and losses and gain, meeting, too soon to have to part again. Dear ones, not here, but gone beyond; remembered by many with feelings dear and fond.

Some say, 'don't be so strong in anticipation, but we will hope for a full realization.'

Meta".

Oh, but "Meta," life isn't so terrible for me as you make out! Really, I have lots of jolly times—and the past year of association with you neighbors has been wonderfully satisfying. I'll be sorry to see it end!

'MY BACK NEVER ACHES A BIT NOW I TAKE HUSKY'

"I Am a Different Person From What I Was Before I Started This Medicine," Says Another Pleased User of This Preparation.

MRS. FLORA SCHNEIDER

"I never expected to get such quick relief from any medicine as I have gotten from Husky," said Mrs. Flora Schneider, of R. R. No. 3, Stratford, Ont., when she recently reported how she is being helped by this medicine, which is receiving the praise of thousands everywhere.

Mrs. Schneider, who has lived at her present home, eight miles from Stratford, for 25 years, tells about her personal experience with Husky as follows:

"I was suffering severely with my back before I began taking Husky and I ached so much that my nerves had become weak and I would have had nervous spells. It got so that my food disagreed and my bowels were irregular. I lost my appetite and was feeling miserable.

"I have just finished my fourth bottle of Husky, and I want to say that it is a wonderful medicine and, really, I cannot praise it too much. I can digest anything I eat now and my bowels are regular. But, most wonderful of all, those severe backaches have disappeared entirely and I am no longer nervous. I feel so good and am an entirely different person from what I was before I started Husky. I never thought any medicine could do so much."

Begin using Husky to-day and note how soon you get relief, how food tastes better, sleep is more sound and restful and you feel stronger. It is nothing short of marvelous what this medicine will do for you in a few days.

If you would like to know more about "Husky," call on the expert from the Husky Laboratories, who is now making his headquarters at Bond's Drug Store. He explains, free of charge, how best and quickest results are obtained. Call at Bond's and ask for the Husky Expert to-day. His information has led thousands to find the relief and new health they had been seeking for years.

BACK DECORATION.

It is quite the chic thing nowadays to have one's daytime frocks comparatively simple in the front, save for a lingerie touch or two, and then to have intricate bandings, insets and fine tuckings liven the interest of the back. A black crepe has a narrow yoke that extends in a one-inch banding as a loose panel down the back, is caught at the waistline in a belt and becomes part of the skirt's yoke.

taste than that. You want this one."

Kathleen had been escorted to and from school. She had never made out her own list of guests for her parties. She had never in all the fifteen years of her life had an opportunity to feel alone and free from supervision.

"She is rather retiring and shy," said her teachers. "She is a very intelligent girl but seemingly makes no use of her powers. She never offers to help in any of the little affairs of the schools, never takes any definite step toward anything. We would like to see a bit more initiative."

It is a mistake to think that any adult can be a chum to a child. Adults can be fine friends, earnest advisers, helpful loving leaders, but they are not and they cannot be chums to children. That is reserved to those of the same age as the children.

A young girl wants to talk about silly things like boys and clothes and school jealousies, and school politics and future hopes. They want to tell each other about little personal things such as what father says and what mother thinks and what brother does and what is to be made of it all. You can't talk like that to a grownup mother no matter how much you love her.

You are mistaken if you think your son or your daughter finds you fill her need of companionship. You are making a mistake if you try to keep either of them from being "silly." They must be complete boys and girls in every stage of their growth and idle chatter and halfbaked opinions and the rest are all part of the growth.

You can't keep a child supressed until the moment for his expansion into wisdom and power arrives. You must arrest his growth and he will enter into his estate in that arrested state if you are not careful to permit his growth full sway.

You can hold your child's confidence better by freeing him of your own hampering fears than by tying him to you. That is a mistake and the note of pride in the voice that says, "We are perfect chums," is that of an undue and mistaken pride.

CAVAN UNITED CHURCH HAS SUCCESSFUL SUPPER

Elizabethville Young People Present Their Play, "Mary's Castles in the Air."

CAVAN, June 13—(Examiner Correspondence).—A very successful supper and concert, under the auspices of Cavan United Sunday School, was held in Cavan Community Hall on Monday evening. An excellent supper was served in the basement after which a good program was given in the auditorium of the hall.

The pastor, the Rev. F. Carpenter, spoke a few words of welcome, after which the Elizabethville young people presented their play, "Mary's Castles in the Air." Miss Mercer played an instrumental selection between acts, and the Rev. Mr. Lane gave two recitations.

The cast of characters is:

Mrs. Jenkins, a neighbor of the Estabrooks—Miss Viola Blanchard.

Jane Jenkins, her flirtatious daughter—Miss Edna Mercer.

Bill Bronson, Jane's chauffeur suitor—Henry Freemantle.

Lenny Taft, the grocer's boy—Alex Kelly.

Daddy Alden, a village philsopher—Henry Thickson.

Mrs. Estabrook, Mary's mother—Miss A. Perrin.

Jim Ruggles, a young attorney—Clarence Mercer.

Edward Carlyle, Mimi's father—Walter Longyear.

Delia, a colored servant to the Estabrook's—Miss Bernice White.

"Mary's Castle in the Air" is a three-act play, humorous and having a good moral. It was well given and provided an enjoyable evening's entertainment, the hearty applause showing the appreciation of the audience.

Financially the evening was a success, as well as providing a treat for the Sunday school scholars and a pleasant social evening for the community.

BIRD TONIC.

Canaries and other pet birds need green food as spring tonic just as much as people. Chickweek, lettuce, mustard or most any other green should be given them several times a week.

Seniors Garner Two Home Runs Off Motors

PETES MOVE OUT IN FRONT IN CENTRAL LOOP RACE BY WIN AT EXPENSE OF OSHAWA CLUB

Lefty Macdonald Turns in His First Victory in Game That Meant Much to Swanston Gang.

HEAVY HITTING

Four Home Runs as Petes Triumph Over Motors' Machine by 9 to 7.

(By F. D. C.)

The Petes hammered their way to the top of the Central League column on a wet and greasy field at Oshawa yesterday by beating Manager Sutton's General Motors aggregation 9 runs to 7.

The score sounds as if the heavy artillery was at work—and it was.

The Petes started the strong arm stuff first and had the game in the bag before the Oshawa hitsmiths began, and although the Motorists did plenty with their wagon tongues when they finally started to connect it was too late to do anything more than give the Petes a few anxious moments in the dieing stages of the twilight engagement.

As the cricket editor would put it, it was a batsman's wicket yesterday.

It rained until an hour before game time, the sward was slippery and the pitchers had to work with a wet ball, conditions that gave the batters the big edge and they took full advantage of it, the Petes all through the piece and the losers crowding most of theirs into the last four frames.

Lefty Macdonald, the Petes' young southpaw, went the distance for the winners and had the satisfaction of turning in his first Central Ontario victory. For the first five innings the Motorists got only one hit and one run o ffthe left-hander and the marker was tossed home by Ray Rose, in making his first error of the season. From the sixth on the Oshawa gang began smashing through his delivery and home runs in the sixth and seventh with a man on in each case considerably reduced the big margin the Petes had set up. Macdonald, showing all kinds of courage under fire, battled then until the end and emerged a victor. On his performance yesterday the left-hander will be a big help to the Petes during the long campaign.

Manager Sutton's initial pitching choice was Jack Ogden, young speed ball graduate from last year's St. Andrew's team. For two frames it looked as if the Oshawa pilot had made the right selection but the Petes crashed through for four runs in the third and by the time Ogden had given way to a pinch hitter in the fifth the winners had piled up seven runs. Wills, a former T.A.B.A twirler, finished the game and was much more effective holding the Petes to two runs in the last four sessions.

The fans who like to see plenty of long distance hitting were in their element yesterday. There were four home runs, split fifty-fifty, although the Petes' circuit clouts were solitaries while Oshawa's homers each drove a base runner in ahead of the hitter. Red Legon and Jimmy Hall were the Peterborough no-stop hitters while Matty Matthews and Lefty Williams did the trick for Oshawa.

Despite the condition of the diamond and the wet ball both teams fielded smartly. Hall and Legon supplied some starry outfielding in addition to their home run contributions while Manager Sutton, playing second base for Oshawa, had a field day, handling eleven chances without a skip. Little at short had a couple of smart plays and all round the defensive work of the rival crews was surprisingly accurate under the circumstances.

How It All Happened.

The first two frames were scoreless. In the first, for the Petes, H. Hollingsworth struck out, his first of the season, and Rose and Hall bounded to Sutton.

For Oshawa Carver rolled to Rose, McCallum struck out and Elliott fouled to Sweetman.

Matthews walked to start Oshawa's half and was sacrificed to second by Young. Rose took Little's fly back of second and Legon camped under Sutton's high hoist to left centre.

The Petes broke in with a vengeance in the third. Sweetman was hit to start with and Macdonald supplied the necessary sacrifice. Red Hollingsworth ripped a single past first scoring Sweetman and going to third himself when the roller got away from Matthews. Rose singled to right to score Hollingsworth. Hall walked to be forced at second by Ash, and then Swanston doubled to left centre, scoring Rose and Ash Legon struck out to end the rally.

Oshawa got one back in their half. Gray, first up, tripled along the right field foul line and completed the circuit when Rose threw high to the plate. Ogden struck out. Carver drew a pass, but McCallum lifted a foul to Ash and Elliott grounded to the same player.

The Petes got two more in the fourth with two out. L. Hollingsworth lined to Little, who made a nice catch and Sweetman struck out. Macdonald cut a single between short and third and Red Hollingsworth also singled through short. Rose singled on the ground into right to score Macdonald, and Hollingsworth trotted in on a passed ball. Hall rolled to short for the thrid out.

The Motorists died in order, Matthews struck out. Young lined a fly to Hall, and Sweetman tossed out Little.

Red Legon started the home run carnival in the fifth. After Young had thrown out Ash and Swanston Legon smashed a terrific drive past Gray for a circuit punch. L. Hollingsworth whiffed.

The Petes did some snappy defensive work in their half. Sutton drew a walk and then a hit and run play went sour. As Sutton dashed for second Gray lifted a foul which Ash took near the Oshawa dugout and Macdonald ran over and nabbed the first baseman's throw to double Sutton. Then Swanston went back to the barrier to make a nice catch of a high foul from Penu, batting for Ogden.

With Wills pitching for Oshawa in the sixth the Petes added another run. Sweetman walked and stole second, and after Macdonald and H. Hollingsworth had been set down on strikes, Rose slashed his third hit in succession, this time over third base, to score Sweetman. Hall singled to centre but was forced by Ash, Little to Sutton.

Macdonald ran into trouble for the first time in the sixth. Rowden, replacing Carver was easy on a roller to Ash, but McCallum singled past third. He stole second and third with no opposition from the Petes as Elliott fanned. With the count 3 and 2 on him Matthews cracked a home run to left centre, scoring McCallum. Young followed with a single to right but Little skied to Legon.

Swanston started the Petes' seventh with his third hit, a single to left, but Legon flied to Little and L. Hollingsworth and Sweetman fanned.

Another home run outbreak in Oshawa's half. Sutton got a lucky single when his hopper bounded over Red Hollingsworth's head. Gray sacrificed and then Wills helped his own cause along by cracking a home run to right centre, following Sutton across the plate. Carver got a life on Sweetman's low throw, but Hall made a great catch of McCallum's long fly to left centre. Elliott singled to right and Macdonald got out of a tight corner by striking but Matthews.

In the eighth Macdonald popped to Sutton. Red Hollingsworth walked but was doubled when Rose's vicious liner was right at Sutton. A foot either side and there would have been another four-ply blow to record for the drive was right in the home run groove between the outfielders.

Oshawa got two hits but no runs. Young was thrown out by Red Hollingsworth. Little singled past second. Sutton struck out. Gray singled to centre. Wills' high floater was grabbed by Red Hollingsworth

Jimmy Hall opened the ninth with fireworks by driving the ball high and far to left field for a homer, the ball rolling to the race track. Ash singled into left. Swanston struck out. Ash was forced by Legon. Heckman was sent into to bat for L. Hollingsworth, but before he could get a chance Legon was thrown out stealing.

In the last desperate rally the Motorists carried two runs off the lead. Rowden started with a single through short. McCallum flied to Legon. Elliott doubled to right, scoring Rowden. Matthews struck out for the third time. Young singled to right but Little raised a fly to Beavis, who had replaced L. Hollingsworth, and the game was over.

ORIOLES TAKE FINAL TUSSLE

Layne's Home Run Push in the Fourth Enables Birds To Defeat Leafe 6-5.

KEYS WIN DOUBLE.

BALTIMORE, June 13 (C.P.).—The selection of the Oriole brow upon which to place the garland wreath for the 6 to 5 victory in the final game of the series with the Toronto Leafs yesterday afternoon is yet to be made.

It was Harry Layne's home-run push in the fourth that really decided the issue in favor of the Birds, as later events proved, but when it comes to passing the posies around it would be unfair to overlook Vic Keen's high-class relief work. Keen hit the trail to the mound in the sixth, when the going became too hot for Clarkson, who started for the local.

Some may remember that Keen ascended the peak in the sixth Tuesday when Holshauser forgot where the plate was, and Vic at that time held the Leafs to one hit during the balance of the afternoon.

NICHOLS HOLDS BEARS

NEWARK, June 13 (C.P.).—Chet Nichols, Montreal right-hander, limited the Newark Bears to three hits here yesterday, and the Royals won the final game of the series 4 to 1. Montreal also took the series, four games to two.

Bill Moore, Newark twirler, was nicked for eleven blows, three of which went to the credit of Gautreau, who had a perfect day.

GAINS ON RED WINGS

READING, June 13 (C.P.).—Reading cut deeply into Rochester's lead by taking a pair of games from the champions, here, yesterday, 13 to 3, and 8 to 5.

The Keys hit savagely, totalling 31 base hits in both games. The hits included 15 doubles.

In the first tilt the Keys assaulted Rochester for 17 blows, 10 of these being doubles.

Rabbit Whitmen was the Reading star, hitting safely eight of nine times. He hit seven in a row.

CATS DIVIDE BILL

JERSEY CITY, June 13 (C.P.).—The Jersey City Black Cats divided a double bill here yesterday with Buffalo by winning the first game by a score of 8 to 7 and dropping the nightcap by a score of 4 to 1.

Dan Jessee's circuit blow in the tenth inning gave the Cats the victory in the first game.

Athletics Win Third Straight From Sox

PHILADELPHIA, June 13 (C.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics took their third straight from the Chicago White Sox yesterday, 7 to 3.

Lyons, who started in the box for the Sox, was hit for five runs in the first two rounds. Simmons accounted for two of the runs in the first inning by hitting his fourteenth home-run of the season with one on base.

Indians Swamp Three Washington Hurlers

WASHINGTON, June 13. (C.P.) — Cleveland scored in six of the nine innings yesterday off of three Washington pitchers, and defeated the Senators 9 to 5.

Washington scored all its runs in the fourth innings by driving Hudlin out of the box, but Shaute, who was knocked out of the box on Sunday, finished the game in great style.

DELORO TEAM ELIMINATED FROM CUP TIE

PETES 4, DELORO 2.

Breaks Went in Favor of Winners—Preston Got "Hat Trick."

Another large crowd braved the elements last evening to witness the Canadian Packing soccer team eliminate the Deloro eleven from the Spalding Cup series by the score of four goals to two. It was a real cup tie battle all the way, and the rain did not interfere with the play in the least. Preston, as centre forward for the local team, notched three counters and his acquisition has proved a valuable asset.

Opportunities Lost.

Deloro lost the toss and Cousins set the ball arolling. The Packers forced the ball into the visitors' territory to be adjudged offside when in front of goal. Time and again Deloro endeavored to get within shooting distance, but the full-backs allowed nothing to pass, while the Packers failed to grasp the openings.

Deloro Scored.

A break-away by Brooks on the right materialized in Deloro's favor, when Foster gave away a free kick outside the goal area. The visiting right winger placed the ball into the centre of the goal when Deloro's centre-forward tapped it back to W. Brown who lobbed the sphere into the net far away from the reach of the Packers' goalkeeper. Exchanges continued even for a while with both goals undergoing seige after seige that was productive of flag-kicks and throw-ins alpenty.

Green Brilliant in Goal.

On a midfield tackle Buchan held possession and sent his right wing away to the other end where Green made a brilliant save from a Packers' rocket drive.

C.P.C. Equalized.

The same player intercepted another Deloro attack to let Foster travel down the wing where the latter gained a successful corner-kick. He landed the ball in below the bars for Preston to head into the net.

Petes Gained the Lead.

The play went from end to end until another corner-kick proved disastrous for the visitors when Beaty connected in a melee and carried into the net for second counter. After this reverse, the Deloro team became more aggressive around the goal, only free-kicks relieving the pressure in favor of the Petes. Play was in midfield when the interval arrived. Canadian Packing 2, Deloro 1.

Half-Time.

After the customary respite the visitors took up the attack with a vengeance in a heavy downpour of rain. A few mis-kicks caused a great amount of excitement in the visitors' area when an offside goal was secured.

Westwood Saved Goal.

Nice football prevailed when the rain stopped. Deloro made progress into the Petes' territory to gain nothing tangible, although Brooks' accurate centre left his team-mate in possession who was robbed of a certainty when Westwood kicked the ball off his toe. They continued to press to gain flag-kicks galore that gave Griffin a merry time in goal—in fact he punched the ball off Cousins' head in the nick of time.

Deloro Evened the Count.

At this stage, the visitors were superior in every department and from an individual effort by E. Brown allowed Wallace to even up the count.

Petes Resume Lead.

Both teams on an even basis resulted in cup tie tactics being used—swinging the ball and rushing the citadel. While the visitors pressed their opponents hard. Westwood pointed upfield into the visitors' area. The centre-forward rushed towards goal to gain possession but the full-backs allowed the custodian to kick the sphere against the opposing player that diverted the third tally into a vacant goal. A few minutes later the Petes scored on an offside decision, not allowed.

A Poor Clearance.

A dilatory clearance by the visiting full-backs allowed Preston the opportunity of making sure of going into the final game as he tapped the ball inside the post. Final: Canadian Packing 4, Deloro 2.

Goal scorers — Deloro, W. Brown and Wallace; Canadian Packing, Preston (3) and Beggs.

The Teams.

Deloro — Green, goal; Murray and Nicholson, full backs; Hopkins Hart Savage, halves; Brooks, E. Brown, Cousins, Wallace and W. Brown, forwards.

Canadian Packing — Griffin, goal; Westwood and Downer, full backs; Carmichael, Buchan and Bromley, halves; N. Downer, Beggs, Preston, Laidler and Foster, forwards.

FIELD DAY IS HELD AT KEENE

Four Teams Enter in Softball Tournament—Won By Sixth Line.

KEENE BEATS HASTINGS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, June 13. — Sports for both old and young and a softball tournament, were features of the annual field day held at Keene recently.

Teams from Warsaw, Hastings, the Sixth Line and Keene were entered in the Softball tournament. In the first game Keene defeated Warsaw, while Sixth line defeated Hastings. Then those two old rivals, Sixth Line and Keene battled together, the former winning. A good hardball game was played between Hastings and Keene, the latter winning 2-0. Not a hit was made off the delivery of Gene McCarthy, pitching for Keene, until the seventh inning when Stevenson, first man up in the seventh, singled, the next three batters going out in order. Keene played good ball in the field, and made six hits off Harrington and Scriver.

The following is the line-up:

Hastings: S. Scriver, 2b, p; G. Harrington p, 2b; Stevenson 3b; Sargent lf; M. Scriver, rf; C. Gillespie ss; C. Scriver 1b; W. Wellman cf; Laking c.

Keene: M. Renwick 3b; J. McCarthy ss; A. Fletcher 1b; M. McCarthy 2b; C Robertson c; Gene McCarthy p, Il Fletcher lf; F. Whalen cf; F. Hall rf.

The results of the races were as follows:

Girls, 8 and under: M. Plunkett, A Cameron, K. Roache; boys 8 and under: T. Gall, R. Drimmie, D. Rennie; children, under 6: M. Roache, R. Brown, A. Reid; Girls, 10 and under: M. Plunkett, J. Browns Take Final Game From Yankees

NEW YORK, June 13 (C.P.).—The St. Louis Browns turned upon the Yankees in the final game of the series here yesterday and pounded out a 9 to 4 victory after three straight defeats.

The path was made easier for the visitors by Myles Thomas and Fred Heimach, who gave up seven hits and eight runs in the fourth.

PILES GO QUICK

Piles are caused by congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause. That's why salves and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds, because it relieves this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has given quick, safe and lasting relief to thousands of Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store, and druggists everywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarnatee.

SOFTBALL.

A bumper crowd is expected for the local C.G.E.-Toronto Office softball game, which is to be played Saturday evening at 6.00 o'clock at James Stevenson Park.

Both teams will be at full strength, the Toronto aggregation bringing down their regular line up, while the local crew will field their best team.

This game should supply the fans with real fast ball, and a large crowd should be on deck when the game commences.

NATIONALS BEAT DELORO AT HOME SEVEN TO ONE

Home Team Scores Its Only Tally in the Fourth Frame.

ERRORS NUMEROUS.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, June 13.—Fates were unkind to Deloro in their first home game on Wednesday afternoon and though fighting hard to get out of the hole in which they were placed in the fourth, they were destined to lose to the Belleville Nationals by the score of 7-1. Deloro relied on Wood for the hurling, while Utronki took the mound for the visitors. Both pitchers were in good form with Utronki given somewhat better support than his rival. Though rain threatened, a fair attendance was on hand as the game commenced.

Rally in the Ninth To Defeat Giants 7-6

PITTSBURG, June 13. (C.P.) — A thrilling rally for two runs after two were out in the ninth enabled the Pirates to defeat the Giants by 7 to 6 here yesterday in the first game of their crucial series.

The Pirates drove Carl Hubbell, their no-hit Nemesis of a month ago, from the box with four early runs, but Burleigh Grimes himself exploded in the sixth when the Giants scored five times.

Grimes' winning streak of ten straight remained intact as Fred Fussell and Henry Meine halted the New York attack.

OSHAWA MOTORS HERE SATURDAY TO MEET PETES

Teams Will Tie Into Each Other Again in Week-End Fixture.

BOTH CONFIDENT.

And Both Have Plenty of Pitching Strength to Toss Into the Battle.

With the Petes leading the parade as the result of their very welcome win in Oshawa yesterday, the fact that the two teams are to tie into each other again here on Saturday is full of interest to the fans.

The General Motors' crowd are determined to make up for yesterday's set back by winning right here in the week end fixture while the Petes, of course, are counting on another victory to consolidate their position at the top of the heap.

The race is closer than the next second for to-day finds the standing as follows:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Peterborough	3	2	.600
Oshawa	2	2	.500
Belleville	2	2	.500
Deloro	2	3	.400

Saturday's game should be a real lively affair. Manager Sutton of Oshawa has Matthews, who beat the Petes on Victoria Day, and Osborne, the Bowmanville boy who pitched the winning effort against Deloro last week to toss in at the home talent while Manager Swanston has Heckman and Hardill ready to go. Both teams will be at full strength and from any angle this Saturday clash with Oshawa looks like one of the best bets of the season.

The Petes are showing their heels to all opposition for the first time in several seasons and the quality of ball the yare playing entitles them to the whole-hearted support of the fans.

WINS FOURTH ROUND

SANDWICH, June 13.—(Canadian Press).—Johnny Dawson, America's hope to capture the British Amateur Golf Championship, won his fourth round match to-day from Edward Kyle, young Scotchman. The score was five and four.

BLACKLEG CAUSES CONSIDERABLE LOSS

The disease of blackleg causes considerable loss particularly to cattle between the ages of six months and two years. Sheep, goats and swine occasionally contract the disease, but other live stock and human beings appear to be immune from it. The disease occurs in all stock countries and is restricted more or less to definite localities. It may occur in some localities one year after another, in others at less regular periods. The germs are found in the soil in affected localities and it is assumed that animals take the infection through wounds in the skin or in their food. The disease is described by Dr. A. E. Cameron, Chief Veterinary Inspector of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, in a new bulletin numbered 117 of the Department. The symptoms of the disease as described by Dr. Cameron are loss of appetite, dullness, high temperature, local swelling, and lameness. A peculiarity of the swelling is a crackling sound when pressed. This is caused by pockets of gas formed in the tissues. The disease is usually fatal, death sometimes following convulsions.

Cattle that die of this disease should not be opened, but if possible burned on the spot where they are found. This plan destroys the infection most thoroughly. Cattle raisers who have had losses from this disease or who fear infection entering their herds, may secure a copy of this bulletin from the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, which outlines the precautions that should be taken when the disease occurs on the farm. It is important to remove the apparently healthy animals to other pastures. If the carcasses of those that have died cannot be burned, they should be buried deeply and covered with lime as soon as possible. The skins should never be removed and the ground where the animals lay should be disinfected and covered with lime. As a preventive measure, Dr. Cameron recommends vaccinating with blackleg aggressin all calves before they are six months of age. If a veterinary is not on hand to do this work, the instructions of the manufacturers must be carefully followed.

COBOURG GAME IS POSTPONED.

The Raybestos ball team was all ready to leave for Cobourg at at 3.30 yesterday afternoon when the message came through that it was raining hard down at the lake shore. The Rays don't play again until next Wednesday, when they entertain Oshawa at the Exhibition Park.

Meanwhile Art Primeau will put his hopefuls through several snappy workouts to get them well groomed for the Oshawa engagement, since the Motor builders appear to be the stiffest opposition in the league.

TWO E.P.L. GAMES TO-MORROW NIGHT.

Two games are booked in the East Peterborough League for to-morrow night. Crescents go down east to play Hastings on the mountainous pastures there. Bethany comes here to play the Cogs at Exhibition Park.

Both games should be close affairs since Hastings with Scriver in box and playing in their own park will give Crescents a good deal of trouble. While Bethany, fresh from a victory over Hastings, and with their whole club working smoothly, will not be docile to the Cogs.

WEATHERMAN AGAIN STEPS IN.

If the rain had not splashed down last night the Kiwanis junior team was all set to make a dazzling appearance in the new uniforms in the game against the Lockworks. These snappy uniforms were bought by the Kiwanis Club for their young team. Jack Deannard is firm in his opinion that his team will win the city championship, and then provincial, and while he is in that mood he maintains that nothing is too good for the players.

REWARDS FOR BATTERY MEN.

Several men, keenly interested in the development of baseball among the youth of the city, are taking steps in the right direction to aid in the work. The players in the Junior series, as a result, should begin swinging their bats lustily, because the first to crash out a homer will be handsomely rewarded. The Albion Knitting Company will present the demon batsman with a sweater coat, and D. Green, manager of the Imperial Gas Station at Aylmer and Charlotte, is offering ten gallons of Ethyl gasoline.

In addition to this the first player to circle the bases on a hit in any of the minor leagues, will be presented with a bat guaranteed to aid him in making such clouts a regular thing, by Lou Lebarr.

The home runners throughout the season as soon as they hit for the circuit will have the privilege of going to George Robertson, barber shop, and having a hair cut, shampoo and shave, if he has moved along life's pathway sufficiently to need the latter.

Many of the merchants and public spirited men in the city are helping the City League most materially too by donating baseballs. If it were not for these donations the league could not carry on.

FOR OLD HOME WEEK.

Local Service Station Adds Attractive Decorative Improvements.

Johnston's Tire, Battery and Radio Service have embellished the exterior of their premises at the corner of George and McDonnel Streets in preparation for Old Home Week. The additional decorations include concreting the space between sidewalk and south side of the building facing the park, this concrete surrounding five dainty flower beds, between each of which stands a balloon tire. A new awning has been erected over the south windows; the color is orange, forming an attractive background for the name "Dunlop Tires," in 30-inch black lettering. "Vulcanizing" also in black stands out boldly on the drop edge of the awning. Flanking the flower beds a rest chair in orange adds a suggestive finishing touch to the whole decorative scheme.

Every four years enough newsprint is made for a strip as wide as a newspaper and long enough to reach to the sun and back.

TWO MEN KILLED AT LEVEL CROSSING

C. N. R. Special Strikes Automobile—Two Are Injured.

MONCTON, N.B., June 13 (Canadian Press).—Two men, Harold Soulis and Peter McCarthy, of Saint John, N.B., were killed, and two others, Richard Wilson and Leonard Arsenault, of Moncton, N.B., were injured when a Canadian National Railways special train bearing a party of company officials on an inspection trip, struck the automobile in which the four men were riding at a level crossing here to-day.

Soulis was killed instantly. McCarthy was fatally injured, and died shortly after the accident in a hospital, while Arsenault was able to leave for his home, following hospital treatment. The extent of Wilson's injuries have not yet been ascertained.

SALO GAINS ON PETE GAVUZZI NEAR THE FINISH

To-day's Lap To San Diego Viewed As One of the Most Important in Race.

Policeman Reduces Italian's Advantage By Winning Run.

JACUMBA, Cal., June 13.—(Canadian Press).—With less than 20 minutes separating the two leaders in the Pyle cross country race and the finish at Los Angeles only a matter of a few days, the lap of 76 miles to San Diego, Cal., today was viewed as one of the most important for the leg weary road plodders.

Pete Gavuzzi, of England, had a lead of only 19 minutes and 56 seconds over Johnny Salo, Passaic, N.J., at the start of the long hike. Salo materially reduced the Italian's advantage yesterday by winning the 58 mile run from Calexico, Cal., in 9 hours, 9 minutes and 5 seconds.

Gavuzzi finished third, Giusto Umek, of Italy, third in elapsed time, was second.

Hold Johnston Bout At Baseball Stadium

Strong Preliminary Card Is Planned For June 24 Show.

TORONTO, June 13.—With definite assurance from Louis Gutierrez, manager of "Kid" Chocolate, that the Cuban boxing star would be able to fulfil his engagement here with Jackie Johnson, former Canadian bantam champion, on June 24, Matchmaker Jlayfair Brown of the Shamrock A. C. yesterday made a definite decision as to the site of the show. He had three locations in kind, but finally came to terms with the Toronto Baseball Club for the use of Maple Leaf Stadium, where the only open air show of last summer drew more than eighteen thousand dollars.

Interest in the show is intense, not only in Toronto, but throughout the Province, and each mail delivery at the Shamrock A. C. office brings more requests fror reservations. These will be attended to, but the seat sale does not commence until Saturday morning. The Shamrock Club has always, in arranging its most important bouts, been considerate of the "dollar men" and there will be several thousand seats at that price for the show a week from Monday, the prices ranging from one to seven dollars.

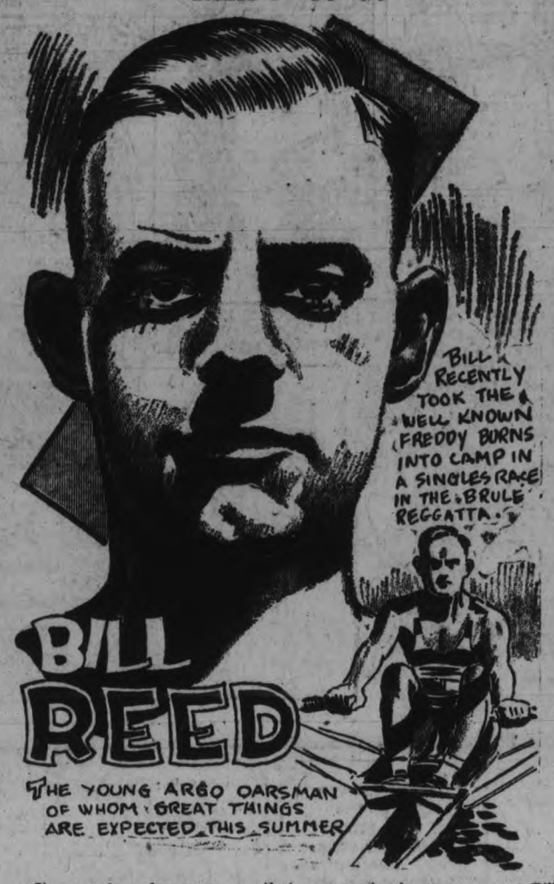
The Toronto matchmaker has practically completed the four matches which form the supporting card and states that each is of main bout calibre. In fact he regards each as so important that he will announce the whole program at the beginning of next week. Brown is firmly convinced that the show will break all Canadian records, indoor or outdoor, for boxing attendance and gate receipts.

Johnston continues to train industriously at his training camp at Little Lake Park, Midland. He is keeping his sparring partners very busy —or vice versa.

CHEAP FOR A CASTLE

LONDON, June 13.—If you would hobnob with royalty, you should have a royal dwelling. Ludlow Castle, Ludlow, can be had for song and dance, and can be rented for even less. A first class castle, "fitted with every convenience," it is said, can be rented for about $50 a week. It has 16 bedrooms and central heating.

READY TO GO



It was only a few years ago that a youngster by the name of Bill Reed took to the idea of being a rower. In the early stages of his career Bill looked very little like an oarsman.

After much steady plugging and hard work Bill Reed and Eddie English made their first splash at the Canadian Henley at St. Catharines two years ago.

At the recent Brule Lake regatta, Reed defeated Freddy Burns, who has been winning the Canadian championships for the past six years and has ruled the lightweight sculling class in that time. Reed, weighing 138 pounds, beat Burns by about 2 feet in a quarter-mile dash.

How far the boy will go remains to be seen, but no one will waste any time by keeping an eye on him.

Scout News and Notices

DELORO TROOP.

For the past ten days the troop headquarters has been a busy hive of industry, to the accompaniment of hammer and tacks, and the interior decorating is near completion.

The inside of the troop room and the three patrol rooms have been lined with cardboard sheeting kindly donated by H W. Sabine, and it certainly has made a great improvement over the rough timbers showing previously.

The job was completed just in time for on Tuesday night the troop was visited by Edgar T. Jones from Toronto headquarters.

A few Marmora boys interested in Scouting were invited to the meeting and after a few outdoor games, followed by some new games indoors, introduced by Mr. Jones, the meeting closed with a Scouty address, in which Mr. Jones emphasized a motto taken by a troop, which also is very applicable to the work of the Deloro Troop, "It can be done."

During the afternoon and early evening, Mr. Jones interested himself in looking over the prospect of inaugurating a troop in Marmora and at present the prospects appear very favorable. A meeting of all interested boys and parents in Marmora will be held in the near future when the aims and ideas of the movement will be explained. A troop committee, composed of at least three citizens is required as the governing body and their duty is to be responsible for the continuing of the troop in time of difficulty and the support of the Scoutmaster in his work with the troop. Needless to say, while at the start there is not much for the committee to do, their moral support and active interest has a lot to do with the continued success of a troop, and their readiness to help the Scoutmaster makes the going a lot easier.

A place to meet in Marmora, is about the only obstacle to an immediate start and this can no doubt be easily overcome.

SCOTCH OUST NUDE STATUES

Artists of Scotland are taking sides in the recent tempest caused by the removal from the exhibition in Montrose of nude figures by the Scotch scuptor, William Lamb, on the grounds that they were morally objectionable. The figures in question are studies of a nude boy which the artist loaned at the urgent request of the committee, and which were already in position when several lay members called for their removal. Indignant, Lamb started to remove all his other works of art, but was disuaded from doing so. Scotch artists claim the committee's action was narrow-minded prudery.

Auction: The Auction bidding requires no comment.

Contract: North, though holding No Trump support, bids two Spades because of his worthless Heart doubleton. South prefers to play the hand at No Trump because of the 4-3-3-3 distribution of his hand with all four suits protected and with but three Spades. Accordingly he bids two No Trumps instead of three Spades; and North, with ample strength to justify the bid, goes to three No Trumps.

The Play

West opens the 6 of Clubs, his fourth best card of the suit. Applying the Rule of Eleven, Declarer finds that East can have no card higher than the 8. Accordingly he wins the trick with Dummy's 8 in order to take the double finesse in Hearts immediately. The finesse of the 10 of Hearts succeeding, Declarer counts three Hearts tricks, assuming that West is not holding up, two positive tricks in Spades, two in Clubs and one in Diamonds, eight in all. The extra trick needed for game may be obtainable by a Spade finesse, or a second trick may be possible in Diamonds. The Spade finesse is taken first, East winning, returns a Club to his partner and North holds up the Ace to provide for the possibility that East holds still another Club.

West now sees the futility of establishing his Club suit, since he has no possible entry and since another Club lead will force a discard from East that might prove embarrassing. Accordingly he shifts to Diamonds, the only suit untried by the Declarer. Upon West's lead of the 10 of Diamonds, South holds up the Ace. West continues with a Diamond, East playing the Jack. Declarer takes the trick and throws East in with another Diamond, establishing the Queen in Dummy. East must now lead a Spade. South wins with the King and leads another Spade to Dummy's Ace. Declarer then makes Dummy's Ace of Clubs and Queen of Diamonds; and East, squeezed in his discards, is forced to unguard Spades or Hearts, giving the Declarer the last two tricks.

Had West continued with Clubs or switched to Spades instead of to Diamonds, game could equally well have been made.

AUTO DRIVERS GROWING LAX

Police Start Check-Up on Infractions of Traffic Rules.

CASES IN COURT

Peterborough automobile drivers are becoming too lax in their respect for the law of the city, according to police information. The failure to heed stop signs and reckless driving has necessitated that the police take stringent actions to enforce the traffic rules. A close check up on all drivers is being made throughout the city.

Police authorities call the attention of the motorists that the stop signs are to be respected. A great deal of trouble has been experienced with the truck drivers of the paving company who pass the signs at Water, George and Aylmer streets without bringing their trucks to a dead stop. One driver was caught three times and consequently a number of these cases appeared in police court yesterday morning.

Parking near hydrants is another practice that has become common and one in which the police are taking action. One case appeared in police court yesterday and others are to follow, unless this rule is observed.

Speeding Over Bridge.

The habit of speeding across the Hunter Street Bridge has again been developed and soon will be curbed by the authorities. Drivers are also forgetting that they must carry their permits at all times and will find themselves charged with this if they do not carry their cards.

Chief Constable Newhall calls the attention of the motorist to the fast and reckless driving on the outskirts of the city which must be stopped. Especially in the south part of town it is most noticeable. "The furious driving must be cut down," he states and that no excuse will be accepted for offenders of this failure to observe this law.

Speeding from the Chemong road onto Reid street across Smith street, where the road is made dangerous because of the limited view also must be stopped. One woman crossed this intersection at a speed of over thirty miles an hour yesterday and will appear in police court next week. If this practice is not stopped a man will be stationed at that point who will require all motorists to slow down to ten miles an hour at this crossing, the Chief states.

Liver—in Vancouver

"Three years ago, while in Vancouver, the house physician at the hotel advised me to use Kruschen Salts for a bad liver and constipation. I can say I never have had anything that gave me almost instant relief before, and I therefore got my chemist to order Kruschen for me—I think no less than 40 or 50 families have used it by my persuasion. Most other remedies on the market leave a bad effect in many ways, but I can safely say I haven't been as well in many years as since I have taken Kruschen."—Mrs. O. R. M., Williamsport, Pa., U.S.A.

Original letter on file for inspection.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at drug and department stores in Canada at 75c. a bottle. A bottle contains enough to last for 4 or 5 months—good health for half-a-cent a day.

PUPILS PRESENT PIANO RECITAL

Young Students Render Delightful Program at Home of Miss Prest.

VOCAL ARTISTS ASSIST.

The piano pupils of Miss Olive Prest gave a very successful recital at her home on Lansdowne street on Tuesday evening. The audience, composed of parents and friends of the pupils, was very appreciative of the excellent playing by the young students and the delightful vocal music rendered by Miss Marion Ralston and Miss Diana Liddle, assisting with the program. At the conclusion of the recital, dainty refreshments were served.

The program was as follows:—"La Jeunesse" by Edith McLaren; "Bolero Brillante", by Norman Orbell; "Tulip", by Annie Cairns; "Mazurka", by Marion Ralston; "Invitation to the Dance", by Beverley Cowell; "Narcissus", by Hilda Busby; duett, "March", by Jean Cox and Miss Olive Prest; "Elegie", by Francis Wells; "Intermezzo Caprice", by Jean Kennedy; "Tulip", by Kathleen Hierons; "Columbine", and "Snowdrop", by Wilma Hall; duett, "Japanese Fan Dance" by Marion Ralston and Miss Prest; "Daisy Chains," by Marjorie Lightowler; "March in C" by Jean Matchett; "Wallflower" and "Violet", by Lillian Thomas; "The Hunstsman's Chorus" by Marjorie Stuart" and "Gypsy Rondo" by Norman Orbell.

Youth and Age Meet

The place was an animated and crowded concourse yesterday, a continuous flux of people of all types. Here was an elderly woman sitting on a deep blue chesterfield, employing accustomed fingers at some fancy work, a little homely touch that recalled the old Queen's Hotel and its illusion of family atmosphere which was demolished to make a site for the Royal York. Nearby is a young woman of the modern age nonchalantly smoking a cigarette in its long holder. Scores of men with red badges on their lapels are attending some radio company's convention and a stream of men and woman, many of them sight-seeing on a trip down town flowed and eddied about the main floor.

Fifteen Dining Rooms

The Royal York's fifteen dining rooms range from the banquet hall, with its capacity for two thousand to the private dining rooms and include the Venetian Grill, the English Grill, and the roof garden. Everywhere you go behind the scenes you run into kitchens. Descend to the lowest basement to see the machinery forty feet below the street level, and on the way you tarry in the big kitchen which serves the main dining room and some of the neighboring grills. Climb to the top tower and you glimpse in passing the kitchen of the roof garden.

These kitchens gleam with white tile ,their brightness and appearance of cleanness set off by red tiled floors. The equipment is of nickel and the tables are of stainless steel.

Own Laundry and Bakery

The kitchen staff numbers 157 men and women, divided into departments, some preparing salads, others soups, friend and broiled meats, and so on. The Royal York has its own bakery, turning out its own bread and pastry; there is also a butcher shop where half a dozen butchers are engaged, and the laundry employs 70 women with the latest mechanical equipment for washing and drying the Royal York's bed and table linen.

1,100 Guest Rooms

Housekeepers everywhere may imagine the labor involved in 1,100 guest rooms and their daily attention. Seven hundred of them were occupied the first night. The basement floors also enclose the refrigerating and electrical departments, tailor shop and engineer's office. The refrigerating plant supplies 120 tons of ice a day for the 76 cold storage rooms and ice boxes. Another ten tons are required to cool the drinking water.

Some of the Mansions

The Royal York is actually a house of many mansions, but they conform to the modern mode. Sixteen of them are suites, each consisting of two bedrooms, one bathroom and a sitting room. Their appointments and decoration represent different period designs, Tudor, Jacobean, Georgian, Spanish, Dutch, William and Mary, Queen Anne, Colonial, Chinese, Art Moderne, Venetian, Italian, Louis XVI., Russian and Flower.

The Flower suite is the only one that is papered. Its rug is a soft dark gray ground, blue larkspur marking each corner. The wallpaper is a cvream ground with pastel shaded flowers scattered far apart, while the windows were draped with flower linen chints and the same flower note harmonized in the wall pictures. One of the private dining rooms on the mezzanine floor is of Tudor design, furnished in oak, with black and orange window hangings. These are only casual examples. Everywhere the art of the interior decorator has gone its harmonious way. The individual guest room is a quiet symphony of restful tones, beautiful furnishings, even to the lamps, of which there are five, writing desk, dressing table, reading lamp, bed lamp and the main ceiling, indirect light. Each bedroom has its bathroom with tiny but ample wall lights, nickle-plated fixtures and tiled walls. Silk and rubber shower curtains are suspended from silver fixtures above the tub.

The Guest's Test

After all, the guest will appraise the Royal York not so much by its imposing distances of foyer and ball room and corridor, but by the room assigned to him and by the meals and the general air of friendly interest in him. And he is assured of all three; the room in which this is written, 704, is a joy and soothing comfort; as for meals you can suit your taste and appetite, from a mere lunch to a meal of repletion from the cocktail (only fruit) to the demitasse. And as for hospitality, it is heart warming and general throughout the house. The vastness of the Royal York may be a bit overwhelming to some of us, for it is the tallest building and the largest hotel in the British Empire and just as smart as any of its American prototypes, but is a very human and not too impersonal a hotel.

Three Vast Rooms

The third floor is an imposing series of baronial halls; and that is a weak comparison, for the barionial hall of storied days was probably only a bandbox beside either the banquet hall or the main convention hall; and the ball room is almost as big as either of them. Any one of them looks to be twice as spacious as the parade floor of Peterborough's armoury; and probably bigger. The convention hall is equipped with a Cassavant organ, said to be one of the finest in Canada, an orchestra pit, and the newest motion picture apparatus.

The First To Register.

His Excellency, Viscount Willingdon, the Governor General of Canada, officially declared the hotel open on Tuesday and expresed his wish for its success at the first luncheon in the Royal York on Tuesday. That evening Ben Bernie, one of the maestros of the saxaphone gave Toronto's four hundred, augmented by some eight hundred others of the social set, an eye-opening revelation of the city's new estate. Around the hotel yesterday it was said that two thousand of the old town's great and near great attended the cabaret ball.

Mr. Bernie brought a corps of 46 musicians from New York and divided them between four of the major halls, the three on the third floor and the main dining room. And Mr. Edward Wentworth Beatty, K.C., president of the C.P.R., the man who thus gave Toronto its first conviction of metropolis stature and importance, and one of Canada's most eligible bachelors, danced but once, while most of the gay crowd stayed till the stars began to fade.

Quickens Toronto's Pace.

Already the Royal York hotel in its actuality of magnificence has had a tonic effect on Toronto. It is not only a de luxe background for society, but it is especially a great commercial enterprise, challenging the city to a faster business tempo and broadening its visions of its own future. It undoubtedly marks the beginning of a new epoch in the growth of Ontario's capital city, and demands, as one editorial remarked on Wednesday, a reorientation from its small town political mentality that has been too long in evidence.

Osteopathy Investigated

THE BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL stands at the very head of the medical publications of the world. It is a most conservative and dignified journal. No medical journal in America can approach its traditional position of authority. Therefore it is of particular interest and importance when such a magazine publishes as its leading article an investigation of osteopathy. Alexander Brice, M.D., Glasgow, D.P.H., Cambridge, visited the United States, investigated osteopathy, inspected the osteopathic colleges, returned to England and published the results in the British Medical Journal. Among other things he says:

"If we are not to fall behind in the race for honours in this branch of therapeutics, it is high time that we began to interest ourselves more deeply in it, as already the medical profession in America is suffering severely at the hands of a new race of manipulative practitioners, who have recently, indeed, invaded our country.

"At all times interested in such methods of treatment my attention was several years ago forcibly directed to this system in particular, by the remarkable improvement of several of my own reputedly incurable patients, and I at once took steps to inform myself as to the good and bad points of such a potent method of treatment.

"I came to the conclusion that there must be virtue in a method of treatment which had such vitality as to spread all over a continent in a few years, and at its present rate of progress bade fair to travel all over the world. I was hardly surprised at this, as my own experience in its practice had at least disclosed the fact that it was of striking benefit."

WEDDING BELLS

QUACKENBUSH—GRANT

Yesterday afternoon, at two o'clock the marriage was solemnized at George street United Church, of Edith Jane, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grant of Dummer, to Marcus Lyle Quackenbush of Methuen. The Rev. J. E. Todd performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a lovely gown of white silk georgette crepe, a white veil caught with orange blossoms in cap effect and white slippers and hose. She carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses.

After the ceremony, Mr. Quackenbush and his bride left for a trip to Hamilton, St. Catharines and Niagara Falls, the bride travelling in a costume of rose beige flat silk crepe, with coat, hat, shoes and hose to match. The coat was trimmed with fox fur.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Quackenbush, who received many beautiful gifts on the occasion of their marriage, will live in Peterborough.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM LITTLE.

There passed peacefully to rest yesterday, at his home, 548 Stewart Street, William Little. The deceased was 83 years of age, born August 6, 1845, in Hope Township. He resided in Peterborough for 23 years, and was a devoted member of St. Paul's Church, for many years being an elder.

Surviving him are three daughters: Annie A. Little, Agnes M. Little and Mrs. Mabel Downer, all of Peterborough; two brothers, John Little and Fulton Little, of Port Hope, and four sisters: Mrs. R. S. Strachan, Montreal, Mrs. John Barkwell, Winnipeg, Mrs. W. Towner, Wallace, N.Y., and Mrs. M. White, Port Hope.

Rev. William Allan of St. Paul's Church will conduct the funeral service, which will take place on June 14 at 2 p.m., at the home of the deceased. Interment in Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. JOHN CUMMINGS.

There passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital last night, Mrs. John Cummings, beloved wife of John Cummings, 135 Stewart street, after a lingering illness. The deceased was born in Bridgenorth but lived the greater part of her life in Peterborough.

She leaves to mourn the loss, her sorrowing husband, three daughters and two sons. They are Mrs. Stanley Iveson of Peterborough, James of Oshawa, Wealey of Toronto, Ella and Gertie at home. Also her aged father, four brothers and two sisters.

Funeral will take place from the family residence, Stewart street, to Little Lake cemeterly at 2 o"clock Saturday. Rev. Dudgeon of St. James' will officiat.

to London with him to introduce her to his parents who heard their love story and consented to the marriage.

Yesterday during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Frye, Loune telephoned the girl and later secured a taxi in which he drove to the house. Twice during the afternoon and early evening Mrs. Frye telephoned home and spoke to Loune. Some time before eleven o'clock she telephoned again, but receiving no answer concluded that the young couple had become reconciled and gone out. When Mrs. Frye returned at 11.50 she was horrified to discover the body of her sister-in-law on a bed with a loop made from the cord of an electric lamp lightly drawn around her throat. The lamp was still attached to the cord. One slipper belonging to the girl was in the living room where there were evidences of a violent struggle. Police believe that the girl was murdered in the living room and that her body was carried to the bed room later. Some time after eleven o'clock a taxi man received a call to the house and he drove a man said to be Loune to the Interurban depot where he caught a midnight train for Detroit. Police believed this morning that he might have made his way back to the London district and the Michican authorities are asking that a close watch be kept for the alleged slayer here.

Loune when in London with the girl left a snapshot showing him with his arms around his intended bride ,a pretty little brunette who beamed smilingly on the world.

YELLOW BIRD IS RUNNING SHORT OF FUEL

PLANS FOR OLD HOME WEEK ARE APPROACHING MATURITY WITH EVENT TWO WEEKS OFF

Splendid Arrangments Made to Care for Peterborough's Big Family.

285 ALREADY BOOKED

Parade Committee Requires Immediate Action to Prepare Historical Floats.

That plans laid at the beginning of the year for Old Home Week are working out well was evidenced at last night's meeting of the general committee. Reports presented by several committee chairmen told of arrangements completed along almost every conceivable line to add to the effectiveness of the week and the enjoyment of visitors.

After a short discussion, started by R. M. Glover following suggestions made to him that revenue might be obtained through charging for the community dancing, it was decided on recommendation of A. J. Costello to adhere to the original idea of providing this event free.

Continuing the discussion of the dancing, Mr. Costello told of the splendid program prepared for the feature dance. Tickets will be placed on sale in several stores in the city on Monday, he said, and only four hundred will be available for Peterborough people. With Rotary, Kiwanis, and other clubs giving their support, this quota will be speedily disposed of.

United States Float.

A report from the United States day committee that a special program is not considered advisable for July 4, and a recommendation that a United States float be entered in the big Monday parade, was approved by the general committee.

Accommodation Arranged.

Reporting in a very detailed manner for the accommodation committee, James Dutton expressed complete satisfaction with the outlook, though the task of caring for the thousands of Old Home Week visitors will be no light one. There are eighty-five homes listed, offering about 330 double rooms and twenty single rooms. The committee has already received 285 advance registrations, and sixty-five of those registering require sleeping accommodation, taking away fifty-eight double and seven single rooms and leaving 272 double and

CONSERVATIVE WINS IN RUGBY

Results Are Now Complete For British General Elections.

LABOR HAS 289 SEATS.

RUGBY, Eng., June 14.—(A.P.) — The only return still outstanding from the general election was announced to-day with the victory of Captain D. Margesson, Conservative, who retained his seat with 15,147 votes. J. Morgan, Laborite, polled 11,588 and Robert Bernays, Liberal, 10,158.

The Rugby election was deferred until yesterday because of the death of the Labor candidate shortly before the date set for the general election.

"We've Too Much Liquor, Come and Destroy Some," Message Received By Prohibitioners

CHICAGO, June 14.—The telephone at prohibition headquarters rang.

"Hello, prohibition office? Please send some men out here to destroy some of our liquor. We've got too much, more than the law allows. Certainly's its good stuff. This is Michael Reese Hospital, Dr. H. Smith, superintendent, speaking."

Two of the government's best liquor destroyers were sent. They reported that they broke 40 bottles of old brandies, choice cordials and aged wine on the alley curb.

Forty gallons of mellow Bourbon whiskey was saved. A patron bequeathed his cellar to the hospital.

Not long after that Sergt. John Mou of the Desplaines police station, was delegated to destroy 800 pints of whisky seized in a raid. He took Charles and William Brown from the cell where they had been put to sober up and forced them to empty the 800 pints into the sewer. The task took two hours and the men were freed, the Sergeant deeming their punishment sufficient.

PATRIOTISM IS PRIME VIRTUE

Rev. W. Purves-Boyes, of London, England, Stirred By Canada's Loyalty.

SPEAKS TO KIWANIS.

The Rev. W. Purves-Boyes, M. A., of London, England, was the speaker at the Kiwanis Club luncheon held in the Empress hotel at noon to-day. The address was, as President John J. Turner expressed it, eloquent and interesting, with a meaning.

The speaker said that two things were particularly noticeable to him since he has been in Canada and the United States. The first is the amazing hospitality of the people, which has overwhelmed him, and which he could never repay, except in thought.

The second thing that was outstanding was the enthusiastic patriotism of the people of Canada. During the anxious days, when the King was so ill, nothing touched the hearts of the English people, like the devotion shown by the Canadians, Australians, and residents of the other Dominions.

Then Mr. Purves-Boyes turned to English conditions and told of the hard times that the mother country was undergoing. Especially in the provinces and Glasgow, trade is very bad, but the tradesmen are anxiously hoping for better times, which never seem to come, he said.

Perhaps, said the speaker, the reason why England has lost some prestige is because she has let go of two things in the last few years. In the first place she is slipping in her religious devotion and then she is losing her capacity for hard work. A great contrast is noticed when one visits such countries on the continent as Belgium, Italy and France, and sees there how diligently the worker applies himself to the task that he has to do.

The speaker congratulated the club on its work in connection with the

MILLIONS VOTED IN GRAND RUSH

House of Commons Will Prorogue At Five O'clock This Afternoon.

SEVERAL ITEMS HELD UP.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 14 (C.P.)—Parliament will prorogue this afternoon. When the House of Commons adjourned at one o'clock to meet again at three, only a few items of the estimates remained to be passed. These were regarded as contentious and consequently were held over until the committee of supply had approved all the rest. The items held up come under the head of the Department of Agriculture and members have signified that they wish to discuss them. It is now expected that prorogation will take place about five o'clock in the afternoon. This was the hour suggested by the Prime Minister shortly before noon adjournment of the House. The supply committee passed quickly from item to item, jumped from department to department and voted many millions in the brief space between 11 and 1 o'clock.

An amount of $4,200,000 to provide for the further payment for claims for losses sustained by the civil population during the Great War was among the appropriations approved. The passing of this vote brought from Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State, an announcement that cheques for payment of these claims as approved by Royal Commissioner James Friel, with interest, were already being written and within two or three weeks after prorogation, all these claims would be paid.

GENERAL SMUTS LOSES HIS LEAD IN SOUTH AFRICA

As Rural Results Pile in Premier J. B. Hertzog Maintains Control.

MAJORITY OVER ALL.

South African Party Has Made Its Gains At Expense of Labor.

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, June 14. (C.P.) — The Nationalist Party having emerged victorious from the general election held on Wednesday, the predominating question now is whether Premier J. B. Hertzog will form a purely Nationalist Government or continue to cooperate with the five Cresswell Labor members in forming another Nationalist-Labor government.

With the results of 136 of the 148 seats in the Legislative Assembly definitely known, the Nationalists have a majority of two over all other parties, and are pretty certain to prove successful in the 12 seats to be heard from.

Majority of 12 Seats.

The Nationalists' majority over the South African party, the official opposition, led by former Premier J. C. Smuts, is 10 seats. Combined with the Labor group led by Col. H. F. P. Creswell, the Nationalists have a majority of 12 seats over the South African party, and the "National Council" Laborites, who are opposed to the Hertzog government, but it becomes increasingly evident that Premier Hertzog will be able to carry on the administration of the union without the parliamentary aid of the Cresswell labor faction.

The standing of the parties follows:

Nationalists	69
South African Party	59
Creswell Laborites	5
National Council Laborites	3
Doubtful	12
Total	148

In the last Legislative Assembly the Nationalists numbered 63 members, the Laborites 18, and the South African party 54. A redistribution bill passed by the last parliament increased the representation from 135 to 148 seats.

Gains from Labor

Most of the gains made by the South African party in Wednesday's election were at the expense of the Labor party, in which a split developed several weeks ago. The two Labor groups sustained a severe defeat. They lost seven seats to the South African party, who also gained two seats from the Nationalists. The South African party also captured five of the thirteen new seats. On the other hand the Hertzog forces took six seats from the South African party and one from the Laborites, winning in addition the other eight new seats.

According to the Nationalist organ,

BRITISH TIES ARE WEAKENED

English Daily Criticized Action of Government of Premier Hertzog.

TWO ELECTION ISSUES.

LONDON, June 14. — (Canadian Press Cable).—Commenting on the result of the general election in South Africa Thursday the Daily Mail says:—"It is one of the troubles of South Africa that just at a time when grave problems have to be solved party government appears to be breaking down. Further there are the old racial differences to aggravate the work of the administration. The Nationalist government under Premier Hertzog has shown, with its Labor allies, a distinct desire to weaken the ties which bind South Africa to the British Empire.

"It adopted a flag in which the Union Jack is almost effaced. In 1925 it reduced the preference given British goods and more recently concluded with Germany a treaty which gave that country virtually a preference against Great Britain. The triumph of the Nationalist party will probably accentuate these tendencies Mr. Hertzog appears to mean very will but he is unable to resist pressure from inside his own party.

Fought on Two Issues

"He has fought the election mainly on two issues, race prejudice and the native question and thus his methods bode no good for South Africa. The handling of the native question is of first importance for the world. It looks as though in South Africa the very situation which occurred seventy years ago in the southern confederacy of the United States were recurring. The dominating party, the Boers, with Labor auxiliaries believe sincerely in the bondage of the natives.

HOUSE PASSES $250,000 VOTE FOR AIR FORCE

Conservative Member of Simcoe Protests Closing of Camp Borden.

MOVING TO TRENTON.

Minister Says the Department Wants to Have Land and Sea Operations Together.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 14—(By the Canadian Press).—A vote of $250,000 which stands in the supplementary estimates for the Royal Canadian Air Force was carried in the House of Commons this morning in committee of supply. When the item first came up for consideration a protest was voiced by W. E. Rowe (Conservative-Dufferin-Simcoe) to the closing up of Camp Borden as an air force station. Consideration was deferred at the suggestion of Premier W. L. Mackenzie King in order that less contentious votes might be dealt with. Just before the luncheon recess the vote again came up and was passed without comment.

Hon. J. L. Ralston, minister of national defence had explained that it was intended to establish the Royal Canadian Air Force camp at Trenton, Ontario, in order that operation in both land and sea planes might be executed.

17 Hangars at Borden

Mr. Rowe criticized the proposed change on the ground of economy. Camp Borden, he said, was equipped with 17 hangars, an engine shop, a carpenter shop, barracks, cottages for married officers and men, a hospital, and everything necessary for the comfort of soldiers. It seemed a great waste of money to bandon this equipment as well as a very excellent site for a flying camp, in order to establish a new one.

One great advantage which Camp Borden had, said Mr. Rowe, was that it was inland, Trenton on the other hand, was located on the boundary. In the United States, out of 53 camps only one was located near the boundary. This was an important consideration in case of war.

War Conservation Camp

Col. Ralston pointed out that Borden had been established and equipped to take care of about 40,000 men during war time. The camp at Trenton would be fitted for about 500. Borden was not primarily an aviation camp, although there was equipment there for a war time conservation camp. Trenton had Big French Monoplane is Reported 200 Miles Off Portugal.

COMMUNICATES WITH SHIPS

Strong Head Winds Are Reported By Weather Bureaus and Vessels.

NEW YORK, June 14.—The International Telephone and Telegraph Company announced to-day it had received word over its commercial cables at 2.45 p.m., that the French transatlantic plane Yellow Bird was 200 miles off the Portuguese coast, and that it planned to land for re-fueling in Portugal, and to continue to Paris to-morrow.

PARIS, June 14.—A private radio operator in Paris late to-day stated that he had caught a report the Yellow Bird was in sight of Oporto, Portugal.

The radio operator said that the flyers gave notice that they intended to try for a landing in South France or Portugal, if their gasoline held out.

Paris Plans Welcome.

PARIS, June 14 (Canadian Press). —France prepared to-day to give a rousing boisterous welcome to the three flyers of the Yellow Bird when —and if—they complete their trans-Atlantic crossing and arrive here.

It was regarded as certain they would get a reception comparable to that accorded Colonel Lindbergh two years ago last May.

Favorable winds for the French transatlantic airplane Yellow Bird blew all along the northern coast of France and Brittany early this afternoon to speed the three French aviators on to their destined goal at Paris.

The wind was generally from the south-west, and blowing with a velocity estimated at 25 miles an hour.

Unfavorable weather conditions, particularly as regards head winds, had been earlier reported by the French weather bureau, though the weather man predicted the wind would veer around to the south-west to-morrow. Conditions over the At-

TICKET SALE OPENS MONDAY FOR REUNION FEATURE DANCE

Only 400 Tickets Will be Sold in Peterborough, Committee Says.

NO RESERVATIONS

Peterborough people who plan to attend the big feature dance which will be the social event of Old Home Week would be well advised to take an early opportunity of obtaining tickets. Only 400 tickets will be sold here, and when that number has been disposed of no more can be provided.

The ticket sale opens on Monday at Bond's Drug Store, Riley and Hickey's, J. A. McNabb's, Jack Primeau's, Al. Sharpe's, Empress Hotel and White House.

The importance of this event, which is on a high plane, points the advisability of those who wish to participate in the dance making sure of tickets early. Positively no reservations will be accepted—the only way to be sure of a place in the big social event is by obtaining a ticket.

NO CAUSE IS GIVEN FOR DEATH OF BROKER

Toronto Man Dies On Way To Hospital After Being Placed in Police Cell.

TORONTO, Ont., June 14.—(C.P.) —No definite cause has yet been established of the death of Thomas R. Tennant, real estate broker, who died in ambulance last night while being rushed from a police station to hospital. Tennant, just previous to his death, had been arrested on a charge of theft of $5,000 mortgage money and was confined to a cell in a local station when he suddenly became ill.

An autopsy failed to reveal any definite cause of death and analysis of the stomach was ordered by Coroner Dr. Crawford. The results of this analysis will not be known until several days. The body has since been released to relatives for burial.

Queen City Executive Is Ready for Old Home Week

TORONTO BOYS PLAN TO TAKE CITY BY STORM

Motorcade Will Leave Spadina and Fleet at Eight O''clock On Tuesday.

SPECIAL ESCORT.

First Official Act in Peterborough Will Be Placing of Wreath On Memorial.

TORONTO, June 14 (Special to The Examiner).—That the Queen City will take a leading part in Peterborough's Old Home Week celebration was evidenced in the reports presented to the executive of the Peterborough Old Boys' Association at a dinner meeting in Toronto Club yesterday, when Wilfred Stratton was host. Mr. Stratton is convenor of the fireworks and entertainment committee, and others present at the meeting were: Frank P. O'Connor, chairman of the general committee; W. J. O'Brien, secretary; C. E. Sisson, treasurer; W. S. Campbell, convenor of the transportation committee, and G. B. Van Blaricom, convenor of the publicity and propaganda committee.

Splendid enthusiasm and co-operation are being displayed in working out the details of Toronto's special day, July . The motor parade, escorted by two highway traffic officers, will leave the corner of Fleet Street and Spadina Avenue at 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning. The cars will be decorated, and all will carry banners announcing Peterborough Old Home Week.

It is expected that the motorcade will arrive in Peterborough shortly after eleven o'clock. It will be met on the highway by a guard of honor from the Peterborough Automobile Club, and at the end of Charlotte Street by the Toronto Concert Band, which will escort the visitors along Charlotte and George Streets to Confederation Square. The first official act of the visitors will be the laying, with impressive ceremony, of a permanent wreath on the war memorial.

Luncheon Planned.

Then will follow a luncheon in the gymnasium of the Collegiate Institute to be attended by members of the Toronto committee, the Mayor and Council of Peterborough, the Board of Education, the members of Peterborough's Old Home Week committee, and representatives of other public bodies. In the afternoon there will be a band concert, fireworks, sports program, and other entertainment. And though the Toronto committee has planned a wide variety of entertainment, ample time will be allowed for the renewing of old acquaintances.

The fireworks display at night will be one of the most varied and impressive ever given in Ontario. It will include a pyrotechnic silhouette of His Worship Mayor Denne of Peterborough, and Frank P. O'Connor, chairman of the Old Boys' Association in Toronto. Other details are being planned, with a view to making this return to their old home a real joy to the Toronto visitors, and indicative of the enterprise of the Queen City.

Radio Announcements

There will be broadcast from radio station CKGW, Toronto, on Wednesday, June 19, and Wednesday, June 26, announcements setting forth the attractions and entertainment offered during Peterborough's Old Home Week, with special reference to Toronto Day. The message will be broadcast between nine and ten o'clock in the evening, the hour devoted to the Canadian General Electric Co. features, this firm having generously donated a portion of its time to this purpose.

In addition to this, to drum up a big representation, there will be mailed by the Toronto Old Boys' publicity committee, to two thousand former residents of Peterborough, now living in Toronto, a post card questionnaire headed: "All aboard for Peterborough." This invites all the Peterborough Old Boys and their families who have cars, to join the specially escorted excursion to Peterborough. The return portion of the card, which will be forwarded to F. H. Dobbin, secretary of the Old Home Week committee in Peterborough, has several spaces to be filled in with information about the sender, accommodation needed, and so on.

The meeting broke up with the members more enthusiastic than ever about the possibilities in the visit. "Toronto Day will be a hummer," is the message the committee sends to Peterborough.

Visit on Saturday

G. B. Van Blaricom and Bill O'Brien, of the Toronto committee, will visit Peterborough on Saturday of this week to complete arrangements.

PRINCE WILL NOT ATTEND SWEDISH BALL TO-NIGHT

Rumors of Engagement of Royal Couple Are Given a Definite Quietus.

LONDON, June 14.—(C.P.)—London's tea time gossipers had a shock to-day when it was officially learned that the Prince of Wales will not be present at the ball of the Swedish Legation to-night in honor of Princess Ingrid of Sweden.

Rumors of a possible announcement of the two popular eligible Royal children seemed to have been given a definite quietus with the issuance of the guest list. It was said at the Swedish Legation the Prince of Wales had not even been invited, only Prince George, youngest son of the British Royal family, who regretted that he was unable to attend.

VERDICT RESERVED IN HARCOURT CASE

Crown Prosecutor Claims Values in Assay Sheets Were Not Consistent.

TORONTO, June 14. (C.P.)—Judgment in the trial of Harry E. Harcourt, former managing-director of the Jackson-Manion Mines, Limited, now facing a charge of publishing false statements in connection with the company's property, will be given June 29, Judge O'Connell announced at the continuance of the trial to-day.

Further attacks on the statements alleged to have been made by Harcourt, were made by Crown Prosecutor Peter White, K.C., to-day. "The assay sheets show values were not consistent," said Mr. White, after reading a report to the effect that the mine showed consistent values. "They were spotty and it is shown the nthat Harcourt distinctly recognized the value of consistency, and then that Harcourt distinctly recogtency," he said.

STEAMER STRIKES ROCK IN SAGUENAY RIVER

Master of Vessel Asks for Immediate Assistance—Engine Room Flooded

QUEBEC, Que., June 14 (C.P.)— The freighter Blairesk, 2,018 tons, owned by the Northern Navigation Company, of Glasgow, struck a rock in the Bay of Rocks, opposite White Island, near the mouth of the Saguenay River, this morning, and is in need of assistance with her engine room and other parts of the ship being flooded.

The steamer sailed from Port Talbot on May 31, with a cargo of coal for Montreal.

The master of the vessel wirelessed his agent in Montreal and also the Marine Department at Quebec, at six o'clock this morning, asking that assistance be sent to him immediately.

THREE MEN KILLED AT BROOKLYN DOCK

Workmen Are Busy Scraping Tanker When Explosion Occurs.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 14 (Canadian Press).—Three men were killed, two men were seriously injured and five others slightly hurt in an explosion in a Brooklyn Dry Dock today.

The cause of the blast was undetermined.

About 50 men were working in the bottom of the Robbins Dry Dock at the time of the explosion, scraping the starboard side of the tanker Gulf Penn.

It is believed a leak in one of the compressed air lines might have caused a pontoon to explode.

The Gulf Penn, formerly the Aguihavre, is an American tank steamer, used in the transportation of crude oil, and is owned by the Gulf Refining Co. here.

The tanker was reported not damaged.

AUTOMOBILE COLLIDES WITH LAKEFIELD TRAIN

Dr. H. G. Park Narrowly Escapes Bad Accident At Water Street Crossing.

A slight accident occurred this morning at the Water Street crossing of the Canadian National Railway, when a sedan owned by Dr. H. G. Park, of Bethune Street, collided with train number 471 coming from Lakefield.

Dr. Park did not see the train in time to stop the car and avoid the crash. However, no one was hurt to any extent. Dr. Park was slightly bruised over the right eye, while the others in the car were uninjured.

Charles White, fireman on the train, saw the car approaching, and warned Engineer C. Smith to stop, which was immediately done, but too late to avoid striking the car. The train was in charge of Conductor S. Halpin.

Mr. Park's car was damaged to the extent of a bent right fender and a dented right side.

FIRES UNDER CONTROL

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., June 14.— Reports received here at noon to-day indicated the forest fires near Stanley were under control, and that the fire-fighters had also succeeded in getting the upper hand of blazes at Whitefish Lake. At the latter point it was reported that no more men were needed and the fires were no longer dangerous.

DISTRICT JERSEY CATTLE CLUB MEETING AT FIELD LODGE FARM

Col. Bull, of Brampton, Extols Fred. Field's Enterprise.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

More Jersey Cattle Wanted, Frank Silcox, Club President, Says.

Col. Bartley Bull of Brampton, owner of the largest herd of Jersey cattle in the British Empire, speaking at Thursday's luncheon at Field Lodge Farm, Rice Lake, made a brief but emphatic acknowledgement of the example and influence which Fred Field has created and extended throughout eastern Ontario as a breeder of purebred Jerseys.

Other prominent guests were Frank H. Silcox of Iona, Elgin county, president of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club; W. Elmo Ashton of Waterloo, Que., eastern field man for the Club; Dr. J. J. Irwin, Mayor of Waterloo, Que., and himself a Jersey breeder; and others.

The occasion of this gathering at the many-acred Field estate on the south shore of Rice Lake, a few miles east of Harwood, was the annual field day of the Central Jersey Breeders' Club. It was a reunion of town and country friends, of rural and urban interests. More than five hundred men and women arrived during the afternoon, some of them from as far east as Belleville, among them George W. Jarrell of Canifton, and on the west some visitors came from the Bowmanville district.

A Lesson In Judging.

An instructive feature of the afternoon was an objective lesson on the features and lines of the ideal Jersey cow, illustrated by four models or types selected from the big herd of some eighty cattle. This talk by Mr. Ashton was followed by a similar one on the ideal mate of the family by Col. Bull discussing the bull that was the first one chosen a year ago for the national Forest Fires Destroy Wide Area

Bushman Found Dead

Investigation Is Being Conducted As To Result of Death.

VIOLENCE IS FEARED.

Numerous Fires Are Breaking Out All Over the Kenora District.

TORONTO, Ont., June 14. (C.P.) — Sweeping through the wooded district north of Kenora, forest fires have burned over a large area according to word received yesterday by the Department of Lands and Forests.

Rangers penetrating into the heart of the outbreak reported in township 107, they had found the badly burned body of a man. The body was later identified as that of Mike Grogan, a bushman. Marks on the body have led to an investigation to determine whether death resulted from violence. It was at first believed that the man had perished when his shack was swept by flames from the forest fire in the vicinity.

Fires are breaking out all over the Kenora district. Aided by the tinder like condition of the wind-blown trees a fierce outbreak is raging in the Calver Lake area which is south of the Hawk station of the C.P.R. Two other fires are raging on McPherson Island, Lake of the Woods, and an island in Shoal Lake. Two more fires have been brought under control south of Hunter Lake. Another fire at James Lake in the same district has been extinguished but two in the Quetico district are not yet under control. Only vague reports are coming but the fire fighters are said to be setting new records for work. The flyers are carrying men and equipment.

Hertzog Is In Lead In South Africa

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, June 14 (C.P. Cable).—The early lead of General Jan C. Smuts over the government forces was gradually cut down as returns rolled in yesterday from belated districts, and it appeared the general election would result in a small majority for Premier J. B. Hertzog and his supporters.

Yesterday's returns were from the country and with 131 seats out of 148 reported, the Nationalists held 64, the Creswell Laborites, Government supporters, 5; the South African Party, 59; and the National Council Laborites, 3.

RAILWAY POLICY IS UNDER FIRE

Ferguson Government Criticised For Not Extending the T. and N. O.

SINCLAIR GIVEN BANQUET.

HAILEYBURY, June 14.—(Canadian Press).—The Ferguson government's failure to extend the T. and N.O. 17 miles from Timmins into Kamiscotia Copper and gold fields was the subject of a vigorous attack here last night at the hands of W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., M.P. P., Liberal leader.

The opposition leader's criticism was launched at a banquet given in the Haileybury hotel by the Liberals of Haileybury, New Liskeard and Cobalt, about 100 men and women attended.

Mr. Sinclair declared that the railway extension for which Timmins now is agitating had now been held up a year, the government asking for a guarantee of $60,000 a year, before it would build.

"The people here," Mr. Sinclair said, "must look forward to some one else than Premier Ferguson if they are to develop Northern Ontario and if the districts now unsurveyed and unprospected are to come within the territory of the T. and N. O."

LIBERAL LEADER ISSUES WARNING TO LABORITES

Lloyd George Says Government Must Follow His Party's Principles.

POLICY IS AWAITED.

Predicts Swift End For MacDonald if Socialism is Adopted.

(By Thomas T. Champion—Staff Correspondent Canadian Press).

LONDON, June 14.—Defining his attitude toward the new Labor Ministry yesterday, Right Hon. David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, at a luncheon of the National Liberal Club yesterday, said:

"We shall await with interest the forthcoming declaration of Ministerial policy, but we must declare that, as far as it lies in our power, the mandate of the Government ends when it fails to pursue a Liberal policy. The very hour the Ministry decides to become a socialistic administration its career ends."

Maintains Grave Note.

Just before the luncheon Mr. Lloyd George was unanimously elected chairman and leader of the Parliamentary Liberal Party. Throughout his address he maintained a very grave note, and he had some bitterly sarcastic references to the defection of Sir W. A. Jowitt, who left the Liberal Party to become Attorney-General in the Labor Government The Liberal chieftain opened his remarks with a reference to the many victories gained by Liberal members against great odds in the recent general election.

Claims Final Word

"The result of the election," he said, "has elevated our party to a position of responsibility for national affairs second only to that of the Government of the day. During the lifetime of the present parliament, the final word in all controversial issues between the other two parties will rest with us. We must not use the power given us by the electors in a paltry, fractious or pernickety spirit. We must interpret our responsibility in a large and generous way: that is, in the truly Liberal sense.

"This Government has been called into being not by the verdict of the nation nor by the decision of Parliament, but on the advice of the leaders of the Tory Party. It has been brought into being by Baldwin's mid-wifery. The nation has declared by a majority of 1,500,000 it has no use for socialism or the Social Party.

Charges Conspiracy

"The trouble is that this majority is made up almost entirely of Liberal votes, and both the Tories and the Socialists are in a conspiracy to ignore the Liberals. Mr. MacDonald thanks the nation for the confidence placed in him, and even the Tory press assumes that the national ver-

ARSON CHARGE IS DISMISSED AGAINST MOORE

After Fifty-five Minutes of Deliberation Warsaw Man Found Not Guilty.

GRAND JURY REPORTS.

Accommodation Is Found To Be Greatly Overcrowded at Nicholls Hospital.

After hearing two eloquent and comprehensive addresses by the defence lawyer, J. A. O'Brien, and by Acting Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., the jury retired at 3.45 p.m. and returned fifty-five minutes with their verdict of "not guilty" in the case of King versus John S. Moore, of Warsaw, on an arson charge at the Court House yesterday afternoon before His Honor Judge Huycke.

The action brought by Timothy A. Coughlin, of Hastings, against Mrs. Elibabeth Callaghan, of Percy Township, for slander was settled, by Mrs. Callaghan consenting to judgment against her for $1 and the costs of the court.

The Grand Jury, after a tour of inspection of the public institutions, reported that all the buildings were in good order and being run efficiently and well. They found that accomodation at the Nicholls Hospital was good, but that the building was overcrowded. They recommended that bathing facilities be installed in the county jail. This has been recommended for several years past.

Both lawyers in their addresses pointed out that all the evidence indicated that the two fires at the Moore home had been set by some person. V. J. McElderry declared that the defence had been inclined to throw the suspicion on Ronald McCauley, but no witnesses had been brought to even substantiate in the slightest such suspicions.

In his address Judge Huycke stated that all the evidence had been very inconsistent, and that the jury must be careful in weighing it.

The jury consisted of Charles McNulty, John A. Cameron, Harry Robinson, Wm. C. McBride, Howard Shell, Robert Allan, Thomas Lucas, James A. Wilson, Norman Lang, John Higgins, John E. Boland and Stanley White.

Woman Protests.

There was laughter from all sides in the usually sombre court room, when Mrs. Elizabeth Callaghan, of Percy Township, shouted: "If it says

News in Brief

(By Canadian Press)

GIRLS FOUND IN SUDBURY

ORILLIA, June 14.—Missing for several days from their homes here, Helen Boyd and Margaret Aldous, the two 13-year-old girls who were thought to have been abducted, were picked up yesterday at Sudbury.

Reports from the Sudbury police shattered the rumor that a youthful romance had inspired the trip and that the girls were in Toronto.

The two girls are being held in Sudbury until parents arrive from here.

AGNEW IS EXONERATED

WINNIPEG, Man., June 14.—A jury's verdict late yesterday afternoon exonerated Cyril Agnew, 45, of the charge of murder against him in connection with the death of Mrs. Elizabeth McLean, whose dead body was found in Agnew's office here last March 3. After deliberating for only 30 minutes the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty."

SOVIET INVADES CHINESE TERRITORY

LONDON, June 14.—The Express to-day prints a dispatch from Peking, China, saying that Soviet Russia has launched the first direct war move against China, following the recent raids on Soviet Consulates in Manchuria. Soviet troops are reported to have crossed the Siberian border and to have established outposts east of Manchuli.

The Soviets were said to be rushing reinforcements in special trains over the trans-Siberian railway.

APPOINTED CHIEF CONSTABLE

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 14.—Sergeant John Dart, for 22 years a member of the local force, was chosen police chief yesterday from a list of 54 applicants all but two of whom were from outside points.

I.O.O.F. HAS 145,000 MEMBERS

TORONTO, June 14.—Detailed reports submitted to the Supreme Court of the Independent Order of Foresters yesterday revealed that the order now has a total membership of 145,000 and the death rate of the order is decreasing. Satisfaction was expressed with the charitable establishments maintained by the order. Sessions will probably conclude to-morrow.

TORY PARTY RANKS SPLIT OVER LANARK NOMINATION

Smiths Falls Supporters Tell Bennett Cannot Support Official Candidate.

CLAIM DICE WERE LOADED.

Dr. W. S. Murphy May Run As Independent Candidate in By-election.

SMITHS FALLS, Ont., June 14.—(Canadian Press).—A repercussion of the recent Conservative nomination convention held at Carlton Place developed here last night in the adoption of a resolution by the local branch of the Liberal-Conservative Association, which in effect declares the inability of the organization to support the candidature of T. A. Thompson, M.L.A. The latter was nominated at the Carleton Place convention to contest the Federal by-election in Lanark, necessitated by the death of Dr. R. F. Preston. The by-election will be held next month.

Heated altercation developed at the nomination convention when delegates from Smiths Falls protested that Carleton Place and Perth had been accorded voting strength out of proportion to that given Smiths Falls. When their protests went unheeded, the local delegates and their nominees, Dr. W. S. Murphy withdrew from the convention.

Resolution Sent Bennett.

The resolution which has been sent to Hon R. B. Bennett, leader of the Conservative party, read in part as follows:

"The town of Smiths Falls has for many elections been a loyal supporter of the Conservative cause, and will continue a supporter of the respective leader of the Opposition under fair and proper conditions, but from all angles Smiths Falls to have a representative, having many times in the past given way to preserve peace and co-ordination under the 'influ-

DAVID J. BYERS IS 93 TO-DAY

Early Pioneer Days Are Recalled By Aged City Resident.

BORN IN CAVAN TOWNSHIP.

David John Byers is 93 years today, the thirteenth of June and in spite of the unlucky number of the day is in good health.

Mr. Byers was born on the Fourth line of Cavan, and farmed until twelve years ago when he came to reside in Peterborough.

Mr. Byer's father was a pioneer of this country and often told his children of the road to Port Hope that was at that time merely a blazed trail. He was of old Irish stock and a coincidence was that he moved from Cavan County Ireland to Cavan Township Peterborough.

Mr. Byers received his education at first in a little log cabin at the roadside in Bloomfield, now known as Ballieboro.

Mr. Byers remained at school until he was eighteen. He then went to learn wagon making where he remained for about a year. After that he returned to his father's farm and remained on a farm until his removal to Peterborough.

Horses were little used in Mr. Byer's boyhood days. Oxen were the

Stowaway On Board Huge French Monoplane

PORTLAND, Maine, June 14 (C.P.).—Arthur Schreiber, 22, last night was believed to be a stowaway aboard the "Yellow Bird," as it winged its way to France.

A letter written to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Schreiber, have convinced them that he stowed away before the huge monoplane raced down the sands on the take-off.

"God will save my boy," Mrs. Schreiber said, as she walked the floor of her home awaiting some word from the plane.

The letter was given to the Schreibers by a chum of young Schreiber. It read in part: "Do not worry for me. I am doing this thing of my own accord. I know that if I succeed I can do much for your happiness.

APSLEY PLANS BIG FIELD DAY

Several Sport Contests Have Already Been Arranged By Those in Charge.

TO AID HOSPITAL.

APSLEY, June 14.—(Examiner Correspondence)—Arrangements have now been completed for the annual field day and picnic in aid of the Apsley Red Cross Hospital, which will be held on the fair grounds on Wednesday, June 19th. Dinner and supper will be served on the grounds and a good program of sports and races has been arranged for the afternoon, including a soft ball game ,horse shoe pitching contest, bicycle race and tug of war etc. All Saints Dramatic Club has very kindly consented to present their play "The Old Oaken Bucket" in the evening at the Parish Hall and given fine weather, a big crowd should be on hand to give their support to the Outpost Hospital, which has proved a great boon to this district.

Vernal Earnshaw, a lad of sixteen met with a severe and painful accident this week in the woods when he cut the calf of his leg with an axe. Dr. Shepherd was away and the injury was dressed by Miss Taylor, the Red Cross nurse. The lad will be laid up for some time as a result of the accident.

Patient at Hospital

Mrs. Grant has been a patient at the hospital three weeks as a result of a fall and the extent of her injury has not yet been ascertained. She is 82 years of age and could not stand the trip to Peterborough, for needed x-ray examination.

SESSION IS NEARING END

Prorogation of House of Commons is Expected Sometime This Afternoon.

80 RESOLUTIONS LEFT.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 14.—(By the Canadian Press.)— When the House of Commons adjourned at midnight there were about eighty resolutions still awaiting consideration, these embracing votes for several departments. From th is it was felt that prorogation of parliament, which had hopefully been anticipated for this forenoon, would be postponed until some time this afternoon. Not much progress was made with the estimates yesterday, although the House sat until midnight. A suggestion by the Prime Minister that the House might continue until business was further cleared up did not encounter unanimous approval, and adjournment was therefore made.

The agriculture estimates dragged on throughout the evening session, and at one period considerable argument developed over the non-payment of a sum of $146 to a former car inspector at Kamloops, B.C. At the suggestion of the Prime Minister the vote upon which the argument was based was allowed to pass until the chief parties to the dispute, Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, and J. A. Fraser (Cons. Cariboo) could get together and settle the matter.

Two votes granting pensions, one to the widow of Chief Justice Taschereau and the other to the widow of Major Graham A. Bell, were withdrawn.

TWO KILLED IN FACTORY.

TORONTO, Ont., June 14. — Two men, Ernest Stinson, 38, and Frank R. McCarthy, 21, were killed last night in a rubber factory here when they were crushed between a stone wall and a huge steel door, hurled open by pressure of 4,000 pounds of steam. Their skuulls were fractured and their bodies terribly crushed.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, June 14.—Reports that the United States Congress had passed the Farm Relief Bill and that it was likely to pass the Senate this time, started wheat prices upward here yesterday, the market at one period showing a gain of 2½ cents over Wednesday's close. Offerings increased on the bulge and part of the advance was lost, closing quotations showing net gains of 1 1-8 cents to 7-8 cents.

Scattered rains in the West and dry weather where the rains are most needed had a bullish effect on the market. Very little export business was completed.

Cash wheat values remained unchanged in a dull market due to light offerings. A fair amount of business was done in oats, barley and rye, but flax was dull.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 14. — Shattering of debenture plans went hand in hand yesterday with higher prices for grain. Wheat and corn each rose about 3c a bushel and then reacted because of an outburst of selling to realize profits.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 3-4c to 1 1-4c above Wednesday's finish. Corn closed at 1-8c to 1 1-2c net advance, with oats unchanged to 3-4c up and provisions unchanged to a rise of 22c.

The wheat market showed an evident upward trend the greater part of the day but outdid early gains by jumping 1 1-2c a bushel more after word came that the knockdown and dragout of debentures apparently had been accomplished so far at least as the Farm Relief Bill was concerned. The final bulge in prices, however, led to much increased selling mainly to collect profits. As a result the day's top prices failed to hold, the market losing a good share of the gains which had been scored.

Contributing to action in favor of wheat price upturns here yesterday were Liverpool quotations higher than expected, together with advices of urgent need of rain in parts of Canada and of continued deficiency of moisture in Argentina. An opposing influence was talk that all the wheat anybody wanted could be bought free on board in Galveston at 1-2c over the price of Chicago July delivery.

Corn was all but swamped by heavy profit taking sales in the late trade. Earlier, the market showed itself decidedly responsive to wheat strength and to news of welcome rains. Oats reflected the action of other cereals.

Provisions advanced owing to upturns in hog values, as well as grain.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

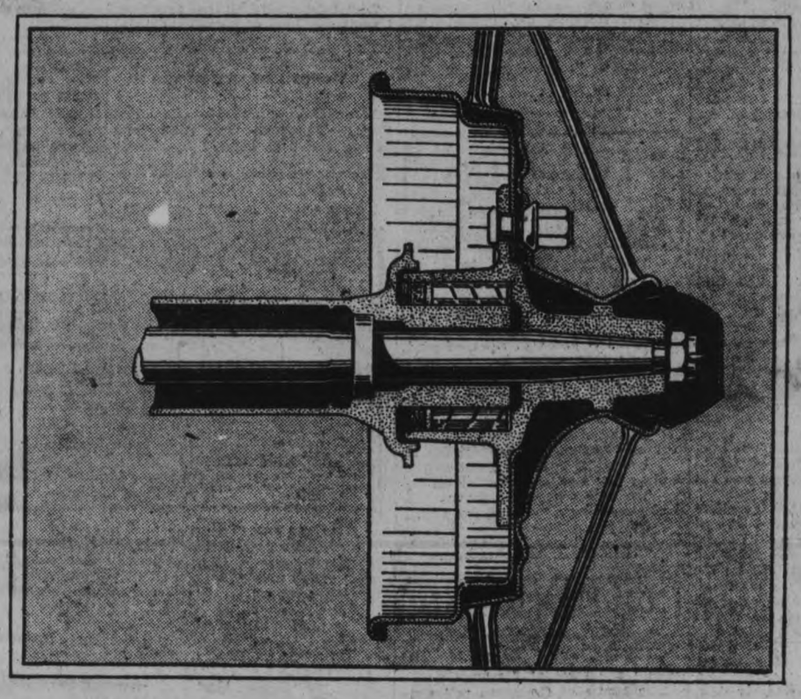
TORONTO, June 14. — Butter prices on the local wholesale produce market remained firm yesterday and conditions were about the same as have been in evidence for the past few days. Production continued to be fairly heavy with the recent cool weather taken into consideration, and receipts were fully sufficient to meet all requirements, there being no difficulty met in moving all supplies with the minimum of delay. No. 1 finest creamery maintained its Wednesday's advance and was quoted at 36 3-4c per pound, and with the No. 2 grade keeping pace at 35 3-4c per pound.

Lack of storage demand and continued high production for this time of the year kept the local wholesale egg market at the same quiet level as has been evidenced for the past few days, with a great number of buyers evidently having filled all requirements for the present. Cool weather held the receipts at a fairly heavy level and prices were just steady at recent rates, and quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs delivered and cases returned are as follows: Fresh extras, 27c per dozen; fresh firsts 25c per dozen; fresh seconds, 22c per dozen.

Trading on the local wholesale cheese market retained its firmness, due to a great extent to the increased export demand and dealers were quoting 19 1-2c to 19 3-4c per pound for the No. 1 large colored, paraffined and government graded class.

During 1928, 420 merchant ships, with a total tonnage of 1,445,920, were launched in Great Britain and Ireland.

THE FORD CAR REAR AXLE



Expense no object in Achieving Perfection

THE rear axle of the Ford car is of the three-quarter floating type with spiral bevel gear. The pinion hub is exceptionally heavy, and, as the pinion is carried on double taper roller bearings, perfect alignment of the gear is always assured. The rear axle has a total of four roller bearings which add considerably to the cost of manufacture but are a protection for the owner against wear.

Special care is taken to insure silence in the pinion and ring gears. These are made up in sets and carefully matched, each set being run in to eliminate all possibility of noise in operation.

The differential side gears are forged integral on the rear axle shafts and the teeth then cut. This permits of lighter and more simple construction. The shafts are unusually strong, and, as the centre line of the wheel comes over the bearings, there is no overhang of the axle shaft, and it has no weight to support.

The use of malleable castings is eliminated in this new axle housing which is made entirely of steel. Bell forgings welded to steel tubing make up the shaft housing which is bolted to an all steel differential housing. The care and skill devoted to the manufacture and assembly of rear axle parts is typical of the high standards of Ford engineering.

WEDDING BELLS

BURBACHER—STEVENSON

HASTINGS, June 1 (Examiner Correspondence). — A pretty house wedding took place June 5, at 5 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Stevenson, when their only daughter, Gladys Viola Mae was united in marriage to Albert Burbacher, of Kitchener, Ont.

The bride, who entered the drawing room on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March played by her cousin, Miss Georgina Beavis of Norwood, looked charming in a gown of French deja silk lace over canton crepe in blonde shade, trimmed with rose beige and fern. Miss Evelyn Beavis of Hastings was bridesmaid and wore a pretty dress of crepe romain in blue heaven shade and carried a darker shade of Ophelia roses and fern.

Rev. A. C. Hie of Trinity United Church performed the ceremony under an arch of evergreen, white lilacs and white bells.

The bridegroom was ably supported by his brother, Mr. Norman Burbacher of Kitchener.

During the signing of the register W. W. Knight, accompanied by Mrs. James A. Knight sang, "I Love You Truly," after which a sumptuous repast was served by a number of girl friends of the bride, namely Misses Hazel McDonald, Muriel Cruikshanks, Dorothy Johnston, Ruby Cruikshanks, Jean McKee, Winnie Huycke, and Evelyn Stewart.

The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a chest of silver, composed of seventy pieces; to the bridesmaid, a French silver mesh bag; to the pianist, a fountain pen and pencil to match, and binoculars to the best man.

The happy couple left amid showers of confetti and best wishes for a honeymoon in the Maritime Provinces, the bride travelling in a costume of canton crepe in monet blue with blonde trimmings, French coat to match, blonde silk mohair hat appliqued in lace, French shoes, hose and hangbag to match. On their return they will take up residence in Kitchener, Ont.

GARVEY—McGURTY.

HASTINGS, June 14.—(Examiner Correspondence.)— The marriage of Miss Mary McGurty, daughter of Mrs. Mary and the late Patrick McGurty, Hastings, Ont., and James Francis Garvey, of Peterborough, was solemnized in the church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, which was most beautiful in a setting of lilacs and spirea, on Tuesday morning, by Rev. Father Garvey, of Lakefield, cousin of the groom, assisted by Rev. Father McGuire, of Hastings.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Kathleen Gallagher. The bride looked lovely in a gown of rose crepe in two piece effect, trimmed with Venetian lace, with lace ensemble. She wore a black hat and black satin shoes. She carried a bouquet of roses and spirea and wore a rope of pearls, gift of the groom.

Miss Mary Hannick, of Hastings, cousin of the bride, looked pretty in a honey-dew shade of silk and wore a black hat and black satin shoes and carried a bouquet of pink roses and spirea.

Mr. Lambert Collins of Peterborough, nephew of the groom, was best man. During the signing of the register, Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played. A reception was held at the home of the bride. Rev. Father Garvey and Rev. Father McGuire were among the guests, after which the happy couple motored to Cobourg, where they took the boat to Rochester, N.Y. The bride travelled in an ensemble in blue and gold shades with shoes and hat to match. On their return they will reside at Mark street, Peterborough.

District Churches

ROSENEATH UNITED.

ROSENEATH, June 14 (Examiner Correspondence). — A large congregation attended service on Sunday evening when Rev. M. R. Brown delivered to his people an excellent address on The United Church of Canada, saying: It is not a denominational church, but a unity church. In that great day God will not ask us "What sort of a church have you lived in?" but "What sort of a church have you longed for?" Yea, our church seems to fail as Christ seemed to fail as He hung between sky and earth, but this spirit wins at last. It was at the cross where love began, and we cannot have a cross in our soul and a sword in our mouths and hands. And that is exactly the whole gospel for this church, and we must save souls.

"O God, help us to drive out smallness, touchiness, grudge-bearing. These will form a cloud over our head and hide the face of God. I wonder what I can do to help. God help my soul to overlook local difficulties and see the vision splendid. The vsion of one redeeming cross one redeeming book, one redeeming life, one rainbow in our sky, one star to guide us—then all the people will rise up and call us blessed. God help us to do our duty and become more humble."

THE SASKATCHEWAN SITUATION.

The coalition of the Conservative, Progressive and Independent parties in Saskatchewan and the selection of Dr. Anderson, the Conservative leader, as chieftain of the new alignment, surely points the way to Premier Gardiner if he should follow.

To remain in office until the Legislature meets in the face of that situation and of the very evident fact that the majority of the electors of the Province are dissatisfied with his administration, is the Premier's privilege if he wants to claim it, but the general verdict would be that he would be decidedly unwise to do so.

The decent, the sporting, the sensible course has been exemplified by ex-Premier Baldwin in Great Britain, who as soon as he was satisfied that the verdict was unfavorable to his Government, immediately resigned and gave Ramsay MacDonald a free field to form a new administration.

The coalition in Saskatchewan gives the three united parties a clear majority of seats in the Legislature.

Under those circumstances Premier Gardiner should lose no time in following the Baldwin example.

THE SLOW DRIVER.

A correspondent of the Voice of the People column yesterday objected to The Examiner's editorial in regard to the danger that is created by dawdling motorists on provincial highways.

These highways are the common property of all, and theoretically therefore a motorist should be able to drive at whatever speed suits him so long as it conforms with the traffic rules.

It doesn't work out that way, however.

Here we have excellent highways and cars that can be driven at twice the legal speed limit if necessary.

Under such conditions the vast majority of drivers, and this includes careful motorists as well as the "fools" our correspondent mentions, naturally want to drive at close to the legal speed, and there is no reason inconsistent with safety why they shouldn't drive at that speed.

The loafing car on the highway does not fit into the picture.

It ties up a long line of traffic or necessitates constant cutting-in by traffic coming from behind.

In short, the slow driver is a source of danger, almost as great as the other fellow who steps too often and too heavily on the gas.

A VALUABLE INDUSTRY.

The good-will message of Premier Ferguson, reaching millions of United States listeners-in over an American hook-up of stations, was timely in that it was delivered just when neighbors to the south are deciding where their vacation is to be spent.

The tourist industry deserves the attention of all Canadians, for it is fast becoming one of this country's greatest sources of wealth.

Recent statistics from Ottawa show that visitors to Canada left $250,500,000 in this country last year, and that the Province of Ontario alone benefitted to the extent of over $95,000,000.

The circulation of so much money in Canada each summer is of the greatest advantage to the people of the Dominion.

Everybody, directly or indirectly, shares in the benefits created by expenditure on such a scale which means more business for the merchants, hotels, service stations and other firms, more orders for manufacturers, more jobs for Canadian workers and more prosperity for one and all.

The tourist trade is valuable and helpful, adding on the one hand to the general wealth of the Dominion and contributing on the other to a better understanding between the peoples of both countries.

AN IMPORTANT COMMISSION.

The fact that P. D. Ross, well-known head of the Ottawa Journal newspapers and one of Canada's outstanding citizens, is to be chairman of the Royal Commission to be appointed by the Ontario Government to make an exhaustive inquiry into welfare problems in Ontario, will at once create interest and confidence in the investigation.

The commission is to be given a free hand to conduct a widespread probe into the whole question of welfare institutions, taking a survey of the provincial mental institutions, the public hospitals and the various juvenile welfare organizations.

Their work will go further than that, however, for one most important problem that is to be earnestly studied is that of how the below-par mental cases, particularly among children, can be most effectively and efficiently dealt with.

The body headed by Mr. Ross will, in addition, consider the question of the training of nurses for occupational therapy, and the whole general question of the relation of the nursing profession to the various hospitals and institutions.

In these and other matters of welfare research there is a rich field for investigation, and out of it should emerge constructive recommendations that will be of decided benefit to the people of this Province.

A PUBLIC SCHOOL STANDARD.

One of the principal authorities upon elementary education in the United States, Superintendent O'Shea, of the New York City schools, recently set down his conclusions in the matter of the knowledge which pupils of the public schools of a great city should possess when they leave such institutions. Here are the requirements which he sets forth:

"Ability to speak the English language with reasonable clearness, accuracy, variety of expression and correctness of structure.

"Ability to write . . . . in legible writing, correct form and correct structure of sentences and paragraphs.

"Ability to use the important principles of English grammar as an aid in correct oral and written expression.

"Ability to spell accurately the words most commonly needed for expression of thought in writing.

"Ability to perform accurately and with reasonable rapidity the fundamental arithmetical operations. . . .

"An undertaking and appreciation of the best prose and poetry included in the syllabus. . . .

"Knowledge of the most important facts of the history and progress of the United States and of the functions of the city, state and national governments. . . .

"Knowledge of the basic facts of geography and of the great geographical forces which influence the life of man.

"Knowledge of the basic facts of physiology and hygiene and of the simple rules for healthful living."

Generally speaking, these requirements are matched by the requirements in the Ontario public schools, with the exception that, in the opinion of many, insufficient attention is given to a grounding of the pupils in the functions of federal, provincial and municipal government. If the standard set by Mr. O'Shea is adhered to by those leaving the public schools, not much fault will be found with their administration. But it is worth noticing, remarking the prominence given to the three R's in his standard, how many of those who do complete their elementary education in this Province lack the ability to read, write and spell in the correct manner. If any person is disposed to doubt this statement, let him enter this office on any day of the week and endeavor to interpret some of the communications which are received, with a view to publication.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE PRESS.

One of the greatest factors brought forward at the International Editors' Conference held at Gananoque on Monday was the great responsibility which lies on the press in the moulding of a public opinion which will stimulate greater friendship between the British Empire and the United States. Speaker after speaker dwelt on that point, and the keynote speech, delivered by Franklin Little, editor of the Republican Journal of Ogdensberg, New York, summarized the sentiments of all.

This speech was a remarkable utterance coming from a Republican editor, for he strongly deplored the new tariff measures of the Hoover administration, and the naval building policies of the Coolidge Government. He saw in these the germs of misunderstanding and mistrust between the two great English-speaking peoples, and appealed to his fellow editors on both sides of the line to counteract the effects of the news of these phases of international dealings by interpreting them in their true light through the editorial columns of their newspapers.

This raised an interesting point, the point of the treatment of these matters as news. Mr. Little admitted that from the news standpoint, they found sensational news, and were worthy of being stressed with big headlines on the front pages of newspapers. But this very fact, he said, made it imperative that the editorial utterances of the newspapers should tend to prevent the bad psychological condition that might be created by these news stories.

It is true that the press does wield a tremendous influence in promoting or hindering closer friendship between the two countries. There has been a strong outcry all over Canada in recent weeks against the new United States tariffs, and this has tended to create bad feeling between the countries. That bad feeling can only be dispelled by a sane and orderly discussion of the real meaning of these factors of the dealings between the two countries, so that in spite of the apparent discrimination against Canada, there will be no marring of the friendly relations which should exist between the nations.

The International Editors' Conference did much good. In the first place, it showed the Canadian editors the beauties of a wonderful picture of Canadian landscape and sent them home as enthusiasts for seeing Canada first. But, what is far more important, it brought together the editors of the two neighboring countries for a frank discussion of international problems, for consideration of how they could best disseminate any tendency towards antagonism between the two countries.

From this frank, heart-to-heart talk, there arose an apparent resolve on the part of the leaders of public opinion, through the press, to strain every effort to avoid anything which might rupture the peaceful relations of more than one hundred years standing between the British Empire and the United States. And it must be admitted that, with acknowledged power of the press, much can be accomplished in this way. If for no other reason, the conference was an occasion of first importance, and was an experiment, which, largely through the wonderful hospitality of Mayor Wilson and the people of Gananoque, was so successful as to be well worth repeating.—Oshawa Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Just when the League of Nations is beginning to demonstrate its possibilities, the peace of the world is threatened by a verbal battle between the mayors of Toronto and Kingston.

Horoscope

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Saturday, June 15, 2919.

(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syn.)

Astrologers read this as rather an unlucky day in planetary direction and recommend rest and recreation.

It is not an auspicious sway for any form of literary work or for discussing educational plans for the future.

Under this rule of the stars the mind may be inclined to vague thinking and lack of concentration.

There is rather a warning sign for making new acquaintances of opposite sex. Those who begin vacations should beware of flirtation.

Both the air and water seem to be more dangerous for travel than they are under other configurations. It is well to use motors and railways for week-end trips.

The evening should be lucky for persons who are at once regarding their bank accounts and seems to promise pleasant associations.

All through the summer an added desire for amusement will be apparent, it is prognosticated, and for this reason theatres will prosper even through warm weather.

Return to popularity for books of every sort, which has been apparent for some time now, will be strongly emphasized, the seers declare. Writers and publishers will benefit.

Newspapers and magazines are now subject to aspects making for startling revelations regarding graft, crime and corruption in the United States.

Mars and Neptune are in aspects supposed to encourage secret diplomacy abroad and the sway may affect individuals so that deceit may seem more prevalent than usual.

Revelations regarding armaments and possible warfare in Europe are foretold by astrologers who prophesy for Washington a period of extraordinary responsibility in government matters.

Women should find this an auspicious day for wearing charming costumes and for gaining admiration that is jutified.

Persons whose birthdate it is, may have rather an unsettled year, for the stars augur reverses as well as success. Danger of being deceived is apprehended.

Children born on this day may be emotional and sensitive. They probably will have a deep interest in their fellow men, especially where this contributes to their chosen art or vocation.

Rembrandt, famous Dutch painter, was born on this date.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE RUN FROM DANGER.

Self preservation is the first law of nature. It is not the only law. There are times when we do not seek to preserve ourselves. On the contrary we sacrifice ourselves and our interests. Suicide is not uncommon.

Under ordinary conditions, however, the law of self preservation prompts us to run away from danger in order to live, to survive and possibly run into more danger. We are told that "He who fights and runs away lives to fight another day."

Again, even when survival is the motive we do not always run away from danger. Sometimes we remove the source of danger and the threat itself by attacking it. There are, then two ways of meeting an adverse situation. One is to attack; the other to run away.

Sometimes we attack; sometimes we run away; sometimes we deliberatly stay and get hurt or killed for the sake of protecting others; sometimes we are too frightened either to run or attack.

We attack when anger is aroused and we think we are superior to the enemy or when fear is not as strong as anger. For it is possible to attack a stronger foe than yourself provided your anger emotions are stronger than your fear emotions and you get more satisfaction in being licked than in running like a coward.

This will also explain why some people are braver than others. Timid people run from minor dangers that they could easily overcome. They have the physical strength but not the mental courage and the emotional stability. The fighting instinct and the emotion of anger go together; the flight instinct and the emotion of fear go together.

But the two sets of instinct, emotion combinations cannot very well go together for the simple reason that no man can successfully stay and fight and at the same time run away. Of course you can run and fight. But that is mere strategy. You are really fighting. The fighting instinct and the flight instinct are antagonistic, so are the emotions of anger and fear.

The other possibility is being so terror struck that you can't move. Ordinarily this occurs only in extreme cases when there is no chance of really getting away. Small children and adults in the face of grave danger are affected that way as a means of an easy death. The paralysis occasioned by excessive fear produces a numbness that mercifully causes oblivion to the shock of approaching death.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR:

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald, tries to get an interview with Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It has been burned by a fire in the marsh until it is entirely unrecognizable except for the fact that it is a woman. Dr. Cavanaugh is called in to help with the identification.

He has only a small piece of scalp from the body to work on. Don Ellsworth refuses to give him a hair of Sheila O'Shays, but he secures one unknown and after examination tells Peter Piper that the body found in the marsh is that of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara, in whom Peter has become interested, faints when she hears this. Peter who is already half in love with her, is torn between his feeling and his suspicion that she knows something about the murder.

CHAPTER 19.

"Suspect Held in Tule Murder."

The "banner line" in heavy black type that streamed across eight columns at the top of the first page caught Peter's eye as the copy boy flung the city edition across his typewriter.

Something in the pit of his stomach seemed to perform a sickening flip-flop the same feeling which always seized him when a rapidly rising elevator jerked to a stop. The reaction was instantaneous and unreasonable. It could not possibly be—

He snatched the paper from the desk and sank slowly into his chair, his eyes leaping from line to line of the brief story which announced that Mrs. Nellie Kane, former dresser and maid of Mrs. Don Ellsworth (Sheila O'Shay) was lodged in the city jail.

"No charges have been placed against the woman, according to Captain of Inspectors L. B. Davis, but it is alleged that she is suspected of holding important information which she has declined to divulge and which, in the opinion of the police may have a bearing on the case."

"Thank God!" breathed Peter. And added: "Idiot!"

He was ashamed of his own relief—a relief which left him light hearted to the pitch of giddiness. Had he lost all sense of proportion, of probability? He decided, ruefully, that he evidently had. But his absurd buoyancy, as if a heavy rock had come hurtling down in the direction of his head and had then miraculously missed him, persisted.

"Because she's old and poor and probably dowdy, they call her 'the woman' ", he mused with a sardonic smile. "If she'd been young and belonged in the fur coat class, she'd have been 'Mrs. Kane' throughout. Lord, what snobs these mortals be!"

"Mrs. Ellsworth, whose disappearance on the eighteenth of last month—" There followed a resume of the case, which Peter scanned anxiously. The name of Barbara Cavanaugh was not mentioned.

"Of course it wouldn't be—it couldn't be, without me," he reminded himself. "I'm going positively cuckoo. I ought to be psyched. And by jimmy, the old bird pretty nearly did it, just by the way he looked at me." Thus disrespectfully did Peter refer to one of the foremost psychiatrists of the United States.

"Piper!" The voice of the city editor blared, like the blast of a trumpet considerably off key.

At the sound, Peter was his alert, nonchlaant, lounging self again.

"Present or accounted for," he grinned, as he strolled over to the city desk.

"I want you to get an interview with this Kane woman. Get her picture if you can. You can take a camera man with you, but you'd better leave him outside. Davis may balk, but see what you can do with her. They've nothing on her. I understand, but they ran her in last night. Probably thought jail would scare her into coming through. Anyway, stick around and see what you can pick up."

Peter ran his long fingers through the hair which promptly sprang up again from its center part in an incorrigible cowlick.

"Cheerio!" he said gaily. "In other words, you betcha."

The city editor had already seized the desk telephone and jerked it towards him, but he turned to survey Peter.

"Don't play hopscotch on the way," he admonished. "The cops might get you."

But Peter was already on his way to the locker room for his hat, whistling dolefully.

"Temperamental kid!" Jimmie growled. "Low as the seventh circle yesterday, and now he's ready to kick the moon. Talk about prima donnas! But a damn good newspaper man, at that. Lord, the better they are, the worst they are. Andy!" he bawled, after this brief period of reflection. "Get busy on that annulment case. Nine o'clock in Judge Wood's court. And get a picture of the mother and baby."

The tumult of the local room was in full swing as Peter banged the door behind him.

"Whatever Mrs. Kane knew had nothing to do with Barbara. If the old lady really knew something—Get it? You bet he'd get it! If that dame knew something that would let Barbara out—Peter's enthusiasm for Mrs. Kane would have astonished that somewhat unprepossessing person beyond measure if she had been aware of it. It mounted so rapidly that by the time he reached the steps of the city hall, he was almost running, leaving the camera man, dragging his black box and tripod, to pant along behind him.

Captian Davis, however, was unresponsive to Peter's carefully veiled eagerness.

"Nothing doing," he said decisively, as Peter leaned over the edge of his roll-top desk. "Wait till she's charged—if she ever is."

"Maybe if I talked to her, she'd let something slip," Peter suggested.

"No chance," Davis reiterated. "Our men have been talking to her all night. She's about as likely to slip as the rock of Gibraltar."

"Do you mind telling me—not for publication—what you've got?"

"I don't mind telling you that we've got nothing at all. But that's not saying that there's nothing to get. She knows more than she's telling, that's certain; and we've got to sweat it out of her. So far," the Captain of Inspectors smiled grimly, "our men have been doing most of the sweating. I guess you'll just have to wait. Peter, Cavanaugh's going to have a try at her this morning. I don't think much of these new fangled psychological methods myself. But there's no denying the old bird has a way with him. Camberwell got him in on the case in the first place, and persuaded him to follow it through. They're two cranks together, and thick as thieves. But I should worry, if they deliver the goods."

Captain Davis was well accustomed to the persistence of reporters; moreover, though he had learned to hold firm against that persistence, he was not averse to a little chat with Peter. Somewhat to his surprise, however, Peter hunched himself upright and showed no inclination to linger in the captain's office; nor was there any sign of disappointment visible on his mobile countenance.

"Well, see you later," he remarked with a fine casualness, as he drifted out into the hallway.

He did not, however, leave the city hall. Instead, he leaned against one of the pillars at the side of the entrance door, looking very much like a young man with nothing to do and all day for the doing of it. Yet Peter had a strong hunch that he had never earned his pay envelope more assuredly than by the wasting of that hour.

At last his vigil was rewarded, after a period in which an elevator man, a uniformed policeman from the traffic bureau, and two reporters from the press room had variously commented on his low, breathy, and monotonous minor whistle as something to be taken to the morgue, to be the equivalent of an injured cat and a banshee, and to be deserving of ninety days in the "cooler."

That whistle lapsed abruptly into silence as a tall figure mounted the steps before him.

"Good morning, Dr. Cavanaugh," Peter extended his hand with the engaging smile of a small boy hoping for a peppermint. "I hope you remember me?"

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

THE FLAG.

There are a thousand flags—may ours
Fly prouder than them all,
Proud not of dark, defiant tow'rs,
Or deep, embrasured wall,
But proud of peace, of right, of good,
A prophecy unfurled,
A promise of the brotherhood
That yet shall rule the world.

There are a thousand flags—may ours
God's radiance possess,
Not red with blood but red with flow'rs,
And white with righteousness;
And may its blue be heaven's blue,
The blue that bends above
A thousand lands, not one, not two,
In universal love.

"I want a tube of Septoblah toothpaste"

"Yes, sir, and what else, sir? Shaving soap, razor blades, hair tonic, bath salts, thermos bottle, shaving lotion, dental floss, nail polish, water wings, corn—"

"Nothing else. Just a tube of Septoblah tooth-paste."

"—corn plasters, milk of magnesia, bath soap, electric toaster, flashlight, talcum powder, insect exterminator—"

"A tube of Septoblah toothpaste."

"Yes, sir, and what else, sir?"

"Just a tube of what you are wrapping there? I only want one tube."

"This is our daily Extraordinary Special Offer, sir: Three tubes of Septoblah tooth-paste, our Jumbo Delight Self Ventilating Coffee Percolator and a jar of orange marmalade—all for eighty-nine cents."

"But I don't want all that furniture. I want one tube of Septoblah tooth-paste—just one tube."

"Certainly, sir, and what else, sir?

To a Lad in the Apartment Above

You're a pesky jigger—
Sonny Boy!
You've got too much vigor—
Sonny Boy!
Stamping on the ceiling
When the dawn comes stealing
You commence your squealing—

How the neighbors love you—
Sonny Boy!
(Those that live above you)—
Sonny Boy!
Dad and ma display you,
As a dove portray you—
I would gladly slay you—
Sonny Boy!

POUND STERLING SINKS TO LOWEST LEVEL IN TWO YEARS

Decline Makes It Possible For Gold Shipments From London and Montreal.

ANNOUNCE DETAILS TO-DAY.

Bankers Estimate Dominion Consignment Ranges From $5,000,000 to $10,000,000.

NEW YORK, June 14. (C.P.) — The pound sterling and the Canadian dollar yesterday fell to their lowest levels in more than two years, thereby making it possible for gold to come from London and Montreal to this city. Late yesterday afternoon the Bank of Montreal said details of a gold shipment en route to New York would be announced to-day. Bankers estimate this Dominion gold consignment, the first since January, during which Canada sent more than $39,000,000 here, ranges from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000.

NEW YORK LIST IS IRREGULAR

Heavy Profit-taking Impedes Resumption of the Upward Movement.

GAINS OUTNUMBER LOSSES.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 14 (C.P.). —Heavy profit-taking impeded the resumption of the upward movement in prices in to-day's stock market, but operators for the rise brought forward new leaders whenever the old favorites showed signs of faltering. After a strong opening followed by a mid-day wave of selling, the market took on the appearance of widespread irregularity by early afternoon, but gains still outnumbered losses.

Lowering of the call money renewal rate to 7 per cent coupled with a further easing of time money rates stimulated pool activities. Bankers regard the low call money rates as temporary and look for another upward flurry early next week and again around the end of the month.

LAUA SECORD GAINS.

TORONTO, June 14. (C.P.) — Demand in some of the "key" stocks had a steadying effect on the general list on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Laura Secord Preferred was strong, five shares changing hands two points higher at 126. Alberta Pacific grain improved 1 7-8 points to 51 7-8, while Page-Hersey strengthened one to 126. Nickel, Brazilian, Cockshutt Plow, Walkers, all in comparatively active trading, showed fractional advances. Hayes Wheels appeared five points higher at 65. Oils were all steadier, Home leading the group, with a recovery of 1.50 to 20.50.

BRITISH PILGRIMAGE ARRIVES IN MONTREAL

Visitors To Canada Complete Their Tour With Visit to Great Metropolis.

MONTREAL, Que., June 14.—Pilgrims of the British Free Churches now on the last lap of their study and sight-seeing tour, arrived in Montreal to-day. The thousand members of party were met at Windsor and Bonaventure stations by local United Church officials, and after being informally welcomed, were taken to their various billets, where they spent the morning resting or making individual sight-seeing trips around the city.

A luncheon party at a local hotel following by a sight-seeing tour around the city made up the remainder of to-day's program for the visitors.

AJAX DECLINES AFTER SETTING NEW HIGH MARK

GENERAL LIST STEADY.

General Recovery Follows Fairly Active Trading in the Oil Stocks.

TORONTO, Ont., June 14 (Canadian Press). — Unable to stand the terrific pace established during the past few days, Ajax Oil, the favorite on the Standard Mining Exchange for the past week, began to react today. The reaction, however, did not come before the price had struck a new high for all time, that of 1.95. After this, profit-taking became evident, and the price dwindled back to a low of 1.78, the noon quotation at 1.82 indicating a net loss of three points. Newbec sold off 5 points to 58.

A general recovery followed fairly active trading in the oil stocks, but the general list in the mining section showed little change. Home made a smart recovery of 1.75 to 20.50, while Mayland strengthened one to 8.00 and the others recorded advances varying from 10 to 35 cents.

Noranda was more popular to-day, but the price dipped a further 25 cents to 52.50. Lake Shore was 50 cents higher at 24.00 and Dome gained 20 to 9.95.

FRENCH TROOPS DEFEAT MOORS

Rear Attacks Break Up Army of Rebels in Morocco.

Reinforcements Ordered Up.

RABAT, Morocco, June 14 (C.P.). —While rebellious Moorish tribesmen besieged French detachments at Ait Yakoub, other French Colonial troops penetrated their own country and captured their village of Tounfit.

Thirty-five of the Moorish tribesmen were killed.

Due possibly to this attack at their rear and to the severe punishment to which French airplanes have subjected them, the besiegers at Ait Yakoub have begun to withdraw, the tribesmen leaving in small numbers for their homes on the northern slopes of the Great Atlas range.

Meanwhile French reinforcements, including eight battalions of the French Foreign Legion, under General Freydenberg, were approaching Ait Yakoub, and were expected to initiate retributive measures almost at once.

No other desert tribes seemed today to have joined with the dissident Moors, who June 9 attacked the French detachment at El Bordj, pursuing it to Ait Yakoub. Eighty-three were missing.

Driver Of Automobile Dies While At Wheel

STRATFORD, Ont., June 14 (C.P.). — Harry W. Edmunds, West Lorne, died suddenly at the wheel of his automobile while travelling along the provincial highway between St. Marys and Stratford to-day. Death was due to heart failure.

He had complained to his wife that he could not see, and a few seconds later the car left the road and ran about 70 yards along the ditch. Mrs. Edmunds was uninjured. They were on their way to Listowel to visit relatives.

Diversity Makes For The Stability In Canadian Bronze Company's Output

While considerable emphasis is placed on the importance to Canadian Bronze Company for the large amount of business which has accrued to the company from the big equipment orders placed by the Canadian railways, a very big market has been developed for other products. This is particularly true of acid resisting metal, in which the company specialises, and which is used in large quantities by different industries. Among the biggest users of this are the newsprint and other paper making companies. The enormous expansion in the Canadian paper industry in the past few years has been one of the principal factors in the growth in production of Canadian Bronze Company. With Canada assuming a dominant position as supplier of newsprint, Canadian Bronze should enjoy a steadily larger market for its output of its metal products for years to come.

In addition, the re-entry of the railways into the market for both cars and locomotives is looked upon as fore-shadowing a period of more active conditions in this respect. Increased railway traffic and the opening of new branch lines in different parts of the country call for larger supplies of rolling stock, which in turn results in important contracts for Canadian Bronze Company. Of special value to the company is the fact that this class of business helps in keeping inventories in a liquid condition, besides providing a large proportion of net profits.

The Canadian group of bankers secured large holdings in United Stores Corporation by acquiring a large part of the shares of Whelan Brothers. The combination of food, drugs and tobacco in the chain of stores in the United States and Canada should prove an important factor in swelling sales and profits. When the expansion program under the new Canadian-American management is completed the corporation will control about 4,500 stores in the United States and Canada. Identified with the Canadians in financing the new enterprise will be several American bankers, the names of whom have not yet been made public.

The international syndicate which purchased the $3,100,000 5 per cent bonds of the Montreal Metropolitan Commission, dated May 1, 1929 and maturing May 1, 1966, are offering them to the public at 100 to yield 5 per cent. Canadian companies associated with the syndicate are Dominion Securities Corporation, Canadian Bank of Commerce and Banque Canadienne Nationale.

The new $2,500,000 hotel of Canada Steamship Lines at Murray Bay, will be opened for business on June 15. The season will not close this year until September 30, several weeks later than in the past.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

A Northern engineering service now reports that Newbec are not in ore at the present time. All despatches up to this stated that they were in good-looking stuff. In some quarters it is heard that the contact body, on the further side of the diabase dyke and which was the objective of recent work, has now been penetrated and several rounds taken out. An official statement is what is needed to clean up the mass of reports.

Rouyn advices are to the effect that recent diamond drilling on the Waite-Montgomery has located an entirely new ore deposit, lying about 100 feet to the south of the main ore body. Further drilling will be done to check up on this indication.

Directors of the Malartic Gold Mines had a meeting last week and following this gathering the rumor went around the street that the property would shortly close down. Officials of the company now inform the Financial News Bureau that nothing of this nature is contemplated. The meeting, they say, was entirely routine while operations will be carried on at the same scale as during the past several months. Three diamond drills are working on the property, two from surface and one from underground and these will continue operating.

In addition to the $150,000 of new capital made available to the Chibougamau Prospectors, Limited, through the underwriting of 37,500 shares at $4 each, it is now learned that additional stock has been optioned at graduated prices to bring the company another $800,000. After provisions for both the underwriting and the option, there will remain 37,500 shares in the treasury. The company was recently re-capitalized at 500,000 shares of no par value, 50 of which are being exchanged for each of the present units.

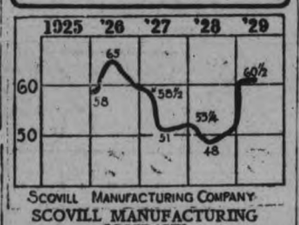
The optioning of a considerable number of claims in the Shatford Lake tin area has been carried on quietly during the past few weeks by people who are believed to represent British capital in impressive amounts. Publicity is avoided but it is learned that control has been secured over a big number of claims. The tin search is now reaching an interesting stage with the Manitoba Tin Company down 100 feet and crosscutting to a point below where the first discovery was made. Shatford Basin Mines recently sent out a crew of ten men to commence prospecting on groups secured by their representatives. Nor is Manitoba the only section of the Dominion where the search for tin is being carried out. This metal was recently discovered in the Snowflake Mine, British Columbia, and the far west is watching this latter operation with keen interest. Tin showings were found in northern British Columbia years ago but were not explored, owing to their inaccessibility.

A. F. McClaine, banker, of Spokane, director of Slocan Rambler, Mining Company, who has just returned from a visit to the mine, says that over 200 feet of good ore has been opened in virgin territory by the south drift at a vertical depth of 1400 feet.

DEVENISH

Press reports from Calgary quote J. H. McLeod, Imperial Oil Alberta manager, as stating Devenish No. 3 on pump produced 30 barrels of crude daily. As it stands, he says well is not commercial proposition.

STOCK A DAY



SCOVILL MANUFACTURING COMPANY

SCOVILL MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

The Scovill Manufacturing Company specializes in production of brass products. The business originally was started in Connecticut in 1802 and was incorporated as far back as 1850. Late in 1923 the company purchased the American Pin Company and the Oakville Manufacturing Company, paying for the control of these concerns with $2,700,000 in stock and $300,000 in debenture bonds. In 1925 it purchased the Morency-Van Buren Manufacturing Company and the next year bought the capital stock of the Gilchrist Company of Newark. The latter concern manufactures soda fountain and druggist fixtures. The Scovill main plant is at Waterbury, Conn.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of $22,125,000 in shares of $25 par value. The best year the company has ever experienced was in 1926 when net income was $2,979,701, or $3.37 a share. This compares with $2,253,218 in 1927 and $2,698,508 in 1928. Earnings throughout the latter years of the company have been relatively stable. Dividends have been paid at varying rates since 1925. In recent years the company had followed the policy of distributing entire earnings in dividends. This has been made possible by a large cash surplus. The present quarterly rate is $.75 a share. Profit and loss surplus on the first of Jan., 1929, was $9,299,636.

As of that date total current assets amounted to $21,328,006. Total current liabilities were $1,605,369, leaving net working capital of $19,722,637. Book value applicable to the capital stock amounted to $35.51 a share. The stock is closely held.

Banks Acquire Sites For Winnipeg Branches

WINNIPEG, June 13.—(Special to Examiner)—Four leading banks have acquired sites for branch offices in the city, and building will start this month. The branches are to be ready in the fall.

The Bank of Montreal has obtained a five-year lease of the three-storey building at 676 Main St., near Higgins Ave. The Royal Bank will open a new branch on Academy Road at the intersection of Waterloo St. The Bank of Nova Scotia has secured a site on Portage Ave. near Colony St., this being its first branch in the down-town area apart from the main office. The Bank of Toronto will also open its first down-town branch early next month in a two storey block adjacent to the Boyd building.

The Bank of Nova Scotia has a branch in St. James and one in Elmwood, while the Bank of Toronto has one at the Stockyards and one on Academy Roa dnear Niagara.

CUP PRESENTED FOR BEST FLOAT

And Other Trophies Donated For Public and High School Cadet Competition.

Former Peterborough boys are standing by the Old Home Town and supporting the celebration committee for Old Home Week with a spirit that augurs well for the success of the week. Bill Fleming has already provided a handsome cup to be awarded to the best float in the parade, and now a fine trophy has been donated by Fred Whitcroft, an old Peterborough boy, now in Vancouver, for competition of the local cadet companies. The cup, which is one of the finest trophies that has been provided for any such competition in the city, is on display in The Examiner window. It is to be called the "Fred J. Whitcroft Trophy."

Major Fred Hills, of Hill, Weddell and Hills, has also given a trophy for cadet competition among the public schools of the city. This trophy is also an excellent one worthy of the very keenest competition. It will promote rivalry of a very high order among the city's cadet battalions.

The cadets of the city will parade on Monday of Old Home Week, and the trophies at stake ought to induce a great portion of the youthful soldiers to compete.

ATLANTIC TRAIL FIRST BLAZED 10 YEARS AGO

Daring British Aviators Started Non-Stop Flight On June 14, 1929.

TOOK 16 HOURS.

Lieutenant Brown Is Living To-day, But Captain Alcock Is Dead.

TORONTO, Ont., June 14 (Canadian Press). — Ten years ago to-day Captain John Alcock and Lieutenant Arthur Witten Brown began the first non-stop flight across the Atlantic blazing a trail many other daring aviators were to follow, some to glory and some to death.

Brown is alive to-day, but Alcock was killed in a crash at Cote d'Evrard, France, only six months after his epoch-making flight. Both men were knighted by the King for their achievement and they won the $50,000 prize offered by a London newspaper to the first fliers to accomplish the difficult feat.

Their flight was a landmark in the history of the development of aviation. It demonstrated for the first time that a heavier-than-air machine was capable of the sustained flight under trying conditions which a crossing of the Atlantic entailed. It was the realization of a dream cherished in the minds of many fliers for many years. Indeed the project of the flight was first broached in 1913 by the late Lord Norcheliffe, but owing to the outbreak of the war no attempt was made at that time.

Sixteen hours and twelve minutes after taking off from St. John's, Newfoundland, the two fliers landed at Clifden, Galway, Ireland. Their flight was the more remarkable because it was made under adverse weather conditions for a considerable part of the journey. Fog so hampered their vision that at one time they found their machine flying a scant fifty feet above the surface of the water.

The distance covered was 1,880 miles, and the men left Newfoundland in the late afternoon of June 14, 1919, to land in Ireland at 9.40 a.m. the next day. Their plane was a Vickers-Vimy machine with twin Rolls engines.

Sir John Alcock was the pilot and his flight came as a climax to a distinguished flying career during the war. On the Turkish front as a member of the Royal Naval Air Service he won the Distinguished Service Order for a daring attack on three enemy seaplanes and established a record for long distance bombing flights. His activities in the war were cut short when the Turks took him prisoner in 1917; he was detained until after the Armistice. His companion, Sir Arthur Whitten Brown acted as observer during the flight. He had served his flying apprenticeship in the Royal Air Force. Both men were born in Manchester.

CANADIAN EXPLORER GOES WHERE FRANKLIN FAILED

Major Burwish Completes the Worst Half of Journey Through Arctic.

TRAVELLING IS HARD

Blue Cloth Found By Eskimo Was Later Identified By Admiralty Office.

By THOMAS WAYLING
(Special to The Examiner, Copyright)

OTTAWA, June 1:—Struggling against the fierce blasts of Coronation Gulf, his dog team straining into the storm, Major T. L. Burwash, Canadian explorer, has at last completed the first grind of his journey across the western Arctic from the magnetic pole of Cambridge Bay. He has won through alone where Sir John Franklin and his 165 men failed. In Cambridge Bay Major Burwash found the Hudson Bay steamer Bay Maud wintering in the ice. The Bay Maud had a wireless so Major Burwash stopped long enough to send a message over the air to the minister of the interior at Ottawa, whose official he is.

"Everything well. Hard travelling. On way to Coppermine. Nothing special to report." Thus runs the brief wireless. The man who made the worst part of the northwest passage by dog team in the face of adverse conditions wires his minister "Nothing special to report."

Message Found Years After.

The magnetic pole lies on Boothia Peninsula, near the place where Sir John Franklin perished. In the last message left by Franklin which was found years afterwards on King William Island by Capt. McClintock, Franklin said he was trying to make for the mouth of the Coppermine river. Major Burwash's message has the same tenor, save that he is not trying to make the journey; he is making it and has completed the worst half of it.

Near the Magnetic pole Major Burwash had found another Hudson Bay Co. Arctic steamship wintering in the ice and sent a message from her wireless. He intended to return via Hudson Bay but a wireless was sent to the ship ordering him to travel south via the Coppermine river and investigate the copper deposits. He accepted the order as all in the day's work.

The route Burwash travelled over the frozen Arctic seas was the route that Franklin should have gone in order to reach safety when he abandoned his ships, the Erebus and the Terror. He got as far south as the end of King William Island and there all trace of him was lost. Burwash in later years found an Eskio with a bit of blue cloth.

He sent it to the British admiralty and textile experts identified it as the same material as the uniforms issued to Franklin's sailors so it is known they got as far as King William Island.

Burwash has got well beyond the point where Franklin perished. Cambridge Bay is about half way between the magnetic pole and the mouth of the Coppermine. It lies on the southeast end of Victoria Island and at the east end of Coronation Gulf.

Fights Every Step.

The storms sweep down Coronation Gulf and into their teeth he had to fight every step of the way.

The distance from the magnetic pole to Cambridge Bay is between 500 and 600 miles and it has taken Major Burwash over six weeks to make the journey. It is not known how many Eskimos he has with him, if any. He knows more about the Arctic than the Eskimo who was born there and this knowledge has repeatedly saved his life and enabled him to live through the fierce storms which rage in the Arctic winter. Major Burwash is now in an area which Arctic explorers might consider civilization. There is a Royal Canadian Mounted Police post at Cambridge Bay, a Hudson Bay Co's. post on Kent peninsula about 100 miles away, and another Hudson Bay Co. post, where the Tree river runs into the Coronation Gulf. Then the mouth of the Coppermine is about 150 miles westward and there is a Hudson Bay outpost there.

When Major Burwash comes up to the Coppermine he will traverse the Barren region where Sir John Franklin nearly died of starvation on an expedition previous to the fatal voyage of the Erebus and the Terror. The Major is a mining engineer and will report on the copper deposits of the Coppermine.

The deepest place in the ocean yet found is off Mindanso, Philippine Island, where it is 32,088 feet.

All Druggists and Stores—50c.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Kidd spent Sunday with friends in the vicinity of Peterborough.

Examinations for Middle School pupils are now in progress, class work for First and Second Form pupils having been completed for this term. Classes for Third Form pupils is still being carried on but examination days are in the almost immediate future for these scholars also. Miss Muir, who has been principal of the Continuation School for the past three or four years, is not returning after the holidays, her resignation having been in the trustees' hands for a few weeks now. Miss Hamilton is not returning after the holidays either, intending to attend the University, and continue her studies for the degree of Bachelor of Arts next year. It is probable that Mr. Jordan, the present assistant principal, will assume the principalship when the new term starts in the fall, and one new teacher will be engaged.

Home grown strawberries are likely to be somewhat late in appearing on the local market this year owing to the backward season. There is a fine showing of blossoms, however, and the crop promises to be a particularly good one.

PLANS FOR OLD HOME WEEK ARE APPROACHING MATURITY

thirteen single rooms to care for further registrations.

In addition to the rooms offered by private residences, the Y.W.C.A. has promised to house thirty persons; Peterborough Annex will have twenty double rooms available; jointly, the hotels can offer about 285 rooms, and can accomodate more persons by erecting cots in corridors, and parlors. Both the Empress and the Grand are making efforts to discourage commercial patronage during the big week.

Parking Space For Cars.

Continuing his very comprehensive report, which in its every detail evidenced painstaking work on the part of the committee, Mr. Dutton dealt with the car parking problem. The school grounds, he said, would hold about 1,715 cars; other parking spaces at the rear of the Duffus building, on C.P.R. property at the freight shed, on the city property (reclaimed ground) near the freight shed, on the public parking square at Sherbrooke and George, on the southern part of the James Stevenson park, on King Edward Park, and on the market square, provide accomodation for 1500 cars; and then, with about sixty miles of streets, providing 360,800 feet of parking space, the city can accomodate 31,680 cars, allowing twenty fee between cars.

The committee has arranged, Mr. Dutton reported, to have the lavatories at Sacred Heart, South Central, St. Peter's, and King Edward schools available for the public during Old Home Week, and has retained the janitors of these buildings to supervise the parking of cars and the school premises.

The Problem of Food.

When F. H. Dobbin announcer last night that 7,600 programs have been sent out to old boys and girls, several of the members expressed amazement at the potentialities of the undertaking to which the city is committeed. "If these 7,600 are all heads of families", said Mr. Glover...."They are", interjected Mr. Dobbin,...."then they may each bring along three or four, and we are likel yto have 30,000 people here!"

"That's right", remarked Mr. Dobbin, whose close association with Old Home Week affairs during the past three months has enabled him to assume a certain equanimity in the face of any situation.

That the accomodations committee is alive to the urgency of the potential congestion is evidenced in the continuation of Mr. Dutton's report, in which he told of arrangements made with the hotels and restaurants and with non-business organiations. The restaurants have decided in a charge of fifty cents for a regular full course meal, he said, and the hotels will maintain their usual tariff. A la carte service in the restaurants which cater in that way will, of course, be higher.

The hotels expect to be able to serve 1,700 meals a day, Mr. Dutton reported, naming the Empress, the White House, the Grand, and the American. The restaurants expect to serve 7,650 meals a day, if needed, while this total will be increased on other days than Sunday by 800 meals. The Y.W.C.A. will serve one hundred meals a day, and light lunches will be available during the week, served by the Salvation Army, the Catholic Women's League, Hooper's lower store, and Coleman Bros., to a possible total of 2,500 a day Sunday excetped.

Wants Floats Made Ready.

Something in the nature of a bombshell was dropped on the meeting when E. F. Mason's report as chairmn of the parade committee as followed by a declaration from Mr. Garstang, whose duty it is to help plan and carry out the decorative featurues, that he can't find anything to do. His impassioned plea for an early start brought immediate action, the Mayor promising to arrange this morning for firms to have representatives meet Mr. Garstang to-day so that he may start work without delay. It was pointed out that only a short time remains for the planning and execution of this important work, and if the parade is to equal or surpass the last triumph Peterborough had in this connection, there is no time to be lost.

Mr. Glover expressed the appreciation of the meeting for the general "pepping-up" interjected by Mr. Garstang, and for the enthusiasm he displayed.

Reception Arranged.

Alderman G. A. Macdonald reported for the reception committee that adequate help has been arranged for the entire week. Boy scouts will assist greatly in the work of directing visitors to points of interest and to their places of lodging.

All trains will be met by citizens, and an information bureau will be maintained on the highway at the entrance to the city, with a twenty-four hour service. This report was followed by F. G. Stinson's assurance of the hearty support of the automobile club, whose members will motor out on the highway to meet and greet incoming cavalcades when given reasonable warning. Stickers inviting visitors to use cars will be used by club member and others.

Incidentally, Mr. Stinson mentioned the fact that a permanent building, in log cabin style, will be erected shortly as a tourists' information bureau, and suggested that it might be used by the reception committee instead of the tent originally proposed.

Arrangements for beautifying the city are well in hand, Alderman R. S. Cotton, chairman of the decorations committee, reported.

A proposal by Mr. Garstang that a suitable man be crowned "king of the carnival" brought a report from W. F. Turner that "Happy Jack" Dexter has already been engaged to carry out the spirit of carnival, and will be active on the streets throughout the week.

There were about twenty-five present at the meeting, one of the most enthusiastic and satisfying that has been held. His Worship Mayor Denne, who presided, expressed satisfaction with the present progress, and predicted a splendid success. "It just means keeping at it a few days longer, every one of you," he said as the meeting broke up.

no apology, I'll sign this thing." She was referring to the agreement which had been drawn up between herself and Timothy A. Coughlin, of Percy Township, who had brought an action for slander against her.

Mr. Coughlin claimed that Mrs. Callaghan had stated publicly that he had forged a telegram when he was telegraph agent at Hastings, and had added something to the telegram that she had not placed upon the original. Mr. Coughlin denied there was any truth in this statement, but Mrs. Callaghan repeated it to various persons, with the result that he felt he should vindicate his reputation and he brought an action for slander against her.

Mrs. Callaghan objected loudly to giving an apology, but consented to judgment for $1 and costs of the county court. It took a great deal of patience on the part of W. F. Huycke, counsel for Mrs. Callaghan, and Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., who appeared for the plaintiff, to bring Mrs. Callaghan to a settlement without having the case heard before His Honor.

Mr. Coughlin was generous enough to waive his claim for $550 damages upon Mrs. Callaghan paying the costs and settling the matter by consent.

Grand Jury Report.

The Grand Jury returned with a very favorable report on their findings in respect to the publicly-supported institutions. They found, however, that the Nicholls Hospital was overcrowded and they recommended that bathing facilities be installed in the county jail.

Their report is as follows:

"We, the Grand Jury, empannelled according to law to inspect and report on the institutions receiving support of public monies, have made careful inspection and beg to report as follows:

"First starting out on our tour of inspection with the county jail, we found everything in good order with the exception of bathing facilities. We would recommend having a shower bath installed.

"We next visited the House of Refuge, where we found everything in first-class order, with the inmates apparently well satisfied with the care that they were receiving, and we believe everything has been improved under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Fry.

"We next visited the Protestant Home, under Miss Lancaster's capable management, and found all the inmates comfortable and contented.

"We visited St. Vincent's Orphanage, where we found everything in first-class condition, with the children being all capably cared for.

"We then visited the Nicholls Hospital and found everything in first-class shape, with the exception of being overcrowded.

"We visited the Children's Shelter, where conditions are ideal.

"The House of Providence was visited by us and St. Joseph's Hospital, where we found everything very satisfactory and were very cordially received by Mother Superior.

"In conclusion, we congratulate Your Honor and trust you may long be spared to administer justice in the county of Peterborough."

The report was signed by the Grand Jury, composed of John I. Leeson, Claude Bogard, J. A. Archambault, John Drain, Ernest Adamson, David Darling, Edward Crapp, David Thompson, Sidney C. Belfry, A. S. Bullock, J. Coughlin, Charles Tanner and Frank Rone (foreman).

His Honor Judge Huycke complimented the Grand Jury on their efficiency and promptness, stating that they had carried out their important and very necessary duties most satisfactorily. He suggested that when they returned to their homes they inform their reeves and neighbors of conditions as they had found them.

Except for thirty minutes, the whole morning session yesterday was given over to examining and cross-examining John S. Moore, called to the witness box in his own defence, on a charge of arson.

He stated that he had two children. He had moved to Lakefield where he had bought a house, after moving from his father's farm in Dummer. While he was occupying this house it was practically consumed by fire, the cause, in the opinion of the accused, being defective wiring. The house was insured and he collected insurance, as a result of the damage. Previously there had been a fire while he was living on his father's farm. It was in an old house used as a chicken house. The accused described the details attributing the cause to a stove lit to keep the chickens warm. There was no insurance on this building.

Later he lived just outside the city in North Monaghan and then he moved to Warsaw, buying Ronald McCauley's butcher shop for $1,650 of which amount he borrowed $1600 from relatives. The business was good at first, but after the first two months it decreased, yet he continued to make money, until burned out. He had $90 in his pocket at the time of the fire which was saved; ten dollars in change in the butcher shop was lost. He also kept bees and stated that his annual income from the bees would be approximately $600 to $1000.

Disagree Over Taxes

After buying McCauley's place McCauley was not very friendly to him. The disagreement arose over the paying of the taxes, which McCauley had promised to do.

On the night of the first fire, March 20, he had been all day at two sawings. When he returned he had gone to the shed spending less than five minutes there in order to break up some kindling wood. He denied having lit the fire in the shed, and he further denied that he had put any inflammable fluid on the walls of the shed.

After having put the baby to sleep in an upstairs room, which overlooked the shed, he returned downstairs and conversed with his uncle, William John Moore, and his wife. Then his brother entered and told him that the shed was on fire. He aided in putting out the fire and had remained watching it all night with fifteen pails of water in readiness nearby.

He felt nervous after this fire because he thought that someone had lit it. There was no stove in the woodshed and no natural means for a fire starting. On the night of the fire he told Payne that he had $2600 insurance on the building. He had placed hooks on the shed door to try and stop person entering to light another fire. In regard to the second fire, which devastated his home, he said that the first knowledge he had of it was his wife awakened him. He put on his trousers, went down stairs and tried to get central, failing in this he went outside, took a look at the telephone office and then returned and succeeded in telling central that his house was on fire. He then went upstairs, meeting his wife and children at the bottom, and put on his socks and shoes. He looked at the fire, then began carrying out the trunk containing the valuable papers such as insurance and deeds.

Answered With Fire Extinguisher

No one had come to the fire. When Mr. Clements arrived he had a fire extinguisher and the accused said that he had helped him by holding the extinguisher while it sprayed on the fire. Telling Clements that there was not much to be done he had gone back to the house and commenced to take out more goods.

He stated that he did not think that if he had tried to put out the fire immediately on becoming aware of it that he would have succeeded in saving the house.

Under cross- examination the witness said that he had forced the door to allow Mr. Clements to use the sprinkler. He maintained that both fires had been set by someone. He had noticed the blue flame in the first fire and thought that it did not resemble a wood fire.

He had said that it had appeared to him that he was ten to fifteen minutes on the phone. He now declared that it was over four or five minutes. He said that he did not do anything to stop the fire until someone came.

He had removed the window from the woodshed about one week before the first fire. This he said was to allow the wood piled inside to dry.

He bought the property for $1,650 and had placed $1,800 insurance on it within a few days. Later he placed another $1,000 insurance on the house, which did not cover the barn.

He admitted that he would have claimed $2,300 damages from the insurance firm for the fire to the house for which he had paid $1,650. If the barn had been consumed he would have claimed $500 more, being a total of $1,500 more than he paid for the property.

Re-examined he said the loss in furniture was around $1,000 which was not covered by insurance.

Mary Easson called, said that she was the stenographer at the preliminary trial in Warsaw and the statement taken down as coming from McCauley when giving evidence concerning his approach was correct as in the files.

Robert Summers, resident of Dummer and superintendent at Warsaw Sunday school knew the accused and said that his reputation was good.

W. Choate and E. Macdonald also said that his reputation was good and he was honest.

dairy show, and it was the pride of the Field stables.

The Colonel is evidently not to be deceived by superficial appearances in his impressions of any particular Jersey.

"Female inheritance is what you want to look to in a bull", he said. "What were the cows for generations back?"

And as to the cows, he remarked that if a cow receives good care it will give an average flow of milk. Col. Bull intimated that he was not guided by any hard set and narrow opinions of good quality. He said that he had seen cows with milk veins as big as water pipes, but they didn't produce as much milk as other cows with veins no bigger than a little finger."

A Pastoral Scene of Beauty.

That scene at Field Lodge Farm yesterday afternoon in one of the pastures about a quarter of a mile from the residence on the lake shore presented a rare and beautiful panorama of natural and also farm beauty. The big herd had been driven in from several fields, trooping down the public road into the nearer enclosure, a sloping field, shelving from an elevation down to the lake. The cattle spread out over the green sward, with all the individual gracefulness that is characteristic of the Jersey, ranging in colors from the old fashioned lighter browns to the whiter and darker or, as the breeders say, the broken colours. Two ruminant spectators of this comparative multitude were a calf of four days and its watchful mother.

Broken-Colored Jerseys

Referring to the broken colored Jerseys, Col. Bull said that in the earlier days in this province there had been a prejudice against the Jerseys that tended to whiteness, and they were hard to sell.

"People have been asking us why we in Brampton have been getting so much white in our herds", Col Bull continued. "On the island of Jersey we found that some of the very best cattle were broken colored. In a sense that island is not so very much bigger than this farm. It is twelve miles long and only eight miles wide. It has a population of more than 50,000, and about 11,000 cattle. They have never found tuberculosis in the cattle of Jersey. But there is quite a bit of it among the people there. That may be due to two reasons, undernourishment of the children and inbreeding of the native inhabitants. And that suggests a warning against inbreeding in our cattle stock. It can't be done.

We at Brampton are doing a large business in high priced cattle. A short time ago we sold seventeen head for $32,000 to be sent to San Antonio. To some of the farmers in this district that will seem an impossible price for them to reach, but I remember the time when if we sold a cow for $125 we wouldn't know how to act. Some of you men here may pay $200 or more for a cow, and if you take proper care of them it should not be very long until you are getting high prices too."

Col. Bull arrived home from the island of Jersey only a short time ago.

Room For More Jerseys

Mr. Silcox said that the question was often asked "has the Jersey reached its pinnacle in this country?"

"We have in Canada 48,000 Jerseys, that is one Jersey cow to every twenty of our population, whereas in the United States they have one Jersey for every ten persons. So we have quite a way to go until we catch up with our neighbors.

Mr. Brethen's Invitation.

J. Arthur Brethen of Norwood, a successfuul breeder of Holsteins, was introduced by Mr. Silcox, who presided as chairman for the concluding speeches from the rear verandah of the Field home.

"I think that the spirit of co-operation among breeders of all cattle is a splendid thing," Mr. Brethen said. "It is fine that we can meet like this without any antagonism or criticism of our favorite cattle. And I'd like to recall that long before the Field farm was thought of I helped to populate the Roseneath district with Jersey cattle. Because I have Holsteins doesn't mean that I am against Jerseys or Ayrshires. I think there is room in Canada for all breeds of cattle, and I feel that Canada is all the better off because we have more than one breed. What we all should do is not to knock any one breed but to discourage the poor cattle in every breed."

Mr. Brethen referred to the problem of interesting the young farmers so that they will remain on the farms. One solution was to make farm work so interesting that it was entered into with the same spirit as the young men would play games. If they were breeding pure bred Jerseys, for example, they could become enthusiastic about the quality of their stock and the success of their work. That spirit could be imparted by fathers not only to their sons but to their employees on the farm. Mr. Brethen extended a welcome to the Jersey breeders to attend the district Holstein field day on his farm at Norwood on Friday, June 21st.

Dr. J. J. Irwin of Waterloo, Que., and Rev. Father Corkery of Peterborough also spoke briefly congratulating Mr. Field and the Jersey breeders upon their efforts to improve the farm stock of this district.

The Luncheon Guests.

Among Mr. Field's guests at luncheon were a number of Peterborough men, including members of the Exhibition Board. They were Mayor Denne, W. R. Breyfogle, Vincent Eastwood, J. K. Hughes, T. H. Hooper, Tom Brown, Ald. Stocker, T. H. Graham, Wm. Steinkrauss, Fred Holmes, E. S. Martin, E. A. McGovern, C. P. Boriand, C. H. Westlake, Wm. Knox, John Gillespie, and Col. Bull, Elmo Ashton and Frank Silcox.

The dinner, as Tom Hooper remarked, warmed the cockles of his heart, and he should be a competent judge of excellent food and its service. The hostess, Miss Regina Keppler, secretary of the Field Estate, surpassed the luncheon of last year, if that were possible, and certainly not the least memorable of such a visit to Field Lodge Farm is its cordial and abundant hospitality.

The thanks of the guests were conveyed to Mr. Field in a motion by Mayor Denne, seconded by Col. Bull, with a "tiger" by Vince Eastwood.

Replying to Mayor Denne, Mr. Field suggested that if the Peterborough Exhibition Board "wants the Jersey people to do anything for you, give us a judge for the Jerseys"; and William Knox announced that a separate judge was being engaged for the Jerseys and Guernseys.

Compliment to Mr. Field.

Mr. Silcox as president of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club, paid Mr. Field a high tribute. "Field Lodge Farm is a bright spot in Canada in Jersey enthusiasm" he declared. "I believe there is more Jersey improvement here than any plant I visit. When you come to think of it, this farm is only in its infancy. It was established eight years ago, and last year 280 cattle were sold from it. You can't imagine the number of herds that were established as a result of the influence of Mr. Field's coming in here. We used to think the district east of Peterborough was not a very fertile section for Jerseys, but we know now that it is an excellent district. If the Canadian Jersey Club can be of any service to you we shall be glad to render it."

To Mr. Eastwood, Mr. Field replied that he had located on Rice Lake because he had known and liked it from fishing there but especially because his physician across the border had ordered it. He and his father had picked out the site for a summer cottage, and from that quest for health has developed the idea of the Jersey farm.

TEJERO of Barcelona

Beauty Specialist—by Appointment to 3 Queens advises twice-a-day use of Palmolive Soap

"Regular cleansing twice a day with Palmolive Soap is my advice to my clients. The effect of the pure palm and olive oils in this soap keeps the skin always in the proper condition."

Luis Tejero

BARCELONA

SENOR TEJERO of Barcelona always prescribes Palmolive and attributes much of his success to the fact that his clients follow this advice.

"The effect of the pure palm and olive oils in Palmolive Soap is to penetrate gently but deep down into the pores, to remove all accumulations and to soothe and rejuvenate the tissues," he says in recommending this treatment: massage Palmolive Soap and water carefully into the skin. Rinse with both warm water and cold. Only then is your face ready for make-up.

Other international authorities who prefer Palmolive and stress the value of its olive oil content include Cavalieri of Paris; Jacobson of London; Attilio of Rome—hundreds of the leading beauty artists of the world. Act upon their advice this very evening. A radiant complexion will be yours.

In Paris, Tejero was privileged to attend the Queen of Holland and her daughter. In Belgium he served Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth. He has, of course, attended the Queen of his native Spain . . . and his many distinguished patrons include not only Ladies-in-Waiting from all the Courts of Europe but numerous celebrated artists of music and the stage.

Spanish beauties have long known the cosmetic value of olive oil. Scientifically blended with palm oils, it has its greatest beauty effect in Palmolive Soap.

CANADIAN M.P.'S MAY STRIKE UNLESS MONEY IS INCREASED

Senators Afraid Commons May Put Through Revised Scale, Ignoring Them.

MUST ATTEND 50 DAYS

Many Members Are Unable To Go Home for Week-Ends.

By THOMAS WAYLING
(Special to The Examiner, Copyright)

OTTAWA, June 13.—The high and gay life of a representative of the common people at Canada's capital costs a whole lot more than $4,000 a year, and not to mention the neglect of business and a thousand other items, M.P.'s and Senators at Ottawa have been asserting with no uncertain voice during the session now nearing its close. In fact rumor has it that the Conservative caucus laid down the law very emphatically to Opposition Leader Bennett the other day, and presented him with the alternative of empty back benches or a raise in the indemnity to $6,000 at least. Liberal members are said to have whispered ever so softly that if Mr. Bennett found it necessary to divide the house on the issue, the voting would not be on strict party lines. Apparently it is of no avail however, for it has been semi-officially intimated that the present session will not see the desired increase.

At First Paid $1,500.

At Confederation parliamentarians received a sessional indemnity of $1,000. Later it was increased to $1,500, then to $2,500 and in 1920 was raised to $4,000. Miss Agnes Macphail thought $2,500 was enough and during the life of the parliament which opened after the election of 1921 Miss Macphail refused to accept more than $2,500, leaving $1,500 in the treasury. Since then however, she has found $2,500 too little, $4,000 not any too much, and $6,000 would be about right.

The present demand is for a $2,000 increase making $6,000. Although it is known as a sessional indemnity it can only be collected once a year. If two sessions of parliament take place in the same year only one sessional indemnity is paid. Both Liberals and Conservatives have brought the matter up repeatedly in caucus, have grown restive under the curb of their leaders who refuse to consider it. The Prime Minister gets $13,000 and his indemnity of $4,000 and the leader of the Opposition $10,000 and $4,000. Cabinet ministers also get $10,000 and $4,000.

Comes From Older Provinces.

The demand comes chiefly from Ontario and Quebec members but the real sufferers are the maritime and western members. The Ontario and Quebec members can get home for week ends during the session and in these week ends direct their businesses for the ensuing week. Those who come from areas remote from the capital are unable to get home at all during the session, except perhaps at Easter. There is a tentative proposal that the distant members should get an extra living allowance, but this would arouse such a furore among the other members that it will not be considered.

Every time the commoners have voted an increase in indemnity the senators have demanded one also. When after the next election the question of indemnity comes up there may be some proposal to differentiate. The senators only attend about one third of the time, the commoners put in, as they take long adjournments. They do very little work compared to the commoners and a senator has the right to live either at the capital or in his home province. Some of them live the year round at Ottawa though representing provinces a thousand miles away. They do not have the heavy piles of correspondence private members are subjected to, nor the heavy committee work. There will be a fine row however, if the commons vote themselves a $2,000 increase and do not give it to the senators.

Must Attend 50 Days.

A member must attend 50 days to qualify for his $4,000. If he attends less than 50 he only gets $25 a day. He gets transportation for himself and his family to Ottawa and return free but in addition gets $15 a day for the time he is actually enroute to Ottawa and on the final journey home.

No roll call is kept and the only proof parliament has that a member has put in his 50 days is his own statutory declaration to that effect. If he puts his nose into the chamber it can be called a day. Some Ontario and Quebec members enter the chamber for prayers on Friday, then immediatey take a train home and get back in time to look in the chamber before it adjourns on Monday night. This counts four days, Saturday and Sunday being included if they are there Friday.

PRESENTATION MADE.

Mrs. J. E. Todd Presented With Life Membership of United Church.

The June meeting of the W. M. S. of George Street United Church was held in the board room of Sunday school hall on Tuesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. E. W. Coon presided, and the devotional exercises were in charge of Group D, with Mrs. W. McMillan as leader.

Mrs. W. Burns gave a devotional reading from a missionary leaflet The secretary, Mrs. W. H. Morton, and the treasurer, Mrs. H. Dulmage, gave splendid reports, which were received and adopted. Mrs. J. W. Hales reported 40 calls made by the sick and visiting committee during the past month.

Mrs. Knox reported that the quilt required for allocation to the bale, had been pieced, quilted and completed. It was decided that if the Twilight Mission Circle, or Young Women's Auxiliary send any delegates to the summer school that the auxiliary would help with the expenses.

Mrs. Doig and Mrs. Liddle sang a beautiful duet, "Come Unto Me," accompanied by Mrs. Edwin Rowe.

A temperance program was given, Mrs. Coon, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Hetherington, Mrs. Mather, Miss McCammus and Mrs. Hatherly giving readings.

Mrs. Burns reported the Auxiliary had exceeded their allocation for the first half of the year. Mrs. Burns was afterwards presented with her life membership certificate by the president.

Mrs. Coon gave a reading entitled, "Keep the Side Roads Clean."

Mrs. J. E. Todd was then asked to come forward and Mrs. E. A. Stinson read the following address. Mrs. E. E. Harvey presented her with a life membership pin of the United Church and a beautiful basket of pink roses. The basket was of a pastel green shade trimmed with gilt and on the handle was perched a jaunty bow of pink and gold.

"Dear Mrs. Todd—We realize with regret that, when we resume our work in the Autumn, you will not be with us. Since you came to our Auxiliary, four years ago, you have been at one with us in every missionary effort, and the quiet, helpful way in which you did your part will not soon be forgotten.

We shall miss you at our meetings but the influence of a beautiful character and an inspiring personality will remain with us. It has been said, 'Give your best to the world, and the best will come back to you," and by that we know you will find in your new home many warm and loyal friends.

We ask you to accept this slight token of our love and admiration.

Signed on behalf of Women's Auxiliary of George Street United Church by the Executive."

Mrs. Todd replied briefly, thanking the ladies and speaking of her regret at parting with so many friends in the Auxiliary, with whom she had enjoyed working.

A hymn, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds," was sung, and Rev. J. E. Todd pronounced the Benediction.

A social hour was then enjoyed with the serving of ice cream and cake.

ST. GEORGE'S AUXILIARY HONORS MEMBER LEAVING

FINAL MEETING OF THE SEASON IS HELD BY ANGLICAN WOMEN

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. George's church met for the final meeting of the season on Thursday afternoon in the church basement. Mrs. J. M. Brownlie, president, conducted the opening prayers. The greater part of the time was taken up in hearing the reading of the address of Dr. Cartwright, diocesan president, as given by her at the annual meeting in Toronto. The address was read by Mrs. Malsch, secretary.

At the close of the business an interesting presentation took place, when Mrs. J. Dossett, prior to her departure to the old country, was presented with a brown leather hand bag with tortoise shell top. Mrs. Hughes made the presentation and Mrs. Malsch read the following address:

Dear Mrs. Dossett,—We, members of St. George's Church Women's Auxiliary and Guild, extend our heartiest greetings to you for a pleasant voyage and a very happy holiday, during your stay in England with friends after being absent from them so long. As a token of the esteem we hold towards you, we would ask you to accept this small present, a handbag. It may not be quite large enough to hold all your notes, but it will hold a few pennies and threepenny pieces when you arrive safely in Old England. We assure you of a hearty welcome on your return to Peterborough.

Signed on behalf of the members, M. Brownlie, president, M. Malsch, secretary.

Mrs. Dossett replied, thanking the ladies for the lovely gift and good wishes.

The meeting closed with the singing of the hymn, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

PEMBROKE MAN WINS SCHOLARSHIP

First Winner of Wilder Fellowship Goes to Paul J. J. Martin.

TORONTO, Ont., June 14.—(Canadian Press)—The William E. Wilder fellowship at Cambridge University, founded by J. H. Gundy in memory of William E. Wilder, Toronto, financial executive who died May 28, has been awarded for the first time to Paul J. J. Martin of Pembroke. The fellowship is intended to assist young men who show promise of capactty in public affairs and the first winner has taken considerable part in politics while still a student. After graduating from St. Michael's College in 1925 and from Osgoode Hall in 1928 he contested the provincial seat of North Renfrew in the by-election last summer in the Liberal interest against E. A. Dunlop, M.P.P. During the past year he has been pursuing post-graduate studies in law at Harvard University which he will continue at Trinity College, Cambridge.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

VACATION JOBS.

Schools will soon be closing and the children will have a long stretch of time in which to occupy themselves with pleasant and profitable experiences. None of them ought to be idle. Vacation does not mean emptiness. It ought to mean a change of occupation and fresh opportunity for growth.

Some of the children will go to summer school to make up work. Another group will go to summer camp. The very little children will stay at home with their mothers. That leaves a great group of boys and girls to find some worthy way of living two whole months.

Why not see that they get a job? I mean a paying job, with strangers. Nothing develops an adolescent boy or girl as quickly as a job with responsibility to the boss. And it is one of the very best ways to wean an adolescent. There must be a break from parental guidance and vacation jobs are one way toward establishing it.

In the first place a child is always more attentive to the demands of a stranger than to those of the family. We can tell a boy or girl that promptness, cheerfulness, industry, politeness, neatness are virtues that must be practised of necessity but only the outside job makes the telling real.

We can lecture about the value and the use of money until we are hoarse and not win more than a reluctant assent but a dollar that had to be earned talks far more effectively. Especially when it is asked to take the place of the dollar heretofore extracted from the family budget. This experience of earning and spending is a very educative force indeed and if possible, all adolescent children should be permitted, if not obliged, to undergo it.

Then there is the ripening effect that going out to work has upon all of us. Responsibility weighs the spirit of all workers and two months of it in a vacation job will do most young people a lot of good and no harm.

We must be careful about the use of the vacation-job money. Before the child goes to work, he should have a purpose for the money. If it is spent as soon as collected, for things that do not matter, the educative influence is greatly lessened. It should be spent for some need or aspiration of the worker's. It is just as much a mistake to drop it into the family purse without trace, as it is to spend it on shows and rides and fuss.

We set out to let the child work in order to wean him from dependence upon his parents, to teach him industry, thrift, discretion and judgment. Let us carry the work to the right ends. Hold the child to strict accountability for the use of his money, but let that use be his own.

Whatever happens, do not let the children of adolescent years idle their vacation period away. Keep them busy.

The Whatnot

A Column for Little Bits of Everything of Interest to Women Readers

Conducted by Marion

(This Whatnot is by Kathleen Norris.)

BETTY isn't going to finish college; she is going to work. Things at home haven't changed, but Betty has changed. She says that college is all right for rich girls, whose parents can afford that hundred a month. But her parents aren't rich—they're darlings, saints and angels, but they're not rich. So Betty is going to work.

"And of course I know it's all important to find the right work," says Betty's brave, sensible, eloquent letter.

Up to that point I was with Betty, heart and soul. But here I think she is mistaken. It isn't tremendously important that a boy or girl of 18 find the right work instantly. The important thing for Betty to do is to find a certain girl, named Betty.

Most of us, when we go out into the business world for ourselves, start off on the wrong foot. We either have to forget our dreams of becoming a trained nurse or a settlement worker, and take the job in the insurance office because nothing else offers, or we really do get started in the hospital or the settlement house, and discover that neither of these professions is really going to satisfy.

No matter WHAT you begin with, Betty, it is going to seem drudgery, it is going to seem utterly monotonous and not worth while, after a few months. The money you are paid is going to seem a poor return for all the bright hours of the week's six working days, and the future entirely without prospect of interest or success.

* * *

But before you try to find a better job, find yourself. If you can once do THAT, then all jobs will be of equal value, and all will lead to the same end,—happiness, self-expression, success.

* * *

Certain girls go to work cluttered with handicaps. Perhaps they can't see them, perhaps they never suspect their existence, but that only makes it worse.

Some girls are sickly; the close air in offices, the smell of cigarettes and ink and dust make them ill, they get nervous and critical, and forget that they are supposed to adapt themself to the job, not the job to them.

* * *

Some girls are proud. They can not forget that Mama was a van Atkins, and that they belong to a once-rich, once-influential family. They look down upon their business associates, and are unfriendly, cold and haughty in all their business relationships.

* * *

Some girls are independent. They refuse to keep hours, or to respect orders. Their entire business career is spent in an endeavor to frustrate their superiors. They answer questions briefly, unwillingly. They whisper sedition and rebellion the minute the superintendent's back is turned, they grin a superior grin when some harrassed official is trying to impress them.

* * *

Such girls drive the men in the office almost mad They have an air of birds, just lighting reluctantly for a moment, before winging their way elsewhere. Any serious conversation about office policies, or any suggestion of change in themselves or their work finds them elegantly bored.

* * *

Then there are the flirtatious, amorous girls. These girls sometimes take positions only to widen their opportunities to meet eligible men. They cannot be impersonal. Their eyes are full of love and concern, their voices shake with tender emotion. They are always creating situations whereby the men of the office find themselves alone with pretty, gentle Miss Bates, or dimpled, bright-eyed Miss Pond.

* * *

But all these are only types, present in every score of girls, but not common. The usual office girl of to-day has the sense and self-control to be in good health, and the talk of blue blood and family distinction that used to embitter so many women's lives, is dying away We begin to perceive that there is no aristocracy like honest service, however humble, and no inferiority like that conveyed by idleness, however moneyed.

* * *

No, if it were only for these girls,—the delicate, headachy, complaining girl, the snobbish girl, the saucy, independent girl, and the flirt, office managers could bear their troubles very well.

* * *

But the real fault of office workers, and especially beginners, is that they are so bored with what they have to do.

* * *

They file letters, write letters, mail letters, answer telephones, answer bells,—and all the while they are like Roberts' Universal Robots, automatons, utterly uninterested, utterly without initiative or imagination.

In England they tell of some old guard on a railway platform, who had called out "Noon train for Edinborough!" every day for forty-seven years. One day someone asked him where the train came from. He had not the faintest notion or interest.

* * *

Some girls in jobs are like that. They grudge every minute they have to give to their work. Their thoughts, their eyes are fixed far beyond it. The instant the clock's hands reach five, they are like fire-horses, racing toward freedom.

* * *

"Have you blue pencils?"

"No, madam."

"Have you any colored pencils at all?"

"No, madam."

"Do you know if they have them, in the shop?"

"I'm sure I couldn't say, madam."

"Have you crayons?"

Silence.

"You haven't crayons?"

"I beg your pardon, madam. No, madam."

* * *

The customer has been shamed, pleading, hesitant. But the bland shop-girl has changed neither her position nor her expression; she has stared all the time vaguely into space. Now she glances at her glittering finger-nails, shrugs, and returns to contemplation.

The other afternoon, at closing time, I was in the office of a commercial marine house when the manager said to one of the stenographers, "Is the 'Katoya' in, Miss Smith?"

"She's docking," Miss Smith, fitting a felt helmet over her curled bob, said absently into the mirror.

"Docking, eh?" The middle-aged man hesitated, fumbled. "Will you ask if any of the young ladies can stay overtime?" he asked uncomfortably. "We'll have to unload her to-night."

* * *

"I'll ask," Miss Smith agreed unconcernedly, "but I don't think anyone can stay." She opened a door. "Girls," she asked in a perfectly dead voice, "can any of you stay? None of them can stay," she added instantly. "Goodnight," she said pleasantly, and was gone.

* * *

She had been seven years with the firm. She knew that it was important to have the delayed freighter unloaded, so that she might get off on schedule time the next day. But it didn't interest HER. Let the manager fret!

* * *

Now, nobody can expect a blossoming young feminine thing of 18 to get excited over the arrival of a late freighter. Nobody expects girls to blush and pale over accounts, files, contracts, policies and briefs. But just the same, the smart girl, when she starts into business, will learn not only to SEEM concerned for the affairs of the firm, but she will come, in time, to feel a genuine interest in them.

* * *

Whether she is working in an undertaker's office, in a five-and-ten, in a restaurant, as a clerk, as a saleswoman, as a nurse, teacher, librarian, as the checker of linen in a hotel, or as the visitor of the settlement house, one fact is inescapable. She has a superior.

* * *

That superior is looking for merit. Out of the three hundred girls under her she has her eye on the twenty best, and out of that twenty best she knows which two are the best of the best. Among three hundred girls there would never be more than twenty who were always neat, prompt, respectful, happy, healthy, efficient.

* * *

So Betty's job is first to place herself among that twenty, and then to be the best of the lot. And if Betty is smart she won't listen to the old employee who hasn't had any use for the place since J. G. died, because all they do, now, if you try to be efficient, is knock you!

* * *

Betty will learn all the business secrets that there are to learn when she masters this one; that there is NEVER room among the discontented incapable mob at the bottom, it is always crowded and uncomfortable down there. But there is ALWAYS room at the top.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

HUNGER CAUSES RESTLESSNESS.

Perhaps you are amused when you see a baby crying, to notice how quickly he subsides when he is give his "bottle" of milk. The restless active crying rascal settles away into a quiet contented cherub.

Drs. M. and G. Scham, Minneapolis, have been able to show a strong relationship between hunger or lack of nourishment, and restlessness or nervousness.

They carried out a study of undernourishment in children, with special emphasis on symptoms of nervousness and fatigue.

They report that hunger is the cause of activity and that a positive relation exists between activity and loss of weight.

That in cases of undernourishment a sufficient or adequate diet reduces the activity with an immediate increase in weight.

Lack of food or undernourishing produces irritability and restlessne ss. The study shows that the symptoms of nervousness and fatigue are more numerous in children whose height and weight is more than 10 per cent. below normal.

They suggest forced feeding and the rest cure for undernourished children as it reduces and improves nervous symptoms, increases the ability of the body processes to work, and hastens the gain of weight.

I believe that most physicians will agree with these suggestions.

However what about suggestions for "grown up".

Now there are cases as Dr. Weir Mitchell showed us years ago, where forced feeding and rest was of great help.

However an adult has his growth and does not need the food and rest for this purpose.

However most nervous irritable individuals do need plenty of good food to nourish all the cells of the body, the food is not needed for growth, therefore it must be taken care of by the body.

This is properly done by regular exercise, outdoors if possible, which makes the heart pump harder and sends blood to every cell. This blood will be good blood because it is made out of good food and fresh air. And as to rest; if you eat good food and get plenty of exercise rest or sleep will come naturally.

After all a healthy animal is one that eats well and works or is exercised. The sleep or rest part comes naturally.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion at The Examiner Office.

"Dear Marion:

Very sorry to inform you there was an error in the printing of the recipe for "Cocoanut Pie" It should have read 1 cup of sweet milk. I believe I only wrote sw, when I sent in the recipe so perhaps I am to blame.

Only hope no one has tried it before it is correct for I am afraid it would be a failure entirely and it is really nice if made right.

Trust you will have this corrected as soon as possible.

Maple Leaf".

I'm sorry about the mistake we made "Maple Leaf", but I hope this note will fix it up before any neighbor goes wrong. Thanks for writing.

"Dear Marion:

Here I am again looking for more helps and to thank you for those I have received, they are fine. Also I am enclosing twenty-five cents for pattern number —— size two years and fashion book.

Where are all the wonderful letters lately? I suppose everybody is busy. It is such a busy season with gardening, sewing and all the rest. I have three children and they keep me going. Two are at school.

I have tried 'Min's' recipe for string beans with the white beans that are dried for winter use. Just omit the water, they are lovely.

I have tried several other recipes and found them all good. Will send one for Tea Kisses.

Well Marion, I hope you have been able to have some walks in the country lately, as I think it is at its best, so are the mosquitoes, but we have to take the bitter with the sweet always.

Wishing you the best of luck with your page. You may put this in the waste basket if you wish. I won't mind.

Matilda."

Thank you "Matilda" for your nice letter. I had a most enjoyable hike a few days ago, out west of the city, and studied the stars to my heart's content. Do you know Orion and Uisa Major, and Corona, and the Scorpion? There's something more to add interest to an evening stroll!

TEA KISSES

(Contributed by 'Matilda')

Sift together 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder or 1 teaspoon soda and 2 teaspoons cream of tarter, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Rub in 1-2 cup butter, add 1 cup white sugar, 2 eggs, scant 1-2 cup sweet milk, one teaspoon lemon flavoring. Drop on buttered tin or use patty pan tins. I sometimes add 1-2 cup cocoanut.

Bid "Goodnight" to Sleeplessness

SLEEPLESSNESS is the direct result of overtaxed, underfed nerves. Just as soon as you give your nerves the extra nourishment they need you'll commence sleeping soundly and will feel like a different person again.

Ovaltine is not a mere haphazard mixture of its several ingredients, but is manufactured by an exclusive scientific process. Ovaltine retains, unimpaired, all the essential elements of its valuable ingredients—ripe barley malt, fresh eggs and creamy milk from England's richest pastures. It is the finest natural "pick-me-up" in the world for starved nerves.

Ovaltine taken just before you go to bed

induces sleep as soon as your head touches the pillow : : natural sleep. : : Builds up your system with new stores of energy and vitality while you slumber. And Ovaltine is so easily assimilated that every particle can be absorbed even by the weakest digestion.

Thousands of men and women who work by muscle or brain tell us that they have been able to persist in strenuous and nerve-taxing tasks only through the restorative goodness of Ovaltine. One cupful of Ovaltine contains more nourishment than 3 eggs or 12 cupfuls of beef tea.

Take a cup before you "turn in." You will waken in the morning feeling wonderfully refreshed. Drink Ovaltine the year 'round for health. Made in England. Sold at 50c, 75c, $1.25 and special $4.50 family size. The larger tins are more economical to buy.

SKIRT IN ONE-PIECE.

THE STYLE No. 3487 is one of those lovely new cotton prints that is irresistible in vivid red tones on white ground with piping of plain red. And a surprise awaits you when you hear how easily it is made. The bodice is in two sections with drop shoulders shirred at each side of neckline. A jabot frill, a shaped piece of material piped along edge is stitched down perforated line of front section. Skirt shirred to affect a snug hipline, cuts entirely in one piece. It is very pretty too in printed crepe de chine, dimity, handkerchief linen, fine chambray and printed voile.

THE PATTERN designed in sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew. It is illustrated in Pictures exactly how it is made, a new idea to help the younger members of the family make their own clothes, and save time for the experienced sewer.

NEW FASHION BOOK containing all the latest styles is 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

FASHION SERVICE

Germaine Lecomte uses Cravate tissue very delightfully in this frock of brown polka dot design with georgette collars and cuffs in cream.

SUMMER WEAR.

By Mme. Germaine Lecomte.

Cravate tissues continue to be popular for informal summer wear, and for this frock I have chosen a dark brown polka dot design, and have used cream georgette embroidered with brown to make the cleverly cut collar and the little cuff effects on the sleeves. A series of decoupos in the skirt end in godets.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,
That old and antique song we heard, last night.

"JUST AS THE SHIP WENT DOWN"
(Contributed by 'Beatrice')

A cold, dark night, a sea of ice,
A ship out on the ocean,
All fitted out by man's device,
She rode in perfect motion.
A jar, a crash, a fearful clash,
A sound like awful thunder,
The dying groan, the living moan,
As the splendid ship went under.

The sky grown black, the icebergs crack,
And Death hangs o'er the water,
But, "Women First", the orders rang,
For mother, and for daughter.
A cry, a shriek, but who can speak?
For then the waters parted,
The sea was cleft; and what was left
For the living broken-hearted?

Chorus

Out on the sea when the ship went down,
Out where the life-boats rocked,
Husbands were parted from loving wives,
Captain and sailors, they gave up their lives,
Wireless rang with the awful news,
By which the whole world was shocked;
Out on the sea, near Eternity,
Where the angry waters frown,
"Nearer my God, to Thee", they sang,
Just as the ship went down.

(This song was written after the wreck of the Titanic, when 1,500 people lost their lives on the giant ship's maiden trip across the Atlantic. As the ship sank the band was still playing, "Nearer My God to Thee". The wreck was caused by collision with an iceberg.)

BRITISH DIVINE VISITS IN CITY

Rev. Purves-Boyes Is Guest of Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Wood.

MEN MET IN FRANCE.

The Rev. Purves-Boyes, an internationally famous personage, has been spending the past few days as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Edward H. Wood, 343 Stewart street. Dr. Wood and Mr. Purves-Boyes are wartime acquaintances, having met while serving overseas in Rouen Hospital where Dr. Wood was medical officer and Mr. Purves-Boyes was chaplain.

This famous minister is in Canada as a representative of the Presbyterian Church of England to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, which was held in Ottawa recently.

He addressed the meeting three times, conveying the greeting of his church to the Canadian convention. After leaving Peterborough he will also be a representative of the Presbyterian Church in England at the Pan Presbyterian Council that is to be held in Boston.

Mr. Purves-Boyes is interested in the Union of Churches in Canada, in the light of the union that is to take place in October of the Scottish Churches and the possibility of a union of the Congregational and Presbyterian Churches in England.

He graduated in 1907 from Edinburgh University, and has studied on the Continent at Marlburg and Heidleburg Universities in Germany.

In Ministry 21 Years

He has been in the ministry for twenty-one years. His first church was in Edinburgh where he remained for two years; the next three he spent at St. Andrew's, Scotland, with an important church there, after which he went to Glasgow for six years. Three of these, however, he spent in France, serving as Chaplain with the 2nd Battalion of the Royal Scots Fusiliers, and it was during this period that he became a close friend of Dr. Wood.

On returning to England after the war and after leaving Glasgow, he was appointed to a very important church in London, England.

Building Church in Edinburgh

At present there is in construction a $350,000 church in Edinburgh that is being built for Mr. Purves-Boyes and of which he will have charge when he returns to the British Isles. While on this side he has preached in Montreal and on Sunday he is to preach in Ottawa and later in New York, where he will be staying for a short time.

This is the second time that Mr. Purves-Boyes has been in Peterborough. Seven years ago he was in Canada on a special mission and during that time he visited with Dr. Wood.

GARRISON NOTES

The Peterborough Rangers have begun their annual range practices, the turn-out on the last two Saturdays being extremely satisfactory, indicating that this important branch of training is popular with all ranks. The machine gun section ,composed of a N.C.O. and two men from each company is working hard, and Sergt.-Major Thomas had the squad shooting on the thirty-five yard range on Saturday.

The brass band is making special efforts to round into shape for Old Home Week, while the bugle band, completely re-organized this year, is making great strides.

Congratulations are due to Lieut. Peryer, who has composed a special march entitled the "Peterborough Rangers' Band March," which will be broadcast from a station in the United States in the near future.

The battalion, about 130 strong, went by special train to Toronto to attend the military tournament. All ranks are enthusiastic in their praise of the show.

Lieut.-Col. W. G. Beeman, G.S.O. for M.D. 3, visited the Armouries on Tuesday and gave a lecture to the officers of the garrison.

The units of the Peterborough Garrison will parade at 10.30 a.m. Sunday, for the purpose of attending divince service at St. John's Church.

The 4th Battery and the Rangers will be inspected by Brigadier Anderson, D.O.C. M.D. 3, on Friday, the 21st.

No. 3 Co., 4th Batt. C.M.G.C., is eagerly looking forward to camp, which will be held, this year, at Barriefield. The dates have not been definitely decided, but it is expected the unit will leave Peterborough on July 13 or 15.

About forty men have signified thei rintention to join in the camp.

lantic changed faster than was predicted.

NEW YORK, June 14.—(Canadian Press).—The steamer Rochambeau reported to the French line to-day that the trans-Atlantic monoplane Yellow Bird had changed its course to head for the Azores and the Portugese coast.

The message from the Rochambeau was received at two o'clock this morning and was in somewhat garbled French. It was translated by French line officials as follows: "On account of the heavy use of gasoline we are changing our course and going toward the Azores and the Portugese coast.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 14. — (Canadian Press). — The French Line steamer Niagara reported by wireless to-day that it was in communication with the trans-Atlantic monoplane Yellow Bird at six o'clock this morning, eastern daylight time, and that everything was reported well on board the plane.

The message from the Niagara was not received here until after noon, it having been relayed from one ship to another and then through a land station to the French line. The Niagara gave its position at the time it spoke to the Yelow Bird as latitude 41.14 north longitude 22.10 west, but did not give the position of the Yellow Bird.

LONDON, June 14. — (Canadian Press).—Offices of the Cunard Line here to-day received a wireless from the steamship Laconia, bound for Liverpool, which had been in communication with the French trans-Atlantic Yellow Bird and reported all well aboard. The message was timed "Noon G.M.T." (approximately 8 a.m. E.S.T.)

The position of the Yellow Bird was not given in the message, which read:

"Noon G.M.T. latitude 48 point 56 north, longitude, 22 point 10 west reports all well. Airplane's position unascertained. Weather conditions here, strong southerly wind with rain."

The Laconia's position was northeast of the Azores Islands about 700 miles from the islands.

GENERAL SMUTS

"Die Burger," the Nationalists will have a majority of ten over all parties when the complete returns are received. The South African party organ, "The Cape Times," disputes this however, placing the Nationalist majority at ten members.

Trade Treaty Opposed

The South African party is deeply disappointed by the result of the election. They were particularly hopeful of defeating the administration because of the strenuous campaign the opposition has waged against the German-South African trade treaty, and the government's scheme to give the natives throughout the Union a certain proportion of representation to the House of Assembly. The German trade treaty gives Germany the benefits of preference schemes extended to Great Britain.

The success of Hon. D. F. Malan, Minister of Railways at Humansdorp, Cape Province, where he defeated the South African party candidate, J. P. Du Plessis by 344 votes, was a personal triumph scored in the face of an adverse limitation of the boundaries of the constituency and the fact that he had to fight a very popular candidate.

SEMI-DEAF MUTE ENJOYS "TALKIES"

W. A. O'Rourke Is Pleased With Haiwiian Quartette and Song Number Old Black Joe.

That he heard and enjoyed the "Talkies" at the Capitol Theatre on Monday, is the claim of W. A. O'Rourke, the semi-deaf mute, proprietor of the Royal Press in this city. Mr. O'Rourke, who is so deaf as to be unable to hear a train whistle, writes that he enjoyed especially the Haiwaiian quartette and the song number, "Old Black Joe."

Mr. O'Rourke attended the first showing of the newly-innovated "Talkies" on Monday on a special invitation of the manager, J. A. Stewart. He sat in the centre section of the theatre and listened intently to every strain of music that issued from the screen. By reading the lips of the actors he also got the spoken parts and thus got as much out of the performance as any person with a normal sense of hearing would.

That he should be able to hear the music of the "Talkies" is not extraordinary, claims Mr. O'Rourke, for at his home he has an ordinary phonograph, the music of which he can hear with ease. But he does not hear in the usual way. He hears through the soles of his feet. The sound waves are received and transmitted to his brain by the nerves on the soles of his feet instead of through his ear drums. "These nerves," he says, "are unusually developed as is often the case of deaf mutes. When one is lacking in one of the senses, the other senses are often known to become more acute."

PURELY ACCIDENTAL OFFICIALS CLAIM

Injury At Raybestos To George Davis Was An Accident.

The accident recently at the Raybestos plant in which George Davis, a trusted employe of that firm, had his leg broken in two places was not caused by any lack of care on the part of the injured man, representatives of the Raybestos Company stated to-day. "It was purely accidental, and we want it understood that Davis had taken ever precaution in unloading the heavy piece of machinery," they said.

BEAVER BOOTLEGGERS MINISTER'S LATEST WORRY

Closed Season Will Be Placed On Valuable Animals in Northwest Territories

OTTAWA, Ont., June 14.—(By The Canadian Press).—Beware of "bootleggers" of beaver pelts, J. A. Fraser (Conservative, Cariboo) warned Hon. Chas. Stewart, Minister of Interior, in the House of Commons last night. Mr. Stewart had informed the House that it was proposed to place a closed season on beaver in the Northwest Territories during the coming year and only allow Indians to kill beaver.

It was the plan of the government to allow Indians $25 for each prime pelt brought to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police posts of the far north. In this way could be calculated the number of beaver slain and further, the measure would prevent, it was thought, famine among the Indian tribes which depended on the supply of game for food.

EDMONTON 'POSTIE' IS GROWING TURKISH TOBACCO IN CANADA

Martin Baker Has Made Hobby of Tobacco Growing for Years.

FROM FOUR SEEDS

Highly Praised When Cured by Edmonton Pipe Smokers.

EDMONTON, Alta., June 14 (Special to The Examiner, by Christopher Morley, Copyright). — Reports from the tobacco plantations of Essex County, Ontario, that a group of six farmers were about to experiment with the Turkish variety in an effort to see whether it could be grown in Canada, bring to light the fact that it has been.

Not only has the Asiatic brand been brought to maturity in Canadian soil, but it has been successfully achieved in this city which, as such things go, is no great distance from the Arctic, and a locality not usually associated with the development of Oriental luxuries.

Martin Baker, an Edmonton postman, has made a hobby of tobacco-growing since shortly after the war, and, since 1926, has been producing the Turkish plants on a gradually increasing scale till his annual crop has now reached the commercial stage.

Served Overseas.

During the war, Baker, originally an Armenian, but now a naturalized Canadian, served with the Royal Engineers and was sent to Salonika. While in that general district, the sight of tobacco fields brought back to mind the weeks he had spent in similar surroundings during his boyhood. He determined, when he returned to Western Canada at the cessation of hostilities, to tackle the tobacco problem in Northern Alberta even though he knew he would be told that it was an impossibility in such a cold climate.

With the assistance of both Federal and Provincial officials from the Departments of Agriculture, he began his experiments on vacant land within the city limits. They were watched with great interest since the postman-planter was pioneering, and it was generally believed that his chances of success were slim.

But his tobacco grew rapidly, and, when cured, was highly praised by local pipe-smokers. Since he knew in detail, the methods of cultivating and curing the Turkish varieties, he tried to get seeds. This proved to be a long and involved process, but in 1926, through the assistance of the Alberta Government Trade Commissioner and the British Ambassador in Constantinople, and after reams of official correspondence had passed back and forth, he procured four solitary seeds.

Planted Acre Last Summer.

These he developed in a cold-frame and cherished like diamonds They grew rapidly, and by last summer he had sufficient seed to plant an acre. In July, all his tobacco was destroyed by hail, but after cutting the plants off at the ground, they sprang up again and he harvested his expected crop. The speed with which the tobacco matured is leading him to experiment with the possibilities of two crops a year.

His Northern Alberta-Turkish tobacco is now thoroughly acclimatized and of fine flavor. Baker's total acreage of tobacco of all kinds was seven acres in 1928, but he is steadily increasing it. Some of his last year's crop was sent to the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto.

Martin Baker himself, however, continues his daily rounds as a letter-carrier, and his tobacco plantation, though flourishing, remains a side-line and a spare-time hobby.

MEXICAN TOWN CAPTURED

MEXICO CITY, June 14.—(Canadian Press).—Despatches from Michoacan yesterday said General Lazaro Cardenas with 7,000 federal troops had occupied Coalcoman, Michoacan, without fighting. No details were given but yesterday rebels holding the city were said to be entrenching themselves to defend it.

To Make Hair Beautiful Stop Scalp Itching and Kill Dandruff

Famous Chemist Tells of Simple Home Recipe That Works Wonders

To destroy dandruff, cleanse and invigorate the scalp, stop itching and make the hair soft, fluffy, and beautiful, I recommend this simple Home Recipe in preference to anything else—Get from your druggist 6 oz of plain Bay Rum, 2 oz. Lavona de Composee and ½ drachm of Menthol. You can mix these in druggist yourself or have your druggist mix them for you—and you'll have a full half-pint of the finest Hair Tonic you ever tried. Apply to scalp night and morning and rub in thoroughly with finger tips—three days' use will prove its great value. Try it today.

MAIL SERVICE COST DIVIDED

Various Expenditures Make Up Canada's Total of Millions of Dollars.

SALARIES $16,510,597

OTTAWA, June 14.—(By the Canadian Press).—The cost of the Canadian postal service in its various branches is given as follows:—

"To handle the millions upon millions of letters, post cards, and parcels which are delivered to the people of Canada, at near and far points each year, cost the country in the fiscal year of 1928, the great sum of $32,379,195—in the gross that is, as the sale of postage stamps and other general revenue made the P.O. service almost self sustaining. The net deficit on the year's operations was $1,850,040.

There were two chief items of expense. The first was salaries and wages of postmasters, clerks, postmen, drivers, etc., and the second the cost of transportation.

Salaries and wages amounted to $16,510,597, while conveyance of the mails cost $14,601,163. In this item was included the modest sum of $374,633 for the supply and repair of mail bags.

The cost of conveyance of the mails was subdivided into rail cost, water cost, air cost, and cost by "ordinary land" which means delivery by stages and other vehicles, from the trains to rural post office and the rural mail service by which farmers have the mail delivered to their front gates.

The greatest cost of conveyance was by railways, and "by ordinary land" as the P.O. Department designates it. The railways were paid $7,437,992, and the R. F. route deliveries and other overland deliveries were paid $6,291,180. Mail carried by water cost $434,032. Mail carried by air (though only in the infancy of the service), cost $63,425.

Other main items of expense which went to make up the thirty-two millions of total expenditure, include the cost of printing postage stamps, $277,044; purchase of rural boxes, $109,042; printing of various sorts $348,576; and miscellaneous expenditures of $326,746.

INDIANS SEEK SHELTER FROM FOREST FIRES

Nelson House District In Northern Manitoba Is Being Swept in Conflagration.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 14.—(By Canadian Press.)—With forest fires raging around their encampments, Indians living north of Nelson House, Manitoba, have been forced to seek shelter on small islands in Beaver Dam Lake, according to word reaching here late last night. Several Indian families have taken protection on the islands.

Three large fires are burning up in the Nelson House district, which is about 450 miles due north of Winnipeg.

The settlement at Nelson House is not at present endangered, but development of a high wind would prove a great menace to the mission and trading post located there.

Leafs Drop First Game Of Series To Reading

WELCH WINS HIS OWN GAME BY SINGLE HIT INTO CENTRE

Quellich's Sensational Catch of Ruble's "Texas Leaguer" Undoing of Leafs.

FINAL SCORE 7-6.

Montreal Defeats Baltimore To Drop Orioles Into Third Place.

READING, June 14 (C.P.).—George Quellich's sensational shoestring catch of Art Ruble's "Texas leaguer" into short left, with two down in the ninth and the fleet-footed Archdeacon on third ready to check in the tying run, snuffed out Toronto's hopes here yesterday afternoon, Reading winning the first game of the series, 7 to 6.

Twice the visitors were in front only to have the Keystones come from behind to take the lead, with Johnny Welch, who had relieved "Pete" Fowler on the mound in the sixth, winning his own game with a single to centre.

The timely hit drove home "Tweet" Walsh, who had doubled along the right field foul line with what proved to be the winning counter.

BEARS BRAK EVEN

NEWARK, June 14 (C.P.).—The Bears and the Buffalo Bisons opened their series here yesterday by splitting a double-header, the Bisons winning the first game 7 to 1, and the Bruins taking the seven-inning nightcap 1 to 0.

Lefty Faulkner and Vic Aldridge engaged in a pitching duel in the first game until Aldridge blew up in the eighth. It was the first defeat for the former Giant and Pirate in seven starts in the International League.

ROYALS TRIM ORIOLES

BALTIMORE, June 14 (C.P.).—Montreal opened the series with the Baltimore Orioles here yesterday by pounding Bolen and Walker all over the lot and winning the game by the score of 17 to 5.

Errors and generally lax play by the home team, along with miserable pitching, made the visitors' task and that of their pitcher, Herb. Thormahlen, an easy one.

The defeat dropped Balimore from second to third place, Reading taking the position next to the pace-setting Rochester club.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

To Neutralize Acidity and Fermentation. Prevents Indigestion, Sour Gassy Stomach.

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, soda and various digestive aids and got little more than slight temporary relief—sometimes not even that.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk, but pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion.

Tolley Is Leading Contender For Title

SANDWICH, Eng., June 14.—(A.P.) — Phil Perkins, British amateur golf champion, relinquished his crown in the fourth round of championship play yesterday when he was defeated by Andrew McNair, one up. Cyril Tolley, biggest and one of the best of British golfers, who was joint favorite with Perkins, now is the leading contender for the crown.

Tolley to-day defeated Bobby Baugh, Jr., a Birmingham boy, who captains the Oxford golf team, three and two, another leading contender, A. J. Lewis, London barrister, defeated McNair, Perkin's nemesis, six and four.

MATTHEWS OR OSBORNE WILL OPPOSE PETES

Manager Sutton Likely to Call Upon One of His Two Winners To-morrow.

A REAL ARGUMENT

Both Crews Are Confident of Victory in All Important Battle.

The biggest crowd of the season will be at James Steevnson Park tomorrow afternoon to see Oshawa and Peterborough battle it out, the Petes to stay on top of the League race and the Motorists to climb back into the leadership from which they were ousted on Wednesday.

Manager Sutton of Oshawa has a smart young ball team who have abundance of pep and enthusiasm and who fight until the last ditch. Doc Rowden, the hockey star, is playing great ball in the outfield for them, and there are other well known performers in the General Motors uniform who can be counted upon to give the Petes an interesting afternoon and provide local fans with plenty of excitement. The Oshawa pitching staff includes Matthews, Ogden and Osborne, righthanders, and Wills, a southpaw heaver. Either Matthews or Osborne is expected to get the call tomorrow.

The Petes are playing nice ball now and they hope to increase their lead over the Motorists to-morrow.

The game is called for 3 o'clock sharp and will be in charge of Umpires Skitch of Cobourg and Kerr of Deloro.

LACROSSE GAME IS CALLED OFF

Campbellford Team Wants Exhibition Game With Peterborough During Old Home Week.

JUNIOR TEAM IN O.A.L.A.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 14 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Following a long distance telephone call from Deseronto, the much discussed lacrosse match to be played there between Campbellford and Oshawa on June 19 has been called off as far as Campbellford is concerned. It was intimated that the game would be played between two Indian teams. As a result of this, Manager Sutherland is casting about for an nexhibition game with some other team in the district. The local players have spent many hours practising and are already in fairly good condition. It has been suggested that a game with Peterborough during the Old Home Week there be arranged. The local officials are anxious to do this, if possible.

At a meeting held recently of the local association, it was decided to enter a junior team in the O.A.L.A. The present indication is that Campbellford and Hastings will form the local group and will play a double schedule of home and home games. Campbellford's intentions along this line were sent in a letter to the secretary of the O.A.L.A.

For the local juvenile league, a partial schedule was drawn up. The list of games will be completed as soon as the softball games are started on the High School grounds and leave the Fair Grounds open for lacrosse. The games arranged so far are: June 19, Canadians vs. Maple Leafs; June 24, Shamrocks vs. Tecumsehs; June 26, Maplpe Leafs vs. Shamrocks; July 3, Tecumsehs vs. Canadians. The remainder of the schedule will be drawn as soon as the grounds are free for playing.

Last night the steam roller appeared on the fair grounds and flattened down the sandy loam that is laid for a playing surface. It is expected that the grounds will be ready for the teams for the games next week.

First Sunday After Trinity.

SOFTBALL.

The following is the softball schedule for next week:

Monday, June 17—C.G.E. vs Teco Stores.

Tuesday, June 18—Bridgenorth vs Harrisons.

Thursday, June 20—Western Clock vs K. of C.

The last named team in each case is the home team.

WELLS HOLDS FORMER MATES IN THE PINCHES

Earl Whitehill Easy Victims For Hugmen Through Six Innings.

FOURTH FOR THE A'S.

White Sox Score Three Runs in Tenth Inning To Defeat Senators 11-8.

NEW YORK, June 14.—(C.P.) — The Yankees outhit the Tigers by 14 to 7 here yesterday and took the opening game of the series by 8 to 5.

Ed Wells, former Detroit southpaw, was wild as usual, giving five passes, but held his one-time mates in the pinches.

Earl Whitehill was easy for the Hugmen, but Bucky Harris permitted him to take his beating for six rounds before substituting a pinch batsman.

RALLY IN TENTH.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(C.P.)—(C.P.)—After a four run rally in the ninth inning had permitted the Washington Senators to overcome an early Chicago lead and tie the score, the White Sox came back in the tenth with three tallies to win yesterday's game, 11 to 8. Five pitchers were used and all were batted freely except Lyon. Ad Liska pitched the tenth for the Senators and lost the game.

TAKE FOURTH STRAIGHT.

PHILADELPHIA, June 14.—(C.P.)—The Philadelphia Athletics won their fourth straight game yesterday by taking the series opener from the Cleveland Indians, 10 to 3.

The fast-travelling Mackmen slapped Jimmy Zinn and Johnny Miljus for 15 hits, that included a double, two triples and two homers, the latter made by Dykes and Haas.

SOX DOWN BROWNS.

BOSTON, June 14.—(C.P.)—Milton Gaston won his fourth straight game here yesterday when he pitched the Red Sox to a 4 to 1 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

Bigelow drove in two of the Boston runs, and W. Barrett scored three times.

Todt made two doubles and was hit once in his three trips to the plate.

LIBERAL LEADER

dict indicated a preference for a Socialist Administration. The existence of a party which had the support of 5,300,000 citizens is not taken into account by these two parties in their reckoning of the present situation, or in their estimates of future prospects.

"The Liberal Party increased its poll by 80 per cent., compared with the 1924 election. The Socialists increased theirs by 53 per cent., and the Conservative vote increased by 11 per cent.

"The Liberals stand to-day between this country and out-and-out socialism. Unconsciously the knowledge that they are there has already had its influence. Does any one imagine this is the kind of Ministry you would have if the Socialists had obtained an independent majority?"

Forecast of Events

Mr. Lloyd George then went on to forecast to some extent the trend of events in the new Parliament. "In this Parliament," he said, "the existence of the Government will depend, on critical occasions, on the vote given by the Liberal members. the Tories and the Socialists have agreed that Liberalism is to be suppressed by a studied policy of turning.

"It is childish, and we must make it clear from the start that 5,300,000 Liberals cannot be wiped out with a rude gesture. To use the elegent phrase of the Prime Minister, 'we mean to stand for no monkeying.' Let us therefore bring our opponents back to realities. It will prevent a good deal of misconception which might be prematurely fatal to the life of a Parliament which is capable, if wisely handled, of doing good service for the nation.

"It is necessary that I state the facts quite brutally, for nothing was so disastrous to our fortunes at the elections as the recital of the bare facts of our Parliamentary dissensions. It cost us at least fifty seats. This dis-union paralyzed our efficiency in the last Parliament. If we had been united, even with forty members we could have made a great impression, if not on Parliament, at least on the country."

TWO SENTENCED TO HANG.

HULL, Que., June 14.—(Canadian Press).—Found guilty by a jury of the murder of Zephyr Viau, 62-year-old farmer of Montpellier, Que., on January 22 last, Philibert Lefebvre, 32, a farm hand, and Mary Viau, 42, wife of the victim, were sentenced yesterday by Mr. Justice Loranger to hang on Friday, August 23. Should the sentence be carried out in either case it will be the first hanging in Hull for 27 years. The last hanging was that of Tom Lafoie in 1902.

Stanislau Zybosko Victor At Toronto

TORONTO, Ont., June 14 (Canadian Press). — Stanislau Zybosko veteran wrestler, easily defeated his young opponent, Fred Grobmeyer, in the feature bout of the wrestling matches held at the Arena Gardens here last night.

Jack Taylor, Winnipeg, won an unfavorable decision over Gino Garibildi, young Italian, in a match which lasted forty-five minutes. Garibaldi, muscular and well built, kept Taylor in hot water throughout, displaying some very fine wrestling.

PRESENTATION MADE.

Mr. and Mrs. James Weatherson Are Given a Sum of Money.

WARKWORTH, June 14 (Examiner Correspondence). — On Tuesday evening a pleasing event took place when a large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Weatherson and presented them with a sum of monew. Mr. and Mrs. Weatherson are moving to the village very soon.

The meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Peter Jones on Wednesday afternoon, June 12. The meeting was well attended, and a good program was presented.

PIRATES WIN FROM GIANTS

Pittsburgh Overcomes Early Lead of Six Runs To Capture 11-7 Victory.

ROBINS WIN OUT 2-1.

PITTSBURG, June 14 (C.P.).—Hard hitting by Sheedy, Grantham, Traynor and Lloyd Wanter enabled the Pirates to come from behind and defeat the Giants by 11 to 7 here yesterday, after spotting the visitors six runs in the first two innings.

The Giants scored five times in the second when Melvin Ott capped a rally with his thirteenth home-run with two on, but the Pirates came back with an equal number in their own half.

BROOKLYN WINS FROM REDS

CINCINNATI, June 14 (C.P.).—Dazzy Vance was his old self yesterday as he made his first start since May 16, and Brooklyn shaded the Reds by 2 to 1 in the opening game of the series.

Vance fanned only one man, but gave just five hits and should have had a shut-out. Cincinnati scored in the first inning on two singles with Bancroft's wild throw attached to one of them.

GAME POSTPONED

CHICAGO, June 14 (C.P.).—Chicago and Philadelphia yesterday battled for five scoreless innings before rain interfered and forced postponement of the contest.

It was a pitcher's battle between Charley Root and Claude Willoughby, Root allowing four hits and Willoughby three.

Quakers Vs. Brinton Deloro Vs. C.G.E.

A league game is scheduled for Saturday afternoon between the Brinton A. A. and the Quaker Oats at King Edward Park. Referee, A. Aitken head. Kick-off at three o'clock.

In all probability both elevents will show many new faces that have not played this season.

Deloro will have the Canadian General team as their guests for the afternoon. If the local boys win, it will put them at the top of the league table; while if the Smelter boys achieve a victory, it will make four teams on an even basis.

CANUCKS DROP SECOND GAME

Wild Throws and Base Stealing Feature of Game.

FINAL COUNT 19-4.

Bagging only two hits off Gatfield, the southpaw Moose twirler, the Canucks were routed for the second time in the Juvenile fixture at James Stevenson Park last night by a score of 19-4 At no time did they have a show-in from the first pitched ball to the last Foley connected with the first ball thrown and drove it far into the left field for an easy single, starting the game off with a snap for the Moose squad Four runs were counted up in the first five minutes of play Four followed in the second innings, and five in the third They trickled in all through the game, although from the third frame on the Canucks played somewhat tighter ball than they had in the first three Wild throws proved costly for Duke Neary's boys The Moose base runners showed great ability at treading the paths. In all twenty-six stolen bases were gained by the Moose while the Canucks were credited with only six.

The support given Gatfield was smooth and efficient. Although only credited with five strike outs he held the Canucks to two hits. Most of their connections were for short infield flies or grounders, which the Moose polished off with ease. Burke, Price and Gatfield turned in some snappy work in this line.

Lacked Control.

Fitzgerald, the Canuck pitcher, lacked the necessary speed and control to hold the opposing team. He struck out two and handed six walks. However the eleven hits against him are to be blamed in great part to poor support. Nine errors were made in the field.

Moose: Foley cf; Whatley c; Cuthbertson 3b; Dallin lf; Levine rf; Sproats 2b; Jones ss; Waram 3b; Gatfield p.

HEAVY HITTING FEATURES GAME

Electric Team 16-14 Victors in Poor Exhibition of Softball.

MANY ERRORS.

In a clash between the Canadian General Electric and K. of C. softball teams at Central school grounds last evening, the Electrics came through with a win by a 16-14 score. The game was marked by errors and heavy hitting. Neither pitcher had much on the ball and the support given both teams was spasmodic. It was a real exhibition of a first softball game and proved disappointing to the fans who witnessed the snappy ball played in the first two games on the schedule.

In the last innings K. of C. staged a dying rally and it looked for a time as if they might pull through with a win, but one too many chances was taken when T. LeBarr was caught off second for the third out and the finish of the game.

There were two down to start with before the final rally and the play of T. LeBarr finished the evening for the softballers. In the second innings C.G.E. played havoc with Darling's offerings, ten men appearing at the plate to gather in seven runs. Triples by Calladine and Robinson, together with a homer by Playford all contributed to the counters earned in this frame.

Calladine, at second for the Canadian General, was on his toes all during the nine innings and covered himself with glory when he leaped into the air in the fourth innings to grab Darling's fly for the put out. Weir at third also played a smart game.

There was little to choose between the hurlers; neither was very strong and each had one strikeout to his credit, while during the game, as the score indicates, their curves were fairly well received by all those present.

With a little practice these teams will tighten up and give some of the stronger ones a good run before the season is over. It will take a lot of practice but it has been done and the fans following the games are behind them, if enthusiasm as was shown at the game when K. of C. were staking their comeback in the last innings is any indication.

Line up:—

C. G. E.—Calladine, 2b; Weir, 3b; H. Palmer, 1b; Playford, ss; Hedger, cf; McGrath, 3c; G. Palmer, lf; Wilson, rf; Robinson, p.

K. of C.—W. Bennett, ss; Murphy, 2b; L. LeBarr, 1b; T. LeBarr, c; Simmons, cf; R. Bennett, lf; O'Toole, rf; Ranger, 3b; Darling, p.

Score by innings:

K. of C. .. ..102042023—14
C. G. E. .. ..27032101x—16

Home runs—Playford. Struck out, Darling 1, Robinson 1.

BANDITS KILL 100 IN CHINESE DISTRICT

Villages Are Being Burned and Prominent Citizens Held For Ransom.

AMOY, Fukien, China, June 14.—(C.P.)— Refugees arriving here today from Hweian-Hsien, 60 miles inland, said bandits had almost burned down their village, killing 100 residents and holding prominent citizens for ransom.

The bandits were said to be in control of the entire country-side from Chuanchow north to Amoy, with refugees flocking to safety. Missionary society representatives here are very much concerned for the safety of their representatives at Hweian-Hsien.

Let the Driver Drive

Safe motoring on our highways requires the undivided attention of the driver. A moment's carelessness at the wheel too often means a bad accident.

If you are a passenger in a motor car, do nothing and say nothing that will distract the driver's attention. Let him keep his eyes and his mind constantly on his driving.

You can help the highway safety movement by always letting the driver drive.

CRICKET MATCH TO-MORROW AFTERNOON.

The Peterborough Cricket Club and the local C.G.E. club will meet at the Oval to-morrow afternoon in a game that promises to be well played. It will get underway at 2.15.

Both teams have been practising diligently and the score should be close. The friendly rivalry existing between these two local clubs is keen and any followers of the game should not miss this match. The following players will represent the Peterborough Club: Dunkerly, (Capt.); Elliott, Thorpe, Stuart, Gore, Hamilton, Mitchell, Dyer, Monkman, Combe, and Sutcliffe; and reserve, Willatt.

CONTINUE TRIUMPHAL PARADE.

The Moose team continued their triumphal parade of victories by winning over the Canucks. Although only three hits were secured from the portside hurling of Gatfield, Canucks never stopped trying. Their fielding was away off color, and they made nine errors behind their hard-working twirler, Fitzgerald. The winners all played sterling baseball.

The game did show that the Canucks have improved in their play since their first appearance. With steady and determined practising this team could soon give the Moose the stiffest possible argument.

BENEFITS OF DAYLIGHT SAVING.

With Daylight Saving coming into effect next week, the great benefits to sport and other outdoor recreation will at once become apparent. The games will likely start now at 6.15 thus giving the fans plenty of time to get to the park, and there will be little or no danger that any games will have to be called on account of darkness.

To-day the City of Hamilton is voting on Daylight Saving, and the sporting fraternity there have made a great effort to secure votes for the measure. Daylight Saving was originally introduced in Hamilton, but after one year's trial, and in which they were all alone on fast time, the city reverted back to Standard. Now Hamilton is practically alone on slow time.

COLLINS PLAYING GOOD BASEBALL.

Frankie Collins is holding down third base for Hillcrests in the T.A.B.A. Collins, who learned both his hockey and baseball here, has gained a solid place in the regard of the fans in Toronto. Although his team lost last night, he came through with a clean single.

MAY BE OUT OF GAME FOR GOOD.

Babe Ruth, the greatest home run hitter to ever grace a diamond, may never again swing his giant bat. Ruth is suffering from heart trouble, and doctors who have examined him fear an enlargement of the heart instead of strained heart muscles, as first reported. The Bambino was never the one to hang back when the going was tough, and he was subjected to a terrific strain by his contract with with the Yankees. His salary is as large as President Hoover, but under the terms of his agreement he must appear in every exhibition game. The constant travelling, and social obligations on these tours, did much to weaken him, Ruth now admits.

Ruth's loss would be a great blow to the box office receipts of the Yankees, and every team in the league would also suffer as a result.

PLAXTON MAY JOIN LEAFS.

It is stated that Connie Smythe has secured Hughie Plaxton for his team next year, and Andy Blair will thus have adequate centre ice relief, and Toronto will show a very popular player, and one who should attract a lot of attention. Plaxton is a quiet-mannered, modest type, who is a great scorer, and he enjoys a high status, not only among the Varsity adherents, but in all sportdom as well. While there may be vigorous denial that Plaxton will line up with the Leafs, the news has leaked out, and is stated to be a fact.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: North, with several assists for Spades, gives one of them on the first round and, following West's overcall with three Hearts, gives a second assist, concluding the bidding.

Contract: At Contract, North jumps at once to the game bid four Spades, although the actual supporting values held and particularly the type of distribution of the hand, do not fully justify such immediate assist, although they do fully justify a three bid. North, however, reasons that with four Spades in his own hand South may also hold but four. If so, then North's high cards in Diamonds and Clubs together with the high cards that West has shown by his bid, may leave South with insufficient values to warrant his advancing a three bid to four. Consequently North prefers the risk of a possible overbid to that of a possible underbid.

The Play

Upon West's opening lead of the King of Hearts, East starts an echo with the Jack, the correct play despite the erroneous idea of some players that an echo should not be made with an honor. While this is true as to Ace, King or Queen, it does not apply to the Jack or Ten. West follows the 10 of Hearts, East discarding a Club. South refuses to be forced and discards his losing Diamond. Had he trumped the Heart, he would have failed to go game

West leads the 4 of Diamonds, South winning with Dummy's (North's) Ace. Finess in trumps is taken South's 10 winning. South then takes the double finesse in Clubs and wins with Dummy's 10. Trumps are again successfully finessed and the Ace and King are then led, exhausting all trumps. South leads a Club for another finesse. West's Jack falls and Dummy's Queen wins. The Ace of Clubs is the played and the King dropping, a long Club is established in Declarer's hand. Declarer enters his hand with the King of Diamonds and takes the last trick with the thirteenth Club, scoring four odd on the hand.

CAMERAS ARE BUSY.

LONDON, June 14. — Numerous photographers are taking hundreds of photographs of the sunken city of Jamestown, once the capital of Nevis, an island in the West Indies. In 1680 the town was hit by an earthquake and sunk below the level of the sea, taking with it its riches and 14,000 persons.

WOMAN DIVINE SAYS SMOKING IS NO SIN

Rev. Mrs. Edith Pickles Defends "Flaming Youth" of To-day.

TORONTO, Ont., June 14 (Special to The Examiner, Copyright). — Sinfulness of the rising generation fails to worry one of Britain's feminine clerics, Rev. Mrs. Edith Pickles, of Liverpool ,now on a tour of the Dominion with the Free Church pilgrims.

The lady of the pulpit has found the youth of the land sound at heart and rates their unconventionalities as superficial things. She has no patience with those who indulge in prolonged criticism.

Questioned regarding her opinion of smoking among women, she said that she did not like it, but, nevertheless, did not feel called upon to denounce it as a sin.

"If a woman smokes," she remarked, "I think none the less of her for that."

For many years Mrs. Pickles' husband was pastor of Stanley Congregational Church in Liverpool. At his death, she decided to carry on. She has found her sex no handicap but, on the contrary, declares that her experiences as a wife and mother have been of enormous value to her in her pastoral work.

Her viewpoint is distinctly feminine. There is no disposition, on her part, to ape the masculine. She feels that woman has a distinct place of her own in the task of developing the world and that it is now her duty to work out her proper position in the general scheme of things.

Neither does she exploit her sex. She admits that there was a degree of prejudice against her at first, but this has now vanished. She carries on her duties in her own way, officiates at weddings, funerals, baptisms and sacraments just as her husband did before her. Her ministry is a vocation, not a stunt.

A graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, she is the only ordained woman minister among the visiting Britishers. Her brother, Sir Thomas Kinnear, is head of the National Health Insurance Commission.

'HUSKY STOPPED MY INDIGESTION' SAYS HOTEL MAN

Well-Known Resident Says Never Before Has He Ever Found Such a Good Medicine.

PETER LONGWEY

"Husky was highly recommended to me, but I have found it all and more than was claimed for it," said Peter Longwey, well-known hotel man of Mitchell, Ont., as he reported that Husky has helped him more than anything he ever used.

"I was suffering very much from indigestion," said Mr. Longwey, "and it was impossible for me to eat without having a bloated and painful feeling in my stomach. A little while after eating I would have dizzy spells and feel weak. I never had an appetite.

"I had taken several medicines and I want to tell you that I never knew what relief was until I began Husky. This medicine is entirely different and much better than anything I ever used. My stomach is not bothering me any more and I have an appetite again. In fact, I haven't had a sign of indigestion since I took the first few doses of Husky. It is the best medicine I can recommend to anyone who has indigestion."

Begin using Husky to-day and note how soon your food tastes better, sleep is more sound and restful and you feel stronger and better in every way. It is nothing short of marvelous what this medicine will do for you in a few days.

If you would like to know more about "Husky" call on the expert from the Husky Laboratories, who is now making his headquarters at Bond's Drug Store. He explains, free of charge, how best and quickest results are obtained from the use of this medicine and answers questions about the treatment. Call at Bond's and ask for the Husky Expert to-day. His information has led thousands to find the relief and new health they had been seeking for years.

REAL ESTATE AGENT DIES AFTER ARREST

Succumbs Suddenly Following Arrest in Toronto on Theft Charge.

TORONTO, Ont., June 14 (Canadian Press). — Thomas R. Tennant, a member of a firm of real estate agents, was taken ill in a cell at the Court Street Police Station following his arrest yesterday on a theft charge. He was rushed to St. Michael's Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

Tennant was arrested in his office on a warrant charging the theft of $5,000. The sergeant who registered him at the police station noticed that he did not look well. In response to his query Tennant said: "This has got me unnerved." Tennant was consigned to his cell. Later the sergeant went to see him and he was found lying on his cot. He was placed in an ambulance and taken to the hospital. The police stated last night they believed death was from natural causes. Other charges were to have been laid against Tennant, and bail had been set at $20,000. Tennant was 44 years of age and married.

TO STUDY QUEBEC MINERAL DEPOSITS

Huge Geological Undertaking, Led by Famous Scientists, Gets Under Way.

By WILFRID STILL

MONTREAL, June 14.—(Special to The Examiner, Copyright).—Six geological survey parties have taken the field to study various mineralized districts in Quebec — two groups going to Abitibi, one to Chibougamau, one to the north shore of the St. Lawrence and two to Gaspe peninsula.

This undertaking, which is greater at the outset than was the Dominion survey of 1842 or that of Ontario (Cobalt and Porcupine) of 1902, was set in motion by Hon. J. A. Perrault, Quebec minister of mines, a cautious man who "must be shown" and who habitually goes into the bush himself to observe progress in the mineral areas

The six parties were organized by John A. Dresser, consulting geologist of Montreal. Before their departure, Mr. Dresser said that it was hoped that a production value of $1,000,000 a month would be attained this year in the Abitibi district, where Noranda is the big producer.

In the locality of Cadillac and Malartic two parties will study a series of ore-bodies whose possibilities are not yet fully known. These parties will be in charge of Prof. Alexander MacLean of the University of Toronto, a geologist who has spent several years in the study of ore deposits in Quebec and Northern Ontario, and Leslie V. Bell, graduate of the Universities of Alberta and Toronto, who is well known for his geological work.

For several years there has been much speculation about the possibilies of oil and gas in Quebec.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN FOUND

TORONTO, Ont., June 14—A well dressed man, believed to be a war veteran from a veteran's badge bearing No. 40336, was killed yesterday when he either tripped or fell into the path of a Canadian National freight train, while he was walking along the tracks a short distance east of the Leaside viaduct. A pocket knife with initials "B. H." was found, along with a railway ticket and some change, in his pocket.

GIVES MONEY'S WORTH

TOKYO, June 13.—A crysanthemum plant belonging to the royal family produces more than 500 flowers. The plant is supplied nourishment from the ground through a single stem. The large mass of flowers are arranged, with the aid of bamboo, in the form of a pyramid. Thousands have viewed the plant on exhibit.

For Public PROTECTION

Our Scientific Lubricating Station Is a Genuine Alemite-ing Station

Avoid the Irresponsible "Greasing Station." 80% of All Repair Bills Are Due to Improper Lubrication. Remember This—and Take Care

Since the universal adoption of the Alemite High Pressure Lubricating Systems on cars, thousands of irresponsible "greasing stations" have sprung up on every side.

Your best protection against improper lubrication, cheap "greases," inefficient methods and needless repair bills, is the Genuine Alemite-ing Station. Here we give you genuine Alemite-ing Service. Vastly different from mere "greasing." Special Alemite equipment, expert Alemite mechanics and—genuine Alemite Lubricants.

Alemite Lubricants are specially made by the Alemite people themselves for use in Alemite High Pressure Systems. A lubricant that "stands up" under 3,000 pounds pressure; that will lubricate properly at 200 degrees of heat or at far below zero.

We pay a premium for this pure solidified oil—but it costs you no more than ordinary "greasing." And it is the only way to make sure of EFFICIENT LUBRICATION.

You can feel the difference at once—in the way your car runs. New life, new smoothness, new power!

Here's What We Do—in Alemite-ing

1. BEARINGS: Genuine Alemite High Pressure Lubricant forced into every vital chassis bearing with Alemite equipment by expert Alemite mechanics. Every 500 miles.

2. GEARS: Differential and transmission thoroughly flushed out by a special Alemite process. New Alemite Gear Lubricant forced in. Every 2,500 miles.

3. SPRINGS: Given an Alemite Graphite Spring Bath. They are sprayed with special Alemite Graphite Penetrating Oil—every 500 miles. Eliminates all spring squeaks and makes car run immeasurably smoother.

We ask you to drive in today—thus see for yourself what our genuine Alemite Service does for your car. It's the easiest way to keep a car running sweetly—and the services that eliminate 80% of ordinary repair bills.

WEDDING BELLS

McIVOR—STOTHART

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on June 12th at half past two o'clock in the afternoon, at the residence of the bride's parents, number 10 Langton street, when Viola, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Stothart, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to James McIvor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McIvor of Millbrook. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Allan.

The bride wore a pretty dress of blue georgette with hat to match and shoes and hose of grey.

Miss Gertrude Ayott acted as bridesmaid and Mr. George Ferguson was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. McIvor will live in Peterborough.

LINDSAY—RUTTLE

A quiet wedding took place at eight o'clock on Wednesday morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Lois Rosetta, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Ruttle of Lakefield, became the bride of George Lindsay, youngest son of Mr. Robert Lindsay of 558 Park street. The Rev. P. Costello said the Nuptial Mass.

The bride wore a lovely gown of crepe de chine in ashes of roses color, with matching hat and hose and black satin slippers. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and maidenhair fern.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Reeds acted as attendants, the latter wearing rose beige crepe de chine with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations and maidenhair fern.

After the ceremony, the wedding party were entertained at a dainty breakfast served at the home of the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. M. Boyle of 538 Park street. In the evening, a reception was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay, who will live in Peterborough, received a large number of pretty and useful gifts.

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

CEMENT FLOOR LOWREED

Extensive alterations are being carried on in the store on Charlotte street recently occupied by the F. G. Oke and Company. A concrete floor, 90 by 22 feet was lowered by four men who employed 15 jacks to accomplish the task. The whole operation did not take over four hours and the heavy floor, supported by 10 steel girders slowly sank 18 inches without the slightest hitch or the least trouble.

REPAIRING APARTMENT BUILDING

The building on Hunter street which is known as the Lowe Apartments is undergoing some minor repairs. The roof is being re-shingled and the railing of the balcony on the second floor has been repaired.

FIRST MOON LIGHT

The first moon light excursion of the season was held last night on the steamer Stoney Lake when a number of the younger set enjoyed a sail down the Otonabee. The evening was spent in dancing on the lower deck or by enjoying the cool breezes that blew across the upper deck.

HONOR ANNIVERSARY

The various chapters of the I. O.D.E. wish to remind the local merchants that to-morrow is the anniversary of the first successful trans-Atlantic flight which was accomplished by two British airmen, Alcott and Brown who flew from Newfoundland to Ireland. On this account the people of this city are asked to display their flags as a tribute to the daring aviators. The merchants in the downtown districts are requested especially to show their colors, as was asked before.

NO DAMAGE REPORTED

The storm, that passed over the city this morning, while there were one or two sharp flashes of lightning and loud crashes of thunder, was harmless. There was no trouble reported on an investigation by The Examiner. The Bell Telephone, The Peterborough Utilities and the Fire Department all give an O.K. report.

ONE FIRE CALL

One fire was reported to the fire department yesterday. A chimney fire at 7 Conger street gave an alarm at 1.06 p.m. yesterday. There was no damage.

ANOTHER TAR BABY

With the oiling of the streets, appears another and different tar baby. Each year one or more children take their tumble in the oil. This morning a little fellow was getting out of a car that was parked in the market square, when he missed his footing and slipped off the running board into the fresh oil and when rescued he was more oil than clean clothes.

REPAIR SIDEWALK

Workmen were busy yesterday morning cementing the hole in the sidewalk outside of the police station, made by the removal of the drinking fountain that was there for a number of years.

PRESENTATIONS MADE

On Wednesday, in the Collegiate auditorium, medals were presented to the higher rank officers of the school cadet corps who took part in the recent successfull inspection. Those who received them were: Lieut.-Col. Vickers, Major L. Bath, Major D. Hall, Capt. J. Dunkerly, Capt. Ecobichon, Capt. D. Bethune, Retired Capt. K. Copping, Lt. C. Hall, Lt. G. Braund and Corp. J. H. Turner. The presentations were made by Mr. Kenner.

PICTURES OF SINGERS

Large photographs of the massed singers of the Associated Glee Clubs in Madison Square Gardens, in which the Peterborough Male Voice Choir is included, have arrived in the city. Two of these are to be seen in the window of Lillow's Shoe store on George street.

MINIATURE WATERFALL

A miniature waterfaal occurred on George street this morning. One of the merchants deciding to lower his awning following the appearance of Old Sol after the rainstorm, narrowly escaped a drenching when many gallons of water that had been stored in the folds poured to the sidewalk.

MAIL BOXES PAINTED

Mail boxes in the city are being re-painted.

FARM RELIEF BILL IS READY FOR PRESIDENT

Required United States Houses Two Months To Pass Legislation.

ESTABLISH FEDERAL BOARD.

Foreign Comments and Sentiments On New Tariff Act Will Be Tabled.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15.—(C.P.) — The farm relief bill demanded by President Hoover and obtained from Congress after prolonged controversy in the Senate, was on his desk to-day for signature, exactly two months after the special session was convened primarily to enact this legislation.

The export debenture proposal, the major point of controversy between the administration and the coalition of Democrats and Republican Independents in the Senate, was out of the bill and the president's approval, after the compliance with custom by submitting it this morning to the Treasury and Agricultural departments, was a mere formality.

Establish Farm Board.

The bill authorizes establishment of a Federal Farm Board with a fund of $500,000,000 at its disposal, and broad powers to aid farmers in their own co-operative efforts through commodity advisory councils and stabilization corporations to solve their crop surplus and other problems.

President Hoover plans to move as rapidly as possible in selecting the eight men who will administer the new farm relief law.

This board, the members of which will draw Cabinet officer salaries of $12,000 annually, is to have an authority and standing in agriculture comparable to that of the Interstate Commerce Commission in transportation, and the Federal Reserve Board in finance.

Take Statements Into Account

Foreign sentiment on the United States tariff other than that contained in formal statements made to this government by other nations will be taken in account by the Senate by the Senate finance committee in its consideration of the tariff Bill Senator Reed Smoot, chairman of the committee gave the Canadian Press to understand that reports from American Missions abroad and resumes of the press comment in other countries would be available to the committee in addition to the representations delivered to both Houses of Congress by the state department.

In this case the attitude of the Press of Canada and presumably speeches made in parliament and elsewhere would come to the attention of the committee. The sentiment of other countries also who have not made representations through the state department with respect to their findings on the proposed increases in tariff rates would be studied by the Senators. Great Britain, among other nations, has not presented its views directly to the United States. Australia is the only one of the dominions which has done so.

C.N.R. BRAKEMAN KILLED.

GUELPH, Ont., June 15. — Sam Jones, 35, C.N.R. brakeman, of Stratford, was instantly killed here this morning about 4.45 o'clock while coupling cars at the junction, one mile west of the city. There were no eye-witnesses to the accident, but it was evident that he had been pinned between the couplings. Coroner L. M. Stuart has ordered an inquest.

Gunman Presents Note To Paying Teller Demanding Cash.

MAKES GOOD ESCAPE.

Customer Makes Vain Attempt To Clutch Fleeing Bandit.

LONDON, Ont., June 15. (C. P.) — A lone gunman escaped with 1,100 in torn and mutilated bills from the main branch of the Bank of Montreal at 10.45 a.m., to-day, after he had presented a note to the paying teller, S. B. Dunn, demanding cash. The bandit had the packet of bills pushed toward him by Dunn and ran down Queen's avenue, and into a lane way, where his trail was lost.

Only the presence of mind of the teller, S. B. Dunn of Byron Avenue, in handing over the mutilated bills, saved the bank from a loss of several thousands of dollars which he carried in his cage

Makes Good Escape

Immediately after the bills were thrown to him, the bandit made his escape through the front door of the bank, ran to Queen's Avenue, east on Queen's to the first laneway running north and south. In this laneway, the hat worn by the man was found. It was a brown fedora.

"Hold up! Hold up!" shouted the bank teller" as he ducked beneath the counter in his cage. Immediate-

King For a Day

* * *

The occasion has been duly announced as Father's Day. And all the ladies of the household who throughout the year have extracted fur coats diamonds and motor cars from Dad's purse may now reciprocate and pay tribute to his worth with a cigar, a polka-dot tie, or a brown derby hat.

* * *

"Idle," somebody heckles us from the gallery.

* * *

But, seriously, this is a big moment for Dad. Lord of the domain. And on Monday morning he'll be pulled out of bed at 7 a.m., chased out to cut the lawn, rushed off to the office on a cup of cold coffee, and welcomed home with a can of salmon.

OPERATED ON TO-DAY.

Hon. Charles A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, who was operated on for appendicitis in Ottawa to-day. The operation was entirely successful and Mr. Dunning's condition is satisfactory.

BENNETT OPENS ONTARIO TOUR

Two Big Mass Meetings Are Being Held To-day in Essex County.

EXPECT TARIFF REFERENCE.

WINDSOR, June 15. (C.P.) — Conservatives of the border cities and Essex county are gathering in force to-day for what they expect will be the biggest political rally in the history of the district. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Dominion Conservative leader, is to arrive here this afternoon and address a political picnic at Kingsville. In the evening he will return to Windsor and speak at a mass meeting in the armouries.

Because of the general elections to come in the not distant future, a great deal of interest will be attached to the party chieftain's remarks. In this border community it is regarded as practically certain he will make some reference to the tariff situation and possibly elaborate on his address in the House of Commons early this week.

Unable to Attend.

Premier Ferguson was invited to be present at both gatherings to-day, but was unable to come to Windsor. He will be represented, it is stated, by Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways. Both meetings have been arranged under the auspices of the Macdonald-Cartier Club, the Young men's Conservative organization.

Mr. Bennett's visit to Windsor, is the beginning of an extensive tour of Ontario, which will take him to Sarnia, Petrolia, Simcoe, Brantford, Owen Sound, Stratford, Parry Sound, Cornwall, Belleville, Port Arthur and Fort William and other points. During the next two weeks, with the exception of brief respites on Sundays and on Dominion day, he will address two meetings practically every day.

YELLOW BIRD FAILS TO LAND ON HOME SOIL

Ciambre Beach is 125 Miles By Airline From French Territory.

DROPPED TANKS OVERBOARD

Fifteen Gallons of Gasoline Would Have Been Sufficient To Reach France.

COMILLAS, Santander, Spain, June 15.—(Canadian Press)—Ciambre Beach, where the Yellow Bird came down after its flight across the Atlantic is just 125 miles by airplane from Hendaye, the southernmost French beach which the plane could have reached easily, in another hour and a half of flying—if it had another 15 gallons of gasoline.

Beginning yesterday noon Jean Assolant at the stick tried to save every bit of petrol, manoeuvring for distance. As the tanks were emptied he had them dropped over-board, losing the last as the plane winged northward along the Portuguese coast just an hour before landing.

Encountered Bad Storm

Bad weather and hard winds, with the additional weight of the stowaway, were factors that had to be considered in the increased gasoline consumpton. A little this side of mid Atlantic Assolant said they encountered a violent storm centre through which they were able to make only 60 miles an hour bucking a northwest gale. They used much gasoline but their mileage was short.

Finally when the contents of the last can of gasoline had been empties into the big tank they decided to try for a landing. They had followed the coast line for so long and made such turns along the edge of the Bay of Biscay they though they must have reached a beach somewhere in the vicinity of Biarritz.

It was only when they heard Spanish rather than French from the hundreds who greeted them that they realized they had fallen short of their goal, if not to reach Le Bourget at least to land on French soil.

Slight Damage to Plane

Spanish mechanics checking over the motor of the airplane this afternoon discovered some slight damage which would need about three hours to repair. The French aviators will probably postpone their departure for Le Bourget flying field, France, until to-morrow.

Two Spanish airplanes from the Getafe airdrome, carrying necessary parts for repairs to the Yellow Bird, arrived at 1.30 p.m. The repairs would require at least three hours' work.

Assolant, Lefevre and Lotti returned to Comillas this afternoon from Santander, where they were greeted by the civil governor.

Hundreds of Automobiles arrived at Comillas during the day with persons curious to see the aviators.

Crowds Assemble on Field

LE BOURGET, France, June 15 (C.P.).—The eager crowds of spectators who had thronged the Le Bourget landing field in the hope of witnessing the arrival of the Yellow Bird from the United States, again streamed on to the field in ever-increasing numbers this afternoon on receipt of news that the plane had taken off from its landing place at Comillas, Spain.

Word of the departure spread quickly and the residents of nearby towns soon began to assemble at the field hours before the plane could arrive.

Truck loads of municipal guards and police from Paris began to arrive early in the afternoon, reinforcing the usual guard. The 34th Regiment of Aviation, quartered at the lower end of the airfield, was ordered to be in readiness to take up the task of policing the huge field and controlling the crowds that were sure to assemble to welcome home the first Frenchmen to fly from across the Atlantic.

General Dawes and Party Visit Windsor Castle To-day.

HENDERSON GOES ALONG.

State Carriages Meet U. S. Representative at Railway Station.

WINDSOR, Eng., June 15. (C.P.)—Under the lofty towers of Windsor Castle, General Charles G. Dawes, today presented his credentials as the new American Ambassador to Great Britain. The reception for the American by His Majesty occupied a brief half hour and passed without unusual incident.

The former vice-president, who was believed to be bearing an invitation from President Hoover to Prime Minister MacDonald for a tete-a-tete on Anglo-American affairs, was accompanied to the ancient seat of Royalty by Mrs. Dawes, Ray Atherton, Embassy Counsellor, and Arthur Henderson, Secretary for Foreign Affairs in the MacDonald Cabinet.

State carriages drawn by high-stepping white horses met the party at the train which brought them from Paddington station and conveyed them to the Castle. After the formal official greeting of the British Sovereign to the new American political representative the envoy and his party returned to the railway station and left for London, from where he expected to leave shortly to visit Mr. MacDonald in Scotland.

"I find the King delightful," the Ambassador said after the ceremony. "I don't know what the usual ceremony is but I just presented my credentials to him. I found His Majesty looking very well. After the ceremonial he asked me to stay and for half an hour chatted with me on various subjects."

"Too Much Dirt And Nakedness In Modern Revues," Ziegfeld Says

NEW YORK, June 15. — Flo Ziegfeld, original glorifier of the American girl, believes "there's too much dirt and nakedness" in present day revues and that the tired business man has grown a little more weary than usual in gazing upon nudity in the theatre.

For those reasons, Ziegfeld said to-day, he intends to abandon production of revues and may also suspend his famous "Follies."

"There's too much dirt and nakedness in revues nowadays," said Flo sadly from the plush throne in his orchid bedecked office, "and the public is about fed up on them."

"The revues of late are nothing more than dramatized dirty stories, which, in pre-prohibition days, found their origin in barrooms. In theatrical parlance we call them 'blackouts.'

"That is why I consider it a disgrace to be associated with a revue producer at the present time. Unless the Follies can be distinguished from the current conception of the revue, I shall abandon thm as I have the revue."

BANDIT SHOOTS HIS EMPLOYER

Desperado and Farmer Engaged in Thrilling Battle On Lonely Road.

DEMANDED MONEY.

EDMONTON, Alta, June 15 (C.P.). —In a thrilling battle with an armed desperado, ten miles east of Edmonton on a lonely road, Reginald Breyer, 26, was seriously wounded yesterday. Breyer had met a stranger in the city and had engaged him to work on his farm. He took the man in his automobile, to transport him to the farm

When the pair were eight miles from the city, the man demanded money and after Breyer had declined to hand any over, the man seized him. The men struggled by the roadside until the bandit knocked Breyer down. Drawing a revolver he fired at the prostrate man, missing Breyer arose to again grapple with the bandit and the latter fired twice, the first bullet missing its mark and the second wounding Breyer.

Breyer was stunned and when he recovered his senses, the bandit was gone. The wounded man managed to drive his automobile to a school a mile distant, where he obtained help. Provincial police are scouring the countryside for traces of the bandit.

The time will go into effect on Sunday and will continue until September 2, of the 75,000 voters on the list, only a third cast their ballots. The vote was: For Daylight Saving, 13,922; Against, 3,818.

STOWAWAY IS BEING BLAMED FOR FAILURE OF YELLOW BIRD TO REACH FRENCH TERRITORY

Plane's Navigator Is Quite Definite in Thinking Schreiber Responsible.

RAN INTO ATLANTIC STORMS

Weight of Boy Increased Consumption of Gasoline Rene Lefevre States.

COMILLAS, Spain, June 15.— (C. P.)—Whatever young Arthur Schreiber may think of his action in stowing away aboard the French Trans-Atlantic monoplane Yellow Bird, the 22-year-old Portland, Maine, youth, is getting a good share of the blame for the Yellow Bird's failure at least to reach French soil.

Rene Lefevre, the plane's navigator, was quite definite in thinking the stowaway was responsible.

"We may consider ourselves really very fortunate, although we much regret that we could not reach the gaol of our voyage because of the presence of our clandestine passenger. His weight caused a higher consumption of gasoline and forced us to come down still short of Le Bourget," said Lefevre.

Aviators Are Puzzled.

The French aviators were greatly puzzled to know how Schreiber was able to get aboard the plane which was supposed to have been closely watched until the moment of the departure from Old Orchard.

"When Schreiber's presence was first discovered by us I admit we felt such a wave of anger that we were on the point of beating him," said Lefevre. "We felt that he had not only jeopardized all our elaborate plans but had even imperilled our lives. Then we began to feel sorry for him and finally we simply accepted him as our companion, much as the added burden worried us.

"We had headed toward the ship lane but in the middle of Thursday night a strong wind and rain storm made us change our course. We thought of fighting on through by rising to a great height. We rose in fact up to the 7,000 foot level, but the rain and intense cold forced us to come down.

Arthur Schreiber was perhaps the most lost individual in all Spain when he stepped to the beach at Czambre yesterday after his stolen trip acros sthe Atlantic.

He seemed perturbed until he felt the ground beneath his feet and then his face became wreathed in smiles. The smiles faded and were replaced by a look of blank astonishment as he heard hundreds of voices about

Peterborough Clocks Move On One Hour To-night

Peterborough citizens to-night will lose one hour of sleep as their clocks move for daylight saving. According to the wish of the majority of the citizens at the recent election a by-law endorsing daylight saving was carried and later passed by the city council .This comes into effect at midnight to-night and will remain until Labor Day. Peterborough has fallen in line. with many of the other cities of the provnce. Toronto has been on daylight saving for almost six weeks, while Oshawa and Kingston have not been on as long. Many of the cities in Western Ontario will move their clocks on to-night with the citizens of this city.

OLD GIRLS AND BOYS COMING FROM KINGSTON

Look Forward with Pleasure to Visit During Big Re-union.

From Ira E. Ivey, Kingston, Ont.: "I am able to advise you that there will be a very good representation of Old Girls and Boys coming to Peterborough from Kingston. Some are going to stay during the entire week.

"We have not been able to ascertain definitely just how many will be there, but there are many here who are looking forward with pleasure to visiting the Old Home Town during its Old Home Week from June 29 to July 7."

Official Visits City

City Council Promises Dr. Berry That Plans Will Be Immediately Prepared.

MONEY BY-LAWS PASSED.

Aldermen Would Like To See Similar Plant in Operation Before Spending Money.

Peterborough City Council must abide by the order of the Department of Health and complete the sewage disposal plant, installing tanks and drying beds to dispose of the sludge that is now being emptied into the river.

This was the result of the conference between Dr. A. E. Berry of the department and members of the city council at a special meeting held last night. Although the department is not contemplating an arbitrary measure, it wants its order carried out, and accordingly City Engineer Parsons was instructed to have the necessary plans prepared at the earliest possible moment.

Prepared to Answer Question.

Dr. Berry came to the council meeting prepared to answer any question in regards to the required addition that the aldermen might ask, and although the controversy grew warm at times, the best of feeling prevailed.

The council asked for assurance that when the necessary addition is built that the city then would have a plant guaranteed by the department and it also sought time whereby it could see another plant of the same design in operation before it spent any more of the citizens' money.

Dr. Berry, for the department, wanted the order carried out and the nuisance which now prevails removed. He could not guarantee that the plant when completed would be all that the department would require, but he did say that up to the present time knowledge the plant would be more complete.

Alderman Stocker asked if the changes which the department had ordered in the Peterborough plant were not in the form of an experiment, but Dr. Berry replied that although there was no such plant in operation in Ontario there were plenty in the United States and in a short time the department expected to have some in operation in Ontario.

Mayor Denne: In the first place we were forced to build the plant by the department, which also guaranteed that it would be a complete job and I think that it is only fair to the ratepayers that we see another plant in operation before we take any action and spend more money.

Dr. Berry: In that case the plant here would not be built for four or five years.

Alderman McNabb: Why single out Peterborough?

Dr. Berry: In Peterborough there are conditions that have arisen and the question which the department is concerned with is how to take care of these.

Alderman Macdonald: The whole things boils down to, Does the department insist that we go ahead with the addition or will it give us a breathing spell.

Dr. Berry: You have my answer. The order has been issued and the department's ruling is that the work must proceed.

Call for Tenders

With this, the council decided that Engineer Parsons should go ahead and complete the plans and call for the necessary tenders for the machinery.

Two money by-laws were passed. The sum of $20,000 will be borrowed

Liberal Account Suffers Heavily In Stock Exchange Reckonings

LONDON, June 15—(Canadian Press Cable)—With the recent declaration of the result in Rugby, Warwick, where the election was posponed until June 13, the stock exchange was enabled to fix the basis on which the dealings in "election majorities" would be calculated and to thereby ascertain the gains and losses involved. With Sir W. A. Jowitt, new Attorney-General, reckoned as a Liberal and has since joined the Labor party, the basis is as follows:—Labor 267, Conservatives 260, Liberals 59, Independents nine.

The heaviest losses were incurred on the Liberal account, where a great deal of business was done on the assumption the party would obtain 90 or more seats in the new parliament.

Parliament Prorogued

Supply Bill Voted By House

Third Session of Sixteenth Parliament is Finally Brought To Close.

CANONS THUNDER.

Eleventh Hour of Session Two Divisions Are Called On Divorce Bills.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 15.—(Canadian Press).—With the thunder of the cannon reverberating across the Ottawa River, scarlet-coated soldiers drawn up on the plaza of Parliament Hill, the thrilling notes of the carillion in the belfry of the Peace Tower ringing out patriotic airs, and all the pageantry being enacted in the chambers below, the third session of the Sixteenth Parliament of Canada came to a close at 6 o'clock last night. It was the 84th day of the session, which opened on Feb. 7. For several days prorogation had been hopefully anticipated, but, as is not unusual, some last-minute contests were staged in the Commons, a number of contentious estimates holding up proceedings for the past few days.

The general supply bill, however, was voted yesterday afternoon and "the sum of $243,166,149.17 granted to His Majesty" for the purpose of permitting His Majesty's government to conduct the business of the people of Canada from now until March 31 next year.

Two Divisions Called

In the eleventh hour of the session a couple of divisions were called and these indicated just how many members of the House of Commons had already departed for their homes. Fewer than 60 out of a membership of 245 remained. The dvsons came on dvorce measures, an element in the life of the House of Commons whch has been perhaps the most contentious of the whole

I.O.D.E. HONORS FIRST FLIGHT

British Triumphant Flight Over the Atlantic Is Recalled.

STORY IS BROADCAST.

TORONTO, Ont., June 15 (C.P.).—On the same day that the Yellow Bird, manned by French airmen, reached Spain from the United States, in the eleventh successful crossing of the Atlantic by air, cities and towns throughout Canada celebrated the tenth anniversary of the first crossing by the Britishers Alcock and Brown.

The story of the flight was broadcast through the country last night by the Canadian National Railways radio stations and the Marconigram Co. transmitted from New York a facsimile of the famous message sent by the intrepid airmen on their arrival in Ireland. The message sent from Cliffden, Ireland, on June 15, 1919, read as follows: "To The Daily Mail, London: Vickers-Vimy airplane landed Cliffden 8.40 Greenwich time from St. Johns. (Signed), Alcock." In this way they served notice upon the paper which had offered $50,000 for the first plane to cross the Atlantic. They got the prize, and Knighthoods from the King as well. Six months later Sir John Alcock was killed in an air crash in France, but Sir Arthur Brown is still living and flying.

Special honor was paid the fliers here yesterday afternoon, when 60 chapters of the Independent Order of the Daughters of the Empire gathered to mark the anniversary under the auspices of the new "Alcock and Brown" chapter. As the standard of the newly-founded chapter was dedicated, Toronto airmen flew above in tribute. To-day a fuller display will be given, when planes of the Toronto Flying Club and commercial firms will blacken the sky in an aerial parade. Alongside any one of these planes the machine is long obsolete in which the pioneer airmen braved the fog and sleet as they set out from Newfoundland ten years ago yesterday.

MAN FEARED MURDERED.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 15. — The body of a man believed to be L. C. Cole, Jamestown, N.Y., was taken out of the river below the American Falls yesterday. There was a deep stab wound i nthe chest. ASPHYXIATION NARROWLY AVERTED.

OSHAWA, Ont., June 15. — A triple asphyxiation was narrowly averted here to-day when Mrs. Howard A. Woolocott and her two sons, Ross, 14, and Lawrence, 12, were rendered unconscious. Ross called to the neighbors for help and when they arrived they found that he was overcome also.

JURY'S VERDICT RELEASES TWO OTONABEE BOYS

Youth Maintained in Court That They Only Shot To Scare Indians.

Trouble Over Trapping Rights.

Young Braves Claim Bullets Went Within a Few Feet of Them.

The jury returned with its verdict, "Not guilty" after being out thirty-five minutes in the case of Archie and William McIntyre, aged 15 and 12 respectively, of Otonabee Township, charged with shooting at Indians with intent to maim. The case was heard before Judge O'Connor yesterday at the General Sessions of the Peace in the Court House. Acting Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., acted for prosecution and Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., for the defence.

The shooting was said to have been committed on January 14, 1928 and somewhere near the end of March of this year. The shooting occurred when the two boys saw Indians trapping muskrats on the Rice Lake marsh owned by their father. The boys maintained that they shot only to scare away the Indians and that their guns were not aimed in the direction of the Indians.

Heard Two Shots Fired

William Muskrat, 28, an Indian living on the Hiawatha Reserve was the first witness called by the crown. He stated that on January 14, 1928 while returning up the lake, after retrieving several mink traps that had been frozen, he had taken a short cut across McIntyre's marsh. He heard two shots as though fired from near the McIntyre home. One bullet passed 225 feet from him, the other passed within eight inches of his knee burying itself in the bog several feet ahead of him.

Under cross-examination he said hat the shooting occurred shortly after four o'clock. He said he was not spearing muskrat's houses on the McIntyre marsh at the time.

Madden Howard, an aged Indian living at the reserve said that he had a conversation with the two McIntyre boys in March 1928, when they had accosted him while he was hunting for a lost dog. Archie McIntyre in this conversation had told him that he and his brother had had each taken a crack at William Muskrat on the evening of January 4. Archie used a 30.30 and William a 22, they said.

Under cross-examination he said that there had been some difficulties between the whites and Indains over trapping rights. He further stated that he still felt that the Indians should be allowed to trap where they desired.

H. Howard, his son, corroborated his testimony concerning the interview with the McIntyre boys, saying that he was there at the time.

Bertram Anderson another Indian said he was trapping near Herkimer's Point when two shots were fired from the McIntyre place. The bullets had entered the water 75 yards from him.

Given Written Statement

Harry Thompson provincial constable told of visiting the McIntyre home in April 1929, to investigate the shooting. He had met William as he was coming from school and after thoroughly warning the boy that all he might say would be used against him, the boy had signed a written statement in which he confessed shooting at Muskrat on

BROTHER'S LOVE CAUSE SUICIDE

Hero Worshipper Cannot See His Brother Sent To Jail.

BODY FOUND IN CREEK.

CHATHAM, June 15 (C.P.).—Four days after he had told his little sister he would run away and kill himself if his older brother was taken away, the body of Nelson Cunningham, aged 11, was yesterday found in MacGregor's Creek.

On Tuesday Alfred Cunningham, 13, brother and close chum of the dead boy, was taken to the Victoria Industrial School at Mimico.

Magistrate Arnold, who sent the older boy to the reform school, did so largely because he feared he was having a harmful influence on his younger brother and hero worshipper. Not till after the body was found yesterday did the magistrate know of the boy's threat to commit suicide.

The two boys appeared together in court on Saturday on a minor charge, Nelson was sent home with his father; Alfred was kept in the Children's Aid Shelter, pending removal to Mimico. Monday, Nelson went to school with his sister, Josie, 9. He was never seen alive again.

After he disappeared Josie told her father, G. C. Cunningham, that on the way to school, Nelson had said: "If they take Alfie away I will run away and kill myself." He bound the little girl to secrecy.

CREW OF THREE LANDS SAFELY AT SANTANDER

Members Greatly Disappointed When Found They Were Not On Native Soil.

STOWAWAY ON BOARD.

Gasoline Supply Was Almost Exhausted When Landing Was Made.

PARIS, June 15 (C.P.).—The French monoplane Yellow Bird with its crew of three, Armeno Lotti, owner; Jean Assolant and Rene Lefevre, together with Arthur Schreiber, a boy stowaway from Portland, Maine, landed safely yesterday about 3 p.m. Eastern standard time on a beach some 30 miles from Santander, Spain, on its flight from Old Orchard, Maine, to Paris. The gasoline tanks were almost empty.

A Havas Agency despatch from Santander today said the stowaway had not suffered from his long air voyage.

The plane also carried, besides its crew of three, a live crocodile ten inches long as a mascot.

The agency learned that the Frenchmen thought they were in France and were greatly surprised when the first persons speaking the Spanish tongue rushed up to them. When they learned they had not accomplished what they had hoped, they determined to reach their native soil as soon as possible.

The aviators found one Frenchman among the men anxious to help them and with his aid as interpreter a telephone message was sent to Santander for 125 gallons of gasoline so that they could leave for Paris this morning.

Guard Is Formed.

The village authorities soon roused the guard and Spanish carabineers immediately formed a guard of honor around the plane, which was apparently undamaged.

The whole countryside was aroused by the unlooked-for event and there were a hundred persons eager to do every little service that the Frenchmen asked.

The dispatch to the agency said Schreiber, the stowaway, appeared to be laboring under the influence of great emotion as the plane landed and expressed complete joy when he set food on the sands on which the plane had gently alighted. The three men of the crew had not suspected they had an unexpected guest until they were in full flight.

WINDSOR, June 15. (C.P.)—Running the United States coastguard blockade in the open waters of Lake Erie, rum runners of the Amherstburg front claim to have landed large quantities of contraband on the Ecorse docks, 20 miles below Detroit.

The runners, it is said, took immediate advantage of a supposed confusing situation among the American enforcement crews, created by the suspension of R. S. Casey, commander of the rum chaser C. G.-236, who according to reports, was relieved of his charge and ordered to Buffalo because he ran into Marble Head, Ohio, for fuel without orders.

SHOULD FINE SLOW DRIVERS

Better For Loafer To Seek Another Road Highways, Minister States.

UPHOLD MAGISTRATE.

TORONTO, June 15.—"I agree with the county magistrate that if a man is loafing along the highway in his car, seriously impeding the traffic, it would be better for him to seek a road where there is no congestion," said Hon. Geo. S. Henry yesterday, when questioned regarding the case of a man being fined for driving too slowly.

"I see where one paper says that, so far as I am concerned, a man can lapse into the pace of an ailing tortoise," remarked the minister. "That is hardly correct. Provincial highways are not intended by any means to be speedways, but at the same time they are intended for the convenience of the tarvelling public, and it is hardly fair to the general mass of that public that they should be seriously inconvenienced by these so-called 'snail drivers.' One has to study the general feeling in regard to these matters."

It was poitned out to the minister that Mr. Wyse, of the Safety league, has stated that the slower a vehicle moved the safer it was.

Slow Driving Not Necessary.

"I don't think that slow driving is necessarily safer than moderately fast," was Mr. Henry's comment.

"Suppose a car could not travel more than 10 or 15 miles an hour?"

"Then it should not be on the road," was the reply. "In our highway safety campaign we are stressing that cars should be in good mechanical condition, and a car not capable of more than 10 miles an hour certainly does not fulfil that requirement."

"There is no law that a man must drive above a certain speed?"

"No, but there are many things in the conduct of life that are not prescribed by written law but acquire almost the same status through long usage. We are seeking to impress habits of courtesy upon motorists, and it can hardly be called courteous if, from whim or obdurateness or any such cause, a motorist holds up a long line of traffic. He should be made to realize that other people's desires call for consideration besides his own."

"While there is no minimum speed limit," concluded Mr. Henry, "there is a general section in the act which allows a magistrate to fine anyone driving in a dangerous manner to traffic. Under the circumstances set out in this particular case, the man was guilty of an infraction of the law, and I consider the decision of the magistrate more than justified."

BY supplying the extra nourishment which her blood requires, you can check anaemia in your growing daughter!

Paleness, thinness, nervousness, are the first signs of a weakened blood condition that, if neglected, may result in serious sickness.

"My daughter was growing too fast," writes Mrs. L. S. Hawkins of Kitchener, Ont., "so that her health became impaired. The doctor ordered her to a sanitarium as he said she was going into a decline and the only thing that could help her was absolute rest and a renewed blood supply. We put her to bed at home and on the advice of a friend bought a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For three months she took them and today she is as well and strong as any girl of her age. I advise all mothers who have ailing girls in the house to give them a trial."

TORONTO, Ont., June 15 (C.P.).—Peter H. Mackenzie, Member of Parliament from 1904 to 1909, died at the home of his daughter here to-day. He was 85 years of age. During his lifetime he was a leader in agricultural activities, particularly in Bruce Country, where he lived most of his life. He acted as representative of the Dominion Immigration Department in an official visit to the agricultural communities of the British Isles during his term as a Member of Parliament. He was also chairman of the House of Commons Committee of Agriculture.

CITY LAWNS READY FOR RE-UNION ENJOYMENT

Charlotte Street Residents, At Gateway to the City, Excel.

In the midst of Old Home Week preparations, it is interesting to note the work of individual citizens who are eager to make Peterborough as spic and span as possible for the delight of visitors.

Probably because practically every arrival by automobile will pass their homes, Charlotte Street residents have put forth special efforts, with the result that from the boundary to Park Street is now a beautiful vista, and every avenue adjoining has reached the acme, almost, of beautification.

In other sections of the city, too, boulevards untended for years are now green with grass, and lawns that were unkempt are like carpets. The result of the effort has been to produce a veritable garden city.

Colour BRINGS PERSONALITY TO YOUR ROOF

TRULY, this is the age of colour. Brilliant harmonies of home decoration are the vogue, inside and out. Daring yet artistic colour schemes, unthought of before, are being introduced everywhere.

This widespread colour trend is particularly marked in roofs. No longer are people content with the drab, dull sameness of former years. They want roofs that satisfy their colour hunger —that give a rich, dashing personality to their homes.

Such people turn inevitably to Brantford Multi-Coloured Asphalt Slates. Their charm, their vivid beauty, their almost unlimited range of colour harmonies make them the logical choice of those who want their homes to be strikingly picturesque.

Decide NOW to roof or re-roof with beautiful Brantford Multi-Coloured Asphalt Slates. They will safeguard your home from Weather's most devastating assaults. And you will have a roof that is fire-safe, durable, trouble-free and a source of pride and satisfaction through the years.

Write for copy of free booklet "Beauty With Fire Protection"—a comprehensive treatise on the proper type, design, finish and colour for your roof.

DAYLIGHT SAVING TOMORROW - BE ON TIME FOR CHURCH

THE STORY which comes from the workshop of John Plane this week has interested me so much that I am going to tell it again in the hope that it may be of interest to a great many others. John got it from a certain celebrated character who, some years ago, made a tragically dramatic exit to receive his reward on the other side of a watery grave.

Having already successfully experimented with this page, I propose to experiment again, in an attempt to discover whether any of my readers have ever met this story before; or whether they know the name of the man who first told the story. If, after you have read this week's article, you feel disposed to write, you can reach me through The Examiner.

Perhaps the following "lead" might help you in trying to guess the name of the gentleman who first told the story which I got from John Plane. He was said to be the most positive force of his time, a man of genius in business, in art, in literature, in philosophy. Some said that he was an idealist, dreamer, orator, scientist. In his knowledge of the fundamental, practical affairs of living, in business, in human interests, in education, politcs and law, he was thought by not a few to be wthout a competitor.

Do You Recognize Him?

Well! Try again. He was said to be like Emerson in seizing upon truth, embalmed and laid in pyramids of disuse. Having seized such truths he would breathe into them the breath of life and to many they would become as living souls. From the thoughts of Moses, Socrates, Solomon, Pythagoras, Loyola, Jesus, Buddha, Mohammed, and many others of the illustrious dead, he has brought to us wisdom that applies to the art of living to-day. Whatever our estimate of the man, common honesty would compel even his most adverse critic to admit that he is a unique figure in modern history.

The strength of his indivduality came from his having lived much and intensely. He lived his philosophy before he wrote it, proved his theory before he announced it. Like Shakespeare, he had access to universal knowledge, and from his storehouse he drew the vital fact whenever he needed it. Without any apparent effort, his mind seemed to seize upon the important part of any subject, scene or situation, and then presented the few parts which would suggest the whole. He knew psychology, the needs of humanity at large, the needs of races, the needs of classes in races, and individuals in a class.

Now To The Story.

Without the distraction of quotation marks, I will set it down as I got it in the workshop of our mutual friend, John Plane. Once upon a time—how long ago does not really matter—there lived in San Francisco a lawyer. He was sixty years of age, rich in money, rich in intellect, with many and varied interests in life. Now, this lawyer was a bachelor—which for some men has advantages and for others drawbacks—and lived in apartments with his Chinese servant, "Sam."

Servant and master had been together for fifteen years. The servant knew the wants of his employer as though he were his other self. No orders were necessary. If there was to be a company—one guest or a hundred—Sam was told the number, that was all, and everything was provided.

This servant was cook, valet, watchman, friend. No stray, unwished-for visitor ever got to the master to rob him of his rest when he was at home. If extra help was needed, Sam secured it; he bought what was required; and when the lawyer awakened in the morning, it was to the singing of a tiny music-box with a clock attachment set for seven o'clock.

Service At Its Best.

The bath was ready; a clean shirt was there on the dresser, with studs and buttons in place; collar and scarf were near; the suit of clothes desired hung over a chair; the right pair of shoes, polished like a mirror, was at hand, and on the mantel was a half-blown rose, with the dew still upon it, for a boutonniere. Downstairs, the breakfast, hot and savory, waited. There are those who would conclude that service of that kind would be cheap at any price.

When the man was ready to go to the office, silent as a shadow stood Sam in the hallway, with overcoat, hat and cane in hand. When the weather was threatening, an umbrella was substituted for the cane. The door was opened, and the master departed. When he returned at nightfall, on his approach the door swung wide. Sam never took a vacation; he seemed not to either eat or sleep. He was always near when needed; he disappeared when he should. He knew nothing and knew everything.

Almost Perfect Understanding.

For weeks scarcely a word might pass between these men—they understood each other so well. The lawyer grew to have a great affection for his servant. He paid him a hundred dollars a month, and tried to devise other ways to show his gratitude; but Sam wanted nothing, not even thanks. All he desired was the privilege to serve.

A Startling Announcement.

But one morning as Sam poured his master's coffee, he said quietly, without a shade of emotion on his yellow face, "Next week I leave you." The lawyer smiled.

"Next week I leave you," repeated the Chinese; "I hire for you better man."

The lawyer set down his cup of coffee. He looked at the white-robed servant. He felt the man was in earnest.

"So you are going to leave me—I do not pay you enough, eh? That Doctor Sanders who was here—he knows what a treasure you are. Don't be a fool, Sam; I'll make it a hundred and fifty a month—say no more."

"Next week I leave you—I go to China," said the servant impassively.

"Oh, I see! You are going back for a wife? All right, bring her here—you will return in two months? I do not object; bring your wife here—there is work for two to keep this place in order. The place is lonely, anyway. I'll see the collector of the port, myself, and arrange your passage papers.'"

Never Coming Back.

"I go to China next week: I need no papers—I never come back," said the man with exasperating calmness and persistence.

"By God, you shall not go!" said the lawyer.

"By God, I will!" answered the heathen.

It was the first time in their experience together as servant and master that the servant had used such language, or such a tone toward his master. The lawyer pushed his chair back, and after an instant said, quietly:

"Sam, you must forgive me; I spoke quickly. I do not own you—but tell me, what have I done—why do you leave me this way—you know I need you!"

"I will not tell you why I go—you laugh."

"No, I shall not laugh."

"You will."

"I say, I will not."

"Very well, I go to China to die!"

"Nonsense! You can die here. Haven't I agreed to send your body back if you die before I do?"

"I die in four weeks, two days!"

"What!"

"My brother, he in prison. He young—twenty-six, I fifty. He have wife and baby. In China they accept any man same family to die. I go to China, give my money to my brother—he live, I die!"

The Innocent For The Guilty.

Next day a new Chinaman appeared as servant in the lawyer's household. In a week this servant knew everything, and nothing, just like Sam. And Sam disappeared, without saying good-bye. He went to China and was beheaded, four weeks and two days from the day he broke the news of his intent to go. His brother was set free.

And the lawyer's household goes along about as usual, save when the master calls for "Sam," when he should say, "Charlie." At such times there comes a kind of clutch at his heart, but he says nothing.

It made me think of One who, though he was rich, yet for my sake became poor, that I through His poverty might be made rich. I was guilty and He was innocent. He took my place and died that I might live. Oh, that I might live now so as to prove that in my case He has not died in vain.

—Allan Fairbairn.

The Minister Remarks--

—When some folks' money talks its remarks are offensive.

—When you can buy anyone with a cigar or a cheap compliment they are not worth the price.

—If you really want to be a serviceable saint you must cultivate a winning and gracious humility.

—You'd better get there early, sit close and be willing to stay late if you expect to land and hold a job worth having.

I WOULD IF I COULD.

I wish I were able to explain to my own satisfaction, as well as to yours, why it is that one man is handicapped by hereditary disease of body or a worse hereditary taint of soul, while another starts with a superb constitution and an accumulated capital of virtue; or why a man of dull and unimaginative nature should be endowed with riches, so that he can be surrounded with beauty, while one on whom has been bestowed the gift of vision is imprisoned in a sordid environment! Some day the meaning will be made plain. Meanwhile, let us trust as we wait.

PRIGS AND PIGS

PERHAPS these two are more closely related than some people like to admit, although I believe there are others who have no difficulty in concluding that—having so much in common—they ought to be shut up in the same pen. Although I have met both kinds, I am not sufficiently acquainted with either to write with authority on such a subject, however interesting it may be.

Leslie Stephen once said, "The term Philistine is a word used by prigs to designate people they do not like." And he added, "When you call a man a bad name you are that thing, not he."

De Wolf Hopper was calling down a speaking-tube to the janitor of his apartment in New York. Mr. Hopper, unable to get the information he desired, finally blurted out, "Say, is there a blithering idiot at the end of this tube?' The reply came back with startling rapidity, "Not at this end, sir." I don't know whether that would be called—in scriptural phraseology—a soft answer, guaranteed to turn away wrath, but it was decidedly smart; and I have a feeling that De Wolf Hopper would, in more senses than one, be the first to appreciate and enjoy it.

"And I sez to 'er I sez, 'Pig!' I sez, an' I swep' out o' the room."

Amusing? Yes!

Granted that your English is better, are you quite sure that your disposition is any different?

When Dr. Johnson was at dinner one day, during his tour in Scotland, his hostess asked him how he liked his hotch-potch.

"It's very good for hogs," he said.

"Then, Doctor, let me help you to a little more," she said with a bland smile.

An American lady told a certain judge that there are different kinds of pigsty smells. She was right. We have noticed that fact ourselves. There is the odour from your own pigpen, and that from the dwelling place of your neighbor's swine. The difference is vast. You never are able to understand how your neighbor can stand the aroma wafted abroad by his pigs. One pen will give off a sour smell, while another—your own—will be a distinctly sweeter fragrance. There can be no doubt of the existence of these two kinds of odours in pig circles. It comes, no doubt, from the difference in the personal habits of the animals themselves. Have you not noticed that some pigs—your neighbors—are far more untidy than others—your own?

I have heard it alleged that the tail is the most discussed thing about a pig. This is not true, however. The way the pig smells has caused far more discussion among neighbors than any other thing about the pig.

It is all right to air certain things, but surely you can do it without going to court. Such air is usually expensive and doesn't do much good either to the pig or the prig.

Let us pray for grace to suffer the prig, while we turn the pig into pork and eat it.

Children's Corner — TELL US A STORY

WHEN speaking of a man who is chivalrous towards women, we call him a "thorough gentleman"; schoolgirls pronounce him "splendid." But an old Arab, a donkey-driver of Cairo, once gave a much finer illustration of the feeling toward women which should characterize a gentleman. An English lady asked him if Abdel Kadir, the Arab general taken prisoner by the French in Algiers, was coming to Cairo. He replied that he did not know, and then asked if the chief were not "A kuhlbenat" (a brother of girls). "I do not know if he has sisters," prosaically answered the lady. "The Arabs, O lady," said the old donkey-driver, "call that man 'a brother of girls' to whom God has given a clean heart to love all women as his sisters, and strength and courage to fight for their protection."

In the parable of the Good Samaritan the priest and the Levite were too busy about religion to be human.

1. Joseph's revelation of himself to his brethren has been called: "The greatest recognition scene in literature."
2. The pivotal sentence in the story of Joseph and his brethren is: "I am Joseph." —Gen. 45:3.
3. Psalm 105:17-18 reads: "Joseph's feet they hurt with fetters; he was laid in irons."
4. Joseph may have had a premonition that the dust of Egypt would be turned into lice; it fell to the lot of the great world reformer, Moses, to carry Joseph's bones out of Egypt.—Exod. 8:16-17; 13: 19.
5. The steps in Joseph's career to the premiership of Egypt were: Down into "Dothan"; down into the "pit"; down into "Egypt"; down into a "dungeon"; then up to the premiership and the second chariot. "God gets His best soldiers out of the highlands of affliction."—Gen. 37 to 50.
6. Joseph is a beautiful type of the Lord Jesus in His first advent. Hated, rejected, sold, punished for another's guilt, buried in a dungeon (a type of the grave), restored to active life at the king's command, exalted among the Gentiles, unrecognized by his brethren, espoused to Asenath, his Gentile bride, during the period of his rejection—a type of the church, the bride of Christ. — Eph. 5:24-30.

For the Tempted

TEMPTATION is not sin. Some of the truest and noblest souls have been most sorely tried. Yielding is sin. It is giving in to the tempter or surrendering to the suggestion of the imagination. It is pulling down the colors when the conflict is sharpest.

Temptation is the tempter's compliment. You have something he desires. So by insidious attack, by the practice of deceit, or by stinging blow, he means to have it.

Sin is ceasing to struggle and, therefore, going down before the enemy.

Temptation is the tempter looking through the keyhole into the room where you are living. Sin is your drawing back the bolt and making it possible for him to enter.

We fail ordinarily not where we are weakest, but where we are strongest. We guard our weakness, but when we are off duty at the strong gate we fail.

Resist the tempter. Do not trifle. Learn to hate sin, however difficult it may be. Avoid the beginnings of evil. Keep company with Him who was tempted in all points like as we are, yet without sin.

His name is Jesus.

There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way of escape, that ye may be able to bear it.

The Lengthened Shadow

That is, one man's spirit runs through and pervades every successful institution He keys the symphony.

Is the store a jumble of rush, push, grab, graft and disorder? That is the soul of the manager you see. He is not big enough to make an atmosphere.

SATURDAY, JUNE 15, 1929

THE SESSION OVER.

The present session of Parliament is at a close, and now the long grind is over, the verdict will be that the session has been notable rather for what has been left over for next year than for the program completed in 1929.

In fact, the 1930 session promises to be one of the most momentous in recent years, particularly as it will be followed by a general election.

With tariff revision and the St. Lawrence waterway question shunted over until 1930, the members of all parties will have no occasion to complain of lack of political fare when the House is next called together.

The result of the election may hinge upon the developments of the next session, and because of that fact the attitude of the Government and of the Opposition toward the two major questions of tariff and the waterway scheme will become of outstanding importance.

The people of Canada can look forward to a year of political manoeuvring and jockeying as the various boards of strategy repair their fences in readiness for the campaign that lies ahead.

A RADICAL SUGGESTION.

Miss Agnes MacPhail's suggestion that partial control of the prisons of Canada should be handed over to the prisoners, received short shift in the House of Commons.

On the subject of prison reform Canada's only woman member has advanced some ideas worthy of consideration, but this proposal that convicts should be given a hand in regulating the institutions in which they are confined cannot be listed among them.

Prisons are not convalescent homes or recreation areas; they are there to protect society against the activities of the criminal-minded by teaching the lesson that crime means punishment, and that he who preys upon his fellow citizens must be prepared to pay.

The people of Canada want the prisons of this country to be free of cruelty or persecution, but they are not anxious to go to the other extreme as has been the case in many similar institutions over the border, where a jail term means a round of radio entertainments, baseball games and other recreation features.

Inmates of prisons—or the vast majority of them—are enemies of society and must be treated as such, not as favored guests of the nation who are to be consulted about how they should be handled.

THE SAFETY OF FLYING.

The fact that the registrations of airplanes in Canada during May set a new record for this country, is indicative of the rapid development of air-mindedness among the Canadian people.

This land of vast distances naturally welcomes the newest and swiftest means of transportation.

It will soon be possible, too, to say the safest means.

The public should not be misled because there are occasional stories of airplane crashes in the newspapers, but should always remember that hundreds of flights are being made each day without the slightest accident.

As a matter of fact, the total number of flying accidents, grave or light, recorded in the United States last year was only 1,072.

No serious damage was done in 735 of these accidents, which were of the same relative seriousness as the denting of an automobile fender.

And what is more important, only 397 of the whole total concerned licensed pilots and planes.

Other figures tell the same story.

Millions of passenger miles were flown in the United States last year with only 14 people killed or seriously injured, while in England the Imperial Airways planes flew near three million miles without a serious accident.

The estimate of the German Luft Hanse is that the chances of an aerial passenger arriving safely at his destination work out at 99.997 per cent.

These figures should be recalled when the news of a spectacular crash appears in the headlines.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Residents of Peterborough should not forget that beginning from midnight to-night this city's activities will be governed until September 2 according to daylight saving time.

No elaborate machinery is necessary to put the summer time plan into operation.

All that is necessary is to put the clock on an hour before retiring to-night and then go ahead as usual, consoling yourself with the thought that while you lose an hour to-night you will get it back when the process is reversed at the end of the summer time period.

Against the hour that is not lost but merely loaned friends of daylight saving say it is possible to place many benefits wrapped around the certainty that you have an extra hour of sunlight after the day's work is through.

Whether that hour is to be of any advantage or not depends upon the individual citizen and the way he uses it; certainly it can be changed into dividends of health and happiness if it is properly employed.

In any case friends of the system and those who oppose it are on exactly the same footing; whether they like daylight saving or not their life will have to be governed by it for the next ten weeks, and the best possible thing to be done is to shove on the old clock ahead to-night and then dismiss the whole thing from your mind until The Examiner reminds you early in September to turn the time-piece back an hour.

"TELL ME THE OLD, OLD STORY."

In the dying hours of the present session at Ottawa the estimates for the various departments were brought up, and amongst others, those of the Department of Pensions and National Health received a deal of attention, the latter being held up pro tem.

The old contentious matter regarding the difficulty of deciding whether a returned man's illness or disability is due to war service or was contracted afterwards received a fairly reasonable dry cleaning.

The interest shown by many members who spoke on this matter seems to prove that all is not well in the "State of Denmark," and many cases were cited of men returning from the war, anxious to get home and forget their experiences, etc., who paid no attention at the time to what seemed to them then only trivial disabilities, and were consequently recorded as physically fit. Later they developed various disabilities which it is extremely difficult for them to prove attributable to their war service, which would entitle them to be classed as suffering disabilities contracted in the war and become pensionable.

There are to-day, without doubt, many men suffering from war disabilities who are not pensioned on account of the above disputable point and their cases are aggravated greatly by the fact that there are men applying for pension whose disabilities are not the outcome of war service and more often than not post war troubles.

This position naturally makes the department officials somewhat cautious when diagnosing the various cases before them.

Many men, especially those well up in years, upon enlistment imagined themselves very much younger than they really were and registered their selected age accordingly. This was to get into the army. Upon discharge great numbers of men had to be dealt with in very little time, and it was obvious that if men complained of disabilities they would be held up for examination, etc., and become entangled in red tape, all of which would delay their getting home; consequently the short route to discharge was taken and statements made which were, more often than not, hardly according to Hoyle. They gained their ends pro-tem, but have ince suffered from their hallucinations.

Many such cases are applying for pension at this late date, and if there is any doubt as to the origin of their disabilities, the man should undoubtedly be given the benefit, and a perusal of his service records would show what period he spent in the front line amongst mud, barbed wire and corruption, etc. This information would justify the department in making an award, and there could be no mistake in pensioning a man if he had been through the mill and was fortunate enough to pull through, as no man, who ever he may be, came through that hell in the condition in which he faced it. Men who saw service in Canada only cannot expect the same treatment.

The question of retroactivity of pension payments does not appear to be plain and has caused a deal of comment amongst returned men as some receive various amounts, others nothing. A deal of dissatisfaction would be eliminated if the commissioners, when considering a man's claim, would include with his statement of award particulars as to why no retroactive payment is made, and, if allowed, why certain dates and amounts are awarded. This suggestion would, we believe, save the department a considerable amount of work, not forgetting themselves, and be more satisfactory to the man concerned.

One gentleman in the House, of undoubted legal experience and ability, expressed his opinion that the Act was all O.K. as it was, but the trouble seemed to be with the manner in which it was interpreted. No doubt there is a good deal in this argument, but it is difficult to understand how it can be mis-interpreted if it is O.K. as it stands.

The self same trouble occurred in South Africa last year, the veterans' organizations interpreting their Act to mean that the date of establishment of claim shall be that the benefit dates from the time the disability was incurred, not from the date of discharge.

The Pensions Board and veterans jointly agreed to decide the point by submitting it to the law advisers to the Crown. The answer came back in these words:

"I beg to inform you that the law advisers remark as follows:

"The date from which the claim is established in Section 15 of the Act is not the same as the date of the production of the evidence which is the date indicated by the regulations. In our opinion it is plain that the benefit dates from the time when the disablement was incurred, the evidence being produced afterwards, as indeed it always must be."

The above appears to be a good method of settling for once and all disputed points, and it may be advantageous to follow South Africa's lead.—Khaki Call.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Old Home Week is only two weeks away. Are you ready to do your part in welcoming the army of visitors.

With a circus and Hon. R. B. Bennett touring Ontario at the same time, it looks as if farm work were in for a couple of set-backs.

The Gardiner administration in Saskatchewan has received notice to quit, and should not wait until the bailiff puts it out.

If this stockingless fad takes hold in Canada the mosquitoes will have no cause to complain that they never get a break.

The most difficult thing about elections nowadays seems to be for any party to get a clear majority of the seats.

It is to be hoped the Old Home Week Committee has not failed to place an order for perfect summer weather from June 29 to July 7.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

THE JERSEY COW.

A Jersey cow got lost one day
And came back home the longest way,
And then another cow or so,
Who thought the Jersey ought to know,
Came home the way the Jersey came
And even mortals did the same,
And so the cowpath grew until
It was the road to town and mill.

And many people think they're good
Because a cowpath through the wood
They take, because they follow some Mistaken road the rest have come.
They think in life it would be wrong
To take the short road, not the long,
Because, they tell you o'er and o'er,
It wasn't done that way before.

It's well to follow precedent
If you are right that right it went,
But there are many people, though,
Who think they're good and wise, I know
A lot of people wise and good,
Who'd be surprised, I know they would,
If they could know that here and now
They're following some Jersey cow.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psycholo ist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald, tries to get an interview with Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh the attractive daughter,, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It has been burned by a fire in the marsh until it is entirely unrecognizable except for the fact that it is a woman. Dr. Cavanaugh is called in to help with the identification.

He has only a small piece of scalp from the body to work on. Don Ellsworth refuses to give him a hair of Sheila O'Shay's, but he secures one unknown and after examination, tells Peter Piper that the body found in the marsh is that of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara, in whom Piper has become interested, faints when she hears this. Peter who is already half in love with her, is torn between his feeling and his suspicion that she knows something about the murder. Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested in the case and Peter is sent to interview her.

CHAPTER 20.

"You are the young man who gets—and forgets—his stories. I begin to regard you as a suspicious character. What do you want this time?" The doctor's smile took the sting from his words, as it had a way of doing.

"You're right—both ways." Peter was unabashed. "I've got to get a story and I do want something from you. I'd like to go with you when you interview Mrs. Kane. I want to get a light on her personality. As to what she says, I won't use anything without your permission, of course."

"Several other persons share your desire for light," Dr. Cavanaugh observed, "but I understand that so far it hasn't been gratified. Why don't you get your interview direct?" he added crisply.

"Because Captain Davis won't let me. But, of course, if I went with you, there'd be nothing said."

"That's the second time you've told me the truth when subterfuge would have seemed easy and more profitable. I almost suspect it's a habit with you." Dr. Cavanaugh's deliberate, unemphatic voice was almost a drawl. "Well, young man, you've flattered one of my weaknesses. I had sufficient curiosity to read your story. If anybody tells you that he never reads what's written about him, you may put him down as a liar or a colossal egotist who thinks that God alone is qualified to have an opinion on him—besides himself. And you didn't once call me a criminologist. Perhaps a scientific training makes pedants of us all. I confess to a twinge of resentment whenever I am called a criminologist."

"Sheer luck," said the grinning Peter. "Call it luck or inspired accuracy. Anyway, I'll admit I liked it. You see, I never disguise myself or my purposes. I lay all my cards on the table—and let the other fellow play them. I'm not even interested in catching criminals, as such, though I'm interested in understanding my fellow human beings. This little hobby of identification merely helps sometimes to locate the subject whose mental processes interest me. I suppose," he went on, without change of tone, "since I've inflicted all this explanation on you the least I can do is to let you come along."

"Whoop-ee!" crowed Peter.

With a smile half indulgent, half wistful the doctor led the way down the corridor to the jail elevator. Youth! When a man looks thus tenderly on the ebullience of youth, Dr. Cavanaugh reflected, he is growing old. The time had long past when any of life's incidents could make him shout "Whoopee!" The great psychiatrists in America glanced briefly at the newspaper reporter whose pay envelope held $50 every week, and sighed a sigh of reminiscent envy.

The long bare room in the women's quarters of the city jail smelled vaguely of whitewash. The matron, with clanking keys at her belt and an air professionally maternal, ushered in Mrs. Kane and faded into a corner. Peter grinned. It must be rather a strain to assume a motherly air with the redoubtable person who marched to the table when the two men had seated themselves, and faced them with a belligerent stare.

"Mrs. Kane," Dr. Cavanaugh began with an air of kindly severity, "you have made a mistake in judgment."

"You ain't got a thing on me, not a thing," Mrs. Kane snapped, her teeth flashing up and down with more than usual rapidity. "They can talk till doomsday, and I'll say the same. You got that hair by hook or by crook, but how can you prove that it belonged to Miss O'Shay? Answer me that!"

"A good point," Dr. Cavanaugh conceded blandly. "But if the hair which I took from your dress does not connect you with Miss O'Shay, it does connect you with the woman found, supposedly murdered, in the tule marsh. Things might be rather uncomfortable for you if you refuse to admit that the hair is hers."

Mrs. Kane's mouth opened, closed again with a click, and finally re-opened.

"Anybody that thinks I'd harm Miss O'Shay is a fool," she muttered. "All you policemen are fools, anyway."

"Not necessarily," Dr. Cavanaugh argued cheerfully. "But I'm not a policeman. Let us suppose that you have Miss O'Shay's best interests at heart—that you believed you were best protecting her by refusing to tell any of her affairs to outsiders. In the circumstances, I still think you made a mistake in judgment. The police are bound to find out or at least to try to find out. And in trying they may uncover all sorts of things."

Mrs. Kane, who had stood rigidly erect, sat down very suddenly in the chair by the table, as if a scaffolding under her voluminous garments had collapsed. She had had a sleepless night, and, despite her determination, she looked badgered and perturbed. The doctor made no move to go to her assistance, but continued to look across at her with steady, placid gaze. He didn't fuss; he didn't shout at her and point his finger; he didn't put words into her mouth and demand. "Isn't that so?" He seemed to have some sense. Why not tell him a little, anyhow? Enough to get those questioning men away from her—those men to whom she would not talk, though they kept at her for a year!

"They'd better have left things alone," she protested sulkily. "What good does it do to rake everything up? If that was Miss O'Shay who was found in the marsh, you can bet there was some scandal back of it. There always was," she added bitterly, and followed her words with a vehement click, like the snapping spring of a trap.

"Still," the doctor suggested tranquilly, "some scandals are worse than others."

"I suppose they are," Mrs. Kane admitted grudgingly.

The doctor continued to gaze serenely into space. Peter was scribbling indecipherable notes on a sheet of copy paper held under the table. The heavy breathing of the matron, who was indulging in what she euphemistically called a "cat nap" in the corner, was the only audible sound in the room.

Mrs. Kane also closed her eyes for a moment; but when she opened them they were alert, with the sharp glint of jet.

"I'll tell you this, if you want to know," she said acridly, "though I never thought as I'd live to tell it to a single soul. That whipper-snapper, Mr. Ellsworth, didn't want to marry Miss O'Shay. He was wild about her at first—and he wasn't the only man who was that. I'm telling you—and then he cooled off and wanted to back out. They had a terrible fight. But anybody that gets into a fight with Miss O'Shay knows he's been in a real scrap. He flung out and said he never wanted to see her again. And then she went to a lawyer, she did, and drew up the nicest little breach of promise suit you ever saw. You bet she'd got it all down in writing, too, and had kept the letters. It took just one good look at that legal document and the evidence to bring him round. She kept the papers, just to remind him if he ever got funny, and they're in the wall safe in her bedroom to this day. If you're looking for one person that wouldn't be too displeased to have Miss O'Shay out of the way, it strikes me you'd better page Mr. Don Ellsworth!"

Swishing her long skirt, Mrs. Kane rose to her feet, with what could only be described as a flounce.

"Thanks," said Dr. Cavanaugh, quite unruffled by this outburst. "I'll do that. I am sure that your information will prove extremely valuable."

Peter had also risen to his feet. There wasn't a chance in a hundred, he told himself, but you never could tell till you tried.

"By the way, Mrs. Kane," he said, speaking for the first time, "I've a camera man waiting just outside the door. I'm a newspaper man, and you know we always have to have attractive pictures to go with our stories. So long as this case is in the papers, anyhow, won't you let us have your picture to dress it up a bit?"

With an amazement that almost robbed Peter of the power of action, he saw Mrs. Kane pat her sausage roll of varnished hair.

"Well, now," she said, "I ain't rightly fixed for a picture."

But Peter was already shaking the matron by the shoulder.

"Hurry up and open the door for the man in the hall, ma," he whispered. "Your prize prisoner is going to pose for a flash!"

"I suppose you'd like me to smile? Dear me, that flashlight thing is sure to make me jump a foot!"

"Sure!" said Peter irrepressibly. "Look pleasant, right towards the camera, please. That's it—shoot!"

As the jail elevator rumbled downwards, Peter turned to Dr. Cavanaugh. "Whoever would have thought she'd fall for a line like that?" he exclaimed. "Gee, human nature's funny, isn't it?"

"So I've observed," Dr. Cavanaugh agreed imperturbably. "But if you'd looked at her hair, you wouldn't have been so surprised. No woman dyes her hair without a reason—or shall we say without faith? You're the first person, I suppose, who has flattered Mrs. Kane for a long time. You justified her faith. And now, I suppose, she'll be pursuing you, to make sure of her conquest."

"God forefend!" gasped Peter. "I hope they keep her parked in jail!"

DURANT EXECUTIVE VISITS DISTRICT

Selkirk and Elliott, Local Dealers, Are Week-end Hosts To Party.

Selkirk and Elliott, local dealers in Durant cars, are playing hosts this week-end to the factory executive of Durant Motors of Canada, Limited, Eight strong they came to the city yesterday afternoon—in Durant autos, of course—and left at four o'clock for Jack's Lake, near Apsley, where they will remain until Monday afternoon. At the lake the happy party will find accommodation at William Earnshaw's cottage, the guests still, however, of Selkirk and Elliott.

These visitors are J. S. McCutcheon, Ottis Fraser, Clifford Hatton, Joseph Poyser, Ernest Edwards, H. Moore, William Kerby, and John Moore, all of Toronto. The party is also accompanied by H. Quinn, Brantford Durant dealer, and C. R. Little, Goodyear tire representative, Toronto.

In Mr. Selkirk, the visitors will unquestionably find a perfect, genial host, who will spare no effort to assure for his guests one of the happiest of happy week-ends at this beautiful northern lake.

Markets Remain Idle

Will Have To Depend On Investment Buying To Tide Them Over Summer.

BACKBONE OF MARKETS.

Trading At Very Low Ebb During Past Week—Much Liquidation.

By A D. O'Halloran

(Special to The Examiner—Copyright, 1929).

TORONTO, June 15.—The Canadian Stock Exchanges have entered upon one of the most trying periods of the year that has to do with the markets themselves. The summer months in days gone by were always looked upon as a period when it was impossible to make much progress for about four years was sufficient to tide the markets over June, July, and August without any great falling off in volume and diminition of interest. This years it would appear the markets are going back to the old habits of using the hot weather for a breathing spell to place their house in order and stabilize prices at a level from which they can advance in the fall.

During the week there has been plenty of evidence that the trading public is ready for a vacation marketwise, and is content to idle for the summer and let matters take their own course. This week trading was at a very low ebb and daily transactions lacked the pep necessary to bring about a broad swing in security prices, which moved within a very narrow range and in either direction. There were very few leaders and probably less than for any one week this year, while those that did take a notion could not keep it up for long and were soon relegated to comparative idleness. Every time there was a bulge in the market, liquidation counteracted it.

GREATEST DRAWBACK.

The selling orders overhanging the list are the greatest drawback to a sustained improvement. A quiet and inactive market for a few months will absorb most of the selling and place the lists in a much better position to resume the advance when the time is ripe. Speculators not willing to carry commitments through an extended period of inactivity sooner or later let go and, with the values down to a level that permit of a fair return on invested capital this selling is gradually absorbed by investment buying and weak accounts eliminated.

This passing of securities from weak to strong hands should be the more pronounced in the summer of 1929. There are the investment trusts which have plenty of cash on hand, and have been awaiting a favorable opportunity of investing in the securities of Canadian corporations. Investment trusts are somewhat of an innovation in the Dominion and the full benefit of their buying power has yet to be felt, once the markets have gone through a readjustment process following a broad upswing of prices. There is also the rank and file of investors who are looking for capital appreciation as well as return, differing from the speculator in that they are willing to hold a security over a period of gradual enhancement in value, and do not expect to make a profit overnight as does the speculator.

BACKBONE OF MARKET

Investment buying is the backbone of any security market and when the speculator has had his innings a reaction takes place putting the market in a position that appeals to the investor who buys with a view to permanency or until such time as the price advances beyond what is believed the proper value and then he is inclined to sell.

To-day the Canadian markets have reached the stage where favorable opportunities are present. The inflation caused by excessive speculation has been wiped out by the reactionary month of May. But this is not true of all and there are many securities that have further ground to retrace before they will attract buying.

The wave of speculative enthusiasm has spent itself and there is nothing in progress to re-kindle the flame before the fall. Industrial corporations at this date have all reported operations for the year 1928 and favorable earnings for that period fully discounted. The next batch of financial statements will be for those who do not end their fiscal period with the calendar year but are in the minority.

Along about September or October a good idea of the results to be obtained in 1929 will be possible and then security prices may start in to discount what can be expected from the financial statements of the year's operations. In the meantime there is apt to be constructive developments in securities that will sway individual prices but nothing that would bring a general advance.

Boll weevil report as released by Dept. of Agriculture, is regarded as very bullish.

June 15—Noranda new No. 4 shaft is now at depth of 1,000 feet, and within 60 days ore from 975 foot level will be hoisted through this outlet. It is expected that Smelter capacity will be doubled by October.

Recent drilling on Waite Ackerman has considerably improved outlook. High grade copper was cut in fourth hole about 300 ft. S. W. from original body. Fifty-one feet of ore assayed 6.33 per cent. copper. The seventh hole has cut ore but assays not yet available.

JUNIOR POSTS FILLED

The junior posts in the Ramsay MacDonald government have been filled and among the appointments listed are (1) J. J. Lawson, who will be parliamentary secretary to the Minister of Labor. Mr. Lawson was one of the thirteen Labor M. P's who were suspended in 1926 during an all-night sitting on the Economy Bill. (2) Arthur Ponsonby, former Labor under-secretary for foreign affairs, has been made parliamentary secretary to the ministry of dominions. (3) Morgan Jones, who was deprived of the right to teach school because he was opposed to the world war, has been appointed parliamentary secretary for the Board of Education. Jones was refused reinstatement as a school teacher in 1918 and worked as a laborer in a colliery.

NEWS FROM THE MINES

Solloway, Mills & Company Through

SOUTHWEST PETE

Southwest Pete at 4,130 feet, drilling steadily.

INTERNATIONAL NICKEL

At lower levels, 8th to 12th, of Garson mine, copper content of ore found much higher grade than that mined at higher horizons. Understood officially that a large section of richer ore opened up, and believed average copper content could be materially raised over that now going to smelter, as sections of chalcopyrite have been shown by sampling to contain as high as 30 per cent., quite as rich as that developed at 3,100 ft. level of Mond section of Frood.

INTERNATIONAL NICKEL

Excavation work for new copper refinery at Copper Cliff well under way. Contractors have electrical shop and mixer building under construction. Two miles of track have been laid around site for two big steam shovels, and as siding for bringing up material. Nearly three hundred men are employed.

ASSOCIATED

James Lowery, managing director, is particularly pleased with results achieved on Association Oil and Gas, which adjoins south end of Home property on west. This was first operation on west flank of south end of Turner Valley to get the limestone formation, and Mr. Lowery classes this success as among the outstanding events of the valley, ranking in importance with the success which Okalta achieved on the west flank in the central part of the valley when it brought in second million dollar hole.

BALTAC

Baltac Oils, in lime with Associated on structure and with its No. 1 well spotted in a position between Advance on west and Home on east, particularly appeals to James Lowery, managing director. He believes it has an outstanding chance and Imperial Oil will use a heavy rotary drill on this well.

HOME OIL

No. 2 will not be drilled further and diamond drill used on No. 2 will be moved over to No. 3. This latter well is standing cemented in limestone and from the operation on it to date, is the most promising well of the three. Meanwhile No. 4 is down around 4,000 feet and by the time No. 3 is completed, No. 4 should be ready for the diamond drill. A start is being made on Home No. 5.

ABANA MANAGER

Abana's new directors made what is regarded as good selection when picked Harrison E. Clement as manager. His experience in Canada has been limited to paymaster of Porcupine, but his Western United States' experience is wide.

PEND OREILLE

Pend Oreille has made start on smelter at Metaline Falls. Recent offering of shares reported as quite successful.

ACCUMULATING OILS

Considerable accumulation of oils is in evidence and this is bound to be a factor in holding up market. Shares are not plentiful in any of important issues and present buying is bound to be a factor in gradual drying up process.

NORANDA

Exploration of "H" ore body, Noranda, to 1,500-ft. shows at that horizon 160-ft. width of $25 ore. At 1,400 drill shows 300 ft. section $20 ore located 500 feet west of No. 3 shaft, indicating ore rakes west from 975 level.

AMULET

Steady accumulation of Amulet indicated and prediction is made that offering of treasury shares at $1 will get good reception. Site of concentrator selected northeast of No. 4 shaft. C.N.R. will extend Waite spur line two miles to handle concentrates.

NIPISSING.

Nipissing declared 1½ per cent. dividend payable July 20th to shareholders of record June 29th. Statement shows liquid assets $3,396,518.

FRUIT OPPORTUNITIES.

Reviewing Turner Valley outlook, Financial Post Writer who spent time in field says: "Opportunity for profit still exists," and that "Various stocks discount future to some extent" and "Field likely to see many more wells brought in."

AJAX OIL LEADS LIST

Touches New High Mark of 190 For Net Appreciation of 14 Points.

ON STANDARD CURB.

TORONTO, Ont., June 15.—(C.P.)—A strong come-back by Ajax Oil led a strengthening in the general list on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. Ajax and Newbec were again responsible for more than half of the 760,029 total sales while the balance was supplied by the usual market leaders. Ajax touched a high of 190 with the final figure at 1.88 recording a net appreciation of 14 points. Newbec held up well and after breaking to 56, closed at 59, off another two points.

Noranda became more active toward the final bell and after hovering about the 53.00 mark, climbed up to 53.64, a net gain of 65 cents. Sherritt-Gordon, Sudbury Basin, Pend Oreille and Ventures all showed minor improvement. Oils displayed a general weakness in early session but recovered toward the close when they generally showed slight increases.

INDUSTRIAL STOCKS REGISTER ADVANCE

Maple Leaf Milling To New High of 200 For 10 Point Gain.

TORONTO, Ont., June 15 (C.P.).—Maple Leaf Milling, banks and a couple of the industrial stocks were the only ones to show any marked changes in an uninteresting session on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Trading was extremely quiet and was furnished mostly by such stocks as Nickel, Brazilian, Walkers and Ajax and McColl-Frontenac Oils. Maple Leaf Milling, following the announcement of a five for one split in the stock, and increased dividends, made a further run of 10 points to a new high of 200.

Royal Bank, in a turnover of 27 shares advanced four points to 339, while Commerce appeared two points higher at 285 as did Dominion at 252. Hayes Wheels, in easy trading, shot up four to 64, while Cockshutt Plow gained 1¼ to 40. Service Stations dropped back three to 65.

Wheat Prices Gain In Active Buying

CHICAGO, Ills., June 15 (Canadian Press).—Active buying lifted wheat prices anew early to-day, following definite announcement that President Hoover would sign the Farm Relief Bill at noon. Reports of continued unwelcome dry weather in Canada and of equally undesired prospective showers over domestic winter wheat territory also were a subject of notice. Opening at ½c off to ¼c up, wheat later rose all around. Corn was easy, starting at 5-8c decline to 1-8c advance. Oats were firm. Provisions held steady.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 15 (Canadian Press).—Foreign exchanges irregular. Quotations in cents: Great Britain, demand 4.84 5-16; Canadian dollars, 99.09 3-8.

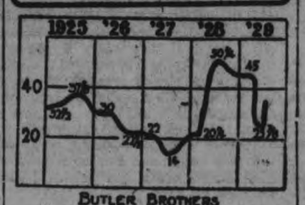
Duty is Lowered on Cars

SHANGHAI, June 15 (C.P.).—The Minister of Commerce of the Nanking Nationalist government has allowed a reduction in the import tariff on motor trucks and chassis of from twenty-two and a half to ten and one-half per cent. Dealers consider the action an important step in the direction of further development of the Chinese automobile market in which trucks are a most important factor.

ROBBERS GET $18,400

BERKELEY, Cal., June 15.—A dapper young robber held up the Berkeley branch of the Bank of America, cowed seven persons and escaped with $18,400. Almost simultaneously in front of an Oakland branch of the same bank, a few miles away, two other robbers tried to take $7,500 from a customer. They beat their victim nearly insensible, but his cries and the gathering of a downtown crowd fightened away the attackers without the money.

STOCK A DAY



BUTLER BROTHERS

Butler Brothers was incorporated in 1887 but the original business of the company was established in 1873. Since its incorporation it has acquired the business of several companies in the same general line of business. The company sells general merchandise at wholesale to merchants only, handling dry goods, furnishing goods, clothing hats and caps, notions, drug sundries books and stationery, hardware, tinware cutlery, sporting goods, horse goods woodenware, furniture, glassware, crockery, jewelry and other lines.

In December, 1928, the company entered the chain store field by purchasing through the Scott Stores, Inc., a subsidiary, the chain operated by Freeman Stores throughout Arkansas and Oklahoma. This latter concern specializes in goods retailing at 5 cents to $1. The company has distributing houses at New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, San Francisco, and Dallas and has central houses, stores, sales offices, and agents in other cities.

Net profit of the company reached its high point in 1919. The next highest year was 1926 when $2,779,923 was earned. In 1927 this dropped to $771,213 but it recovered in 1928 to $2,223,768.

Funded debt amounts to $1,040,000 in real estate loans. Capital stock outstanding consists of $22,762,200 in shares of $20 par value. Dividends have been paid at varying rates on the capital stock. From 1821 to 1926 the rate was 12½ per cent. In 1927 it was 10 5-8 per cent. and in 1928 10 per cent. A quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent. was paid February 16, 1929.

As of Dec. 31, 1928, total current assets were $25,755,269. Current liabilities amounted to $5,023,539 and net working capital to $20,729,730. Book value applicable to the capital stock amounted to $27.17 a share.

ly about a dozen customers in the front office of the bank were alarmed. One man, A. Slashbrook, made a clutch at the fleeing bandit, but failed to hold him. In less than another minute he had disappeared, leaving no other clue but the hat behind him.

Burglar alarm bells immediately sounded in the Carling Street Police headquarters and a police flyer rounded the corner on two wheels, a dozen officers and detectives were immediately placed about the block, but no trace of the fugitive had been unearthed at noon.

Cellars, barns and other buildings in the block surrounding Queens, Clarence, Dundas and Richmond streets were searched by officers with drawn revolvers, while police flyers skirted the down-town section of the city.

AREA.

Activity in Area shares due to report company will drill North Waite. This property takes on added importance because of recent diamond drill success on Waite Ackerman.

Foreign Government Bonds

Since the war remarkable progress has been made in the economic development of South American countries. Budgets have been balanced, banking systems have been improved, the volume of foreign trade has vastly increased and measures have been taken to improve the means of transportation so that further advances may be made in the development of the great natural resources of the continent. This improvement has been accompanied by the investment of large amounts of foreign capital in the external bonds of South American countries, particularly by United States and Canadian investors. The South American issues listed below which are payable principal and interest in New York are undoubtedly attractive at present prices:

	PRICE	YIELD
UNITED STATES OF BRAZIL 6½% Bonds, Due 1 October, 1957	93.50	7.01%
REPUBLIC OF CHILE 6% Bonds, Due 1 January, 1961	94.50	6.41%

NEW DRIVING CONDITIONS are here and so is this NEW TIRE to meet them

At the OLD PRICE think of it!

A NEW tire is here—the New Royal Cord—designed to meet the extraordinary tire demands of the car of 1929.

The Royal Cord of 1929 is a new tire through and through . . . constructed on new engineering principles . . . built for sharp braking, snappier pick-up, high speed, surer traction—and to stand up under such service.

The New Royal Cord has a super-strong carcass, built with web-cord, specially reinforced where 1929 motoring conditions demand it.

For safety and long mileage, for the job your 1929 car has to do, the New Royal Cord is the one tire for you.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, June 15.—All classes of cattle except heavy bulls improved in value in this week's trading at the Union Stock Yards. Opening trade on Monday was somewhat slow with bids steady, but picked up activity by noon and quite a few sales of butcher steers showed 11¾ cents per pound. On Tuesday, shippers, sensing the stronger undertone, held late arrivals for Wednesday's market, when their judgment was justified by an advance in price that put most grades of steers up 50 cents per cwt. for the week, and best cows a good 25 cents. Heavy steers, over 1,200 pounds, were scarce, as usual, but a load and several small lots of the best sold to a top of 12 cents per pound for that class. Weighty steers made from 10½ to 11¾ cents, with a few at the 12 cent level, while handy and light butcher steers were in good demand at 11½ to 12 cents per pound for the bulk, with one lot making the market top for anything outside the baby beef class, at 12¼ cents per pound. Good butcher cows sold from 8½ to 9 cents, with choice at 9½ to 9¾ cents, and the occasional fancy cow sold up to 10 cents per pound. Heavy bulls were slow, with none worth more than 7½ cents per pound, while light butcher bulls brought practically steady prices, with a few of the best up to 9 cents. Bolognas sold fully steady at 7 to 7¼ cents per pound. There was a fairly liberal offering of baby beeves, and prices in this class were firm to strong, with the bulk moving at 12 to 13½ cents, and choice at 14 to an extreme 15 cents per pound. One straight load of baby beeves sold at 12¾ cents per pound.

Stores were a short offering, only some seven loads selling to go back to the country this week. Nothing of outstanding quality offered, and 10 cents for a load of fair light stockers was fully steady with last week. Some common heifers sold as low as 8 cents, and fair stocker steers at from 8½ to 9½ cents per pound. Demand in the cow division showed a turn to backward springers, wanted to freshen when grass begins to dry up. Prices at the top were lower as a result, few springers making better than $125 each, while best fresh cows sold at a top of $100. Cattle supply for the week was about 100 head heavier than in the week previous and included a good proportion of good stallfeds, probably the last of this season.

Calf supply was some 600 heavier than last week, including a run of some 1,500 on Tuesday. The market continued brisk and prices showed a gain of 25 to 50 cents per cwt., following last week's strong gain. Local demand was active, but shipment to the United States was lighter at 975 head as against 1,200 last week. Good to choice veal calves sold at 14 to 15 cents per pound, with common to medium veals at 10 to 13 cents and common thin calves from 7¾ to 8¾ cents per pound.

Sheep and lamb supply was up 400 head in volume as compared with last week, and the increase in lambs brought an easier feeling for that class of stock after Monday, the market for choice lambs closing at 18 to 19 cents as against 18½ to 19½ cents a week earlier. Odd fancy lots sold as high as 20 cents, however. Cull lambs brought 14 to 16 cents per pound. Sheep prices were steady to a shade stronger, most good light butcher sheep selling at 6½ to 7½ cents per pound, with a few choice wool sheep up to 8 cents. Culls sold downward to 2½ cents per pound.

Supply of hogs for sale locally was lighter than last week and the price at the close was up a quarter at the top, with part of Wednesday's supply and Thursday's small offering selling on a basis of 13¾ cents for selects w.o.c. The spread between f.o.b. and w.o.c. price was increased 25 cents per cwt. on Wednesday, making off car hogs worth $1.25 per cwt. more than the f.o.b. Road hogs sold 50 cents per cwt. lower than w.o.c. on the new basis, and fed and watered hogs at 55 cents per cwt. below weighed off car.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, June 15. — Wholesale butter prices again advanced, Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized being sold at 37 1-8 cents per pound. This was an exceptional price, however, most dealers asking from 36¾ to 37 cents per pound. June-made butter now arriving is finding a ready market, and dealers want more of it to put away in storage for fall consumtpion. Receipts were 3,619 boxes. To the retail trade prices were unchanged.

No changes were announced in the cheese prices. Receipts were 5,753 boxes.

Retail eggs also held at yesterday's levels. Receipts were 2,312 cases. In a wholesale carlot way there was a firmer feeling in regard to extras, and a slightly easier tone to the firsts and seconds. Prices were revised accordingly, and brokers were asking the following:

Ontario fresh eggs, export pack, f.o.b. Ontario points, 30c per dozen for extras, 25c for firsts, and 22c for seconds. Ontario fresh eggs, common cases, small lots, on spot here, delivered, 32c per dozen for extras, 27c for firsts, and 24c for seconds. Western fresh eggs, f.o.b. Manitoba points, 28c per dozen for extras, 26c for firsts, and 21c for seconds. British Columbia fresh eggs, f.o.b. Vancouver, 25½c for extras, and 24½c for firsts.

Potatoes held steady.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, June 15.—Butter prices continued their upward climb this week on the local wholesale produce market, and trading was of a very active nature all throughout the period. Production was fairly heavy considering the cool weather conditions experienced recently and all supplies moved freely into consumers' hands. The price of No. 1 finest creamery moved upward to 36¾c per lb., and the No. 2 grade sold 1c lower. Local dealers express the opinion that, as the market had steadied down toward the end of the week, and prices had evidently halted the upward tendency to hold firm at the 36¾c figure, that no drastic changes would be encountered in conditions till warmer weather sets in and production increases under that stimulus. Demands have all been comfortably filled this week, and no trouble at all was experienced in moving all supplies to reach the market.

The cheese market this week was very active and very strong. Dealers state that the increase in demand for export purposes largely accounts for the advance in activity and price. Prices advanced considerably from last week, quotations on the No. 1 large colored paraffined and Government graded quality closing steady at 19¾c per lb.

Egg prices on the local wholesale market this week held unchanged from those of last week, and general conditions continued to be almost the same. The recent spell of cool weather has kept production considerably above the average for this time of the year, and the lack of demand of supplies for storage purposes made it difficult to move receipts with anything approaching ease; buyers appear to have satisfied all immediate wants for storage eggs and very little purchasing of this type has been in evidence all through the week.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 15.—Apparent certainty that the bill establishing a $500,000,000 Federal Farm Board was at last as good as signed gave grain values new upturns yesterday. Wheat traders weer also keeping strict watch over developments, indicating that the crop situation in Canada may soon become precarious.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ¾c to ⅞c above Thursday's finish. Corn closed ¼c to ⅝c up; oats, ⅛c to ¼c to ⅜c advance, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 10c.

Prospects that farm relief would at once go into effect dominated the wheat market yesterday right from the beginning. Despatches saying that wonderful weather was adding substantially to the domestic winter wheat yield southwest attracted much notice, but in the face of Washington developments about progress of the Farm Bill in the final stages toward the White House had little market influence. On the other hand, advices that rain is badly needed over a wide area in Canada were an evident help to buying based on news about farm relief.

Winnipeg messages received here said that unless heavy rains soon fell Canadian wheat crop conditions would bring about a general roar of complaint. Meanwhile reports were at hand that wheat shipments from elsewhere than Canada, Argentina and Australia are practically at the zero point, and that reserves of wheat in exporting countries other than the United States are diminishing. According to prediction in some quarters, any active buying from Europe, together with crop damage reports from North America, would easily cause tn advance in world prices. European takings of wheat yesterday from North America totalled about 800,000 busheles, mostly Canadian.

Wet, cold weather prevalent throughout much of the corn belt, and unfavorable for the growing crop, did a good deal to give independent strength to the corn market. Besides, country offerings of corn to arrive were decidedly smaller, and as a rule were at prices above the market. Oats were governed largely by the action of other grains.

Packers' buying rallied in the provision market, despite downturns in the value of hogs.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, June 15. — Heavy buying entered yesterday's wheat market on reports of lack of rain in Western Canada, and that the United States Senate had approved the Farm Relief Bill with the export debenture clause omitted. At the opening prices started forward. Around mid-session the October future was up 2c from the previous close, and the other months showing gains of ½c to 1¼c. A flood of offerings hit the market near the close and the high prices were not held, final quotations showing net gains of ¼c to ¾c for the day.

Moisture was said to be badly needed in sections of the Prairie Provinces as the scattered rains of the past few days were not of much benefit to growing wheat.

Export business wa aid to be improving, New York reporting 700,000 bushels, largely Manitobas, sold overnight to foreign interests.

After an advance of ½c was recorded in cash wheat at the opening the market slackened and prices were fractionally lower at the close. A good demand was in evidence for all grades.

Coarse grain trading was dull, very little interest was taken in barley, oats and flax, but rye was fairly well bought at firm prices.

shouts of "Nungesser et Coli," referring to the fatal westward flight of two Frenchmen of whom no definite trace was ever found. Unconfirmed reports that these two had landed in the United States and later in the Canadian wilds greatly angered the French people.

There was some disorder and the mounted guards had to use the flat of their sabres at times to control the monster gathering.

The announcement that the fliers had landed was received with some skepticism but as the officials themselves had no news from their own sources the people had to be content with what newspaper correspondents told them.

WEDDING BELLS

HARRISON—HARRIS.

LAKEFIELD, June 15.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—The marriage took place on Wednesday morning, June 12th, in Knox United church, of Luella Marion Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Harris, of Smith, to Elwood Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison, of Emily. Rev. T. M. Wesley performed the ceremony in the presence of a number of friends of the contracting parties. Miss Etta Garbutt played the wedding march.

The bride wore a powder blue georgette frock and veil and orange blossoms and carried an arm bouquet of sunset roses. The young couple were unattended and left after the ceremony for a motor trip. The bride, travelling in her wedding gown with grey hat and blue coat. They

January 14 and two weeks previously of shooting at two Indians, whom they did not recognize.

The witnesses had also interviewed the older brother, Archie, and got a verbal statement admitting the shooting from him. The boy had declared that a game warden had told him to shoot at Indians to scare them off the marsh.

H. McLaughlin said that he was with Constable Thompson when interviewing William McIntyre and he corroborated that witness's evidence.

This concluded the case for the crown.

Archie McIntyre, called in his own defence, said that after returning from visiting Fraser's Island on January 14, 1928 he had had lunch, and about five o'clock went down with his brother to guard their marsh. It was snowing and when it snowed the Indians usually made a raid on the muskrats, spearing them through their homes. They saw William Muskrat come and spear seven houses and then he and his brother had aimed their guns in the air and fired.

The Game Warden had told them to shoot in the air to scare off the Indians. At the time he met Madden Howard he had said nothing about shooting at Bill Muskrat.

He and his brother had shot in the air with a 22. when they saw two Indians taking muskrats in March, 1929.

William McIntyre, next called, said that he and his brother had not aimed when shooting at any of the Indians. He said he was scared whe he made his statement to Constable Thompson.

Mary Elizabeth McIntyre, mother of the boys, corroborated their evidence as to the time that the boys had gone to the marsh on the evening of January 14, 1928. Edward Coward told of the boys visiting M. McLaughlin said that he was noon. He said that the Indians had, in the winter, destroyed many of his muskrats.

After hearing the addresses of the two counsels the jury retired and in thirty-five minutes returned with their verdict of not guilty.

and issued in debentures for the paying of the city's share on the provincial highway last year. Alderman Phelan, in explaining the by-law, said that the maintenance of the highway had been met out of the general rate, and the sum borrowed was for the city's share of the construction on the Chemong road.

A second by-law was $2,686 for the issuing of debentures to pay for the sidewalks laid last year. This is paid under the Local Improvement Act and cannot be taken out of the general rate, Alderman Phelan said.

Eating house licenses were granted to T. Eaton Company, The Metropolitan Store, E. L. Payne, J. P. Bond, A. C. Curtis and D. Green. In granting the license to the last two, the soft drinks must be sold in a suitable building.

The Mayor and Clerk were instructed to have a suitable address prepared for Archbishop O'Brien on his return from Rome.

The chairman of the property committee was instructed to have the city buildings decorated for Old Home Week.

The paving of Thomas street between Charlotte and Gilmour will be advertised and the work will probably be done this year.

A by-law turning over the James Stevenson Park to the senior baseball club for the remainder of the season, providing that the club looks after the park and permits the junior teams in the city to play there was passed.

Tried Many Remedies Without Success

Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended by Daughter

"I had such a Sore Back and tried several remedies without success," writes Mrs. M. Libby, 498 Julian St., Pembroke, Ont. "My daughter told me to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. I did so and when I had used two boxes my back was better."

The road to good health lies through the Kidneys. If they are kept strong and well all the impurities are strained out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the Kidneys in good condition to do their work of cleansing and purifying the blood. Weak, Nervous, Run-down women should give Dodd' Kidney Pills a trial at once. Ask your neighbors.

Motor Mastery in a New Style Setting ...at a Remarkably Low Price

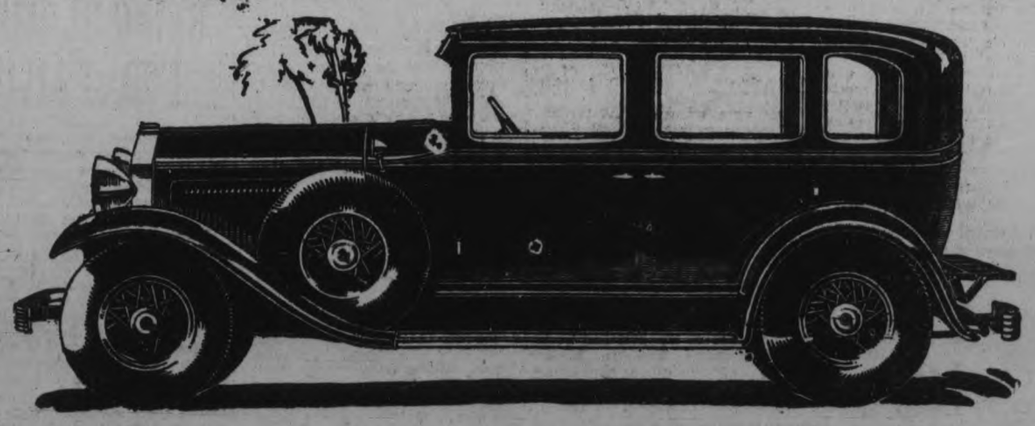
Seldom has a fine motor car been marked by so many major improvements as now distinguish the new-style Willys-Knight "70-B."

This richly styled car definitely proves that beauty of design and perfection of detail are entirely independent of price. Only among the most expensive custom-built cars can you find any adequate comparison. Indeed, its designers are men of long experience in the custom-built field, and their genius is manifest in this triumph of modern beauty.

The new-style Willys-Knight is the largest and most powerful Knight-engined car ever offered at so low a price. A demonstration will quickly prove the superiority of its patented, double sleeve-valve power-plant.

It is the only type of automobile engine that does not require costly valve-grinding and carbon removing, and that actually increases in power and smoothness to a mileage limit never yet determined.

A demonstration will give you a new idea of beauty, power and value. A standing invitation awaits you at your nearest dealer's.



"FINGER-TIP CONTROL"

NEWSPAPERMEN VISITING PARIS

Provincial Dailies Are Planning Big Banquet For Canadian Delegation.

TOURING EUROPE.

PARIS, June 15 (Canadian Press Cable).—The party of Canadian news papermen and women touring Europe with a visit to Britain as their main object, in returning a visit made by members of the Newspaper Society of Great Britain to Canada in 1927, arrived in Paris last night from Cherbourg, where they landed yesterday. To-day they were confronted by a host of invitations from the National Federation of French Newspapers, the Council of Paris Newspapers and the Council of the Provincial Daily Papers Association.

The Provincial Dailies are holding a banquet for the Canadians here on Tuesday. Monday evening they will be tendered a dinner by the Bienvenue Francaise Committee.

Madame Philipp Roy, wife of the Canadian Minister to France, will receive the visitors at her home on the Avenue Bois to-morrow afternoon.

The Canadians will remain in Paris for five days and then proceed to Vienna, subsequently going to Germany, Belgium and Holland, from where they cross to England on July 1, Dominion Day.

J. Rupert Davies of the Kingston, Ontario, Whig-Standard, is organizing secretary of the party.

START MONDAY TO BUILD FLOATS

T. Garstang Will Assist Any Who Wish Help in Preparing For Parade.

LARGE ENTRY EXPECTED.

The old home week parade will consist of numerous floats, decorative, novel and historical in character. The display of decorative floats will be such as Peterborough has never witnessed, according to T. Garstang, designer, who is working with the parade committee.

Those entering the parade are leaning more to floats that are decorative in character rather than historical. Novel floats will probably take second place but there will be floats representing some of the outstanding facts in the history of Peterborough. One or two factories are contemplating on making actual display of their products.

The actual description of the floats is being withheld at present because it is the feeling of those in charge that these are to be a surprise and any description now would prove unsatisfactory when the day arrived for the parade.

Next week a crew of carpenters and girls under the supervision of Mr. Garstang will start operations in the Armouries. "No tradesman in Peterborough should say that he has not enough time to build a float for the parade" said Mr. Garstang, "because we will take all charge of building one for anbody that wishes us to do so."

Some of the firms that Mr. Garstang is assisting are:—"Dominon Woollens, Neil Shoe Store, Post Office, Canadian Customs, Masons Groceterias, Loyal Order of Moose, Daughter's of the Empire, Rochester Old Boys, Canadian Postum, Graftons, Metropolitan Stores, and Hall's Limited.

These with many others who are working independently are getting ready for the parade but according to those in charge some of the organizations in the city are slow at coming forward they are requested to take immediate steps to make this parade a success. Mr. Garstang will give all assistance he possibly can.

HON. JOHN S. MARTIN IS ILL.

TORONTO, Ont., June 15.—Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture in the Ontario Government, is ill at his farm at Port Dover, and is declared by his physicians to be in need of a long rest. Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health, who visited Mr. Martin yesterday, reported on his return to Toronto that the Minister of Agriculture was "fine as a man could be who has worked too hard."

"He just needs a good long rest, and that is what the doctors ordered him to do," Dr. Godfrey added.

INTELLIGENT AUTO REPAIRING—

ERECT BUREAU ON THE HIGHWAY

Information Service For Tourists To Be Conducted During Summer Months.

OLD HOME WEEK PLANS.

An information bureau for tourists will be erected by the Peterborough Automobile Club on the highway approaching the city, it was decided at a meeting of the club on Thursday. The offer of the McDonald Lumber Company to supply enough tomahawk log siding to face this building was accepted along with the offer of James Juby, the president of the club, of a lot belonging to him adjacent to the highway on which to build it.

Work on this bureau will start as soon as the materials arrive and every endeavor will be made to have it completed by Old Home Week. It will be 8 by 10 feet and will present a very artistic appearance, as the outside is to be finished to represent a log cabin in every respect.

Information of all sorts is to be provided by the bureau not only for tourists coming to city from distant points, but for motorists of Peterborough as well. Maps of waters and roads, advice on routes and information on hotels and camping sites will be available as well as any other general particulars about this district.

The bureau will be operated during the months of July and August this year, preferably by two high school boys. If it proves to be as great an asset to the vicinity as the Automobile Club expects it to be, it will be operated again next year.

The club decided also, to have stickers printed to be used on car windshields during Old Home Week. They are to read, "Old Home Week —Ride With Me" and will be invitations for visitors in need of a lift to hop on. They will be sent to members of the Club and as many motorists as possible.

On the question of reception of the visitors, the club decided, as far as practicable, they would meet and welcome all cavalcades of motorists coming to Peterborough from distant points.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR HOMECOMING

Brantford Old Boys Organize Return For Old Home Week.

Alex. Lockington was named convener of the Peterborough Old Boys' Reunion Committee at an enthusiastic meeting of former residents of Peterborough, held in the Y.M.C.A. here last night, presided over by Mr. Lockington.

This celebration will take place in Peterborough during the closing days of June and the first week in July. Ways and means were discussed for boosting Brantford (as the Telephone City) by those men from Brantford, who will attend the re-union.

The following men were appointed to constitute an advertising committee: H. L. Conway, Gordon Hughes, G. E. Bruce. George H. Williamson was assigned the position of secretary and he will compile a list of former Peterborough residents now living in Brantford, in order to acquaint them with the particulars of the gathering.

All the men present were appointed to act on the committee for the securing of these names and it is fully expected that Brantford will be represented in a due place of promin-ence at this re-union, which in addition to being a re-union of Old Boys is the centennial celebration of the founding of Peterborough.—Brantford Expositor.

EGGS SCARCE ON THE MARKET

Other Supplies Fairly Plentiful With Usual Prices Prevailing.

POTATOES 90 CENTS A BAG.

Eggs were scarce on the farmers' market this morning, but other supplies were fairly plentiful and at the usual prices for the produce sold on the open market.

Eggs were 26 to 30 cents a dozen and butter was 38 and 40 cents a pound. Broilers were 45 cents a pound and chickens 25 cents.

Honey was quoted at 10 and 15 cents a pound, for the amber and pure clover varieties, and potatoes were 90 cents a bag. Other vegetables and plants were at the prevailing prices of the past few weeks.

The market, in the open section, had a spring-cleaned appearance, with its coat of tar and gravel.

FIVE MEN SCALDED AT COPPER CLIFF PLANT

Quantity of Molten Metal Drops into Water where Employees are Working.

TORONTO, June 15. (C.P.) — Five men employed at the smelter of the International Nickel Company at Copper Cliff, Ont., were scalded, one severely, in an accident in the reverberatory furnace room yesterday.

Paul Haynes, a Montreal student, suffered the most serious injury, although his condition was not serious, it was said last night.

The other injured are: Roman Fielding, Louis Socri, Oscar Rantala, and a man named Sluminen.

The cause of the accident has not been determined, an official of the company stated last night. In some manner a quantity of molten metal dropped into water and the five men are said to have been caught in a spray of steam and hot water.

STEVENSON–HARSTONE

White, blue and yellow, in summer flowers and in the gowns of the bridal party, made a lovely setting of color for the wedding this afternoon of Marion Marguerite, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harstone, and James Walton Stevenson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stevenson. The ceremony was performed at half-past two o'clock at St. Andrew's United Church, which was decorated by friends of the bride with a profusion of blue and yellow iris, white spirea and bridal wreath and palms and ferns. The Rev. James B. Rollins of Renfrew was the officiating clergyman, assisted by the pastor of the church, the Rev. C. V. McLean. The Lohengrin and Mendelssohn Wedding Marches were played by the organist, Mr. John Crane, during the entrance and the exit of the bridal party.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park sang, "Beloved, It Is Morn."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful gown of ivory white moire satin, made with tight bodice and tiered skirt which was short in the front and long in the back. The sleeves were long and tight and the bodice had a rounded neckline. A pearl ornament held the draperies in front and a train of the satin, with rounded end, fell from the waistline at the back.

A long white tulle veil was worn, arranged in round cap effect and held by orange blossoms over the ears. The costume was completed by white silk gloves and hose and white satin slippers. The only ornament was a string of pearls and the large bouquet carried was of lily of the valley and maidenhair fern.

The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Stevenson of Toronto, was in poudre blue lace, with short jacket of the same material. She wore a large beige hat, beige shoes and hose, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

The attendants wore the gifts of the bridegroom, the maid of honor wearing a choker necklet of cut crystal, while Mrs. Barker and Miss Harstone wore necklets of baroque pearls.

Mr. Jack Harstone acted as best man and ushers were Mr. Harry Grubbe of Toronto, Mr. D. Lenox McLaren of Toronto, Dr. Donald Cameron of Toronto, Mr. Basil D. Hall, and Mr. Alan Stevenson of Peterborough.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where decorations were carried out in the same color scheme, with blue and yellow iris, bridal wreath and white spirea. Palms and ferns banked the fireplaces. In the marquee on the lawn, where refreshments were served, was the bride's table, which was done with two large bowls of pink roses and valley lillies and was centered by the cake, wreathed with smilax.

Mrs. Harstone, mother of the bride, was in mauve printed chiffon, made in jacket style, with hat of sand mohair and lace and corsage bouquet of pink sweet peas.

Mrs. Stevenson, mother of the bridegroom, wore pale blue crepe with silver trimming, a hat of black and beige, and corsage of sweet peas.

Mr. Stevenson and his bride left during the afternoon for a motor trip through the Adirondacks and to York Harbor, Maine. On their return they will live on McDonnel street.

The bride travelled in a French dress of sand jersey, trimmed with brown, with little hat of Baku straw and matching shoes, hose and bag. Her coat was a novelty tweed in sand and brown shades, with fox collar.

McCLUNG–HARTON

At a ceremony at which her father was the officiating clergyman, in his church, the Park Street Baptist, at three o'clock this afternoon, Mabel Louise Harton, R.N., elder daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Harton, became the bride of the Rev. Sanford R. McClung, B.A., B.Th., of Weyburn, Saskatchewan, son of Mr. J. W. McClung, of South Cayuga, Ontario, and the late Mrs. McClung. The wedding took place in the presence of a large number of the friends and relatives of the contracting parties and the church was tastefully decorated for the occasion with a profusion of gladioli, spirea, bridal wreath, palms and ferns.

The bride, who entered the church to the strains of the Wedding March, played by Miss Annabella Current, of Port Colborne, was given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. W. F. Roper, of Toronto.

She wore an exquisite gown of oyster white satin and lace. The satin bodice had cap sleeves and a Vionnet neckline and the skirt was of Venetian lace, made long in the back, with a chou of white satin ribbon and lily of the valley gathering the lace at the waistline.

The long tulle veil, with its coronet of lace, was caught with orange blossoms. White kid slippers and white silk hose and long white kid gloves, were worn, with a necklace of pearls. The bride carried a tiny hand-made lace handkerchief, the gift of a Christian girl of India, and a shower bouquet of pink Premier roses and lily of the valley.

The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Harton, a sister of the bride, was in green organdie, with frilled skirt, large picture hat of sand mohair trimmed with velvet ribbon, and sand slippers and hose. She carried a bouquet of pink delphinium and pink cornflowers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Norah McClung of South Cayuga and Miss Martha Roper of Toronto. They wore gowns and hats of the same type as the maid of honor, Miss McClung in green with bouquet of pink delphinium and cornflowers, and Miss Roper in yellow, with bouquet of mauve flowers.

The little flower girl, Marguerite Dunkley, was charming in a frilly frock of blue and a blue hat. She carried a basket of gypsophila and mauve cornflowers.

Mr. Robert Stevenson of Weyburn, Saskatchewan, was best man.

Ushers for the ceremony were Mr. Cecil McClung of South Cayuga and Mr. Bruce Harton, a brother of the bride.

During the signing of the register "O Promise Me" was sung by Miss Eva Winn, of Port Colborne.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where floral decorations were carried out in bridal wreath and spirea, with sweet peas for the bride's table, which was centred by the cake.

Mrs. Harton, mother of the bride, wore a gown of blue printed silk, with blue hat, and corsage bouquet in a nosegay of roses and forget-me-nots.

Later, the Rev. Mr. McClung and his bride left for a short honeymoon, to be followed later by a motor trip to their future home in Weyburn, Saskatchewan.

The bride travelled in an ensemble of green, with dress of printed silk, green hat, grey wolf fur neckpiece and sand shoes, hose and bag.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a sapphire pendant, while the bride's attendants received gifts of necklets and vanity cases, and the best man a pair of gold cuff links.

No Cause For Alarm Over Homer Epidemic

NEW YORK, June 15.—Baseball magnates see no reason to view the home-run epidemic or its cause, the lively ball, with alarm. Quite the contrary, in fact, they are quite willing to admit the ball is lively, perhaps a little livelier than the 1928; furthermore, that the customers as well as the players like it.

In substance, this is the word brought back by John Arnold Heydler, the National League's chief executive, after a trip through the western part of the circuit that included a session of of the club owners in Cincinnati.

After an exhaustive analysis of the whole lively ball situation, the National League club owners, Mr. Heydler said, "have concluded that nothing needs to be done about it whatever. They find ready explanations for the big increase in home runs in the rise of a group of sluggers."

KILLED BY MOTORIST.

AULTSVILLE, Ont., June 15. — Sidney Defoe, 77 years old, and pioneer farmer of this district, was killed on the main highway near here last night. He was attempting to cross the road when struck by a motor car proceeding to Cornwall. Mr. Defoe was known to be slightly deaf and it is surmised he failed to hear the approaching automobile. Examination later revealed that his skull had been fractured. E. W. Durnin of Cornwall, was the driver of the car.

him clamoring in Spanish, which he did not understand, and the aviators answering in French which he did not understand either.

Unlooked For Pilot.

Armand Lotti, financial backer of the flight, and one of the three others aboard, introduced him to the crowd as "our unlooked for pilot," a single French resident serving as interpreter. M. Lotti was smiling, but Jean Assolant, the pilot, took the matter more seriously.

"Once we were in the air we stuck him in a corner where he concealed himself before the start and he stayed there all night. We shared our sandwiches and fruit with him of course. We had not calculated gasline to carry him, but here he is, the little rascal."

During the visit to Santander this morning Schreiber spoke of himself and the three aviators as "we," and even his French companions smiled. Assolant was explaining to him in his limited English what the spectators had to say about the failure to reach Paris.

"Oh well," the youth remarked, "I'll tell the world we're on the other side of the Atlantic, aren't we. How about that?" Then he added: "Anyway we have plenty of time to get to Paris after we get some gas."

Someone remarked, "You sort of slipped it over on them." He answered: "And how."

PIONEER DAYS ARE RECALLED

Mrs. Elizabeth McIntyre, 50 River Road, is 89 Years Old To-day.

CAME TO CANADA IN 1864.

Eighty-nine and still happy, healthy and active, is the record of Mrs. Elizabeth McIntyre, one of Peterborough's oldest residents, at 50 River road, who celebrates her birthday today.

"I have experienced very little sickness during my life and I am healthy now," Mrs. McIntyre told The Examiner. "My hearing is quite normal and my eyes are still good."

Mrs. McIntyre's healthy appearance is mute testimony to these statements. She exhibits the mental and physical alertness of a woman many years her junior conversing and moving about with surprising quickness. She is unable to give any special reasons for her present healthy state.

Born in England in 1840.

Mrs. McIntyre was born in Dorchestershire, England, in 1840, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Travers. Her father was a flax merchant and she was the only girl in a family of five.

She tells of the grammar schools in England in which she received her early education. These were the forerunners of the schools of the public school system of to-day. The course of studies to be taken was very simple consisting of a few of the subjects now regarded as the fundamentals of learning such as spelling, writing and arithmetic. Recourse was often had to the "birch" in those days as the most effective method of maintaining discipline.

Amusements in which a girl might take part were very few at that time, Mrs. McIntyre recalls. The dances and frolics that the young girl of today enjoys were rare then. There was little to do but sew and read.

Came to Canada in 1864

In 1864, Mrs. McIntyre came out to Canada, a period when there was considerable movement from the British Isles to Canada. She was attracted, as were a great many of the others, to the firm life of Canada.

She settled first on a farm near Peterborough. Farm life was very hard at that time, Mrs. McIntyre says, and it was a wonder that the men could stand the heavy work. What was sown and reaped was done entirely by hand. No rapid time and labor-saving machines were to be had in the 60's and the men depended entirely on such crude instruments as the cradle and scythe.

About five years later, Mrs. McIntyre move to the place where she now lives. Since her advent to Peterborough she attended the Methodist Church, now belonging to Trinity United Church.

The aged resident recalls the excitement and preparation at the times of the Fenian Raids and the Boer War. The occasion of the forming of the Dominion of Canada is one remembered.

"When one has lived in one community for a long time it is fascinating to look back over the gradual but complete change that has overtaken everything," Mrs. McIntyre says. "The rough paths have been changed to highways, and the trees of the district have been thinned out to make place for more farms. Peterborough has grown from a town to a city. The inhabitants have changed and the residents of Peterborough in the 60's who are still here are becoming fewer and fewer.

Mrs. McIntyre married after she came to Canada. Her husband has since died. She had six children, of which four were boys. Only one boy remains, and resides in Manchester, N.J.

Cyril Tolley Leads Smith At 27th Hole

SANDWICH, Eng., June 15.—(A.P.)—Cyril J. H. Tolley, former title holder, was four up over John Nelson Smith, Scotland, after 27 holes of their final match for the British amateur golf championship. They had finished the first 18 holes all square but the long hitting Englishman drew away at the three-quarter mark.

Advertising is a reference book that is never out of date

THERE is a dictionary so large that it took more than thirty years to compile and publish it complete. This great book seeks to give the truth about all words and their uses. To-day, only the last volume, devoted to words beginning with "Z," is strictly up to date.

Consider the advertising in this paper. It describes commodities for your use, as a dictionary describes words. It tells how they will save you time, increase your comfort, give you the advantages of modern living. Yet none of it is out of date by as much as a week.

Advertising is news, as much as the headlines on the front page. Very often, indeed, it is news of more significance to you, and has more bearing on your life to-day, to-morrow. Read these advertisements with confidence. They are the daily reference book on the things you need.

Advertisements keep you abreast of the times. Read them.

WILL BE HERE.

"Taking everything into consideration, if I could get rid of my property here, there is no place on earth I would sooner live than in your town. If I live for a while longer, I'll be there," says Dr. Robert A. Caldwell, 13 South Hill street, Port Arthur, who left here in 1900.

History of Peterborough

Written by Thomas W. Poole, M.D., and Published in Peterborough 1867

CHAPTER IX.

(2) Another Immigration.

In the year 1839, Captain Charles Rubidge, R.N., who had been absent in England during the greater portion of the two previous years, returned to Peterborough, having in charge a body of immigrants, number in all 183 souls, chiefly selected from the estates of Col. Wyndham, in Clare and Limerick, in the south of Ireland. The voyage was most prosperous, and as the immigrants passed through the country, many of them found profitable employment, and the remainder, within a few days after their arrival in Peterborough, were absorbed among the people of the surrounding townships; and having found temporary occupation, many of them afterwards became owners of land, on which they or their families still reside.

(3) The Election of 1841.

The election of 1841 is memorable not only as being one of the first after the union of the Provinces and the first held within the new district of Colborne, then only provisionally set apart from the Newcastle District, but also for a scene of violence rarely exceeded among these exciting contests in the past, and under our present judicious election law, it may be presumed, quite impossible in the future.

The election for the new provisional district, which then embraced what is now the counties of Peterborough and Victoria, was held in Peterborough, and had its headquarters at White's Hotel, situated just east of George street, in the southern part of the town, where the poll was opened by Captain Frazer, the returning officer. The candidates were Colonel Alexander McDonell, Frederick Ferguson, Esq., and Dr. John Gilchrist.

The former of these gentlemen appeared in the Conservative and the latter in the Reform interest. As the election progressed, it became evident that Dr. Gilchrist would be elected, and a plot was at once formed to break up the election so as to prevent his legal return. The conspirators, who are now well known and rank among their number several of our respectable citizens, met in a tavern (since burnt down) on the flat space just above the western extremity of the Otonabee bridge, and there arranged their plans. A gentleman, well known in both town and county but whose name, for obvious reasons, we forbear to specify, was then acting as constable and doorkeeper of the room in which the poll was being held, and was aware of their designs. They were to approach in a body; the doorkeeper was to make a show of resistance, and be knocked down, with his own consent. In the melee which would follow, the poll-book was to be seized and destroyed, and thus the opposing party would be deprived of the only legal evidence of the election of their candidate.

The room was full of people, among whom were the candidates and their agents, when the conspirators stealthily approached. On reaching the room, a fierce show of fight was made, amid which the guardian of the peace rolled over as if smitten by a thunderbolt. The books of the check clerks and other papers were speedily seized, but the presence of mind of the returning officer defeated their design. On the first alarm, he quietly slipped the poll-book beneath his coat, where it remained secure. Whether from accident or otherwise, Dr. Gilchrist received a blow upon the head with a stick, from which, however, he speedily recovered.

But though thus baulked in their design, some of the more daring and reckless pursued the game still further. The returning officer then occupied a room at White's, and on his going out in the evening to dine with a friend, his apartment was entered and a valise cut open, in the hopes of finding the coveted poll-book within. But Captain Frazer, as if anticipating their design, had taken the precious document with him, and retained it in his possession, so that this second attempt failed as ignominiously as the first. As not one of the parties implicated in this outrage would now attempt to justify or even palliate it, we may spare them the censures such conduct so justly deserved. Besides, their leader passed away from the excitements of earth during the present year (1866), and the survivors have no doubt sufficiently regretted acts committed during the heat of excitement and when carried away by the passions of the hour.

The election of 1841 resulted in the selection, by a considerable majority, of Dr. John Gilchrist, as member of Parliament for the new Colborne District, which position he continued to fill during the next four years.

COMING HOME

FROM ALAMEDA, SASK.

Mr. and Mrs. John Deyell, of Alameda, Sask., left here in 1882 and are now engaged in farming. Mr. Deyell, in writing to the Old Home Week Committee, says: "I have a good home and friendly neighbors, but would like very much to visit Peterborough again. I was there fifteen years ago." Robert Deyell, of Bailieboro, is a relative.

FROM ST. CATHARINES.

Eric Leese Palin, of 63 Pleasant avenue, St. Catharines, who left here in 1919 and is now employed as electrical supervisor of the Canadian National Railways, says: "I always take pleasure in telling my acquaintances that I am from Peterborough." Mrs. Palin was formerly Alice Sanderson and Mrs. R. Pilling, 222 Wolfe street, is a sister of Mr. Palin.

LOSING MEMBERS HONOR WINNERS

CFontest Conducted By Young People's Union is Successfully Closed.

OMEMEE, June 13 (Examiner Correspondence).—Trinity United Church Sunday school room was the scene of a splendid banquet on Wednesday evening when the Young People's Union celebrated the outcome of a contest of several weeks' duration in which the losing side, the Reds, had to pay forfeit by banqueting the Golds.

The banquet hall was beautifully decorated for the event. Wall pockets filled with Persian lilacs adorned the Pillars, snowy table linen, gleaming silver, fragrant flowers and mellow candlelight bade the guests welcome. Favors in the form of miniature candlesticks made of marshmallows and life-savers from the centre of which a tiny red candle threw out a soft glow, graced each place.

After a most sumptuous banquet Roy Faulkner, acting as toast master, proposed the first toast, to "His Gracious Majesty, King George," which was afterward honored in the customary manner.

The toast to Canada was proposed by Norman Henderson, who in a few words made proud reference to the waving wheat fields, the mineral resources, the scenic beauty and among other things the noble part she took in the World War.

Miss I. Ross made a neat reply, saying, "Canada has wonderful resources and we should think of the new races, who are settling from the Atlantic to the Pacific. There is a duty resting on each of us who are born here to help the new Canadians who come in."

A verse of "O Canada" was sung, followed by a piano solo by Donald Mahood.

Community singing was then indulged in, with Rev. J. T. Blanchard as leader and Miss L. Race as pianist, and many old favorites were revived.

The toast to the Church was proposed by Miss Christina Connell, who referred to the church as the greatest organization for good in the world.

Rev. J. T. Blanchard replied, stating that although the church receives much criticism it still stands for all that is noblest and best in the world "If we look where Christ isn't known we are amazed at the degradation, but where Christ has been, we find people looking out upon life with the greatest and brightest outlook." Reference was made to the church which increases the value of property. "Let us be true to the church and stand up for it under all circumstances.

Fred Parker proposed the toast to the "Y.P.U.," and in a few well-chosen remarks, expressed his pride in their various activities for good.

Miss Elda Overholt, the president of the society, replied, thanking the members for their co-operation during the year. "We are only a small band, but we have a part to do. Let us aim to radiate the ideals of Christ and be loyal to each other and to Him."

A contest answered by the names of flowers provided splendid entertainment for all.

Rev. J. T. Blanchard then sang, in fine voice, "A May Morning" and was forced to respond with an encore.

The banquet concluded with votes of thanks by I. Connell and Miss L. Parsons and conveyed to the losing group by the pastor.

WITH RAILWAYS CANADA LEADS WORLD IN PUBLIC ENTERPRISES

Great National System of 22,000 Miles Far Exceeds Any Other Line.

EXPANSION CONTINUES

Within Five Years C.N.R. is Expected to be Operating 25,000 Miles.

By Thomas Wayling—Special to The Examiner, Copyright).

OTTAWA, June 15.—Canada leads the world in public enterprise with her great railways.

To-day, not satisfied with already having the greatest mileage in the world, the Canadian National Railways this year will add 416 miles of purchased lines and 250 miles of Alberta lines to its 22,000 now in operation. In addition it will build within the next three years 701 miles of branch lines.

Within five years the Canadian National, it is estimated, will own and operate 25,000 miles of railway; well over ten thousand miles more than any other railway save its own direct competitor, the Canadian Pacific. The C.P.R. now has about 15,500 miles and is also adding yearly to that mileage.

652 Miles Added in 1926.

In 1926 there were 652 miles of branch lines added to the National system and in 1927 a three-year program will provide 701 miles. The 1924-6 program cost $20,400,000; the 1927-9 program, $18,002,000. In nine years from 1924 the Dominion will have spent $67,151,000 in branch lines alone.

These figures do not include the expenditure on the new lines to be purchased, which will total from $16,000,000 to $20,000,000. These lines will be incorporated into the National system immediately on purchase. Two of them, the St. John Valley and the Inverness railways, are already part of the National system on lease. The Alberta railways will be owned jointly with the Canadian Pacific. Their mileage runs around 500 miles.

All these bills have safely passed through the Commons and the Senate and only need the Royal assent to become operative The purchased lines are in Alberta, Quebec and the Maritimes; the branch lines include all provinces.

The Quebec lines include the Atlantic, Quebec and Western, 98 miles; and the Quebec and Oriental Railway, 102 miles, known as the Gaspe lines.

In New Brunswick, the St. John Valley Railway (158 miles) will be purchased from the New Brunswick Government for $6,000,000, and the Kent Northern from the Kent Northern Co. The latter is just a small road (28 miles), for which a junk price of $60,000 will be paid.

In Nova Scotia the Inverness Railway will be bought for $375,000.

T.N.O. Out For Sale.

Ontario has no roads to sell the Canadian National. Both the C.N.R. and C.P.R. would like to buy the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario, but it is not for sale. The Canadian National, however, will build two branches to tap mining areas

Manitoba gets no branch lines, but Saskatchewan will be given seven of them to help get out her expanding crop.

The Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway, the Pembina Valley Railway and the Central Canada Railway, all known as the Peace River lines, will be purchased from the Alberta Government together with the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway; Alberta also gets three branch lines.

British Columbia, like Alberta, is anxious to get rid of her railway white elephant, the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. The Canadian National, in conjunction with the Canadian Pacific and the British Columbia Government, has undertaken a joint survey of the situation, and next year the P.G.E. will become part of the National on a joint operating basis similar to that governing the Peace River lines taken over this year.

The Canadian National has also obtained parliamentary sanction for a $50,000,000 terminal at Montreal which will include a magnificent headquarters building for the whole system. At the present time the headquarters are scattered all over Montreal.

WHEN BABY IS WELL MOTHER IS HAPPY

The happy mother is the one whose baby is well—it is the laughing, gurgling baby who always brings joy to the home. When baby is ill everyone in the home suffers—not only through worry over the little one but through loss of sleep—no one can find rest with a sick baby in the home. Thousands of mothers are happy mothers because they have found the way to keep their little ones well — or if sickness does come on suddenly, as it usually does with little ones, they have found the way to speedily bring the baby back to health again. Mrs. George Kech, Lindberg, Alta., is one of these mothers and she writes as follows:—"I am the happy mother of a seventeen-month-old baby girl. Baby is healthy and strong and sleeps well at night. I give her no other medicine but Baby's Own Tablets and she just loves them. I am never without the Tablets in the house."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels; sweeten the stomach and thus drive out constipation and indigestion and make the cutting of teeth easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

TWELVE MEN DUE FOR RELIEF

Study Members of Hudson Straits Expedition Have Been Isolated in Arctic.

SHIP SAILS IN JULY.

(By Thomas Wayling, special to The Examiner, Copyright.)

OTTAWA, June 15—Three men and a cook on Nottingnam Island, three men and a cook at Port Burwell, three men and a cook at Cape Hope's Advance are due for relief this summer after being isolated in the Arctic shores of Hudson Straits for many long months.

Two years ago the government icebreaker Montcalm, accompanied by the transport Larch went up to Hudson Straits and established three bases of operation for the Straits expedition, the chief arm of which were the flyers of the Royal Canadian Air Force and their six Fokker planes and a Moth.

The flyers stayed eighteen months, but three directional wireless stations were established at the three points named. Three radio operators were left at each station, together with a cook, and these men have kept the long vigil throughout the year.

Ship Sails in July

Early in July the Aranmore, a chartered steamship will sail from Halifax in command of Captain Hearn of the icebreaker Mikula. It will take up supplies and reliefs to the three stations. A report was broadcast that the Aranmore would take up R.C.M.P. reliefs and governments officials into the Arctic. This is the usual trip of the Beothic, which has again been chartered by the government and will take the Northwest Territories expedition, under G. P. Mackenzie, government explorer, into the uppermost Arctic. The Beothic will penetrate to within 11 degrees of the North Pole, the Aranmore will turn west into Hudson Straits.

There has not been much shipping in the Arctic, but what there has been has been benefitted by the three directional wireless stations. When the Hudson Bay Railway is completed and the grain ships take the northern short cut to Europe the directional wireless stations will give them safe guidance through the Straits which at times are badly fogbound.

BODY OF MAN FOUND IN LAKE

Prospector Has Been Missing Since Last November.

ONE STILL MISSING.

CHAPLEAU, Ont., June 15 (C.P.).—Provincial police to-day found the body of Jim Allen, missing since November 17, when he set out with a companion, D. Donivan, on a prospecting trip some twenty miles south of Amyot.

The body was found in the waters of Metwazu Lake, about two miles from Amyot station and a considerable distance from the spot where an overturned canoe, afterwards identified as that used by the prospectors, was located about a month after the tragedy. No trace of Donivan has so far been found.

The two men came from Montreal ostensibly to stake some claims on ground which had impressed Allen on a former occasion. Leaving their town clothes in a local hotel, they then travelled by train to Amyot, taking with them supplies sufficient for ten days. Their failure to return gave rise to anxiety, which resulted in a search being instituted by Provincial Police which continued until adverse weather conditions caused its abandonment.

S.S. ASSOCIATION MEETS IN PERCY

Two Fine Addresses Are Delivered By Speakers From Toronto.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, June 15. — The annual convention of the Percy Township Sunday school Association, was held in the Sunday school room of the Presbyterian Church Wednesday, June 12.

The devotional services were in charge of Rev. G. R. Duncan.

Gordon McCubbin, president, welcomed all delegates after which O. E. Kelly, secretary, gave a report of last year's convention.

Reports of Sabbath Schools were then heard from Dartford, West Dartford, Norham, St. Paul and St. Andrew's. These reports were interesting and showed the interest which is taken in Sunday school work.

Reports of the Department Superintendents were given as follows:

Children's: Mrs. G. B. Bowen.
Boys: Ivan Duncan.
Teachers Training: Mrs. Lorne Evans.
Missionary: Mrs. W. J. Harper.
Young Peoples: O. E. Kelly.
Temperance: R. Walker.

Following this was a round table conference based on problems presented by the different reports. This was interesting as well as instructive.

Perhaps the most interesting number was an address by Miss Avis Marshall, B .A., of Toronto, representing the Ontario Religious Education Council. In this Miss Marshall cleverly presented much information in regards to the teaching of 'teen age boys and girls.

Nominating committees were appointed as follows:

O. E. Kelly, Rev. G. R. Duncan, Rev. F. H. Howard, Rev. D. R. Clare, Mrs. Lorne Evans, Bruce Hopkins, R. Walker and Mrs. W. B. Baker.

Prayer by Rev. F. H. Howard closed the afternoon session.

The evening session opened at seven thirty, with Rev. F. H. Howard in charge of the devotional exercises.

The report of the Nominating Committee, which was adopted, gave the officers for the ensuing year:

President: Gordon McCubbin.
First Vice: Warren Atkinson.
Secretary-Treasurer: Mrs. W. B. Baker.
Department Superintendents:
Children's: Mrs. G. B. Bowen.
Boys: Ivan Duncan.
Girls: Mrs. J. A. Armstrong.
Young People: Mrs. A. B. Duncan.
Adult: Mrs. Bessie Hopkins.
Home: Mrs. D. R. Clare.
Teachers' Training: Mrs. Lorne Evans.
Missionary: Mrs. W. J. Harper.
Temperance: Robert Walker.

After the installation of these officers by Rev. F. H. Howard an address by Rev. G. R. Duncan was given.

The speaker pointed out that the teacher's personal factor was the most important and if the personality was behind the teacher results were bound to show. Religion is a real business.

A vocal duet by Mrs. Will Campbell and Miss Florence Clare, was greatly appreciated.

Miss Marshall's address was equally as interesting as the previous one. 'Worship' was the subject most dwelt upon. The speaker pointed out that children could not worship as older ones and it was strongly advised that the worship period be made interesting for the children.

It was also strongly advised to group the classes and not get the classes too large so that the teacher may know the class as individuals not collectively. Much more valuable information was given which was interesting as well as instructive.

A Patriotic Pageant from St. Andrew's Sunday school, closed the evening session.

ARMY CRUSADERS AT YOUNG'S POINT

Conduct Services at St. Aiden's Church—also Visit Hall's Bridge.

YOUNG'S POINT, June 15—(Examiner Correspondence.)—A detachment of the Church Army, made up of seven young cadets, under the command of Captain Morley, of England, visited Young's Point on Monday.

On Monday evening the cadets conducted service in St. Aiden's church, when the audience was very much impressed by their message. On Tuesday morning they journeyed on to Warsaw and from thence on to Havelock.

The Church Army is an evangelistic body within the Anglican church. The members are walking the whole distance from Toronto to Smith's Falls, bringing their camping equipment with them loaded on a trek cart.

Logs Passing Down.

The first drive of logs is now passing down the river for this year. The logs belong to the Peterborough Lumber Company.

To Commence Trips.

On Saturday the boats of the Stoney Lake Navigation Company will commence the regular trips, plying between Lakefield and points on the lake.

HALL'S BRIDGE.

HALL'S BRIDGE, June 14.— (Examiner Correspondence.)—On Monday afternoon a service of a unique kind was held in St. Matthew's (Anglican) church, Hall's Bridge, when one captain and three cadets of the Canadian Church Army visited the village on their "Crusade of Witness" through Eastern Ontario, in the Dioceses of Toronto, Ottawa and Ontario. This band of young men were under the leadership of Captain Morley. After a word of welcome, extended by the incumbent, the Rev. R. T. C. Dwelly, a service was conducted, which consisted largely of hymn singing.

Cadet Ayland gave a short address, using as his subject "Faith." Captain Morley who conducted the service, preached an inspiring sermon, using as his text Song of Solomon, V:1, "I am come into my garden." He went on to show that a garden is a separate place—a place which a man likes to call his own. Fenced off from the road, and fields, it is a secluded piece of ground to the owner. Then again, a garden is a piece of land which is cared for. The owner takes great pride in it, and does his utmost to make it pleasing to the eye.

The Great Gardener of the World is our Creator, and His garden is the heart of man. To Him, man's heart is separate, and should be apart from the material things of this world, and a fit and proper place for the attention which the Great Gardener bestows upon it. Again, the heart of man is one of the cares of the Heavenly Father. He takes pride in it, and given great attention to it, so that it may yield acceptable fruit. The Gardener cannot succeed if the soil with which He has to work is barren. We have to do our parts, and prepare ourselves in such a way, that our hearts may be worthy of being separated by the Gardener, and worthy of His loving care and attention. Captain Morley brought his sermon to a fitting close with a solo.

At the conclusion of the service two of the cadets were entertained at tea at the home of Mrs. Archie Fulton, while Captain Morley and the other cadet were similarly entertained by Dr. Edwin E. and Mrs. Willis.

ALBERTA STREAM IS OLD MAN RIVER

Christened Long Years Before Popular Song By That Name Was Thought Of.

EDMONTON, Alberta, June 15 (Canadian Press). — Under the heading "How Old Man Got Its Name," the Edmonton Journal, in an editorial answers the query of a reader as to whether Alberta's Old Man River was christened under the influence of sentiment similar to that responsible for the song that is now enjoying so much popularity. "Thanks to the suggestion of a reader," the Journal says, "it is possible to satisfy one's curiosity as to the origin of the name of the Southern Alberta stream. In the valuable little volume, 'Prairie Place Names,' which was recently prepared by Mrs. Perren Baker, of this city, and issued by the Ryerson Press, this passage occurs:

"The Old Man River flows through an interesting piece of country called 'The Old Man's Playground.' Near the spot where the river issues from the mountains are three cairns, evidently very old. These cairns are wide mounds, several feet high, built of small boulders and rocks. It is thought that each Indian entering the mountains by this path added a rock for good luck. A little further on there are the remains of two rectangles composed of larger rocks. There are many superstitions connected with the place. The Indians tell us that the Old Man, a mythical character, dug the channel of the river and lingered a long time in his playground before venturing down to the open plains."

JUNE MEETING CHURCH SOCIETY

Mrs. William Larmer Hostess To Members of Missionary Auxiliary.

AT MILLBROOK.

MILLBROOK, June 15.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The Women's Auxiliary of the United Church was entertained at the home of Mrs. William Larmer, Seventh Line, Cavan, for its June meeting, which was presided over by Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones for the opening business and devotional period.

The devotional leaflet, read by Mrs. Jones, was based on Romans 8, with particuluar reference to verses 37 to 39 in which the wide sweep of the love of God is specially mentioned, and this was followed by prayer by four of the members. The need of more prayer in the Auxiliary meetings has been recently stressed by the president.

Heralds reported latest news from the mission fields, the leader mentioning incidentally that the United Church has eight great mission fields overseas, and is responsible for 32,000,000 souls. Mrs. (Dr.) Rae reported on 'Centres of Healing'; Mrs. Moore's topic was 'Our Mission Schools'; Mrs. Rev. Roadhouse (Kingston) gave information on 'Our Rescue Homes'; and a fitting close "Jesus Saves" was sung.

Approximately fourteen dollars was received in fees and offering, and one new member, Mrs. Archie Lunn, was enrolled. Last month five new names were added to the list.

Mrs. J. Albert Brown, convenor of Group E, took charge of the formal program, temperance in its different aspects being the subject for the June meeting.

"The Menace of Alcohol" was taken up by the leader, and Miss Estelle Hetherington followed with facts regarding the temperance situation in Canada. Mrs. J. H. George presented information showing the economic loss through the liquor traffic. "The American Experiment", and some challenging statements regarding the obligation of women to use their franchise to destroy the evil of strong drink were read by Miss Burnham, and "Alcohol and Purity" was presented by Mrs. Weston Fallis, with "The Effect of Alcohol on the Home" by Mrs. Hilliard Lang. Some statements by scientific leaders, and by outstanding medical men, in their pronounceemnt on alcohol, were given in closing by Mrs. Brown.

Mrs. Larmer was assisted by the members of Group E in serving refreshments at the close of the meeting, when the men, who had kindly given the use of their cars to drive a number of the ladies to the gathering, joined the other guests during the hour about the tea tables, when a social time was thoroughly enjoyed.

The formal vote of thanks to the hostess, and the group in charge, was moved by Mrs. Rae and seconded by Mrs. J. H. George. The July meeting will be a joint one with the Golden Links Mission Circle, and will be held at the home of the Misses Stella and Lila Pethick. This will be an evening gathering, and the Circle members will provide the program.

ROAD GANGS ARE LEVELLING HILLS

Repairs Being Made On Highway Between Stirling and Foxboro.

I.O.O.F. ELECTS OFFICERS.

STIRLING, June 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—Work has begun on the levelling of the hills between here and Foxboro. Detouring signs have been placed directing traffic by way of the Ridge Road to Foxboro and Belleville, but all the cars bound for these points do not go as directed and are held up where the men are at work near Chatterton.

Officers Elected

Stirling Encampment I.O.O.F., at the regular meeting last Friday night elected officers as follows: Chief Patriarch, W. H. Patterson; Senior Warden, Elgin Jackman; High Priest, Bert Sarles; Recording Scribe, M. W. Sine; Financial Scribe, Ernest Carlisle; Treasurer, J. W. Sarles; Junior Warden, Fred Haight.

To Have Stop Streets

It is the intention of the council to have certain streets as stop streets and they also intend to mark off spaces along the curbing, so that parking can be done in a more orderly manner.

To Erect Club House

The Stirling Bowling Club has plans for the erection of a new club house. 13 by 40 feet in the near future, also extending the greens. With these improvements, the bowlers of Stirling will be able to compete to better advantage with neighboring clubs on account of better facilities for practice.

Picture Shown

The Picture entitled the "King of Kings," was shown Monday and Tuesday nights in the Stirling theatre, under the auspices of St. John's Anglican Church. A capacity house was the result of attendance each night.

Observe Half Holiday

The merchants began the Wednesday half holiday system for the summer months this week and will continue until the end of September.

W. I. Meets

The monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held Thursday evening in the community hall, the president, Mrs. A. Shaw, occupying the chair.

Miss Gena Spry was appointed secretary-treasurer, that office not having been filled at the annual meeting. An invitation was received from the River Valley Institute to meet with them on June 18, when a speaker from the department will address the gathering. A communication from the district secretary asking for fracture pillows to be given to the Belleville General Hospital, will be complied with. Two dollars was asked for to help meet convention expenses instead of one dollar as formerly.

Mrs. A. Hammond and Mrs. T. Spry will be the program committee for July.

An interesting program, arranged by Mrs. Bissonnette and Mrs. W. West was given, consisting of a piano selection, Master Clarence West; paper, Mrs. Bissonnette entitled, "How Institutes Came Into Existence"; reading, "Just For You and Me," Mrs. Hammond; address, Mrs. Grass, District President; piano selection, Mrs. E. W. Rowland; community singing; a "can" contest, put on by Mrs. West. During the evening Mrs. Rowland acted as pianist. The service of refreshments brought an enjoyable evening to a close.

MISSION SERVICES.

Rev. F. Golden, C.S.S.R., To Conduct Services at Lakefield and Young's Point.

LAKEFIELD, June 15—(Examiner Correspondence).—Rev. (Fr.) Golden, C.S.S.R., will conduct a two weeks' mission in the parish of St. Paul's, Lakefield, and St. Mary's, Young's Point. The mission will open in Young's Point on Sunday, June 16, at the 9 o'clock mass. The weekly order of services will be as follows:

Mass and instruction at 8 a.m.

Rosary, sermon, benediction of the blessed sacrament at 7.30 p.m.

The mission will open in Lakefield on Sunday, June 23. There will be two masses each week morning, one at 5.30 and the other at 8 o'clock, each of which will be followed by a short instruction. The evening services will be at the same hour as at Young's Point, viz., 7.30.

All these services will be open to the public.

To Hold Tea.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church are having an afternoon tea and sale of home cooking in the parish hall of St. John's church on Saturday afternoon, June 15.

EATONS TO OPEN CAMPBELLFORD

Mail Order Branch Will Open in Queen's Hotel About June 24.

ALTER BUILDING.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 15 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — After much gossip and street-corner discussion, it has finally been officially stated that the alterations in progress at the Queen's Hotel are in preparation for the opening of a mail order branch of the T. Eaton Co., Toronto. Present indications are that the branch will be open for business on or about June 24th.

It is understood on good authority that the branch will be served by a local staff, although experienced clerks will be here for the first few days. No stock will be carried here. The branch will be exclusively mail order. Goods will be shipped here by either freight or express. The trucking plan will not be used.

The owners of the hotel building are altering the remainder of the ground floor with the intention of turning it into a tea-room. The rooms on the floor above will be renovated and furnished, to be operated in connection with the tea-room. For the present, at least, the top floor will not be used.

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Sunday, June 16, 1929.
(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syn.)

Benefic aspects rule to-day, according to astrology. It is favorable for most activities after the early hours.

Although there is a sign making for a critical attitude of mind the churches should benefit, provided they concentrate on strongly constructive work.

Missionary efforts are subject to a planetary government that seems to presage a new type of difficulties affecting international relations.

This should be an auspicious day for preachers and leaders of thought since it is stimulating for concise and convincing oratory.

This should be a favorable day for short trips and profit as well as pleasure may be expected from human contacts.

The configuration is most promising to all who wield power of any sort. Governors of states should benefit.

The seers foretell for the United States a great national awakening to the need of reforms and a determined crusade against crime and lawlessness.

It is foretold that evildoers of wealth and influence will seem to escape the consequences of graft and lawbreaking, but will nevertheless pay heavy penalties eventually.

Under this direction of the stars many preachers of strange doctrines and founders of new cults will flourish, especially in the west.

With the revolt from materialism, religious interest will be strong and spiritual aspiration prevalent, astrologers foretell.

The tendency toward the uniting of units into large combinations will affect the churches, it is forecast. Protestant denominations will erase dividing lines, the seers prophesy.

This should be an auspicious day for the young to make plans for their careers. College graduates should benefit. The stars presage for many of the '29 men and women future fame.

Persons whose birthdate it is, may profit unexpectedly in the coming year. They should attend strictly to practical affairs, but their dreams may come true.

Children born on this day probably will be extraordinary fortunate all through life. The subjects of this sign usually have many opportunities for advancement. They often are singularly good-looking and charming, but not wise in financial matters.

This should be a fortunate day for most persons who dwell on the planet Earth. According to astrology benefic aspects dominate.

It is pre-eminently a day for whatever has to do with art and should be favorable for great civic projects.

Music is well directed at this time when artists should benefit in novel ways. Orchestras should find summer concerts extraordinarily successful.

This is a configuration under which matters pertaining to dress assume an unusual importance. Merchants, manufacturers and importers should profit.

Art, as applied to the attire of both men and women, will be strongly stressed under this planetary government which is fortunate for all who appreciate what is becoming and appropriate.

Happiness seems to be promised for those who are married under this direction of the stars. Prosperity appears to be assured.

Lovers may count on good luck to-day, especially if the consent of parents is desired for a near wedding date.

Mines and mining now come under a sway that seems to indicate new discoveries of metal deposits.

Both Colorado and California should profit greatly in the coming summer, if the stars are rightly read.

Youth continues under a most auspicious planetary direction which seems to promise a balancing and stablizing of character and a concentration on important activities.

The seers remind the newer generations that they are to have greater responsibilities and more amazing opportunities than the Earth has ever offered.

Again astrologers warn the perils that appear to threaten all through the summer when storms and accidents will cause great loss of life.

Persons whose birthdate it is, have the augury of a year in which love brings much happiness. Children and grandchildren may afford special reason for joy and pride.

Children born on this day usually have ideals and imagination. The subjects of this sign often have tremendous intellectual courage and have power to lead thought.

John Wesley, founder of Methodism, was born on this date 1703.

Health Fully Restored After Nervous Breakdown

"In the year 1923," writes Mrs. S. H. Barkley, Box 24, Dunbar, Ont., "I suffered with a nervous breakdown, which lasted for two years, being confined to my bed most of the time."

"When regular medical treatment failed, a friend insisted that I try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I did."

"After taking one box of the nerve Food, I found I could eat and sleep better, so I continued with this medicine and when I had taken three boxes, I was out of bed and able to take a walk in the fresh air. I continued the Nerve Food and have taken in all about 28 boxes. I have good health and weigh more than I ever did. Every Fall I take a couple of boxes of the Nerve Food to build me up and thank this wonderful medicine for my splendid recovery and present health."

Many thousands of women have had just such experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Is not this the best proof that it will do as much for you?

Acid Stomach

Excess acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer, when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure a weet,
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal,
The good of all mankind.

WARSAW

The District Annual for 1929 is past, but it is hoped its influence may be far-reaching. Unfortunately there were other gatherings which necessarily kept some Warsaw women from Lakefield. Warsaw is favored by having the first vice president, Mrs. Thomas Cooper, who was for two years president of Warsaw branch for two years, district secretary and for two years district representative and was also a member of the confederation board. Also the district representative this year, Mrs. George Weller is from Warsaw. Mrs. Weller was president of Warsaw branch for one year and before coming to Warsaw had held several responsible positions in the Institute. The strong note of the gathering seemed to be to do all the good possible in the community first, and then farther afield. While religion was not discussed, a strong spiritual feeling was evidenced in all the addresses.

The sign-board on the road leading north out of Warsaw, is placed near Mr. Sharpe's gate, instead of at the corner at Mrs. Selkirk's house. When placing it, the committee decided that it would be more easily seen by day and especially by night if placed on the straight road.

The placing of these signs was spoken of by the Institute last Fall, and it was then decided to have them up before the heavy tourist traffic.

MILLBROOK

"Some of the inspiring things which never get into the annual reports, nor are they ever mentioned at the conventions," says a visiting inspector in one section of the province as she tells of her visits among the Institute members, "are the instances one finds of individual sacrifices, of kindly hospitality, and of genuine love and help for needy humanity. Such things as a nurse in a city hospital who came across a little girl needing an operation badly, but needing lots of fresh country air, eggs, and milk a good deal more. So she wrote home to her mother, an Institute worker, and for five springs and summer thereafter that child had her chance frolicking in the fields, growing up with the young life on the farm, becoming stronger each season, and at last the doctors, who had declared she would never grow up, now say she will be a strong, healthy woman by and by.

"There are two boys of whom practically the same story could be told, and so back of all this fine work the Institute may claim that three fine young Canadian citizens, of pure Anglo-Saxon stock have been saved for the nation, to help in its upbuilding, because one big-hearted woman on a farm had a will to sacrifice."

Developing the latent musical and dramatic talent in the young people of the community is the aim of an Institute which serves quite a large rural section in western Ontario. Evening gatherings occasionally, when the men come in for the programs and the refreshments which follow, have been successfully tried out for an entire season. It is at these "Community Club's" nights that the plays, usually not taking more than from three-quarters of an hour to the full sixty minutes, are given, and the musical numbers enjoyed. The young people, apparently, like the responsibility put upon them to provide entertaining programs, and much unexpected talent along various lines has been brought to light.

Specializing on health, rousing an interest in the beautifying of the homes, providing a rest room, and a baby clinic, at the fall fair, appointing a school and home committee and making a decided effort to have at least one woman on the school board, and establishing a loan library, with well balanced programs—debates, addresses, demonstrations, music, and social gatherings—makes up the list of activities the Institutes of one district has under way for the current year.

CAVAN

Among the many worth while pamphlets which are supplied free to the Women's Institutes, is one by Jessie McEwen entitled "Your Child's Reading." It contains so many helpful suggestions that it should be in every home.

She commences by telling us, that, "reading is as fundamental as eating". Just as nourishing and well-chosen food lays the foundation for a sturdy and healthy maturity, so well chosen and constructive reading lays the foundation for a clear-visioned, sane thinking citizen.

The motto of our Institute is "For Home and Country." The members, who are as a general thing, the mothers in the community, are striving to choose the "best things" in their journey through life.

With this end in view, they are, studying home economics, striving to provide well balanced healthful meals, in order that their children may be equipped with healthy bodies, and better able to take their places in a busy world.

It is not only their physical needs that she is studying. A true mother seeks to guide the younger members of her home in forming a taste for good reading.

Public school teachers agree that the child who early acquires a taste for "hearing stories read", and later for reading, makes better progress in reading, composition and literature, than those who do not care for stories or reading.

It is not always possible to choose a book that will make good reading for children, unless there is some way of knowing something of the writers. Often at Christmas, books are purchased as gifts for children, which prove very disappointing. For this reason suggestions along this line are much appreciated.

"Your Child's Reading" is a subject that has led to the formation of many committees and many reading courses. It is a subject that the teacher considers almost every day and that is of primary importance to the librarian. Clergymen, social workers, philanthropists, authors, and even politicians, have found in the subject much to consume their powers. But they have been compelled to leave out the individuality of the word "your". It is the child's parents who see the continual expression of his mental and physical needs. Therefore, it is they who should, as far as possible guide his reading, no less than they should supply his physical requirements. It is they who should frequently call into consultation the mental as well as the physical adviser.

The direction of reading must be individual, the teacher and the librarian realize it, and that is why they, so often, send out pleas to parents for assistance, although, logically it should be the parent who appeals to them.

There is no academy on earth equal to a mother's reading to her child.—Scudder.

While the child is quite young commence reading to him. Encourage him to talk about what has been read. Allow him to re-tell the story to you or some one else. "The telling of stories refreshes the mind as a bath refreshes the body; it gives exercise to the intellect and its powers; it tests the judgment and the feelings." —Froebel.

Older people often "lose themselves in a book," the turbulent scenes described, become a living reality. Guide your child into the great realms made so real by good writers. You can give to his little game of, "Let's Pretend", the joy of reality. He may be a Livingstone, lost in "darkest Africa", he may be a Captain Cooke, glorying in his new found lands, he may be one of the bold crusaders of long ago; he may march with Hannibal over the hills to Rome; he may have friends in distant lands, boys and girls with whom he plays games, goes to school, and who take him with them to their strange homes in China, India or Africa—All this because, through books, you may direct his eager gift of imagination and make of it the back-ground for wide sympathy, clear thinking and noble action. The writings of Dickens, always appeal to children. The old tale of Robinson Crusoe as well as many more modern books. Maggie Tulliver has not been out-rivalled. There is no modern fairy that could rob Tom, the chimney sweep of "Water Babies," of his mischief and adventures. "David Copperfield" must always be one of the dearest book friends a child can have. But there are new friends too, that are worthy of an honoured place. Prester John P. J. The Secret Service Boy, Christopher Robin and many more.

A parent's opportunity is stupendous. Know what your child reads and you will know what he thinks; you will know his powers to grasp the great truths of life. Know how your child reads and you will know his ability to concentrate, to dare, to persevere. Then, and this should be underlined—games, friends and even school studies may take your child from home, but books and reading must always strengthen the bond of understanding between you and your child.

for tasty sandwiches

Always spread a drop or two of H.P. on the filling of your sandwiches—to give them that finishing touch of delicious flavor.

A little HP SAUCE makes all the difference!

COLORFUL GARNISH.

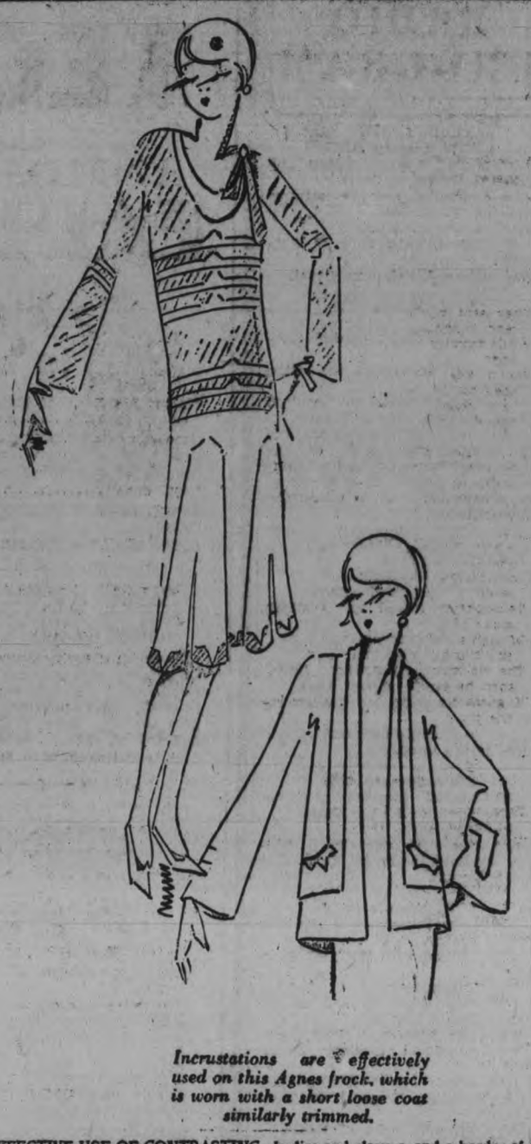
For fried chicken, or any other fowl, a beautiful garnish consists of thin slices of orange, cut crosswise, topped by a slice of lime with a little grated pineapple.

SPICY SALAD.

For variety and zest, serve a large slice of ripe tomato on lettuce centers with three slices of asparagus, and a quarter of an alligator pear atop it. A tart French salad dressing, with capers to season, should be served with it.

FANCY MOLDS.

When spinach, gelatine and other standbys are refused by the children, try buying a half-dozen or so fancy molds. Serve spinach in the shape of a star, with chopped egg atop it or a strip of pimento and it will win renewed popularity.



Incrustations are effectively used on this Agnes frock, which is worn with a short loose coat similarly trimmed.

EFFECTIVE USE OF CONTRASTING TONES.

By Mme. Havet of Agnes.

I have designed the skirt and bodice of this one-piece frock in contrasting tones. The material of the skirt is used effectively in incrustations on the bodice and sleeves, and a border of the blouse fabric forming an interesting note on the skirt, which is given a smart flare through the use of godets. A short jacket matching the skirt may be worn with the dress.

MARION'S MAIL

Dear Marion:

"I enclose coupon and stamps for which please send me the helps I have checked, also the one on Italian quilting. I have been going to write for these for some time, but have put it off and have missed some I wanted. I hope I am not asking for too many at once. I sent for some before and was well pleased with them.

I always look for your page first and am very glad when I see two of them. The letters are very interesting and the Whatnot better still. I have four small children, and the various helps and hints on care of them are always appreciated. I have very little patience with some of the old fads on raising children, and believe the modern way of regular hours, plenty of sleep and proper food the best way to have healthy children. I hope this letter is not too long or boring but you seem to have a lot of patience and understanding. I am enclosing a couple of recipes, which are always very successful with me."

MRS. W. B.

I'm very glad, indeed, Mrs. W. B."" that you enjoy our pages.

Don't you think our parents had pretty good ideas about bringing up children' I do!

Dear Marion:

"Is this not a busy time of the year? With house cleaning and gardening, the days simply fly. Hubby and I have been working in the garden to-day and it does feel good to know that soon we shall have lots of nice fresh vegetables of our own to repay us for our hard work.

I am enclosing an old song and two recipes in this and now as time is short must hustle away with many thanks to Marion and the neighbors for recipes, etc."

LEATHERHEAD.

Thank you for your enclosures. "Leatherhead", which I will use right away.

I certainly enjoy spring time, with its gardening and its promise of good things to come.

Dear Marion:

"I am sending the recipe for good pie crust and I do hope some of the neighbors will find it as good as I do. I never go back to my old way unless I am in a hurry. But I usually have it the morning or day before, so it will it will be cool for use.

"Marion I must tell you how my daughter and I like your page. My other children when they come home from school run to get the comic page. My two children are sleeping now, so I thought I would write you while it is quiet.

"Please send me the helps I have checked and also the pattern for a little sun suit. I have enclosed twenty-five cents for new fashion book and pattern.

"Giving you very much thanks."

Yours sincerely,
JANIE.

I'm very glad to be of assistance through the helps. "Janie." More than fifty have now been offered, and the neighbors seem to like them.

I'll be interested in hearing from both you and your daughter again.

Dear Marion:

"So many times have I wanted the new crush collar pattern! You sent me helps before and they were splendid and very easy to cut from. I have tried several different recipes and found everyone of them splendid. I often make the ginger snaps from Mrs. B. A. R.'s, of Harold, recipe. They sure are good.

"By yesterday's paper I noticed the new crush collar is off your list. I do do hope you still have one you can send me.

"Thanking you for all former helps,"
Your truly,
JANET.

P. S. I have marked several helps. Am I too greedy? If so, send only the ones you wish from what I marked.

Neighbors must be speedy in asking for helps that prove popular. "Janet" Some go so fast while of others I have a dozen left. All on hand have been sent you.

"Dear Marion:

Like most homemakers who live in the country, I have been too busy with spring house-cleaning. It seems impossible to hire a woman to help on the farm. Then with lookinkg after wee chicks, not to mention seeing the children through a seige of measles, and all this in addition to the regular housework on the farm, it's hard enough to take all one woman's time and strength. Too busy, I say, to write to our page about a woman's difficulties the first few years she starts homemakinkg on the farm. Yes, it is about the young wife with a baby or two to care for, that I'm writing, and not one with a great deal of strength like 'Neighborly Soul' or one whose husband received a farm fully equipped and all paid for from his father, but just the average young wife and mother, who wants to help all she can.

First, should we keep books on the farm? I add that last phrase because most of us do not, but we should by all means. It will mean a little more head work that will save a great deal of physical labor. Work out a simple plan of your own, and keep records of the cost of everything grown and produced on the farm. Then when you are ready to sell eggs, chickens, milk, cattle grain, etc., you will be able to set your price based on total cost, including your own labor, and a reasonable profit. I think middleman's profit has more to do with the low prices we receive for our produce than supply and demand. Any other business man expects a fair profit and all merchants and salesman do not charge the same prices for similar articles. Yes, we do need to use our heads more and our hands less to make farming more successful than it is. Get all the information possible about the difference in the prices you receive for your goods and those paid by the consumer. And another thing that seems unfair: why do we on the farm pay transportation charges directly or indirectly on nearly everything we buy and also pay freight or express on eggs, poultry, grain, etc. we ship? Think it over, I shall be glad to describe our method of keeping accounts to anyone.

Should farm women milk cows? A young mother, never. I know one who when her baby was less than two weeks old went out to help milk. Fortunately she and her husband are exceptions even on the farm. But in any case I think the average farmer's wife has more than enough to do with preparing breakfast or supper properly and looking after the house to go to the barn day in and day out to help milk. It is a poor business that does not yield adequate returns to pay for sufficient help and needs a readjustment of some kinkd. There are few young mothers in the town or city who go to the office, store or factory for a time every day to save the wages if hired help. I am not referring to an emergency or unusual conditions caused by illness, etc.; farmers' wives are willing to help out then without a murmur.

The farm women of Ontario are sorely in need of electric power with all the accompanying conveniences to lessen labor and make life pleasanter on the farm. I do not know why there is not a flat rate for homes anywhere. It is true the homes are farther apart in the country but if they were not how could we grow food to supply the needs of those who live in the towns or cities? It looks as if we shall have to fight for a reasonable rate and not one nearly fifteen times as high as that in a city in the same district and farther from the source of electric power.

I think it was at a meeting of the Women's Institute that the women present, mostly from the farm, were asked if they would want their daughters to marry farmers. I do not remember the details but I do remember that the answer, almost uanimous, was 'No.' Do you think that we farm women of to-day are the ones who should see that conditions are so changed that any women would be glad to have her daughter marry a farmer? Of course, the individual farmer has something to do with it but his mother has far more. We do not want to slave as our mothers and grandmothers did and they would be the last to expect us to.

What can you do to make conditions better? No use pretending most farm women have anything but a very hard time with few conveniences compared with their city sisters. They have other problems which they set about to solve themselves and naturally we are not so much interested in those nor do we expect them to help us solve ours.

Talk over matters with other farm women. Write to the secretaries of such organizations as the Women's Institute, the United Farm Women of Ontario, etc. About getting Hydro power reasonably on the farm and soon too, not ten years from now, write to the chairman of the Hydro Electric Power Commission, University avenue, Toronto. Perhaps we may have to secure petitions signed by most of the farm women of Ontario in order to get what we want.

I like the way you described farm conditions as you knew them, Marion. We do get a bit tired of all the pretence that the farm is just about a perfect place. Where one gets most of what one eats for nothing, etc., etc., I know lots of good points about the farm and maybe I'll tell about them another time, but you know progress was never made by a sleepy satisfaction with things as they were, we want them better.

BETSY JANE ANN."

Three cheers, "Betsy Jane Ann"! The meat of the whole argument is in your closing paragraph. Satisfaction with things as they are is the millstone around the neck of progress. Only when people realize that everything is not perfect, and make an effort to achieve perfection, does the world move toward better conditions. What's the use of keeping on living after one has reached her ultimate goal?

As far as this particular point goes, I'm a revolutionary. I hope I never become satisfied with anything, least of all with my own achievements! And we all, farm and city women, have a long, long way to go.

"Dear Marion:

Here I am again. It is quite a pleasure to see many new neighbors have joined the circle and the letters are so interesting. I have, like many other neighbors, been sick. I only jog along good for a little while. Sorry to hear of one with a weak spine as that is my trouble, but with such a dreadful weakness that I can hardly describe it. I hope with the bright days ahead, it will work wonders for the sick.

I wonder if the neighbors will think this letter very personal? Well here's hoping some will be interested. I am leaving Canada for Kent, England, at the end of the month, with my husband and two children. As so many return, how can I definitely say I will not? I feel I'll be better in health amongst the old folks. With bad health, one misses the beauty of a new land.

Here's hoping, should any of the neighbors be buying extra for the home for Old Home Week, they will keep in mind June 24 when we sell everything—upright used piano, two radios, one with two tubes and the other with three tubes, sedan car, etc. We will advertise later and shall wonder amongst the many faces, who belongs to the page.

I shall have a nice remembrance of Marion's Mail, so here's luck to Marion's page, from Unity. I am sending in recipe S.O.S. for rhubarb wine, which I find good, also four cake recipes which may be helpful and Old Songs as usual, which I love to memorize.

Hoping I have not made my letter too long and that I may come again before I leave Peterborough. Would any neighbor like song words of Romany Rose and Molly Malone?

Wishing you heaps of success,
Yours sincerely,
UNITY."

Thank you for all the splendid recipes and other enclosure, "Unity." I'm very sorry to learn that you are leaving us, but hope, as I'm sure all the neighbors do, that the change will benefit you physically.

And, even if I'm not here (I, too, get the travelling urge occasionally!) I hope when you return you will be as good to the page as you have been since I organized it.

COLOR LAUNDERING

In washing one of the new white silk blouses, piped or decorated with colored silk, use cold water and a good soap, rinse thoroughly and hang over a bath towel on a hanger. When thoroughly dry, dampen and roll in a towel. This careful treatment keeps the color from crocking.

Heart Trouble Hands and Feet Numb and Cold

Mrs. Wm. Fowler, Auburn, Ont., writes:—"Several years ago I was troubled with my heart and nerves, so bad, at times, my hands would become numb and cold. I took doctor's medicine, for a while, but it did me little or no good. I happened to see What—No Insulation!

"YES, I insisted upon TEN/TEST insulation throughout. That's the most important thing of all."

No one is satisfied with a non-insulated house. That is why all those who intend to buy, build or remodel should consider the vast benefits of TEN/TEST Insulating Building Board.

TEN/TEST costs no more when building than ordinary lumber, but it insulates the home against cold, heat dampness and draughts, saves fuel, adds strength to construction and makes for real year-round comfort.

The Whatnot

A Column for Little Bits of Everything of Interest to Women Readers

Conducted by Marion (Copyright)

I WONDER how many of you neighbors remember that this week we celebrate an anniversary.

* * * * * *

Just a year ago, on June 13, the Whatnot was started. It had no name at first, and then a competition was held, and Mrs. T. H. Blanchard, 529 Homewood Avenue, and Miss Marcelle M. McNulty, 289 Hunter Street, suggested the name we adopted—"The Whatnot."

* * * * * *

At the same time a change was made from the old "Society" heading to "Neighborly Notes," suggested by Mrs. C. F. Watson, 182½ Hunter Street.

* * * * * *

It was a queer column in those days, I think when I look back at the old copies of The Examiner. You see, I didn't know you neighbors, and didn't realize how good you could be to one whom you knew only as a pen name.

* * * * * *

In the year that has passed I have received hundreds of letters from you, and really feel that I know many of you quite well. We have had interesting discussions, we've exchanged recipes, and songs ,and help on many housekeeping problems.

* * * * * *

From my point of view the year has been well worth while. I hope that in the years that are to come you will find the women's page of The Examiner as interesting as you have helped make it during the time I have been here.

* * * * * *

Anniversaries have a way of proving not all joyousness, however, because each one as it comes tells of another year dead and recalls the fact that some time there will be no more anniversaries.

* * * * * *

You recall Pope's lines:

"Is that a birthday? 'tis, alas! too clear;
'Tis but the funeral of the former year."

* * * * * *

The reasonable attitude to take, of course, is one that sees an anniversary not as a stopping place, but as a starting point—it may well be the "funeral of the former year," but why mourn when one is given a new year in which to do all one has missed doing, but has learned may be done?

* * * * * *

In this neighborly circle we have scores of women of Peterborough district eager to help others. They have done it through our page during the past twelve months; and now, with the passing of this mile stone and the opening up of a new year theyy are given a renewed opportunity.

* * * * * *

If you have a problem, tell it to the neighbors, and let them give you the benefit of their experience. And don't withhold your own when another neighborliness continue.

* * * * * *

That is true neighborliness. It is the spirit that has shone from every women's page of the past year, making my business as conductor of your page easy and pleasant.

* * * * * *

Let's carry this spirit into another year. Individual neighbors may leave our community—I may leave—but let the spirit of service and of neighborliness continueu.

* * * * * *

. . . all who joy would win
Must share it—Happiness was born a twin.

* * * * * *

As we pass this anniversary of our acquaintance in our friendly circle, let me wish every neighbor a year of happiness and prosperity.

TOMATOES CANNED WHOLE.

(Contributed by "Leatherhead")

Small, round, firm tomatoes, scald and peel without breaking. Pack cold in jars and add one half teaspoon salt to each pint jar. Fill with boiling water, adjust covers and process in hot water bath for eight minutes, time them from when water in bath commences to boil.

PEANUT DROPS.

(Contributed by "Leatherhead.")

Two cups peanuts; 2 cupfuls brown sugar; ½ cup milk, ½ 2 eggs; 2 tablespoons butter; 2 cups pastry flour; 1 teaspoon baking powder; 1½ teaspoons vanilla; pinch of salt.

Cream the eggs, sugar and butter together. Mix together the flour, baking powder, salt and ground peanuts. Add alternately with the milk to mixture, drop by spoonfuls on oiled pan and bake in quick oven.

RHUBARB WINE.

Contributed(by Mrs. B.)

Take the stalks with the leaves trimmed off and press so as to extract the juice. To each gallon (wine measure) add one gallon, (wine measure) of water.

To each gallon of the diluted liquid, add 3½ lbs. of sugar, put in a keg and leave in a warm place to ferment, leaving the bung loose until after the first fermentation, or it will burst the keg. To every 5 gallons, add 1 oz of best isinglass, dissolved in water, the latter is intended to clarify.

Before adding the sugar, the juice should be strained. Drive the bung in tight before it is quite done fermenting, and leave for one year.

P. S.—I put the rhubarb through the meet chopped, using a fine knife and caught the juice as it ran out.

AGAIN MENTIONED.

Princess Ingrid, daughter of the Crown Prince of Sweden, whose name has been linked with that of the Prince of Wales several times, is again being mentioned in London as a possible bride for the prince. The approach of the prince's 35th birthday, and the forthcoming ball at the Swedish embassy for Princess Ingrid, are said to be responsible for the rumor that their engagement may be announced within the next week.

FAVORITE RECIPE.

TO DEFEAT BEETLES AND ANTS

Contributed by "Unity"

1 lb. powdered borax
1 lb. flour
½ lb. fine sugar.

Mix thoroughly and dry in oven on sheet of paper and store in a tin. These insects cannot resist the sugar and flour and they do not not notice the borax. This is sure death to them when sprinkled around any likely haunt, even flower beds. These insects haunt dahlias.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,
That old and antique song we heard, last night.

"JUST BEHIND THE TIMES"
(Contributed by 'Beatrice')

A party of young village people gathered in their little church,
A meeting of importance there to hold;
They then decided that their minister, although they loved him well,
He must resign, for he was growing old;
They sent to him this message; he read it through and through,
While burning tears fell on the cruel lines;
For it was written in that message that his sermons were too dry,
It also read: 'You're just behind the times'.

On Sunday morn the church was crowded, for it was rumored round the town
A younger minister was going to preach;
And in that same old dusty pupit, where the old man reigned for years,
Another man had come his flock to teach;
He spoke of love and politics; he spoke of fashion, too,
Of sights he'd seen in many different climes;
The old man sat alone and listened; then he sadly shook his head;
"I guess they're right, I am behind the times."

And so at last the sermon ended; and the old man slowly rose,
"Just let me say a few words ere you go";
Then slowly up the aisle he staggered to his pulpit as of yore,
With trembling limbs, and face as white as snow:
"I've buried all your loved ones, I've wept beside their graves;
I've shared your your joys and sorrows many times"—
Just then he gave a start, for his poor heart had broken from its pain,
His last words were: 'I am behind the times'

Chorus

Behind the times so they told him;
He's just behind the times,
His voice has lost its sweetness, like bells that no more chime;
He cannot hold their attention,
He falters o'er his lines,
His power has gone, though few will mourn,
For he's just behind the times.

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

By JEANETTE.

"The new wine, the new wine,
It tasteth like the old,
The heart is all athirst again,
The drops are all of gold.
We thought the song was ended,
We thought the tale was told.
But the new wine, the new wine,

Under the title, "You Can't Smile if your Feet Hurt You," a clever little Canadian magazine that is designed for the business girl, offers some ideals along this line. It says:

"A few days ago I was talking to a very prominent surgeon—head of one of the outstanding hospitals in Canada, specializing in bone surgery. In discussing the question of shoes—women's shoes—this surgeon made the startling assertion, Unless girls of to-day wear more sensible shoes than they are doing, women are just three generations away from having hoofs.'

"This surgeon went on to explain precisely what is happening to the feet of the present feminine generation. I cannot give you the precise surgical and anatomical terms he used, but the gist of what he told me is this: Nature provides the foot with a pad, known as the 'ball' of the foot. This is one end of the 'arch' or 'instep', the other being the heel. Natures provides that the weight of the body in walking shall fall evenly on the pad, or the ball of the foot, but young girls have put their feet into short vamp shoes, and so elevated the heel that the foot is thrown out of balance.

"In walking in this unnatural position, the entire weight of the body hammers the arch of the foot at an unprotected point. It also forces the wearer of the shoe to step further forward on the 'ball' of the foot than nature intended. As a matter of fact, the majority of the girls are walking, not on the pad, or the 'ball' of the foot, but on the base of the toes where no protection has been provided by nature. Because of the elevation of the heel and the insecure footing it gives, particularly in the short vamp shoes, a sideways thrust is given to the foot. This results in undue and unnatural pressure coming on the base of the big toe, almost under the joint, and if continued, causes an enlargement (sometimes called a bunion) of this joint.

"Unless this situation is corrected, the girl suffers untold agony and in a comparatively short time, not more than two years, finds herself faced with permanent deformity with a small chance of having the situation corrected by surgery. Today the hospitals are having an ever increasing number of operations on the feet of young girls and women to correct this terrible result of their inexcusable folly.

"Three generations and then hoofs!' If you don't believe it, compare your little toe to your grandmother's, particularly the little toe nail, and note the difference. Walking on high heels and forcing your weight onto the base of the toes is gradually pinching off the toes, until toes are becoming regarded socially, as unnecessary. From England comes a recent report of society girls having toes amputated so that their feet will be narrower—and so the self mutilation goes on—girls needlessly and inexcusably suffer all the pangs and pains of hell—selling their happiness for a pair of shoes.

"But, unfortunately, it is the sixteen to twenty-year old girls who are the greatest offenders in this self mutilation of feet. At twenty and over, most of the young girls are disillusioned by the terrible agonies and deformities they have to contend with. Most of the young girls excusue their folly by claiming that they have to wear high heels, because they have such high insteps. Of course that is all bunk. It is just a cloak for vanity, and wearing smaller size shoes never improves the appearance of one's feet—it merely satisfies one's pride at the expense of one's comfort."

The article concludes with the following advice: "If you wish to know whether your shoes are correct or incorrect, examine these points:

(1) "Does the vamp cut across the top of your instep, and do your feet swell out over?

(2) "Examine the sole of your shoes—is the wear even and is the outer edge under the joint of the big toe more right to the edge of the sole to the same degree as the edge of the sole directly under the little toe? If it doesn't, then you have a sideways thrust of your foot, caused by imperfect balance due to high heels. This will in a short time enlarge the joints of the big toe, causing bunions and other serious trouble that will eventually result in deformity or the necessity of a surgical operation.

(3) "The curve of the instep at the sole should come approximately one quarter of an inch back of the big joint of the big toe. If this curve comes directly under the joint, your shoe is too short and you need a longer vamp, that is, longer from the joint to the heel."

The Battle of the Goliaths

By NORMAN BLOIS SHALDERS

When Herr Kapitan L. Ziegenbein of the new north German Lloyd liner Bremen rings the engine room telegraph to full speed ahead for the first time on Tuesday, July 16, the second round of the big fight for supremacy in trans-Atlantic speed and size will have officially commenced.

The first round started one day in 1907, when precisely 30,696 tons of steel and fittings slid gracefully down Swan Hunter and Wigham Richardson's Tyneside shipway and delivered itself to the waiting tugs. It had been christened the Mauretania a moment before, and was destined to bring back to Britain and the Cunard Line the honor of owning the world's speediest liner. The Maurentania, as everyone knows, has since broken more world's records than any other ship ever built, and, despite the fact that she is approaching her 22nd birthday, she is faster than she has ever been before.

It was evident that the Cunard Line was determined to recapture supremacy of the Atlantic speedway, for, shortly after the Mauretania was put into commission the Lusitania made her appearance. These two fliers, in addition to their dazzling speed, were the last word in marine architecture and comfort. The Mauretania was approximately 760 feet long, but the Lusitania was nearly 100 feet longer than her famous sister.

The fires of jealousy which, from 1907, had been smouldering, now burst into flames, and soon France, Germany and the White Star Line at that time financed in the U.S.A., but operated under British control) made a determined bid to wrest the title from the Cunard Line.

The White Star staggered the shipping world with the Olympic, a gigantic piece of work, surpassing in tonnage the best efforts of the Cunard Line by about 10,000 tons. They could not, however, surpass them in speed.

While the White Star Line held the spotlight of publicity, they certainly made the most of it. The Titanic followed the Olympic. Launched in 1912, and sunk the same year through a collision with an icebuerg on her maiden voyage ,she was the last word in marine construction. She was 46,-329 tons, 852 feet long, and built by the famous Belfast firm of Harland and Wolff.

France now entered the arena and demonstrated that she was a power to be reckoned with. Her offering was the France, a fine quandruple screw vessel of 23,769 tons. Owned by the Compagie General Transatlantique, she was 690 feet in length and the second fastest liner in the world. In fact, she proved a serious menace to Cunard superiority, and the Mauretania was the only vessel she was unable to beat.

Germany's Waiting Game.

Germany had been playing a waiting game in her effortr to refain the crown which, with the coming of the Mauretania, she had been forced to relinquish.

Then at last she launched the mammoth liner Imperator. The Imperator, at that time ,twas the largest vessel afloat. She was 52,226 tons, 883 feet long, with a beam of 98.3 feet. Launched in 1912 from the yards of Blohm and Voss at Hamburg, she was intended to be the "All Highest's" private yacht, but she spent her first year in running propaganda voyages between Germany and New York.

Had there been no war in 1914, there seems little doubt that Germany would have captured the coveted and legendry blue ribbon of the Atlantic.

Not to be outdone, the White Star Line stepped into the picture again. This time it was the Brittanic of 47,500 tons. The White Star Line seem to have a penchant for building colossal ships, just as the Cunard Line have a craving for speed.

The Brittanic, like the Titanic, was a product of Harland and Wolfff's yards, and like the latter, was destined to a watery grave before her sphere of usefulness had commenced, She was sunk by a German mine at the commencement of the great war.

In the early months of 1914, the Clydebank shipyards of John Brown and Company were putting the finishing touches to the Aquitania, the latest Cunarder, the acme of luxury and a fitting reply to the White Star challenge. She was 45,647 tons and was hailed as the world's wonder ship.

It was Germany's turn again. Hardly had the applause which greeted the launching of the Aquitania died down than Bohlm and Voss turned out the world's largest steamship—the 59,957 ton Vaterland. She was 907 feet long and 100.3 feet in breadth. It was the first time a merchant ship had been constructed with a ebam of over 100 feet.

The war now put an end to all thoughts of Atlantic speed supremacy until 1919. The Maurentaia and Lusitania were forced to assist the fleet, owing to the fact that the cost of their construction had been subsidized by the British government on the understanding that they were to carry the mails in peace time and be at the disposal of the fleet in war time.

The German Vaterland and Imperator happened to be in the United States when war was declared, and were treated to four years of enforced ideness in the Hudson river.

The Hamburg-American Line was first off the mark when peace reigned again, and the Resolute and Reliance both approximately 20,000 tons, made their appearance in 1920.

In France a few months later, the quadruple screw, 34,569 tons Paris was launched. She was owned by the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique and was 735.4 feet in length and 85.3 feet wide.

Various Countries in Race.

Owing to the terms of the peace treaty, Germany was forced to deliver her mammoth liners and others to the allies, to replace those sunk by her during the war. Thus, the Imperiator, which was to have carried the kaiser on a triumphant world tour, became the Cunarder Berengaria. The United States Shipping Board seized the gigantic Vaterland and renamed her the Leviathan, while the White Star Line benefited to the extent of the Bismarck, and renamed her the Majestic.

Although Germany, in 1919, was left with but a faint shadow of her former magnificent merchant navy, she set to work to regain her share of the trans-atlantic passenger traffic and freight routes.

The North German Lloyd stepped into the arena with the Columbus, launched in 1922. She was a twin screw steamer of 32,354 tons.

From 1922 to 1926, there was a lull. Who would make the next move? Few guessed rightly. All this time the Mauretania's "blue ribbon" was fluttering in the breeze, and year after year she continued to astonish her owners and builders by breaking her own records, one after the other, with monotonous regularity.

It was Italy who finally picked up the gauntlen thrown down by the Cunard Line, and added another name to the increasing list of competitors. The Roma was Italy's offering, a splendid vessel of 32,583 tons, quadruple screw, and capable of a good turn of speed. She was built by the Santaldo Company to the order of her owners, the Navigazionne Generale Italia.

The French Line, however, determined to be in the race and produced the wonder ship Ile de France, by far the finest liner that ever left a French shipway. She was 43,548 tons and 755 feet in length. In addition to her speed, she was the centre attraction for transatlantic travellers owing to the fact that the most stubborn appetite was stirred into activity by theintriguing concoctions of a masterly chef.

One year later, in 1927, Italy turned out the Saturnia and the Vulcania, each of approximately 20,000 tons, these two vessels were propelled by double-acting eight-cylinder, four-cycle Diesel engines, developing 24,000 horsepower, and stood out above all other motor-driven ships. Owned by the Consulich Line, they presented a novel and distinctive appearance, their gradually ascending superstructure and distinctive low funnel resembling a turret.

The Statendam, British-built, 28,150 tons, and owned by the Holland-American Line, was Holland's contribution, and she was followed closely by Sweden, another new competitor, with the Kungsholm, 21,532 tons, last year. Neither of these ships of course stood the slightest chance of wrestling the speed title from the Cunard Line.

In 1928 the German shipyards of Blohm and Voss at Hamburg started to build the Europa and Bremen. Approximately 46,000 tons each, and estimated to attain a speed of 27 knots.

The Europa was recently burned. The Bremen is to make her first transatlantic voyage on July 16, being scheduled to leave Bremen on that day and reach New York on the 22nd.

The Mauretania must have overheard someone remark that she would have to look to her laurels, for she proceeded to clip two hours and two minutes off her previous best world's record, reducing the time between New York and Plymouth to four days, nineteen hours, fifty-four minutes.

Lord Kylsant, head of the White Star Line, and one of England's most influential shipping magnates, on behalf of his company, placed an order with Harland and Wolff, builders of the Titanic and Brittanic, for a vessel of 60,000 tons, thereby upholding the White Star Line's tradition for colossal ships. Although it is yet far too early to make any statement as to the probable speed of this new vessel, it has been mentioned frequently in the daily press that she is to be electrically driven and capable of a speed of 27 knots.

The World's Largest.

The honor of owning the world's largest vessel has long been a subject for discussion. The White Star Line claim the honor with the Majestic (the old Bismarck), which, according to Lloyd's register, is rated at 56,621 tons. Americans, however, claim that the Leviathan is the bigger. True, Lloyd's register shows the Leviathan to be 59,957 tons, but there is an explanation for this.

In 1913, both ships were under construction at Hamburg, and, according to the designer, were identical in model, accommodation and motive power. The Bismarck (Majestic) was six feet longer than the Vaterland (Leviathan). This additional length was given the vessel, it was stated, so that the Hamburg-American Line might possess, in the Bismarck, the largest ship afloat. This greater length was secured by introducing two additional frames amidships. Since the placement of this additional 'midship body on a draft of 38 feet is 700 tons, the Majestic exceeds the Leviathan by that amount, her displacement tonnage being 64,800 tons against a displacement of 54,100 tons by the Leviathan.

Although the Leviathan, according to this explanation, is the second largest ship afloat, the Cunard Line are not faced with any immediate competition from the United States, where shipbuilding and operation are in various way. The United States Shipping Board recently sold its entire line, including the Leviathan, to Chapman, Inc., a privately-owned concern, and Mr. Chapman has declared that he is going to build two mammoth liners.

The present holders of the coveted "blue ribbon" have always been very ambitious and far-seeing. This was evidenced as far back as 1881, when they launched the Servia, the first real liner to change from the clipper-built hull to the more modern style of ship construction. Moreover, they have held the speed record longer than any other company or country.

BETHEL UNITED CHURCH HOLDS SOCIAL EVENING

Enjoyable Evening Is Spent By Congregation of Trent River Church

TRENT RIVER, June 15.—(Examiner Correspondence). —A very successful social evening was held at Bethel church on Wednesday. Tables were arranged in the church sheds by the ladies of the congregation and abundance of things good to eat were served to the crowds who attended. A booth was erected on the grounds where ice cold beverages were readily disposed of. After the serving of the tables all repaired to the auditorium of the church where the program was given. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Hle of Hastings, was present and gave a short address.

The program consisted of vocal selections by Taylor Huyoke and Mrs. Fox of Hastings; Mr. Archer of Seymour gave selections on violin and Mrs. Archer accompanied him with the guitar; the pupils from Conolly's school sang two choruses under the direction of their teacher Earl Fairman. The proceeds of the evening amounted to nearly $70.

Friends of Mrs. James Mann, who has been confined to bed for two weeks will be pleased to hear she is resting comfortably and is receiving every care and attention from those in attendance.

Mr. George Brooks has been confined to his home through illness.

The many friends of Mrs. Matilda Post will regret to hear she is critically ill at her home.

PREMIER HERTZOG MAJORITY OVER ALL

Ten Seats Are Still To Be Heard From in South African Election.

CAPETOWN, June 15. (C.P.) The country districts of South Africa remained steadfast to the Nationalist party in Wednesday's general elections, and as a result the government of Premier J. B. Hertzog seems certain to have a majority in the new assembly. Whether or not the Nationalist party will be able to govern independently, or will again have to seek the aid of the Labor Party, as in the last Assembly, has yet to be decided.

With ten seats to report, the standing of the parties is as follows: Nationalists 71; South African Party, 59; Creswell Laborites, 5; and National Council Laborites, 3.

Premier Hertzog's party thus has a clear majority of 4 over all other parties, and is expected to maintain this when all results are in.

DUST T RAVELS 2,000 MILES.

One of the most unusual dust journeys on record was that made by many tonse of Australian soil which traveled mor than 2,000 miles through the air to New Zealand, according to recent reports. The greater part of the journey was over water. In many parts of New Zealand during the first falls, when the dust was brought down by rain, the mixture was referred to as mud rain. Some of it fell on sweaters of players during a football match, and so discolored them that it was difficultto pick out the garments of the different teams. Although not the first dust storm to travel from Australia to New Zealand, the deposit was remarkable both for quantity and the area over which it was recorded.

PARIS BREAKS SHOW RECORDS.

Paris, long recognized as the city of amusement seekers, broke all records in that direction last year, according to figures recently released. The public paid more than $23,000,000 into the box offices of theatres, motion picture houses, music halls, concerts, circuses, skating rinks, museums and boxing events. This was an increase of $2,000,000 over the amount spent in 1927. With a total of $8,000,000, motion pictures led over all other forms of amusement in the point of gross receipts for the year. The city now has 176 movie theatres, and more are being erected. Circuses and skating rinks, however, made the greatest gain.

RALPH HOLDS COGS SLUGGERS FOR 7-4 VICTORY

BETHANY PLAYERS SLUG WAY TO VICTORY WITH SAFETY CLOUTS AT RIGHT MOMENTS

Cognawagas Score Four Runs in the Fourth Innings On Errors.

ERNIE McGEE INJURED.

Dawson and Johnson Heavy Sluggers—Bethany Gets Eight Hits.

The unexpected will never cease to happen. This was proved conclusively in an East Peterborough League ball game last evening, when Bethany stepped out on Exhibition Park diamond and trounced the cocky Cognawagas 7 to 4.

It was no hit-and-miss victory, either. Bethany crashed their way to the win with safety clouts, and they released their batting onslaught just when hits were most needed, few of them being wsated.

To Harold Ralph, Bethany's moundsman, the largest bouquet for the triumph should be presented. He pitched sterling ball and had the whip hand on the Cogs' sluggers throughout. The Cogs four runs were secured after Ralph had retired the third batsman on strikes in the fourth innings. His catcher dropped the third strike, lost it in the cage, and then threw wild to first. Two hits, and two errors followed, and Cogs' quartette of runs crossed the plate. Twice Ralph struck out the side with runners on third and second.

The only thing to mar the game was the painful injury to Ernie McGee, star left fielder of the Bethany nine. McGee was batting in the sixth. Vanest threw one on the inside, and McGee turned from it, but not quite far enough. The ball struck him on the back of the head with a dull thud that could be heard in the stands. He was given first aid immediately by Doctor Hamilton and then conveyed to the Clinic.

With the exception of two costly errors in the fourth and three minor ones throughout the game, the whole Bethany team aided mightily in snatching the unexpected victory. Dawe and Johnston were the big hitters with two apiece, and each had a double. Bethany's eight hits were very evenly distributed throughout the ranks, all but three breaking into the third column.

Percy Vanest was tendered the pitching assignment by Manager Davis, and although he twirled nice ball, striking out eight, he lacked his usual effectiveness against the western villagers. Bethany grouped all their hits in three innings from his offerings and his three walks came just at the worst times. Two errors by the men behind him came at critical moments, too, and resulted in scores.

First Blood for Bethany

In the opening innings the first two men, McGee and McGill, struck out and Phillips flied out to Rooke. Cogs did no better, being sent back in order.

Bethany opened the scoring in the second. Ryley drew a walk. Dawe and Johnston clipped out two singles and Ryley was safe on third. Ralph hit a long foul ball to left field, Masterson making a pretty catch of it, and Ryley scored. Reynolds struck out, and Dalton drew a walk, loading the bases again, but McGee retired the side on a fly to Crary.

With two down in the Cogs' half Crary hit through short. Cripps walked and both moved on another sack when Ralph threw low to second in an effort to nab Crary. Vanest sent up a high foul which Reynolds safely gloved.

In the third Bethany got two more McGill and Phillips each getting hits. The runners moved to second and third when Casey Masterson's throw in from left field was allowed to roll around pitcher's box. Ryley bunted, scoring McGill and Dawe scored on a bunt to Rooke. Johnston struck out, retiring the side.

Vanest sent out a clean double as first up for Cogs, but he was doomed to remain on the bags. Masterson being out on a roller to Dawe and Miller ,and Jones striking out.

Four in Fourth Inning

Bethany did nothing in the fourth, but the Cogs got their four runs. Rooke was thrown out by Ralph and Prest struck out. Crary walked and stole second. Cripps took three cuts at the ball and missed, but he was safe at first, when Reynolds made a wild throw after dropping the third strike. Ross hit, scoring Crary. Cripps crossed the plate on Phillips' overthrow to first on Vanest's roller. Ross and Vanest scored on Masterson's clout into right field. Hillier flied out to Phillips, retiring the side.

Nothing more was done until the sixth when Bethany went out and collected three runs. Dawe, first up, for two bases into centre field. Johnstone scored him on a double into left. Ralph was safe on Hillier's error. Johnston crossed the plate on Reynolds' hit, but Ralph was out coming home. Walton hit. McGee was hit by the pitcher. Masterson then entered the box. McGill was safe on Crary's error and Walton scored. Philips was thrown out by Masterson at first. Cogs failed to counter in their half, and the game was over.

PIRATES LOSE LEAGUE LEAD

Larry Benton Stops Bucaneers To Allow Giants 7-2 Victory.

CARDINALS ON TOP.

PITTSBURG, June 15—(Canadian Press).—Larry Benton stopped the Pirates with seven hits here yesterday, and the Giants won by 7 to 2, their first victory in three games so far played in the series.

Jess Petty, making his second start in as many days, was knocked out in less than an inning when the Giants scored three runs, Kremer and Fussell finished.

TAKE SECOND STRAIGHT

CINCINNATI June 15.— (Canadian Press).—Brooklyn made it two straight over Cincinnati here yesterday, winning in the eleventh inning by a score of 5 to 4. Rhiel walked in the eleventh and scored on Frederick's double through Shaner.

The Robins led by 4 to 1 as the Reds came to bat in the ninth, but the miscues by Moore, Hendrick and Rhiel enabled the home forces to tie the score, this despite a double play which checked the rally.

CARDINAL ARE VICTORS

ST. LOUIS, June 15. — (Canadian Press). — With the bases jammed and none out Johnson came to the rescue of Sherdel yesterday and retired the Boston Braves in the ninth to give the St. Louis Cardinals the game 4 to 3, and first place in the National League, as the Pirates lost to New York. The game was delayed an hour and 25 minutes by the Tuberculosis Day benefit program and rain.

Philadelphia Blanks Cleveland Indians 9-0

PHILADELPHIA, June 15 (Canadian Press).—Mose Grove, star left-hander of the Philadelphia Athletics, blanked the Cleveland Indians with six hits yesterday, and won his tenth victory of the season by a score of 9 to 0.

The Mackmen cinched the game in the second inning when Fox and Miller pounded Holloway for successive doubles that were followed by singles from the bats of Dykes and Boley.

Hadley Hurls Senators For Victory Over Sox

WASHINGTON, June 15 (Canadian Press).—The Washington Senators utilized seven hits effectively yesterday, and behind the steady pitching of Irving Hadley, defeated Chicago in the second game of their series, 4 to 1. Hadley allowed but six scattered hits and got a couple of safe singles himself.

Lou Gehrig Leading In Circuit Standings

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 15 (Canadian Press).—The Yankees scored another victory over Detroit here yesterday, the score being 15 to 4.

Waite Hoyt won his eighth victory, as Lou Gehrig inserted two home runs into the records, running his total to 17 and taking the major league lead.

George Uhle was Gehrig's victim in successive innings, the first and the second.

CRESCENTS IN TIE WITH COGS FOR LOOP LEAD

By Reason of 7-1 Victory Over Hastings in Fixture at Eastern Village.

PLAY SMART BASEBALL.

Morrison On Mound For Winners Pitches Masterly Ball —Twelve Strikeouts.

Crescents are tied for first place with Cognawagas in the East Peterborough League as a result of their 7 to 1 victory over Hastings in a game played down east, while the Cogs were losing to Bethany.

It was a smartly played game, free of errors and other boots, but Crescents left no doubt of their superiority even on Hastings home pastures. Crescents got one in the first innings and from then on they were in absolute command of the situation.

Morrison went the whole route in the box for the winners, pitching masterly ball for his first appearance with Crescents. He struck out twelve of the sturdy Hastings sluggers and allowed them but five well scattered hits. He was steady at all times, and although he issued two walks, neither figured as important.

L. Scriver started on the mound for Hastings, but lacked some of the speed that he displayed against Bethany earlier in the week. Crescents nicked him for ten safe hits and in the last innings he gave place to Harrington, who finished the game in impressive style.

The whole Crescent outfit had a big share in the victory playing practically errorless ball behind the sterling pitching of Morrison. Heard had two hits for Crescents.

Larking kept up the sensational bat work that he has been indulging in all season, getting two hits in the game. M. McCarthy also had two safeties.

CHURCH TEAM LEADING LOOP

St. Andrews Defeat Clerks 21-19 in Campbellford Softball League Fixture.

HEAVY SLUGGING.

(Examiner Staff Correspondent.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 15. — Last night's game put the Churchmen into first place in the league for at least a week. The formidable aggregation of Counterhoppers went down to defeat by the small margin of two runs when the score at the end of the ninth innings stood at twenty-one to nineteen. Fred Ingram, St. Andrew's first baseman, proved a modern edition of the Mighty Casey in more ways than one. His name headed the batting order for the Presbyterians, and he started the ball rolling with a home run. The next time he came up he repeated the dose. In both cases the hit was to deep right field. His third attempt did not bring such results, but he made a safe hit and scored a run. In the fifth frame he came up again and knocked his third homer. In the sixth he came up again. The bases were full and the world was waiting with open mouths. "The mighty Casey was struck out." In other words, Fred Ingram fanned. He appeared twice more before the game ended. In the seventh he made a safe hit, and was left at first. In the ninth he hit again and brought in a run. Doug Runions, the Clerks' pitcher and second baseman got his share of the home run issue by hitting one in the seventh, and another in the eighth. His drives were, like Ingram's, to the left field.

Generally speaking, the game belonged to anyone till the very end. The Presbyterians drew first advantage when at the end of the first frame the score was three to two in their favor. At the end of the second it was five all. In the third St. Andrews got going a little stronger and took the lead by two runs, with the score nine to seven. Then they didn't count next time up, and the Clerks evened the score. Not till the fifth frame did the Counter-hoppers nose out a lead, and in the sixth the Churchmen got their merry-go-round running and ran up a count of six. In the seventh and eighth the Clerks held them to a tie score and when the ninth and final session began the Clerks were leading by one. Needing two to tie and three to win, the Presbyterians got the bit in their teeth and started after an eleventh hour victory. They got it by one run.

During the game, the Clerks had 55 men at bat and scored 32 safe hits. The St. Andrew's team had 59 men up with 27 hits.

The line-up:

St. Andrew's: J. Storie p; B. Reynolds c; F. Ingram 1b; G. Massie 2b; C. McArthurs 3b; H. Tinney ss; N. Reynolds cf; H. Dunk, rf; C. Irwin lf.

By innings:

St. Andrew's	324036003—21
Clerks	232250140—19

Umpires: Montgomery and Bush.

TORONTO CLUB SUFFERS FIFTH STRAIGHT LOSS

Leafs Drop Second Game To Keys in Game Halted By Rain in Fifth.

CANTRELL AGAIN WILD.

Royals Outhit Orioles 14-13, But Lose Out in Final Count 12-8.

READING JUNE 15.—(Canadian Press).—Reading defeated Toronto, 8-3, here yesterday afternoon in a game that was washed out by rain in the fifth. It was the Keys' second consecutive success over Manager Steve O'Neill's clan and their fifth straight win in the charge after the leading Red Wings. The defeat was the Leafs' fifth in a row.

Guy Cantrell was Skipper O'Neill's selection to oppose Nelson Greene, the southpaw, on the mound, but his hopes of having the former Oriole silence the Keystone bats were crushed as the Hinchman aggregation clicked off ten hits, including a double by Deacon Scott, Lena Styles' slashing three-bagger and "What A Man" Quellich's clout over the left wall in the first inning with two on base.

WIN SECOND GAME

JERSEY CITY, June 15.—(Canadian Press).—Rochester won the second game of the series here yesterday with the Jersey City Black Cats by a score of 3 to 2.

Tex Carleton opposed Lefty Shoffner, the Cats' ace twirler, and won his seventh victory of the season.

Ted Jourdan, Cats' first baseman, banged out a homer in the right field bleachers in the third inning.

OUTHIT ORIOLES 14-13

BALTIMORE, June 15.—(Canadian Press)— The Orioles gained a measure of revenge on the Montreal Royals by capturing the second game of the series 12 to 8 here yesterday.

The clash was a free-hitting affair, with the losers leading in this angle 14 to 13. Bool, the big Bird catcher, slapped the ball for a home run in two successive innings, while Mooers and Haines also walloped the sphere out of the lot.

Wertz and Buckalew started on the peak, but neither weathered the storm, the Royal heaver being chased in one-third of an inning when the flock staged a bombardment in the opening frame that netted nine runs.

NEWARK DROPS BISONS

NEWARK, June 15. —(Canadian Press). — Newark won the third game of the series from the Buffalo Bisons here yesterday, 5 to 4.

The bears clubbed Art Mills from the mound with eight hits in six innings, and collected two more from Lefty Williams.

Carl Fischer, on the mound for Newark, held the Herd to seven blows, one of which was a homer by Johnny Barnes, who relieved Pat Collins as catcher in the eighth innings.

Browns Win 7-6 Victory From Sox

BOSTON, June 15.— (C.P.)—Singles by McGowan and Manush and Scarritt's error enabled St. Louis to gain a ninth-inning victory over the Red Sox here to-day, 7 to 6.

After the fourth inning Crowder held the Sox to two hits and no runs. His best work was in the ninth, when he prevented the Sox from scoring after Williams doubled with none out.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Say, Mac, have you took a look at the Central Ontario League standing with the Petes sitting up there on top? Yes siree, the lads at present writing is leading the parade, which is higher than they ever climbed last season, and I for 1 can't see no reason why they shouldn't settle right down and stay there. They got as good stuff as any team in Mister Bob Elliott's loop, and they got more of it, and that should count in the long run. Right now Mister Swanston's talent numbers 3 pitchers, 2 backstops, 6 infielders and 6 outfielders, and they can all step in there and look at home, so that when the figures is all in about Labor Day the local lads oughta be looking back over their shoulders at the rest of the gang.

Sat. at the J. Stevenson Park our old friends from Belleville was guest victims, the Petes getting the verdict 4 to 3. The winning run was batted in by Umps Bill Skitch, of Cobourg, it is true, but Mister Bob Scott, the Belleville third sacker, should oughta be given credit for a assist for blocking traffic in the 9th frame. Mister Mills and other members of the visiting cast seemed to think there was no justice in the world, and Mister Mills indeed shook his head mournful like and opined that the league wouldn't last more'n 2 weeks with that kind of empiring. But Mister Mills' judgment, when he gets into that mood, ain't to be trusted, and I'll bet a nickel he was as cheery as a cricket down there at Deloro Wed. when he and his mates was giving Pexy Elliott a miserable p.m. Anyway the Petes woulda in all probability chased in the winning run anyhow. Our Mister Heckman twirled smart ball against the heavy hitting Nationals, who got mighty few good balls to swing at when hits woulda meant runs. And that is, brothers, is the heighth of good pitching, to have the stuff when you need it most.

Wed. the lads busted down to Oshawa, with the raindrops playing a merry tatoo on the roof of the old red chariot all the way, and they didn't look no chance for a ball game. However, the sprinkler was turned off as the Petes arrived and the game was on. Mister Lefty Macdonald, just back from good old Yale, was selected by Pilot Swanston to do the heaving, and his work was a triumph for higher education, even if the Motorists did get to him in the closing stages for a flock of hits. Trying to curve a wet and heavy ball ain't exactly a soft occupation for a dewy June evening, but Mister Macdonald stuck to his guns and finished on top. The Petes' war clubs was swinging lustily all through the piece, with Mister Rose and Mister Swanston sticking in 3 safe blows each just to show the young talent that the old boys ain't lost their batting eye yet. They was 4 home runs, 3 for us and 2 for them, three bounding past the outfielders, while Mister Jimmy Hall played safe with his by hitting it high over the left fielder"s head. Down on that Oshawa grounds a blow past the secondary defense is good for a round trip any time, which always adds to the uncertainty of any game at Alexander Park.

Anyway the Petes turned the trick, and as Mister Peeney Mills and his pals give Deloro a real smart lacing the same day, Mister Swanston's men is looking down at the rest for the moment anyway.

They's going to be plenty of smart ball before the pennant is copped, Mac, and the Petes is going to do a lot of it. That goes as it lays.

Well, old-timer, I'll leave you with that bright thought.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

It is hard to say when the fight game first started but apparently the idea that the spectator pays, and in more ways than one, has always gone along with it.

Away back in the time of the Old Roman Empire the fight fan was continually gyped out of his hard-earned money. When Androcles was put up against the lion from whose paw he had pulled a thorn, the fight that followed was a real modern put up job. As soon as the lion recognized "Thorn-puller" Androcles, he began to pull his punches and the avid spectators had to put up with the gyp.

Things are growing worse instead of better and the descendants of the fight fans who were gyped by the lion are still paying for the piper and are coming away from arenas yelling "the fight was a put up job."

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

Al Jolson in the all talking, all singing production "The Singing Fool" will be the attraction at the Capitol for four days next week, commencing Monday.

Depths of tragedy are sounded by Al Jolson in "The Singing Fool," all talking and singing production which opens a four day engagement at the Capitol Monday.

In it he is revealed as one of the most powerful emotional actors on the screen. His creation is in decided contrast to his work as a comedian, though his former work has partially demonstrated the fervor of which he is capable.

In "The Singing Fool" he is first seen as a carefree, wise-cracking entertainer—a singing waiter in a New York cabaret—but eventually there comes to him a weight of sorrow and mental stress that entirely changes the course of his life. Everything which he has attained through years of striving is suddenly stripped from him, and the way he meets and copes with his misfortunes makes a story of absorbing heart interest.

Married to a revue star who falls in love with another man, the singing waiter suffers torments, which include the death of the child to whom he is passionately devoted. "The Singing Fool" runs the whole scale of human emotions.

Jolson's amazing gift for recognizing those who have, like himself, the ability to transmit their feelings to others, was demonstrated in his choice of adorable three-year-old Davey Lee to play the part of Sonny Boy in "The Singing Fool." The child was chosen from among nearly two hundred applicants.

Betty Bronson and Josephine Dunn are seen in the principal feminine roles, and other well-known players in the cast are Reed Howes, Arthur Housman, David Lee, Robert Emmett O'Connor and Edward Martindel. C. Graham Baker made the adaptation from a Leslie S. Barrows story. The production was directed by Lloyd Bacon.

RIGHT HAND POWER ASSERTS ITSELF IN EVERLAPPING GRIP.

The reversible overlapping grip is useful for putting and useful for driving also if one is desirous of getting more power from the right hand. In putting, the right hand must take possession of the club and it must furnish nine-tenths of the power otherwise, the hands would be inclined to fight each other.

Those who feel that they are not getting enough of a grip on the club adopt this grip. It means overlapping with the left forefinger instead of with the right little finger. This places all of the right hand fingers on the shaft of the club and is an insurance that it will furnish considerably more power than otherwise.

JACK GUEST'S STOCK BOOMS

Rivalry of Argonaut Clubmates Focuses Unprecedented Interest on Sculling Classic.

AT HENLEY REGATTA.

By T. J. WHEELER

(Special to The Examiner, Copyright)

TORONTO, June 15.—Will Jack Guest displace his clubmate, Joe Wright, Jr., from the sculling throne of the world? Or will Bobby Pearce, the giant Australian ,take the cake this year at the Royal English Henley?

Wright is now on the ocean, bound for that most historic of courses, Henley-on-Thames, scene of the Diamond Sculls classic, to be held early in July. Guest, his teammate from the Argonaut Club, Toronto, has been there since winter and has been working out daily for the last two months. No definite word has been received lately from the Antipodes as to Bobby Pearce but in all likelihood the big Anzac will be on hand.

What a classic race it will be! Lee, the Englishman, is no mean threat himself, and several noted coaches have picked him to be in the finals.

Wright fears only one man, Pearce. He has always beaten Guest—easily. But this year it may be different. One of England's greatest coaches has picked Guest and Lee as the final choices, with the former having the edge.

There are those here who feel that Guest can offset any advantage Wright may have in weight and strength by smooth sculling and by being used to the conditions and the water in England. In any event it is doubtful if two scullers as good as Wright and Guest have ever been produced by the same club in the same years in Canada, at least. If Guest has improved this year, certainly Wright has not fallen behind as witness his easy triumph over Kenneth Myers, the Philadelphia fireman, here a few days before he left for England.

The two Canadian entrants in the big race have had interesting rowing careers. They were both born on the same day. Young Wright became acquainted with racing shells long before Guest .

In fact he was only about six when he first started to eye racing shells carefully and decided whether he would stroke an eight or row single. His father was then coach of the Argonaut rowing club when it was situated on the Toronto bay.

When he was fifteen he started to row in Argonaut eights under the direction of his father and stroked several winning crews. Joe Wright, Sr., was coach of the University of Pennsylvania then.

In his first years of racing in a single Jack Guest won the junior Canadian championship and the association singles. Wright won the open singles.

It is no secret that the Diamonds this year is to Guest a chance at vindication, aLst year Wright, despite the protests of Guest's backers, was given the call over the latter for the right to represent Canada in the Olympic singles.

The overworked Wright was beaten.

Upon returning to Canada both scullers began to prepare for this year's diamond sculls race. During the winter they trained on the machines. Early this year Jack Guest sailed for England, bought a new shell to suit his weight and took up training on the Henley course under the best coaches in England.

He has been carefully training ever since. Rowing twice a day, improving his style, getting off the start fast, learning the tricks of the course, spotting landmarks and generally preparing for the big race.

Wright was unable to get in much training here during March and April on account of rough water but since then made wonderful progress.

Excitement Becomes Tense As Runners Enter On Semi-final Lap.

GRANVILLE SIXTH.

Guisto Umek Has No Hope of Finishing Other Than in Third Place.

SAN JUAN, CAPISTRANO, Calif., June 15 (C.P.).—The neck and neck race between Johnny Salo, the persistent policeman from Passaic, N.J., and Pete Gavuzzi, Italian from England, in the Pyle bunion derby, promised real excitement in to-day's semi-final 60 mile lap which ends at Huntingdon Park a suburb of Los Angeles.

Although yesterday's jaunt was won by Harry Abramowitz, of New York, who ran the 70-mile distance from San Diego in ten hours, 18 minutes and 20 seconds; Salo and Gavuzzi are still holding the limelight, as the two leaders in elapsed time in the long trek from New York to Wrigley Park, Los Angeles. The race ends tomorrow evening.

Salo yesterday slashed ten minutes of Gavuzzi's total time, finishing in a tie for second place with Giusto Umek of Italy, third in the elapsed time. Umek, however, is still a number of hours behind and has no hope of finishing other than third. At today's start Gavuzzi's lead over Salo was 9 minutes and 56 seconds.

NEW LAURELS FOR YOUTHFUL MISSES

Dark Horses Spring From Junior Feminine Ranks of Canadian Athletes.

By John Harrison

(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, June 15.—Dark horses among the Dominion's fair athletes are giving the grizzled wiseacres of the track meets much material for deep thought and serious discussion.

Beautiful young newcomers to the cinder paths amazed the expert onlookers at a recent Varsity stadium meet by winning the open events with surprising consistency. It is true that some of the celebrated senior of Olympic and international fame were absent from the entry lists but the times and performances of the juniors were sufficiently impressive to cause a fluetter in feminine athletic circles. In Elinor Leslie, Margaret Coles and Grace Rainey, the Canadian Ladies A. C. presented a trio of promising stars who show every sign of developing into sprint stars of the near future.

Hailed as the advance of another crop of Canadian champions which can be expected to garner high honors in international competition, the girls who have just sprung into prominence give rise to the question of why Canada is such a successful training ground for charming record-breakers like Ethel Catherwood, Myrtle Cook, "Bobby" Rosenfeld, Gladys Robinson, Margaret McBride, Rosa Grosse and scores of others.

Europeans are inclined to believe that it is because, in the rigourous climate of the north, a vigorous physique is a necessity if a young Canadian, no matter how dainty, is to overcome the hardships of our pioneer life. But Europeans are not always correct.

A distinguished stop-watch watcher with a gift for important words says the situation has been created by conditions which are largely psychological.

"Women," he comments, "have just broken down another barrier and forced their way into organized athletic competition. The days when they played the wall flower at displays of strength and skill and gone like the bustle and cotton stockings. Because this particular field was so long considered so completely masculine, they invade it with great zest and enthusiasm.

"Canadian girls are blessed with unusual determination and powers of concentration of the first degree. They are sturdy and when they put their minds on a matter, they usually get results. Hence a flock of new records. Added to that, there was the spectacular showing made by Canadian girls at the last Olympics, which made a romantic appeal to the imagination just as the victories of Percy Williams did to the boy. That was a great stimulus and made another generation of feminine champions a practical certainty."

Having spoken, the prophet made a metaphorical memo in his hat to that effect and is now sitting back waiting for his turn to say I-told-you-so.

All over Canada there is an army of young feminine athletic stars springing up to carry on the record-breaking careers of girls like Ethel Catherwood, Myrtle Cook, "Bobby" Rosenfeld, Gladys Robinson and score of others who have dominated the world in all classes of sport. Here are shown three who jumped into the spotlight at a recent track meet at Toronto. Left to right; Elinor Leslie, Margaret Coles and Grace Rainey. But, sensational as these misses may develop, they will have a tough row to hoe between now and the next Olympiad, at Los Angeles. Reports from all over Canada are that crop of coming stars is unusually heavy. Given better tracks and the right coaching, they will probably make the standing records look like last year's straw hat.

GIRL CHAMPIONS "ALIKE AS TWO PEAS"

By JIMMIE McPHIE

(Special to The Examiner, Copyright)

TORONTO, Ont, June 15.—Almost alike as two peas, Dorothy Widmer, 17-year-old Seattle swimming flash, and Ethel Catherwood, the world's greatest girl jumper, provide a remarkable case of resemblance.

Dorothy Widmer arrived in Toronto this week to start training for the woman's 10-mile swim marathon at the Canadian National Exhibition this year and sport followers were instantly struck by the likeness she bore to Miss Catherwood, the statuesque beauty who came out of the Canadian West to win world honors for Canada at the last Olympiad.

There is one distinction between the two, however, Miss Widmer has red hair.

The newcomer has not yet met her more famous "twin" since for the past few days Miss Catherwood has been confined to hospital nursing a torn ligament, sustainted when training for this season's meets. It may be that she will have to forego athletic competition entirely this year.

Miss Widmer won the right to enter for world swimming honors as a result of her victory in the Post-Intelligencer swim at Seattle.

This is the first time Miss Widmer has entered a race of ten miles but this does not dishearten her, for she is used to swimming in the cold waters of the ocean sounds at Seattle.

"I think this year's race will be more of a test of speed than it has been in past years" said Miss Widmer. "Other years the races were a test of endurance, but so much study has been made of swimming lately that it is now comparatively easy and more concentration can be made on speed."

RUM RUNNING FAILS TO PAY.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., June 15.—Liquor running from this snug harbor to Buffalo's back door across an 18 mile stretch of Lake Erie with its hazards of squall, coastguards and hi-jackers does not pay dividends, members of the rum running syndicate here have found. So they have transferred their operations to the "river racket," the dumping of liquor and ale into Buffalo after quick sprints across the Niagara river. There is no longer a member of the provincial police stationed here.

We possess more ancient copies of the New Testament that we do of the Old Testament.

ELECTORAL REFORM PROMISED BY LABOR

Cabinet Minister Says Party Will Deal With Question—Announces Changes.

KILSYTH, Scotland, June 15. (C. P.) — A forecast of the Labor Government's response to the Liberal demand for reform in the electoral laws was made by the Under-Secretary for Scotland, Hon. Tom Johnson, speaking here to-day. Labor would deal with electoral reform in a way over which Mr. Lloyd George would not be too happy, he declared. They would abolish university representation and also plural voting, which permits persons filling certain residential and business qualifications to vote in two constituencies, and would insist on limitation of expenses. The government would also put in requirements of detailed accounts, of the source and expenditure of campaign funds, as intimated by Mr. MacDonald during the campaign, in order to preclude any party spending $4,000,000 on any election, Mr. Johnson asserted. This last was a reference to the amount the Liberals are believed to have expended.

BOWLING TOURNEY.

The men's bowling club held their usual Friday night tournament last evening, with twelve rinks playing. The prizes were fancy cups and saucers. Fitzpatrick's rink won the first prize with three wins and a plus of 20; F. Wise was in second place with three wins and a plus of 7, while Coleman's rink was third with three wins and a plus of 5; G. Johnson's rink won fourth place with two wins and a plus of 14.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South, with but three small cards of the take-out suit (Spades) prefers to show the two-suited character of his hand by bidding two Diamonds rather than bid two Spades [illegible]

ing Spades the next round if rebid. If his partner is unable to support Diamond or to rebid Spades, then South assumes there is no game in the hand. North, with strong Diamond support, allows the bid to stand.

Contract: North would be justified with his holding in bidding five Diamonds, following South's showing of a two-suited hand, but as the real top strength of South's hand is yet to be determined, North bids four Diamonds only, leaving to his partner to decide as to the bid of five. South's holding, with but one losing Club, unusual strength in hearts and with his partner bidding spades, justifies his bid for game.

The Play

West opens the Ace of Clubs followed by a small Club, which South trumps. South puts Dummy in with the King of Hearts for a trump finesse. East comes up with the Ace on Dummy's 10 of Diamonds and leads a high Club, which South trumps. Dummy is put in with a Spade for another trump lead and East's Queen falling, Declarer takes the remaining tricks, making five odd at Diamonds.

PAVILION OPENS AT TRENT RIVER

Varsity Entertainers To Provide Music at Coral Gables Casino.

NOVELTY BAND.

TRENT RIVER, June 14.—(Examiner Correspondence). — Coral Gables Casino opened for dancing on Monday night for the season, by the manager, Harold E. Burgess, of Toronto, with music supplied by the Varsity Entertainers of Toronto.

This band of musicians is a group of varsity and ex-varsity students who formed their musical aggregation while at the University of Toronto. This orchestra played at Trent River last year after the completion of a European tour. During the winter they played for most of the outstanding Varsity dances as well as many popular outside functions.

This season they are introducing a a new style of dance music which is becoming very popular at the present time. This particular type of music tends to have the blatant discord of old fashioned jazz, and emphasizes smooth rythmodic melody. They hope it will become as popular here as it has in Toronto.

The personnel of the band is as follows:

Jack Griffin, piano and musical director; Albert J. Mueller, drums and manager; Leslie Clegg, trumpet and saxophone; Jack Maxwell, banjo and guitar; Bob O'Hara, saxaphones. The sixth member, Jack Bluis, who plays sousaphone and trombone will arrive from Toronto on June 22.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

NERVOUSNESS IN PUPILS.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—In view of the fact that some of the most promising pupils in music suffer from nervousness at examinations ,the accompanying extract from an article on Beethoven in the June "Etude" may prove timely!

Organist, Ashburnham.

The article is by J. F. Porte on "How to Play Beethoven," concerning mere correctness of notes, which is the goal of academic teaching and combined with mere velocity the highest achievement of many concert pianists, Beethoven's pupil, Ries, relates:

"When I made a mistake in a passage or struck wrong notes or leaps which he often wanted specially emphasized, he seldom said anything; but if my fault was in expression, or a crescendo, or some such device, or in the character of the piece, he became angry, because, as he said, the former was accidental, while the latter showed a lack of knowledge, feeling ,or attention. He himself very often made mistakes of the former kind, even when playing in public."

ELEPHANT BLOCKS AUTOISTS

Unusual hazards for autoists have been reported by M. M. Abadie and Vairat, the two Frenchmen who have been making a motor trip from Saigon, French Indo China, to Paris. It took them nearly two months to cross the steep and dangerous Tenasserim hills, and between Moulmein and Pegu they had to use rafts to convey their car over 18 streams. At one point an elephant blocked the road and refused to move. They shot it, but it dropped in their pathway. Unable to remove the carcass, they had to clear the jungle and make a detour. Tigers were at times so numerous that the men kept watch by turns.

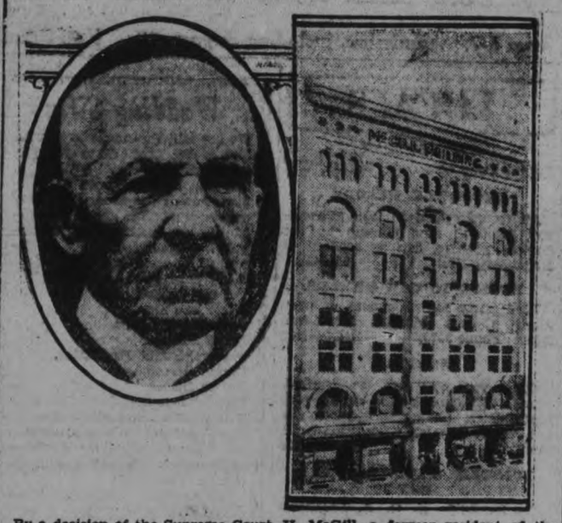
BUILDING IN WASHINGTON



By a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, the town of Bowmanville, Ontario, retains its legacy of real estate in the District of Columbia, willed by the late James H. McGill, a former resident of the town. The photographs show the late Mr. McGill, and the McGill Building at 908-14 G. St., Washington, D.C., which is at present valued at nearly $300,000.

REGISTER

Of Social and Business Meetings

The Register is published to enable organizations planning major meetings to know in advance, and reserve, evenings on which there are no rival attractions. It will pay Peterborough organizations to consult the Register prior to settling dates. Responsible officers should mail notices well in advance.

Before deciding a date for any event, consult the Register to ascertain that there is no conflict with other events—and then send in YOUR date quickly so that other organizations will not use it.

WEDDING BELLS

BARTON—DAVIDSON.

A quiet wedding took place yesterday at four o'clock in the afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnston, of 145 Sherbrooke Street, when Agnes, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Davidson of Aberdeen, Scotland, became the bride of Mr. James Barton, youngest son of Mrs. Barton and the late Mr. John Barton of Kilsyth, Scotland. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. J. H. Dudgeon of St. James' United Church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. D. Johnston, wore a white georgette dress with veil and orange blossom wreath and white shoes and hose. Her only ornament was the gift of the bridegroom, a pendant, and she carried a bouquet of Butterfly roses and lily of the valley.

Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vass, the latter wearing a dress of royal blue canton crepe with sand hose and shoes.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding repast was served to the wedding party and guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston.

Later in the evening, Mr. Barton and his bride left on their honeymoon trip, the bride travelling in a beige coat trimmed with fur, with hat, shoes and hose to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton, who received a large number of handsome gifts, will live in Peterborough.

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

REBUILDING SERVICE STATION

The Conger Coal company with offices on Charlotte street is practically re-building their headquarters there. A sum of $10,000 is to be spent in constructing a modern service station that will be completed by Old Home Week. The whole front of the building is to be torn down and the office moved back 14 feet, as part of the work.

STORE FRONT REPAINTED

James McDonald's store on Charlotte street is one of the more recent ones in the city to contribute to the painters' harvest, in preparation for Old Home Week. The front of the shop has been repainted and the sign touched up.

CLASS WORK OVER

There is nothing to worry about now but examinations for the Peterborough Collegiate student, as the class work in the school finished up yesterday and the tests start on Monday. The students always find some relief in the old saying:—"It is always darkest before dawn" or "Every cloud has a silver lining."

MOTOR OIL FOR PRIZES

As a contribution to the prize list for the water sports on the river, McColl Bros., Ltd., Toronto, have donated six one-gallon cans of Red Indian motor oil, medium heavy, as prizes in the outboard motor races.

17 YEARS ON POLICE FORCE.

Inspetcor James Reid completes his seventeenth year as a member of the Peterborough Police Force at six o'clock this evening. Twenty-three years ago Inspector Reid joined the Fyfeshire Constabulary of Scotland. Several years later he came to Canada and served with the police in Brantford and Hamilton, and in 1912 he came here.

ONE FIRE CALL.

A pile of paper in the furnace room of The Examiner caught fire last night at 10.52 o'clock, and caused one sprinkler head to go into action, thereby automatically summoning the Fire Department. The danger was soon removed.

COMMEMORATE ANNIVERSARY

Many of the merchants in town responded to the occasion to-day by placing their flags out in commemoration of the tenth anniversary of the first trans-Atlantic flight.

REHEARSAL CALLED.

The Peterborough Symphony Orchestra, which will take a prominent part in Old Home Week activities, is holding a special rehearsal in the Conservatory of Music Hall to-morrow afternoon at 4.15.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOSEPH MARK

Word was received here last night of the death in Lindsay last evening of Mrs. Joseph Mark of that town, after a long illness. The deceased, who was well known here, was a sister of Mrs. William Henry and Mrs. James Shea of Peterborough, who have gone to Lindsay for the funeral.

HUGH BLAIR WILSON.

The death occurred yesterday at 28 New Chamberlain Street, of Hugh Blair Wilson, two-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson.

The funeral took place this afternoon from the family residence at 3.30. Rev. J. L. Harton, of Park Street Baptist Church, conducted the service. Interment in Little Lake Cemetery.

ANNUAL PICNIC.

Pupils of Prince of Wales School Hold Annual Outing.

The pupils of the Prince of Wales School held their annual picnic at the school grounds yesterday afternoon. There were hundreds of children present with their parents and friends, all enjoying the perfect afternoon when lemonade flowed freely while ice cream and soft drinks were disposed of at cost. Cakes and sandwiches in bountiful quantities helped make it truly a children's day in all respects.

The success of the afternoon is due to the hard work of the Home and School Association, the members of which gave freely of their time and worked hard with untiring efforts to make the day one of the most enjoyable that can be remembered.

Part of the afternoon was spent in games and athletic events, the winners of which were:—

Boys, 10 and 11 Years
1, Keith Hughes; 2, Harold Wells; 3, Grant Smedmor.

Girls 10 and 11 Years
1, Isabel Middleton; 2, Jessie Sholey; 3, Ruth Kingston.

GENERAL BOOTH PASSES AWAY

SALO WINS DERBY BY SLIM LEAD

SEVEN KILLED IN CRASH

GREAT SALVATIONIST IS DEAD

General Bramwell Booth, former Commander-in-Chief of the Salvation Army, who died very suddenly before a doctor could arrive last night. He is here seen with his two grandchildren.

Winner Of $25,000 Prize

Crosses Line Two Minutes and Forty-seven Seconds Ahead of Gavuzzi.

GRANVILLE SIXTH.

Ten Thousand Spectators Watch Pyle Bunioneers Finish Final Lap.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 17. — (Canadian Press).—Bronzed of skin, haggard of face and worn to the point of exhaustion, Johnny Salo, 36, has conquered 3,635 miles of sun-baked deserts and mountains to win C. C. Pyle's trans-continental foot race and the $25,000 first prize.

By a margin of but two minutes and 47 seconds, Salo triumphed in the gruelling grind from New York City. That slim lead he held over Pete Gavuzzi, 115-pound British born Italian, in the total elapsed time standings with the trans-continental event came to an end here last night. Under the schedule, Gavuzzi is entitled to a prize of $10,000.

It was in the final hours of the lengthy race that Salo, a Passaic, N.J., policeman, blazed his trail to victory. He came from behind to snatch the winner's laurels from the wiry Gavuzzi in the last 26 miles 385 yards of the Derby. The final lap was in the form of a martthon at Wrigley Field. A crowd of 10,000 watched the event. Salo was first to finish the marathon, coming in nine laps ahead of Gavuzzi.

Record Time.

Salo crossed the continent in 525 hours 57 minutes and 20 seconds. Gavuzzi did it in 526 hours and 7 seconds.

More than twelve hours behind Gavuzzi, but in position for the place money—$6,000—came Giusto Umek, of Italy, who plodded from coast to coast in 538 hours 46 minutes and 52 seconds.

Sam Richman, of New York, was next, to take the $3,500 prize for fourth place with a total of 571 hours 29 minutes and 29 seconds.

A college youth, Paul Simpson, of Burlington, N.C., registered 588 hours 30 minutes and 53 seconds to garner fifth place and $2,500. Sixth in line was Phillip Granville, from Hamilton, Ont., who walked and loped an aggregate of 618 hours 54 minutes and 23 seconds for $2,250 of the "pot of gold" at the Trans-continental Rainbow's end.

Robin Builds Her Nest On Guy Wire Of Building

The expression "Go to sleep on a clothes line" is quite well illustrated by a robin that has built her nest on a guy wire at the rear of T. J. Best's home, 569 Gilmour street. The nest is out in the open up near the eaves, with only the wire for support.

Another bird has picked an original place for its nest in placing it in the antlers of a moose head on the verandah of Douglas Grant, Monaghan road.

FRANCE PLANS NEW SCHEME OF INSURANCE

To Cover Sickness, Old Age, Incapacity, Maternity Benefits and Unemployment.

FOLLOWS BRITISH PLAN.

Various Benefits Follow Definite Scales, Comes Into Effect in February.

PARIS, June 17. — (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—France is preparing to bring into force a wide scheme of social insurance. It will cover sickness, old age, incapacity, maternity benefits and to a certain extent unemployment. Similar to the British unemployment insurance, it will be based on contribution by the State, by the employer and the employed. Provision for the scheme was made by the law for March 14, 1928, but it will not come into force till February next.

The scheme has two sides, one compulsory, the other valuntary. Under the compulsory section wage earners from 16 to 60 years of age who do not earn more than 15,000 francs if they have no children, nor more than 18,000 francs if they have one child or 20,000 francs if they have two children and so on, according to the number of children.

Applies to Three Classes.

The volnutary section applies to there classes of workers: (1) farm

TRANS-CHANNEL AIRPLANE DROPS OFF DUNGENESS

Four Passegers, Pilot and Mechanic Are Injured in Crash.

SEVEN ARE DEAD.

Ontario Man Is Believed To Be One of those Who Are Dead.

LONDON, June 17. (C.P.)—The crash of an Imperial Airways airliner, off Dungeness, England, brought death to seven persons, one of them believed to be "Mr. Smith," of Lancaster, Ontario. Three of the victims were women.

Of the dead ,two bodies were recovered while five were still missing.

Among the known dead was a Mrs. Ickerson, a relative of Mr. and Mrs. Fleming, two of the survivors.

The body of a man also was recovered and taken to Dungeness where his identification had not been determined late today. There was a possibility that it was the body of a Mr. Maester, thought to be a United States business man.

Those missing and believed dead, were Mr. Malcolm, Mr. Smith of 30, Craven Hill, Lancaster, Ont., Mme. Bossiger, Miss Roberts and Mrs. Karaki.

The following rescued were suffering from shock: Mr. and Mrs. Fleming, Miss M. Smith, Homer W. Tatham, Pilot Brailli and Mechanic Barnett, Flight engineer.

FOLKESTONE, England, June 17 (C.P.).—Two bodies were stated here to-day to have been recovered from the Imperial Airways airplane City of Pretoria, which came down in the Channel this morning. The bodies were thought to be in the cabin of the submerged plane.

A chahnel trawler had grappled the plane, of which the cabin was under water. The machine was a land plane and had no pontoons or floats.

Robins Gallantly Defend Nest From Marauders

Two robins who have a nest on Charlotte street west, have for more than a week been compelled to defend their rights day and night from marauders. One robin is forced to engage a red squirrel for hours at a time while its mate is keeping off a blackbird that is just as insistent. The two attackers seem to work together by agreement, but so far the two brave defenders seem quite capable of taking care of their brood.

ARMY TRADITION FOLLOWED IN BOOTH'S DEATH

General Is Not Dead; He Has Passed Into Glory, Official Says.

FLAG IS NOT LOWERED.

Evidences of Deep Sense of Personal Loss Among Salvationists.

HADLEY WOOD, Eng., June 17 (C.P.). — Covered with a Salvation Army banner, the body of General William Bramwell Booth lay in his suburban house here to-day. His passing last night was unrecognized by any outward sign of mourning either officially or among the rank and file of the Salvation Army which he headed so long until deposed recently.

Not a flag was lowered at the International headquarters in Queen Victoria street. "We keep our standard flying high," said a high official. For General Booth is not dead—He has passed to glory."

Deep Personal Loss

But though the Army does not admit loss there was in evidence everywhere among the Salvations a deep sense of personal loss that they felt at the 72-year-old General's death, so quietly and suddenly last night after final months of life which had been filled with the agony of ill health, distasteful conflict, and defeat.

The General spoke to his family yesterday afternoon before he lapsed

PRESIDENT IS IMPRESSED BY BIG CONVENTION

Bigness of Men in Rotary Strikes W. R. Morris at Dallas.

CAMP REPORT.

Skookum Will Open For Season On July 8, F. L. Roy Announces.

Rotary's bigness and the possibilities the movement offers for the fostering of international peace were described to the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day by President W. R. Morris as his principal impressions of the recent convention of Rotary International at Dallas, Texas, which he attended as representative of the local Rotarians.

Reporting to his fellow members on the principal features of the convention, President Morris said that the annual convention of Rotary International had become like a three-ringed circus, so that it was impossible for one delegate to see all that was going on. The registrations at Dallas amounted to 9,800, he said.

The speaker briefly sketched the trip of the delegates of the 27th and 28th districts to the convention, stressed the fellowships renewed en route, and referred to the warmth of the welcome received. No fewer than 4,500 motor cars were at the service of Rotary delegates during the week. President Morris went over the various items on the agenda of the convention, especially referring to the discussion that took place over two resolutions brought forward by British delegates, the first, that the Rotary slogan, "He profits most who serves best," should be dropped, and the second, that the assessment made by Rotary International upon the clubs be reduced to $400 a year per member. Both of these resolutions were lost, but they provided a most interesting and profitable discussion.

Reviewing his impressions of the convention, the speaker said that the bigness of the men in Rotary and the desire of Rotarians of all nationalities to strive for world peace were the things that most stirred him in connection with the Dallas gathering.

Energetic Life Is Ended

General Booth, Former Head of Salvation Army, Dies Suddenly.

CALL FOR DOCTOR TOO LATE

Only One Daughter Is Absent From Bedside When End Comes.

HADLEY WOOD, England, June 17 (Canadian Press). — General Bramwell Booth, former head of the Salvation Army, died at his home here last night.

The end came to the militant religious leader, who had celebrated his 73rd birthday on March 8, shortly after 9 o'clock last night. His wife and family, with the exception of his daughter, Commissioner Mary, who had shared largely in his work with the Army and supported him when he fought to maintain control of it, were with him.

End Came Suddenly

The end of the long illness that began last fall came suddenly and the death of the General was a shock to everyone. Doctor Milne, who had been attending the General found him in very much the same condition as he had been in for weeks past when he saw him Saturday night. There was no sign of an imminent relapse.

Dr. Jonh Weir visited him yesterday morning and saw there had been a turn for the worse. He summoned Dr. Milne for consultation and while they agreed the condition of the patient was grave, they did not expect a sudden collapse.

Dr. Milne returned home. Last night a telephone call from the nurse attending the general caused him to rush back to the patient.

When he reached the bedside a few minutes after 9 o'clock the General had already passed peacefully away.

Father of World's Poor

The nature and extent of his life's work were tersely described by characterizations of General William Bramwell Booth

He had been called "Father of the Word's Poor"; "Patriarch of the Slums", and "Bishop of the Church of the Poor." As commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army he was all of these.

General Booth devoted his life to strengthening and extending the organization founded to promulgate the teaching of religion among persons not reached by the churches and to give to men and women who had failed a new start in life.

He inherited command of the Salvation Army from his father, the late General William Booth, its founder, whose chief lieutenant he had been for many years. As commander-in-chief he became the guiding director and administrator of an organization whose annual revenue has been estimated at $40,000,000.

There came under his control the conduct of 1,500 social institutions, including industrial homes, open-air farms for children, men's hotels, day schools and soldiers' hotels. Additional activities of the Salvation Army under his direction included the conduct of a bank, an insurance company and an immigration company.

The World War offered opportunity for new activities by the Salvation Army and its members did their work so well that in the end the army had been raised from the status of a poor man's charity to a powerful international organization.

General Booth was instrumental in sending the Salvation Army workers into every camp and rest station behind the front and in the countries of the billigerent nations with doughnuts and cigarettes for the soldiers. Because of his organization's heroic work it is said that few persons have been the recipients of as much gratitude as was bestowed on General Booth during and after the war.

Born In 1856

Born in Halifax, England, March 8, 1856, he was known generally as Bramwell Booth to distinguish him from his father during the latter's lifetime. He received a severe training from his parents for his life work. Appointed chief of staff in 1880, he served in that capacity under his father until the latter's death in 1912. By his father's will he was appointed commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army.

In 1880 General Booth married Miss Eleanor Soper. They had two sons and five daughters. Mrs. Booth became leader of Women's Social Work of the Salvation Army and in 1920 was raised to a magistracy by the British government.

Visited America in 1912

When General Bramwell Booth visited the United States in 1912 after he became commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, he arranged a meeting with his brother, declaring "we ought not to keep alive ancient grudges or differences." No

TWO YOUNG PEOPLE ARE INJURED WHEN FOUR AUTOMOBILES CRASH

Taxi Drivers Are Charged With Reckless Driving As Result of Accident.

CARS WERE RACING.

Three Automobiles Are Badly Smashed When They All Pile Up.

Four cars carrying fifteen persons collided and piled up together in a mass of twisted metal on the Chemong road at 12.30 (standard time) Sunday morning. Luckily nearly all the passenger escaped with only minor injuries but two, Dorothy Barnnecotte, 8 Argyll street, Toronto, and Fred Rumohr, 119 Hunter street, were rushed to the hospital suffering serious head injuries.

Two young men, Raymond Stinson, 576 Harvey street, and Reuben Colley, 624 Union street, who were driving taxis of J. S. Fontaine, were arrested by Highway Traffic Officer Hinchcliffe and appeared in Police Court this morning charged with reckless driving. They were speeding along at terrific rate—racing, police allege.

Occurred on Top of Hill

The collisions occurred about three and a half miles out of the city on a hill. Stinson and Colley driving to the city, were racing side by side going up the hill at nearly fifty miles an hour, police state. Just at the crest of the hill they overtook a small car driven by Blake Collins, 278 Thomas street, going in the same direction. Almost at the same moment another car came into view coming toward them and being driven by Arthur Jobe.

Instantly things began to happen, and when it was over three cars were wrecked almost beyond repair, two persons were rushed to hospital and several others required first aid from Dr. W. S. Fitzpatrick. All were shaken and unnerved by the ordeal.

Stinson driving on the right side of the road with Colley racing along neck-and-neck on the left side, according to police, seeing the way blocked by two cars ahead, was the first to make a move. He tried to avert the collision. He swung out to the left and across the road, hitting the small car of Jobe's, coming toward him, head-on. The heavy car of Stinson's completely turned Jobe's around. Both were badly wrecked by this first impact.

Colley took the opposite direction, swinging out to the right and he struck the small car being driven by Blake Collins. Colley's car hit Collin's, then crossed the road and rammed into the two-piled up cars of Stinson and Jobe. This last blow completed the wreckage of all three of these cars.

Suffers Least Damage.

The car of Blake Collins in which Vera Veloise was a passenger, escaped with the least damage and was able to limp off under its own power. Neither of its passengers were injured.

Riding in the car driven by Stinson was Fred Rumohr and Lou Marsh, both of 119 Hunter street. Rumohr and Marsh were injured, the former being conveyed to hospital and the latter was treated by Dr.

Graf Zeppelin Flight Postponed Until 1930

BERLIN, June 17 .(C.P.) — A special despatch to the Telegraphen Union from Friedrichshaven to-day said that the transatlantic flight to America of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin had been postponed until 1930.

The Graf Zeppelin's last attempt to fly to America ended on May 17 when crippled motors forced her to turn back over Spain.

LARGE CROWD VIEWS FOUNTAIN

Recent Addition To Waterworks Department Watched By Hundreds.

FIRST IN CANADA.

The spectacle of an illuminated fountain in the park at the filtration plant on the Lakefield road for the past week has been attracting the attention and the admiration of all who drive past there after dark.

This fountain is the first of its kind in Canada and is made by the Canadian General Electric Company. While such illuminated fountains are common in the States, Peterborough has the honor of installing the initial one in the Dominion.

The Peterborough Utilities Commission for some time had the idea that a fountain should be installed in the park. This was crystallized into a fact at a meeting of the body this spring. The work of erecting the fountain was under the guidance of the staff.

35 Feet in Diameter

The basin of the fountain is thirty feet in diameter with a series of jets containing five sprays each which forms the outside curtain of water. There is also a central spray which is caused by a nozle, and throws the water to a height of thirty-five feet.

The miniature Niagara, as colorful in its nature as the falls, is made beautiful by seven under-water electric projectors operated by flashers and illuminating the water with colors of red, green, amber and many combinations of these.

The erection of the fountain entailed a great deal of work such as piping the water and bringing the electricity to the projectors by underground cables. A month ago the men began installing it and had the work completed in approximately two weeks' time.

The Utilities Commission give a hearty invitation for motorists to drive through the park or to stop when they are going by and watch the display.

FIREMEN ARE INJURED.

TORONTO, Ont., June 17. (C.P.)—Several firemen were injured and $20,000 damage was done in a blaze which lasted for three hours in a downtown store here on Saturday night. Fireman Robert Doran sustained a severe shaking up when he fell 20 feet to the ground from a second story window.

BIG CANAL AND LOCK PROJECT IS PLANNED FOR ST. LAWRENCE

Canadian and United States Banking Houses Are Backing Plan.

OTTAWA PAPER ANNOUNCES.

Henry Timmins Is In Capital To-day Conversing With Cabinet Ministers.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 17 (Canadian Press). — The Ottawa Citizen to-day carries the following item in its news columns:

"Predicted entirely on power revenues, on behalf of a group of Canadian and United States banking houses and industrial concerns, plans have been prepared for an ambitious canal and lock project for the Ontario and Quebec sides of the St. Lawrence River. Under the proposal, five locks would replace the present twenty-two locks, and the company would give the waterways to Canada without any charge or expense and free from any bonded indebtedness.

In Ottawa To-day.

"Tentative proposals for the company which may be incomporated by letters patent under the name of the 'St. Lawrence Waterways and Power Company' have been made to Hon. J. C. Elliott, Minister of Public Works, by Henry Timmins, the well-known financier of Montreal. Mr. Timmins is in Ottawa and will wait on Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, this week.

"The proposed canal is in three sections, two in Ontario and one in Quebec. The first section would be an open-mouthed waterway on the north-west side of the St. Lawrence River from a point near Cardinal to a point near Morrisburg, with a lock at the lower end. At no place between the two ends would any part of the present St. Lawrence River

CALGARY MAN RECALLS SCHOOL DAYS OF YORE

John Fobson Will Be Here if Oil Wells Don't Spout

John Fobson, of Calgary, now in the brokerage business, among other things, in his letter of acceptance says: ""Two of my recollections from high school days in Peterborough are the names of the teachers, as impressed on memory by association and authority, Tasse, Long, Early Green and Been. These are all the teacher's names. Walter Davidson took a leading part in all this very laughtable comedy that went on. I the old West Ward school in the days have also very fond recollections of of James McQuerrie.

TWO AVIATORS ARE MISSING

Fleet of Airplanes Searching Northern Woods For Men.

LOST SINCE TUESDAY.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 17 (Canadian Press).—Anxiety as to the fate of the two aviators, W. Aphan and R. Riese, who have been lost since Tuesday between the Savant and Shunian Lakes, Sioux Lookout, Ont., district increased considerably last night, when they were reported as still missing.

The Western Canada Airways, Limited, has eight planes in the area, and all have taken part in the search for them, as has the Northern Aerial Mineral Exploration Company's fleet.

Flares that were seen in the direction of Savant Lake were regarded as a clue to the location of the two airmen, and planes winged their way to the scene, but apparently the hopes that were entertained of finding the men were not realized.

SIX ROBBERS GET $65,000

Customers and Owners Are Gagged While Men Take Loot.

ENTER PAWN BROKERS SHOP

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 17 (C.P.).—Six men to-day robbed the pawnbroker's shop of Abe Brooks, 146 Market street, of a large amount of jewelry and other valuables. Reports of the loss ran as high as $65,000.

The thieves escaped through the rear of the shop. They entered an automobile and disappeared.

The men were hiding in the shop when Brooks and a clerk arrived and opened a large safe. The robbers then popped out of their hiding place and forced the two men into a back room where they were gagged and bound, while the robbers were cleaning the safe of diamonds and other jewelry. Two customers walked into the place and were promptly covered by the robbers, pushed into the back room and also bound and gagged.

Brooks was the first to free himself and call the police.

EIGHT RUM RUNNERS ARRESTED ATTEMPTING TO BREAK BLOCKADE

New Offensive At Border Is Proving To Be Most Effective.

LITTLE LIQUOR SECURED.

Officer Who Shot Suspect Resigns From Customs Patrol.

WINDSOR, Ont., June 17 (C.P.).—Eight rum runners were nabbed early to-day as they attempted to run the United States coastguard blockade in Lake and River St. Clair. Seven rum craft were towed into Marine City, Mich., this morning by American customs border patrol and other officers of the American prohibition enforcement services.

The capture of these men indicated the effectiveness of the new offensive against rum runners inaugurated by the co-ordinated forces of the United States Government, it was pointed out by Walter S. Petty, Acting Collector of Customs at Detroit. One of the prisoners is a Detroit man. The others hail from Marine City, St. Clair Flats and Port Huron and their arrest substantiates reports of the past week of increasing activity and daring of the Lake St. Clair rum fleet.

"Our men didn't get much liquor on the boats, as they were of the smaller type, but we captured eight of nine men," Petty said, pointing out that the River and Lake St. Clair rum runners had attempted to take advantage of the situation in the Windsor area. The up-river rum crews evidently proceeded on the assumption that the American forces would be all tied up watching the Detroit River rum runners lying in shore at LaSalle and at Bar Port, in the Amherstburg sector.

BRIGADIER TO INSPECT ARTILLERY THIS WEEK

Fourth Field Battery Will Go to Petawawa After Display Here.

One of the senior units of the Peterborough Militia Garrison will be inspected on Friday of this week, when Brigadier Anderson, C.M.G., D.S.O., will visit the city to put the Fourth Field Battery, Fourth Brigade, Canadian Artillery, through its paces.

This unit is commanded by Major W. J. Stevenson, and other officers are Captain J. Harstone, M.C., Lieut. A. E. Stevenson, and Lieut. H. Rogers. The Sergeant-Major is E. G. Sutherland.

Col. D. J. Lawrie, officer commanding the Fourth Brigade, will take a prominent part in the events of Friday.

On June 25, the Battery will proceed, with its strength of 38 men to Petawawa to undergo a practical course in firing for eight days.

Protection Is Proclaimed

Bennett Opens Tour

Conservative Leader Proclaims Policy of Protection in Essex Address.

FIRST VISIT TO BORDER.

Promises To Call Economic Conference of the Empire if Returned to Power.

(By Frank Flaherty, Staff Correspondent Canadian Press.)

WINDSOR, June 17.—Memories of the first visit of Sir John A. Macdonald to the western frontier of Ontario, were recalled Saturday by Hon. Richard B. Bennett, Dominion leader of the Conservative party, in the course of two speeches in Essex county. He proclaimed a policy of protection for Canadian industries, agriculture, as well as manufacturing, advocated immediate steps to secure and retain the Canadian market for Canadian domestic products and announced that if he were placed in power he would within six months summon an economic conference of the Empire.

First Visit to Border.

It was Mr. Bennett's first visit to the Border district since he became leader of the Conservative party, and the beginning of an extensive tour of Ontario which will take him to some two dozen cities and towns as far east as Cornwall, and as far north and west at Fort William and Port Arthur. As he spoke, the present Conservative leader announced he had in his hand a copy of the original address of welcome presented to Sir John A. Macdonald on his first visit to this district, when he spoke at Amherstburg 52 years ago. He declared the policy he had to proclaim now was not radically different from that announced by Sir John. It was a National Policy, one which looked to the future, and the well-being of all sections of Canada, and which insisted on the promotion of the prosperity of this country without regard to any other nation.

The Conservative Chieftain's principal charge against the present Dominion government, was that it was allowing Canada to become a dependent nation. He maintained a dependent nation could not be happy, and that the present adverse balance of trade between Canada and the United States could not go on forever without serious consequences. Canada, he declared, was being mortgaged to the United States. That country, over a period of years, had been hoisting its tariff against Canadian products higher and higher and was now contemplating a further revision of its tariff which would practically exclude the things Canada most needed to export, he said.

At the same time, he contended, United States products were permitted to enter Canada at comparatively lower rates. The United States was careful not to impose duties on Canadian raw materials required for the industries in that country. Asbestos, nickel and other mineral ores were allowed to enter. The industries manufacturing these attracted Canadians to the United States and the result was that Canada was shipping out her raw materials, losing her people and buying back manufactured goods made from her own raw materials by her own former citizens while the profits accruing to labor and capital from the manufacturing process went to a foreign country.

Is Your Wife your Business Manager?

If you can answer "yes" to that question, you are fortunate. But if you cannot answer "yes," you ought to spend three or four evenings thinking over your family's financial position in the event of your death. Then you should write instructions for your wife to follow regarding the conduct of the family's affairs, should necessity compel her to assume the burden.

When you have discovered what a task this is, it should lead your thoughts naturally to the idea of some financial provision which will insure her at least a certain definite income for life—one that cannot be seized for debt, nor the principal be lost or dissipated.

If you both live beyond 55, it can be arranged for the income to be paid to you jointly.

Pirates Are Robbing Homes Near Erieau

BLENHEIM, Ont., June 17 (Canadian Press).—The presence of a number of farm homes standing deserted in the inundated onion lands near Erieau has given rise to a new type of piracy, say the owners whose lands were submerged when Lake Erie waves broke down the protecting dykes early in May. Not only are the foundations being undermined by the waves that are aroused by the wind, but persons in rowboats are carrying away during the night everything that the growers failed to take away with them.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES AT UNITED CHURCH

St. John's Church at Campbellford Marks Passing of Another Milestone.

SPECIAL MUSIC.

Reverend Harry Pawson, of Napanee, Has Charge of Both Services.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 17 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — St. John's United Church has passed another milestone in its history and the event was marked by anniversary services yesterday afternoon and evening. The minister for the occasion was the Rev. Harry Pawson of Trinity United Church, Napanee. His sermons were, both morning and evening, interesting and inspirational. The front of the church was beautifully decorated with flowers and there was a flowering plant placed in each of the windows along the side. There were good-sized congregations at both services.

For the services, there was special music by the choir under the direction of Albert Hazel, organist and choirmaster. In the morning, the choir sang an anthem, "Roseate Hues," the trio part being sung by Miss Ruth Taylor, Miss Annie Midgley and Miss Thelma Hall. There was also a mixed quartette, "From Dawn of Day" (Dick) sung by Mrs. F. J. Smith, Mrs. H. Jones, Albert Hazel and Walter Henson. The accompaniment for the quartette was played by Mr. E. C. Dolman. The organ preludes in the morning were "Shepherd Morning Song (Davis, and "Andante" (Harwood). The organ postlude was "Finale in A" (Harris).

At the evening service, Miss Emma Meiklejohn was the soloist. The anthem by the choir was "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings" (Liddle), the soprano obligato being sung by Mrs. H. O. Richardson. The organ preludes were "Aria" (Mozart) and "Largo" (Beethoven). The postlude was "Sersum Corda" (Diggle).

In the evening service, the Rev. Mr. Pawson selected his text from the words of the Apostle Paul, beginning where there is neither Jew nor Greek. "It was Paul's intention to create a spirit of brotherhood," he said. In the modern mind, there was no word more firmly fixed than brotherhood. It was the keynote of great orators and writers. It was also the keynote of social welfare. It is the one thing for which the world has been seeking. The words of his text, he thought, had been almost a chant on the lips of the apostle. At that time there had been a deep-rooted passion of dislike between the Jews and the Greeks and the very thought of there ever being harmony between them was merely an ironical jest. The Jew was contemptuous of all other races and considered himself supreme. He had one word, Gentile, which included all others than Jews, and at the same time expressed his feeling toward them. The coming of Christ had changed this situation and the feeling of the Jewish race.

In the modern world, there were many efforts on foot to bring about a world wide brotherhood. Many of these were headed in the right direction, but they would not go far, he believed. There must be an internationalism about or nationalism otherwise the purpose of the Cross was defeated. There were a few great people who rose above the smaller things of life to the normal plane of brotherhood. In the church there was a difference in denominations and rituals. This had also been the case with the church at Corinth in the days of Paul. In that case the apostle had brought them all under the supreme faith which was and still is the fundamental principle of churches.

In the hymn book, there was to be found an indication of the way to this ideal. In it were to be found hymns composed by men of all denominations. These nymns were not discarded by one denomination because the composer was of another, but were used for the common good of all churches. There was no other road or any shorter way to world brotherhood than though the teachings of Christ.

SUSPECT IS HELD.

LONDON, Ont., June 17. —George Racquette, 21, Ottawa, is being held by the city police as a suspect in the hold-up by a lone bandit Saturday of the main branch, Bank of Montreal here. The bandit was foiled when S. B. Dunn, 21, savings teller, handed him a sheaf of mutilated currency totalling $1,100, dropped to the floor and shouted "hold-up." The suspect was nabbed by detectives last night in a coal car, squeezed into the space at the end. He is being held on a nominal charge of vagrancy.

PETERBOROUGH GARRISON HOLDS ANNUAL PARADE

LT.-COL. LAWRIE IN CHARGE.

Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave Delivers Powerful Address To Members of the Units.

The annual church parade of the Peterborough Garrison was held to St. John's Anglican Church yesterday morning. Headed by the Rangers' Band and the bugle band the four units of the garrison made a snappy appearance as they marched through the streets to the church.

The parade was under the command of Lieut.-Colonel D. J. Lawrie. Immediately following the bands came a detachment of the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons commanded by Lieut.-Col W. G. Powell, followed by the Fourth Artillery Brigade, and the Peterborough Rangers, under the command of Major M. H. Park. Major H. Dodds commanded the Fourth Machine Gun Company which brought up the rear.

The soldiers filed into the central portion of the church, completely filling all the pews that had been reserved for them. They heard a thoughtful and powerful sermon delivered by Dr. R. C. Blagrave, the minister, who took his text from the eighth chapter of St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, "If God is with us, who can be against us."

Extends Warm Welcome

Before beginning his sermon, Dr. Blagrave extended a warm welcome to the garrison units. Continuing, he said that to-day was the day that had been set aside to give thanks to God for the recovery of the King, but because of the recent relapse in his condition the day of thanks has been indefinitely postponed, but all hoped that the King will soon be entirely well.

In explaining the text, "If God is with us, who can be against us, Dr. Blagrave said that as Paul saw it this expressed the song of the soul's victory over sin. All the adversity of life is pitted against the unconquerable soul, and this is the song of thanks. It is an assertion over all nature of life.

"The first thing we must recognize in life is God," said Dr. Blagrave. "He is universal, the beginning and end of all. For every purpose and presence there is God."

"If God be not with us everything is against us and life is a dead thing." He continued by saying that God governs us. Even our freedom was given us by Him, by which he limited Himself, by giving us the freedom of choice. "All the pain and suffering in life is caused by our failure in freedom."

Must Take a Risk

Speaking of the chances and risk in making choice and in life in general, he said that nothing great was ever achieved without a great chance or risk. Life to be victorious in itself must be a victory of the soul. This victory can not be accomplished by changing nature's laws, for man can never violate one single natural law. He must find out what these laws are, and enlist them in his aid. You can't violate these laws if you are to enlist the Sovereign personality and the conquest of the soul, he explained.

The only power is that of love; and to love God is not only sentiment, but it is a purpose and is founded in the expression of good will and cooperation. But good will and cooperation will not come amongst men if God is not in them. "We are as sheep to the slaughter, but we are more than conquerers with God," he concluded.

PILGRIMS LEAVE FOR HOME LAND

Spent Week in Canada Studying the United Church.

WEEK-END STRENUOUS.

MONTREAL, Que., June 17. —(Canadian Press). —Pilgrims of the British Free Churches after seven days of intensive travel, study and sight seeing throughout Ontario and Quebec left Montreal last night for the Old Country. "We will for the rest of our lives sing praises to Canadians for their wonderful hospitality and kindness," declared one of them at the docks to a group of Montreal churchmen who had come to bid them farewell.

The week-end in Montreal was a strenuous one for the 1055 members of the pilgrimage who arrived in this city from Ottawa on Friday morning. In addition to the numerous private affairs arranged for the visitors by their hosts, the members of the various United Churches in Montreal, there were sightseeing tours around Montreal and vicinity, luncheons, dinners and civic and church receptions.

Chum Afraid To Tell Of Fatal Accident

SUDBURY, June 17 (Canadian Press).—Playing with a chum on the shore of Lake Ramsay, near Brown's Point, little Edgar Shore, Sudbury, was drowned Saturday afternoon, when, venturing beyond his depth, he slipped into about twelve feet of water. Little Jackie O'Brien, 8-year-old companion of the drowned child, witnessed the tragedy, but was too frightened to tell any one, and the facts were not known until the boy's father identified Edgar's clothes on the shore of the lake late Saturday night. The body was recovered.

FIVE DROWNED IN ROAD CANAL

Automobile Plunges Into Twelve Feet of Water Near Tilbury.

DRIVER ESCAPES.

TILBURY, June 17 (Canadian Press). — The four children and housekeeper of Philip Bedard, Tilbury shoe merchant, were drowned yesterday when an automobile driven by Bedard left the belt road near here, and plunged into 12 feet of water in a dredge canal.

The dead are: Mrs. Joseph Heldewuth, the housekeeper; Luce Bedard, aged 8, Bernardine Bedard, aged 6, Paul Bedard, aged 3, and Andrea Casulo Bedard, 18 months.

Bedard was driving his children and housekeeper to Chatham to bring home Bruno, the fifth and eldest child of the family, who was visiting friends in that city.

Hit Rough Road.

Striking a rough stretch of road, Mr. Bedard lost control of the car, which plunged into the deep, steep dredge cut containing about twelve feet of water. He managed to crawl out of an open window of the completely submerged car and climb on the roof. His cries for assistance were heard by a Belgian farmer, who 'phoned a garage in Tilbury for the wrecker, which was on the scene in a few minutes. The car was raised about a foot out of the water and the victims removed. George Hell of Tilbury, Police Officer Harris, and other helpers, carried them to the roadway, where for two hours Doctors Rochon, McColl, and McPherson of Tilbury used every effort at resuscitation. Pulmotors from the Chatham Hydro Department and the Windsor Fire Department were rushed to the scene, but were used without success. It is estimated that the bodies were in the water about 25 minutes.

GASOLINE TAX MOST UNJUST SAYS SINCLAIR

Liberal Closes Northern Tour With Big Rally In Sturgeon Falls.

DEVELOPMENT RESTRICTED.

Theo Legault, M.P.P., Criticised Government's Road Policy in North.

STURGEON FALLS, June 17 (C.P.) —Addressing the largest meeting of his Northern Ontario tour, W. E. N. Sinclair, Ontario Liberal leader, on Saturday evening, reiterated the charge that revenue from gasoline was being diverted by the government from the Department of Highways to other non-paying departments.

The gasoline tax, Mr. Sinclair contended, was illegally imposed, and the revenue from it unjustly apportioned. He reasoned that the object of the tax was to provide money for the erection of new roads and maintenance of old ones. Because Northern Ontario roads and highways are being constructed under the northern development scheme, he argued that the tax should not apply in this section of the province.

Unjust Impost

"It is an unjust impost of the people of Northern Ontario," he said, "because the roads development work in the north is paid for out of the capital rather than the ordinary revenue."

Mr. Sinclair also charged that the development of Northern Ontario was being restricted by the Government's application of patronage in the operation of the northern development scheme of colonization and development.

Theo. Legault, Liberal member for Sturgeon Falls, in his address, dwelt principally with the plight of settlers within his own riding. He told how only recently he had purchased 300 cords of wood that had been cut by a woman and her two young daughters.

Hands Are Calloused

"The hands of the woman and her daughters were as calloused as horses' hoofs," he said. He related another incident of a family of settlers that had gone without meat and butter for a month in order to buy clothes to enable the children to make their first Communion.

Mr. Legault said these conditions were brought about because the government had failed to provide roads by which the settlers could have access to and egress from their farms with produce and merchandise. "They are carrying their produce to market on their backs," he charged. "Settlers are forced to make their living by trapping, fishing, guiding or hunting, finding it impossible to follow agricultural pursuits because of lack of roads."

FLYERS ARRIVE SAFE IN PARIS

Aviator Tells of Motor Stopping While in Mid-Atlantic.

PROBLEM IS NOT SOLVED.

PARIS, June 17 (Canadian Press). —Three gallant Frenchmen swooped down out of the clouds last evening to the acclaim that had awaited them for two days for being the first to blaze the name of France on the dangerous air route over the Atlantic.

Jean Assolant, Rene Le Fevre, and Armeno Lotti, Jr., had been taken to the heart of France last night for their flight without stop from Old Orchard, Maine, to Comillas, Spain, only a few miles short of their goal of French territory. They supplied that missing link in two hops yesterday, and came down on Le Bourget Field at 8.47 p.m., to be hugged kissed and cheered by their relatives and a large crowd that awaited them.

Assolant gave this audience a thrill by his dramatic touch in streaking over the field at a speed of 150 miles an hour and landing while the Yellow Bird was still going more than 60 miles an hour.

"The last quarter hour was the worst," he said, as he jumped from the cockpit and his mother smothered him with kisses. Lotti summed up the experience of all of them when he said: "The transatlantic flying problem has not yet been solved."

Motor Stopped in Mid-ocean.

How close last night's heroes came to finding a watery grave like the many others who had preceded them was told when Lotti received newspapermen in the dining-room of his father's hotel. "Our motor stopped in mid-ocean, and really we were scared," he said.

Assolant interrupted him with: "Speak for yourself, Armeno, say you were scared. I did not have time to be scared."

It developed that the trouble was due to a leaking valve which the fliers thought had been fixed up before they took off from Old Orchard on Thursday.

Aviation Minister Laurent-Eynac and representatives from the Foreign Office were waiting at the field, but the first words of Assolant, first man out of the plane, were: "Where is mother?" Mother was right there.

"I would like to get a glass of white wine," Assolant said immediately after his mother let him escape from her embrace. The aviator was carried to the headquarters of the 34th Regiment, where the Aviation Minister and Commandant Renvoise officially received the aviators.

Seven Hours From Arrest To Entering Prison Cell

PORT HURON, June 17 (Canadian Press).—Seven hours after his unexpected surrender and confession, Alfred Lounes, of London, Ontario, is in Jackson Prison last night serving a life term for the murder of Beatrice Fry, his 17-year-old sweetheart.

Lounes, who had been sought since the finding of the girl's strangled body late Wednesday, walked into the Sheriff's office Saturday morning and identified himself. At noon he had signed a confession, waived examination in the lower court and entered a plea of guilty to a charge of second degree murder before Circuit Court Judge Eugene F. Law.

FEDERAL AUTHORITIES BLAMED FOR RABIES

Ottawa Officials Are Passing the Buck, States Deputy Minister of Health.

TORONTO, Ont., June 17 (Canadian Press). — Responsibility for the continued outbreaks of rabies for the past two years in various sections of Ontario was laid at the door of the Health of Animals Branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture by Dr. W. J. Bell, Deputy Provincial Minister of Health. The outbreaks could and should have been checked at their inception several years ago, he said, but the Federal authorities had done virtually nothing.

"This thing keeps on because the authorities entrusted with taking the proper steps to check it don't do anything about it," he said. "The power of the Provincial Health Department is limited to dealing with people, and we have done what we could to protect people in menaced sections. The Health of Animals Branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture is supposed to look after animals and rabies, but instead they have been passing the buck to the municipal and township authorities."

EATING HOUSE LICENSE GRANTED MRS. BRADLEY

Residents Petition City Council Asking That It Rescind Its Action Regarding Eating House License.

The City Council at its meeting on Friday night granted an eating house license to Mrs. Bradley on Sherbrooke Street. Mrs. Bradley at the June meeting of the Council sought to have her license renewed, but a neighbor complained that it was kept open late at night and caused a nuisance. Since then the Council has received a petition from the residents of the neighborhood stating that the booth closes at 10.30 p.m. and that there is no nuisance. At the Council meeting two of the neighbors appeared and spoke most favorably of the way Mrs. Bradley conducted her booth.

A SPECIAL NEW RECIPE

Here's a special new recipe for Baker's Cocoa. Developed by domestic science experts—tested by cooking schools and universities.

Try this:—

For each cup allow 1 heaping teaspoonful Baker's Cocoa, 1 level dessertspoonful sugar, ¼ cup water, ¼ cup milk, few grains salt. Measure cocoa and sugar into saucepan. Stir over direct heat until mixture is smooth. Boil about two minutes and add the salt, sugar and milk. Heat until foamy, beat well and serve. Vanilla may be added just before serving—or whipped cream or a marshmallow. C-30-29

BAKER'S COCOA

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, June 17. — Reports from Washington indicating the immediate allotment of a large sum of money for farm relief sent wheat prices upward yesterday. Net gains at the end of the session of ¾c. to 1½c. were marked up. Dry weather in Western Canada caused an advance in the ealy part of trading, but a flood of offerings shoved the levels back. The final hour saw the market move forward on the strength of the Washington reports.

The weather map for Western Canada showed high temperatures prevailing over the Prairie Provinces. Practically no rain was reported. Warm conditions are reported for the week-end. with the possibility of shewers.

A small export business was done in cash wheat overnight, but the demand yesterday was only moderate and prices were unchanged.

Trading was extremely dull in the coarse grains and the price range was narrow.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 17.—Higher prices on wheat but lower prices on corn was the record established Saturday when President Hoover signed the $500,000,000 farm relief bill. Washington news about farm relief and crop damage reports from Canada were chiefly responsible for upturns in wheat values. Unexpected liberal receipts of corn here and at St. Louis and Kansas City did much to pull corn prices down.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ¼c to ½c above Friday's finish. Corn closed ¼c to ½c down; oats varying from ¼c to ¾c decline to ½c advance, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 7c to 10c.

Uneasiness over Canadian crop conditions did much to rally the wheat market on the downturns which as a rule were of brief duration. In this connection, particular notice was taken of a report from Saskatoon, Saskatchewan Province, that damage by drought has begun to be manifest, and that rains at once as well as continued downpours later were required to produce even an average yield of wheat this season in Canada. Emphasizing such advices was an official Canadian forecast, indicating generally fair weather and warm temperatures ahead.

On the other hand, sellers of wheat here found considerable incentive in despatches, saying that, taken as a whole Kansas has a large crop which was maturing rapidly and filling well. Some Kansas messages said continuous weather as warm as Saturday would cause premature ripening, but not to an important extent unless it became hotter.

Corn was under selling pressure from the outset. Primary arrivals of corn were announced as totalling 4,319,000 bushels this week, against 3,701,000 bushels the week previous. Oats Saturday were ruled mainly by conflicting influences, resulting from the opposite action of corn and wheat.

Provisions reflected the downward trend of the corn market and of hog values as well.

THE PERFECT VACATION

Father, mother, the young man and sister, how often do they all get away together on a vacation, and even if they do what sort of a vacation is it for mother? A cottage in the country means for her only another place where cooking and domestic work—those two villains of the household play—still pursue her. Yet there is a clear solution of the great vacation problem all ready to hand.

Those who take the Dean Laird "Across Canada and back" tour this summer will spend three weeks in what amounts to a perfectly appointed hotel, which moves from place to place continually revealing new beauties and interests and when the tickets have been bought from the nearest Canadian Pacific Railway agent, you can forget everything save anticipation of one of the brightest and most enjoyable vacations you will ever have had—all worries about accommodation, transfers, baggage, etc., are eliminated.

The trip will be the sixth annual tour conducted by Dean Laird of Macdonald College, this fact alone testifies to the smoothness with which all obtacles have been overcome. Starting from Toronto July 22nd, it will go through to Victoria and back, visiting major cities of the west enroute and passing through the beauty spots of the Canadian Rockies, with hundred-mile motor trips through the mountains and sailings on Gulf of Georgia and Great Lakes steamships.

AT ROSENEATH.

The annual meeting of the Western Sectional of the Woman's Missionary Society Presbyterial, was held at Welcome on Tuesday. The delegates sent from here were Mrs. Rev. M. R. Brown, Miss Lily Turner and Mrs. Delbert Brisbin.

Alnwick and Haldimand Sunday school convention will be held in Roseneath on Monday June 17th. It is necessary that all interested in Sunday school work will be present to hear interesting addresses delivered by special speakers appointed for this occasion.

A meeting of the United church officials met and organized committees for the coming strawberry festival to be held on July 4. A better time even than last year is anticipated, which will mean hard work for those taking any responsibility, and it is expected that each one does their part in making it a huge success.

Roseneath baseball team goes to Harwood on Saturday to play; game to commence at 5 p.m.

Jim Waldie is putting on moving pictures every Saturday night in the Orange Hall. It helps to enliven the village, especially when a good story picture is shown.

Mrs. (Rev.) A. L. Brown of Lindsay, is holidaying with ther son, Rev. M. R. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harrington have returned home after a visit with friends in Toronto.

Mr. Willis McMillan, Aneroid, Sask., is home to visit his father, who is seriously ill.

YOUNG PEOPLE ARE INJURED

Fitzpatrick. Stinson received a few slight cuts.

Three young men, who got away before police could get their names, and James Collins, were passengers in the car driven by Colley. Collins was badly shaken, but otherwise uninjured. It is not known whether the other men received injuries.

The small car driven by Arthur Jobe, 48 George street, received the worst damage of all, being hit twice. In this car was Dorothy Barnnecotte, of Toronto, and John Thomas, 40 Lafayette. Both passengers and driver were badly shaken, receiving cuts and bruises. Miss Barnnecotte was taken to the hospital with a severe scalp wound besides other injuries. Edwin Hatcher, 324 King street, the owner of the car, was also a passenger, but his injuries are not serious.

"Kruschen is worth its weight in Gold!"

Canadian Ex-Serviceman's Tribute.

"I am nearly 60 years of age—went overseas early in 1916 to France. At my home you can see on the shelf a bottle of Kruschen Salts, of which I take a little in my tea or coffee every morning. The price is 75 cents, but it is worth its weight in gold. I am feeling great and better every day, for which I thank good old Kruschen Salts. You can interview me if you wish."

F. E., Halifax, N. Scotia.
Original letter on file for inspection.

Kruschen is a perfect blend of those six natural salts which are vital to your bodily well being. The analysis is on the bottle. There are sodium and magnesium to clear away the waste matter that clogs your system and poisons your blood. To feed your tissues, there's the tonic potassium. The daily dose of Kruschen will keep you in constant good health. Buy a bottle to-day and start a new life to-morrow.

"—with all his worldly goods"

HERE, in this old strong-box, so long guarded and locked, is his "estate" . . . the "worldly goods" which he has bequeathed to her.

One by one her adviser takes out the temptingly engraved certificates and examines them. One by one he lays them down with a sorrowful shake of the head—

Slowly the truth dawns upon her. Those wonderful purchases that were to make them rich . . . independent. These speculations that were to lead them to fortune . . . many of them now are WORTHLESS!

But at the bottom of the box there lies an unpretentious document, which suddenly she recollects. It cannot have depreciated. It must still be safe and sure . . .

She reaches in and draws forth his Life Insurance Policy.

Amid the wreckage of thousands of estates, Life Insurance stands as the final and enduring refuge in time of need.

It is the one investment no man can afford to be without.

ENDORSED BY MR. HENRY.

The Examiner's contention that the loafing driver on provincial highways as a traffic menace has been endorsed by the action of a magistrate in fining such a driver and by the opinion of Hon. George S. Henry, that slow driving on the highways constitutes a danger.

This paper's views in regard to safe driving conditions are surely well known by this time.

No journal in the Province has pleaded more often for care, courtesy and common sense on the part of motorists nor condemned more vigorously the reckless driver and the speed fiend.

We believe that there are hundreds of motorists in this Province who are unfit to be entrusted with the handling of an automobile, and that there should be a more drastic check-up of that type of driver.

There is nothing inconsistent in that attitude as contrasted with what has been said in these columns about loafing on the highways, and the views expressed by the Minister of Highways show that the man responsible for the administration of the motor vehicle regulations has exactly the same opinion of the situation as The Examiner has voiced.

Driving too slowly is a close second to driving too fast as a contributing factor in the much too long list of highway accidents.

HISTORY SHOULD TELL THE STORY.

The suggestion of Controller Bert S. Wemp, of Toronto, that Canadian school histories should contain the story of the first non-stop flight across the Atlantic, should meet with general approval.

It is well that the children of this country should know that the conquering of the Atlantic by air was first accomplished by two British flyers, and the school histories should give them that information.

The chances are that the average public school pupil if asked the question, "Who first flew over the Atlantic?" would unhesitatingly answer, "Lindbergh."

All honor is due the American aviator whose spectacular lone-handed flight two years ago seized upon the imagination of the world and made him in a few hours a popular hero.

But at the same time it should not be forgotten that ten years ago two British birdmen, the late Sir John Alcock and Sir Arthur Brown, winged their way in an old-fashioned machine from Newfoundland to Ireland in a non-stop flight in which 1,960 miles was covered in 16 hours, 12 minutes.

Canadian histories might well tell the story of that epic air voyage to future generation of school children so that it will be remembered that "the British did it first."

PREVENTABLE ACCIDENTS.

"The right way is the safe way and the safe way is the right way," says a letter to parents issued by the Ontario Safety League and designed to protect the children of the Province from accidents.

Copies of this letter have been distributed among the pupils of Peterborough's public schools, and The Examiner desires to call the attention of parents to the importance of the advice contained therein and to the absolute necessity of discussing with children some of the dangers stressed in the warning.

As the Safety League points out, it is only by the co-operation of all in the home that the dreadful toll paid to preventable accidents each year can be reduced to a minimum.

Modern methods of transportation and modern household appliances have greatly increased the accident hazards, and it is necessary that the public should learn to use these methods and appliances sanely and safely, and that children should be taught to protect themselves against the dangers that exist not only on the street but around the home.

The League's letter is an important document that should be read carefully and remembered, not tossed into the fire or the wastepaper basket as advertising circulars generally are.

It covers all the common dangers and is full of helpful advice and warning.

LOOKING ITS BEST.

Citizens of Peterborough are to be congratulated upon the general air of immaculate cleanliness and neatness that distinguishes the city's residential streets as householders complete their preparations for Old Home Week.

It is evident that the majority of citizens have entered heartily into the spirit of the occasion and have been glad to co-operate by giving their homes and grounds special attention and care.

Neither trouble, time nor money has been spared, and the results are apparent in all parts of the city as Old Home Week approaches.

It is doubtful whether at any other time in the [illegible] a general effort to dress up the home of Peterborough, and it is safe to say that the army of visitors two weeks from now will carry away with them a permanent impression of a trim and beautiful city.

All that remains to give that gala touch that should be featured on such occasions is for a generous display of flags and bunting everywhere, and the citizens can be entrusted to complete their work by taking care of that item in the general preparation for Old Home Week.

Make no mistake about it, Peterborough will have her best bib and tucker on when her sons and daughters come home.

A CITY OF MANY MEMORIES.

"The history of Edinburgh, properly so-called," wrote Sir Walter Scott, "would be the abridged history of Scotland." Much of that history, familiar to readers all over the world, is being recalled to-day in connection with the commemoration of an event that may be said to have marked the foundation of the Scottish capital. Six hundred years ago there was granted to the little community that clustered around the Castle overlooking the Forth the charter which conferred upon it all the rights and privileges of a Royal burgh. In that act of monarchal grace, shared about the same period by several other towns in the northern Kingdom, Scottish political freedom had its birth, and a capital, destined to rank among the great cities of the universe, its origin.

But it is not the political significance of the concession made in the early part of the fourteenth century that is recalled to-day so much as the historical and romantic associations crowded into the intervening centuries. Edinburgh, it has been said, now lives upon her past. Conscious of a natural beauty surpassed by no other city in the world, "Scotia's darling seat" takes pride less in the attractiveness of its situation and surroundings than in the memories that cling to its streets and closes. Robert Louis Stevenson may have had reason for reviling its climate, and Ruskin for condemning its architecture, but neither could resist the spell of its romance, or escape the fascination of its spirit.

The "barbaric display of contrasts to the eye," as the author of "Kidnapped" noted, is merely the reflection of the city's odd and stirring history. As Holyrood in picturesque ruins, half hidden in a slum, represents the departed glory of a court and the dingy growth of modern industry, so the Castle, enthroned high on a rock, recalls the spirit of strife that brooded over the ancient capital and for centuries turned it into an armed camp. Within its walls the stranger may bridge a thousand years; down the High street and Canongate the ghosts of centuries dog every footstep.

From time to time the city awakens to a sense of its former glories when a State visit reminds it of the days when it was the home of kings, and gallant nobles rode abreast down its narrow streets. Of Mary, Queen of Scots; of John Knox and the Reformation, of Montrose and the Covenanters, of the political struggle that preceded the Union, of Prince Charlie and the "Forty-five" there are memories and landmarks that are the very essence of picturesque and romantic history. And more impressive to lovers of literature than these are the literary traditions and associations of which Edinburgh can boast.

From a window in one of the towering "lands" of the High street Defoe, the author of "Robinson Crusoe" gazed upon the riots that preceded the Union. Almost adjoining was the shop, and, not far off, the home of Allan Ramsay, the poet. In the same neighborhood may yet be traced some of the haunts of Robert Fergusson, the vernacular bard, who was born within sight of the lofty tenement in which Boswell, the biographer, first saw the light. Here is the dwelling place of David Hume, the historian; there the home of the mother of Smollett, the novelist, and yonder the scene of Burns' convivialities.

Over all is the spell of the "Wizard of Romance," the immortal Scott, of whom the visitor is reminded at every turn. His birthplace, the house in Castle street where he finished "Waverley"and for years plied his busy pen; the Parliament House, where he worked as a clerk of court and found many of his characters, and the localities described in his poems and romances are shrines that have made his "own romantic town" an alluring place of pilgrimage. Nor can a lover of literature visit Edinburgh without recalling the names of Jeffrey, Lockhart, "Christopher North" and De Quincey, or seeking out the homes and haunts of its exiled son, Robert Louis Stevenson, in whose writings the city of his birth is pictured with a sense of the historic and romantic that has accentuated its charm.

"There is," he wrote, "no Edinburgh emigrant, far or near, from China to Peru, but he or she carries some lively pictures of the mind, some sunset behind the Castle cliffs, some snow scene, some maze of city lamps, indelible in the memory and delightful to study in the intervals of toil." To these haunting impressions of a city so fascinating in some of its modern aspects have to be added the still more gripping memories of a capital that looks back with pride upon six centuries of glorious and stirring history.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Now that Ziegfield says that there is too much dirt and nakedness in the modern revue, the thing would seem to be unanimous.

It looks as if the City Council has got from Dr. Berry of the Provincial Health Department what is commonly known as the raspberry.

Old Home Week preparations should be Peterborough's chief activity during the next two weeks. The big event promises to surpass the expectations of the most optimistic.

A Thought

"UNVEILED BEAUTY"

The human mind delights in wondrous things. Every new beauty adds a different light to a person's eye. Sometimes, we fail to see real beauty in life on account of neglect. The fish in Mammoth Cave lost their sight because they failed to use their eyes.

The Bible is a magnificent wonder of unveiled beauty. As we study it, we touch hidden springs which bring to light exhaustless treasures. This Book challenges our highest admiration. There are things on these pages which are hard to understand. But in real beauty the greatest has to be left to the imagination.

Sin and selfishness seem to veil the vision of the greatest beauty that the natural man is groping for to-day. The most of us are blind to the true beauty of God. How often we fail to ask God to open our eyes so that we may see beyond the veil. Neglect again conquers us and beauty fades. Spiritual blindness weakens us.

Sometimes, we think we know more than God does. We have our own way, and after while we wonder why life has been a failure. We say the days have been drab. Each to-morrow is dreaded and we more often sigh at eventime.

This grey christianity is not Christ's. God is love. Is love colorless. Real christianity is when the heart throbs quicken with beauty. It is when the eyes are glowing with true sight. Christianity is the beauty which we must unveil ourselves. Each page of God's word must glow before the eye like a jewelled casket. Here in these towering chapters of God's word lay the thrilling love letters that must pierce the sight and send its radiant warmth to the christian heart.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

MOTHER'S ILL.

The neighbors tiptoe in and out,
And they don't want a boy about.
They all keep working with a will,
And all a boy can keep, is still.
That's how it is when Mother's ill,
And even Doctor says where's doubt.

I can't just say just how I tell,
I can't just tell you how I do,
But I just know that she'll pull through.
I know my apple helped her too,
That time she had the hardest spell.

And, my won't it be dandy when
My Mother can sit up again!
I'll shut the window when it show'rs,
And fill her glass, and bring her flow'rs,
And sit beside her hours and hours—
I guess they'll need a fellow then.

The doctor says she's pretty low,
But you just wait a day or so.
Of course, she looks so thin and white,
But Doctor said, said just last night,
"Just wait, perhaps the youngster's right."
I don't know why, but I just know.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE ARE AFRAID OF THINGS.

The late G. Stanley Hall who was recognized as the dean of American psychologists made a study of human fears. He found no less than 276 different fears. He gathered his material mostly from medical literature. These morbid fears are known as phobias, which simly means fears that are more or less ungounded and in the nature of a disease. These morbid fears are merely exaggerations of normal fears that all of us are likely to experience

Fear is the greatest enemy of man. We spend our brief span of life under the shadow of some fear. No sooner do we get away from one fear than we acquire another or a whole swarm of them. No one escapes entirely.

We are afraid of poverty, of failure, of losing our job, of meeting with some accident, of losing the love of a friend or our sweetheart, of not being able to keep up with the Joneses, of being snubbed by those who stand above us socially and a hundred and one other fears that beset our common humanity to keep us on the qui vive and rob us of the full enjoyment of the good that is ours.

The newspapers reported some time ago that a French bride shot her husband and then turned the gun on herself and took her own life, leaving a note which stated that she was too happy to live, that she was so happy that she was afraid of happiness. If one can be afraid of happiness there is nothing that may not be a source of worry and fear.

Fear among animals is almost wholly confined to physical pain and possibly the fear of death. We have infinitely more fears because we have many more things to be afraid of.

A certain amount of fear makes for safety, to make us alert and watchful. The excessive fear is due to our lively imagination which exaggerates the normal fear like a magnifying glass. Fear in the form of anxiety and the worries of day-dreaming, is a stimulant. We crave it as a release from the monotony of commonplace living. Anxiety quickens the pulse and otherwise quickens the pace of life and furnishes a real pastime.

We are afraid of things because there are things that might injure us. The fear reactions put us in readiness to defend ourselves. In the absence of real dangers we concoct a few in order to enjoy the thrill that accompanies the fear emotion. Fear is our friend as well as our enemy. It all depends on the occasion for the fear and the intensity of the fear.

BETHANY YOUNG PEOPLE HONOR DEPARTING BANKER

Ormie Wright, Resident of Village For Past Two Years, is Presented With Set of Military Brushes

BETHANY, June 17.—(Examiner Correspondence)—A number of young people of this community gathered at the home of Fred Dawe on Thursday evening to bid farewell to Ormie Wright, teller in the Bank of Toronto here for the past two years, and who has been removed to Toronto. A beautiful set of military brushes was presented to Mr. Wright and the evening was spent in music and dancing.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR:

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace, Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald, tries to get an interview with Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It has been burned by a fire in the marsh until it is entirely unrecognizable except for the fact that it is a woman. Dr. Cavanaugh is called in to help with the identification.

He has only a small piece of scalp from the body to work on. Don Ellsworth refuses to give him a hair of Sheila O'Shays, but he secures one unknown and after examination tells Peter Piper that the body found in the marsh is that of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara, in whom Piper has become interested, faints when she hears this. Peter who is already half in love with her, is torn between his feeling and his suspicion that she knows something about the murder. Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested in the case and Peter is sent to interview her. He learns that Sheila O'Shay forced Don Ellsworth to marry her by threatening a breach of promise suit.

CHAPTER 21.

Peter Piper stood with his finger hovering over the doorbell, in a state of acute and unaccustomed embarrassment. Peter's finger usually attacked doorbells without hesitancy. He cocked his head slightly to one side and observed that tentative member with detachment, as if it did not belong to him.

"Shucks!" he admonished it with a shake of the head which tilted his disreputable soft felt hat even farther over one eyebrow. "Punch, you idiot, punch! You can only get kicked out, and heaven knows, that's no novelty."

The doorway where Peter stood was rather impressive, as doorways go; but Peter was unimpressed by grandeur. Too many mahogany doors had swung open to him—swung open upon suicide, embezzlement, the downfall of ambition, the price of folly. The glamour and the awe of wealth had long ago lost all power to affect him—he had followed the same story too often across Khorassan carpets and splintery bare boards. Yet, for some reason Peter was undeniably nervous.

But then, Peter had never before attempted a formal social call on a young lady.

In Peter's set, you did not make calls. If you liked a girl you said casually, "What do you say we stay downtown to dinner to-night and do a show?" Then you "bummed" two tickets from the drama editor, and that was that.

But Barbara bothered him. You couldn't say a thing like that to Barbara. Barbara probably went to her shows in box parties, without the intervention of a drama editor. He felt as uncertain of Barbara as if she belonged to a strange and probably hostile savage tribe.

He had no particular respect for her tribal customs, whatever they were—in fact, he had an extremely upstanding respect for his own; but he had to see her again. And for the first time in his varied life, Peter was greatly at a loss as to how to proceed.

Well, the only way to do a thing was to do it. He ought to have asked her first, of course. But you couldn't very well say, "By the way, may I call?" to a girl who has just slumped to the running board of a car in a dead faint.

Neither the etiquette books, which Peter hadn't read, nor the novels which he had, provided for a situation, just like that. She'd probably take him for a cheeky roughneck. Maybe he was! But still, he had to see her.

He couldn't make her out. She kept playing hide and seek with his imagination, at the most inconvenient times; when he was dead tired and trying to go to sleep, for instance, or when he was half-way through a story that had to make a deadline. That was the devil of having an imagination! If he saw her again, she'd drop into place and he'd discover that he'd been making it all up. The best way to lay a ghost was to face it.

"Yes, sir–?"

Peter jumped. The door stood open, framing a maid done in India ink and Chinese white. The tone of her voice indicated that the door had been open and the maid standing there for an interval long enough to require patience.

"I'd like to speak to Miss Cavanaugh." Peter spoke with his best Herald dignity to cover that absurd start.

"Yes, sir. What name shall I give, sir?"

A small shining tray was whipped into play before him. Peter had never possessed a calling card in his life. The only cards he owned were printed, with "Evening Herald" in large Old English letters in the middle, and "J. A. Piper" in small black letters in the lower left hand corner. He looked haughtily past the small shining tray, damning it into invisibility.

"Tell her it's Peter Piper of the Herald." His tone challenged the India-ink-and-Chinese-white automaton to make the most of it. The tilt of his long chin even indicated that for two cents he'd knock her block off. The automaton stood her ground, undeterred by this display of arrogance.

"I don't think——" she began.

"Well, you needn't, need you?" There was something sudden and disarming in Peter's wide smile. "Suppose you put it up to her? I'll bet you two bits she sees me. Are you on?"

The faintest flicker of responsive friendliness rippled across the automaton's face.

"Will you come in and wait, sir?"

Peter dropped into the nearest chair in the hall, and lapsed into unplumbed depths of discomfort. It was like sliding down an inclined plane. "Peter Piper of the Herald" had slid from his lips by habit. What did he want to say that for? It sounded unbelievably silly—like "Lord Raven of Ravenswood.'

What had he come for, anyway? He and this girl had absolutely nothing in common. Curiosity—that was it! Curiosity was said to be fatal to cats. "Cats-bats-bats-cats." Alice in Wonderland. The immortal wonder-child of Lewis Carroll's imagination. Was she really like that—Alice in Wonderland grown up? Or was he betrayed by that trick of drawing her fair hair straight back from her round forehead? The real Alice probably grew up quite differently. She wasn't mixed up in a murder, anyway. Lewis Carroll made fools of us all—he made you love his Alice so.

Peter Piper brought himself up with a start. That word was dangerous. He was walking straight into danger—a danger that befogged your clearness of vission in a mist of sentimentality. Peter had a deep distrust of sentimentality. It was all right to be sentimental over "Alice"; you couldn't very well help it, and "Alice" was safely out of harms' way, in fiction. But this was reality, the twentieth century, and Sheila O'Shay was dead and Barbara Cavanaugh had fainted at the news of the discovery.

There were too many Barbaras—the "Alice" Barbara and the orphanage Barbara, and the young lady Barbara with all those strange tribal customs he knew nothing about. And was there another Barbara—a deep, clever, wits-about-her Barbara, whom he didn't know at all? Well, he had wits of his own if it came to that.

Curiosity. Let it rest there. If curiosity made a fool of him, he wouldn't be the first cat to succumb. It brought him up in his downward slide towards despondency to insist on the singleness of his motive. Curiosity. He turned his back resolutely on that other, more dangerous word. And she couldn't do more than turn him out—in which case he's remember to slip the black-and-white automaton her two bits. He needn't mind—he'd been turned out of plenty of houses before.

But he would mind—he would mind quite sickeningly. The other times it was the Herald that was turned out—just Peter Piper of the Herald. But this time it would be Peter Piper, himself. Aghast at his own egoism, it dawned—with curses on Peter that there wasn't a chance in the world that Barbara had been consumed with any curiosity about HIM!

He wiped his hands on his handkerchief—they were cold and damp with perspiration—and bunched the handkerchief into his already sagging coat pocket. He snatched his hat from the bench beside him. She'd know what a fool he'd been—it was too late to help that now—but he'd salvage the remnants of his folly. He'd get out before she turned him out.

He had already taken a step towards the door when he remembered the automaton and hastily clawed two dimes and a nickel from the chewing gum, rubber bands and paper clips in his trousers pocket. The little shining tray winked up at him from a small table. He laid the three coins in a near row on its gleaming surface, the nickel being the largest, in the middle. Then he glared at it balefully.

"Damn!" he said softly, addressing the tray. "Damn! Damn! Damn!

"Well, if it isn't Peter Piper, swearing at the world!" Laughter rippled through the voice, through and under and around like broken lights playing across water.

For the second time that day, Peter jumped at the sound of a voice.

Then he jerked the little tray a foot into the air, tossing the coins high, scattering them to the corners of the room.

"Aw, you contemptible little purp! For two cents I'd come down and automaton's lost!" he caroled. automan's lost!" he caroled.

(To be continued.)

Phone in the White House

According to the newspapers President Hoover has had a telephone installed on his desk. The telephone will ring and the President will answer it.

President Hoover: Hello.

Voice on 'Phone: Hello, dear.

President Hoover: You must have the wrong number.

Voice on 'Phone: I want to talk to Jane.

President Hoover: You must have the wrong number.

Voice on 'Phone: I want to talk to Jane Doe. J-A-N-E D-O-E!

President Hoover: You MUST have the wrong number.

Voice on 'Phone: Who's this speaking?

President Hoover: The President of the United States.

Voice on 'Phone: So's your Aunt Mitty!

President Hoover: You MUST have the wrong number

Voice on 'Phone: Say, you are not a bootlegger, are you?

President Hoover: Certainly not. I am the President of the United States.

Voice on 'Phone: Tell that to the Marines!

Financial News and Briefs

A Special Service to the Examiner

Not one word of comment accompanies the annual statement of Maple Leaf Milling Company, in explanation of the surprisingly good results for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1929, when profits were more than quadrupled as compared with the previous years.

The showing of Maple Leaf has a wider bearing. What of the other leading Canadian flour milling companies which close their years August 31 next, including Ogilvie, Western Canada Flour, Lake of the Wood Milling and Lnternational Milling Company? These companies may also be expected to show a substantial growth in profits.

The Financial News Bureau understands that the Canadian mills entered the new crop year, September 1, 1928, under most favorable conditions. The relation of prices paid for wheat and prices obtaining for flour in European markets was decidedly favorable, especially from September up to the end of December. During that period the Canadian companies that took advantage of their opportunities made big money, just as Maple Leaf Milling Company did. The domestic market during the period is reported to have been equally good.

The conference entered into by Canadian millers beginning last year was highly beneficial, as it put a stop to price-cutting.

When the annual reports of the other companies named come along, they may be expected to present brilliant statements, as they are well-managed concerns.

Tells Shareholders to Hold Stock

Louis B. Duff, president of East Crest Oil Company in a message addressed to shareholders, advises them to hold their shares, in view of the important immediate potentialities of the company in the Turner Valley. He points out that the well nears 4,000 feet, where the gas pressure is estimated at 5,000,000 feet. The drill at 3,920 feet, is 10 feet in the chocolate-brown sands. "Two geologists," Mr. Duff reports, "give us the following projected log for the remainder of the well: Chocolate brown sands, 125 feet; hard black shale, 100 fet; feet; dolomite fossil bed, 10 to 12 feet; poker chip shale, 40 feet. Total, 275 feet. Then the lime. The success of the gas strike has made its own embarrassments owing to the tremendous pressure, but a competent staff, using every care, is putting the job through and will put it through."

Investment Trust Buying

New York.—There has appeared to be a general tendency among writers of stock market letters to attribute otherwise unaccountable "bulges" in prices to buying by investment trusts. While it is quite true that in the new financing this year, organization of financial and investment companies has cut a leading figure the belief was expressed that the bulk of these funds are going into foreign securities in which the greatest profits for investment trusts lie. Inasmuch as many of the larger trusts are not interested in buying control of operating companies, commission houses consider it a little difficult to see where their advantage would lie in bidding up the market solely to acquire stock. The general assumption is that the part recently played by investment concerns in the stock market has been rather over-rated.

Du Pont to Form Alcohol Alliance.

New York.—An alliance between the United States Industrial Alcohol Company and E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. is about to be established through the purchase by the former of the National Distillers Products Corporation's 50 per cent interest in the Eastern Alcohol Corporation. The Du Pont company holds the other 50 per cent. interest in Eastern Commercial Alcohol.

Officials of United States Industrial Alcohol and National Distillers declined to discuss the negotiations now going on, but it was learned in quarters close to both companies that the transaction will be completed shortly unless unexpected difficulties arise. It is reported that Industrial Alcohol will pay close to $15,000,000 for National Distillers' half interest in Eastern Commercial Alcohol. The plans for financing the purchase are not known.

Canada's Gold Shipments.

Word of a shipment of gold from Canada caused comment in foreign exchange circles. At the offices of the bank in question no comment was forthcoming, but it was intimated that a full statement would be given out this morning. The Canadian dollar has been languishing below the gold-shipping point for months, and it has been a matter of some remark that no gold shipments have resulted. Bankers here explained that Canadian banks have shown reluctance to act for American interests in obtaining gold for shipment. Recently the Dominion Minister of Finance has been under fire in the Canadian Parliament, the blunt question as to whether Canada is actually on a gold basis having been put to him for answer. Foreign exchange dealers hazarded the conjecture that if a shipment is made now, it may indicate that Canada has decided upon strenuous steps to bring the Canadian exchange up to parity.

NEWBEC SAGS IN ACTIVE TRADING

Suffers Setback From 11 to 48 Points in Turnover of 500,000 Shares.

GRANADA ROUYN ADVANCES.

TORONTO, Ont., June 17.—(Canadian Press) —Activity in Newbec overshadowed all other developments on the market of the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. With trading in more than 500,000 shares during the morning session the stock dropped 11 points to 48. Granada Rouyn was an outstanding strong feature with an advance of seven points to 36. It was the next most active issue for more than 200,000 shares changed hands. The balance of the list was strong with gains ranging from 1.35 to fractions. Mining Corporation strengthened 10 to 4.10, Noranda 15 to 53.80. South West Petrol 95 to 5.95. Sudbury Basin 15 to 8.25. Teck Hughes 10 to 8.70, Big Missourn 10 to 1.37, Falconbridge 25 to 13.75. Home Oil 1.35 to 21.75 and New Nickel 30 to 49.60. Losses included Ajax Oil down 3 to 1.85, Amulet 3 to 1.21 and Howey Gold 2 to 1.15.

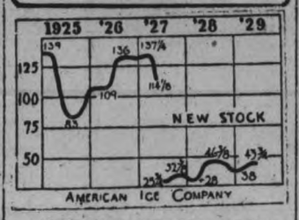
One transaction took place in Royalite on Standard Friday, ten shares selling at $135 or $14 per share lower than the previous price level. No adverse news to justify such a break and in view of splendid possibilities some one got big bargain.

STOCK A DAY



AMERICAN ICE COMPANY.

The American Ice Company is the leading concern engaged in the manufacture and wholesale and retail distribution of ice in this country. It has at various time acquired about 25 properties engaged in ice manufacture and distribution in North Atlantic territory. The territory covered by the company includes New Jersey, New York, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, Maryland and the District of Columbia. It also conducts a retail coal business in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Atlantic City, Ocean City, and Camden, New Jersey.

About 75 per cent. of the ice output is manufactured ice. It owns over 70 manufacturing plants; 14 ice houses, 1500 horses, 2000 wagons, motor trucks and other vehicles as well as warehouses, scows and valuable real estate.

Net income has been fairly stable for the last three years although it shows a slight decline from 1925 to 1927. Earnings for the nine months ended Sept., 1928, showed a substantial expansion compared with the similar period of 1927 amounting to $4,616,000 before depreciation and taxes. In 1927 net after depreciation and taxes amounted to $2,651,090. In 1926 net was $2,716,706.

Funded debt including bonds and mortgage total $6,734,047. Capital stock outstanding includes $15,000,000 in 6 per cent. non-cumulative preferred of $100 par and 600,000 shares of no par common. Each share of pfd. is entitled to 4 votes for one share of common. Preferred stock dividends are being paid at the regular rate. The present rate on the common is 50 cents a quarter and $1 extra was paid on Jan. 25, 1929.

As of June 30, 1928, total current assets amounted to $5,743,708. Current liabilities were $1,581,711 and net working capital was $4,161,997. Book value of the common stock amounted to 28.03 a share after allowing for the pfd. at $112.12 a share.

Wheat Suffers Setback After Irregular Start

CHICAGO, Ills., June 17.—(A.P.)—Wheat prices turned sharply downward to-day after an irregular start. Reports of scattered rains where needed in Canada and of ideal harvest weather in domestic wheat territory southwest were the principal factors. Opening at 1-2 cent decline to 3-8 cent advance, wheat later scored slight gains, but then underwent a decided setback. Corn and oats tended downward also, with corn starting unchanged to 3-8 cents off, and subsequently undergoing a general sag. Provisions held steady.

NEW YORK LIST TURNS UPWARD

Railroad and Oil Shares Assume Strength in Active Session.

CALL RATE UNCHANGED.

NEW YORK, N.Y. June 17—(Canadian Press).—Stock prices resumed their upward movement today with the railroad and oil shares assuming increasing importance and strength. Trading in the general list also broadened considerably, with at least a score issues pushed into new high ground for the year. A few soft spots cropped out here and there but they failed to stem the upward tide of prices.

Call Money renewed unchanged at 7 percent and bankers predicted that the rate might hold until the middle of the week when the return of June 15 checks for payment at the banks probably would cause a stiffening in rates.There were no changes in time money or commercial paper rates, but the undertone appeared to be slightly easier.

NEWS FROM THE MINES

Solloway, Mills & Company Through

Four foot stringer carrying high copper values cut on White Lake property, Peterson Cobalt officials state. Find made in tunnel about 200 ft. from surface. Company driving two tunnels, employing three shifts daily.

LEAD ISSUES MAKE GAINS

Advances From Fractions To Three Points Registered on Toronto Curb.

NICKEL ACTIVE.

TORONTO, Ont., June 17.—(C.P.)—A noticeably firmer trend developed on the market of the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day with nearly all the prominent issues to be traded in advancing from fractions to three points. International Nickel was the most active stock. With trading in more than 2,000 shares it firmed 1-8 to 49½. Canada Dredging recorded the widest gain, selling at 73 for a gain of three Ford Motors "A" was an exception to the general trend, dropping 1½ to 44½. Steel of Canada held firm at 53, up one, while Walkers which was the second most active issue, moved up ¼ to 19¼. Bell Telephone, Canada Dry and McColl-Frontenac were other strong stocks. The latter moved forward 1 ¼ to 42¼. Bank of Commerce dropped 5 to 280.

In Police Court

Before a thronged gallery that overflowed the benches and with a crowded docket police court opened its session this morning before Magistrate Langley. In the heat of the stuffy court room the cases proceeded swiftly, but at one o'clock there were still several to be heard and an adjournment until two o'clock was called.

Edward Lynch was found guilty of having liquor in his possession, not being the holder of a permit, in the Township of North Monaghan. Last June he was convicted of permitting drunkenness in his home, and, being his second offence, he was sent to jail for three months for possessing the liquor

A Douro man refused to plead to the charge of driving a car on the Warsaw road while intoxicated. He was remanded until Friday, June 21, and was allowed his freedom when his counsel, Bernard Park, guaranteed his attendance to acting Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C.

A citizen pleaded guilty on two counts of practising dentistry for his own profit and gain while not being a graduate of a dental school nor having a charter from the Royal College of Dental Surgeons. He was fined $50 and $8 costs on each charge.

Arthur L. D. Davidson appeared on remand on a charge of vagrancy after having spent a week in jail. His offence was said to have occurred in North Monaghan. Several witnesses, incuding E. Kelk, Mrs. Harriet Bidgood, her son, G. H. Bidgood, and Provincial Constable Thompson, gave evidence. Their evidence showed that Davidson had called at several farm houses along the road asking for a night's lodging. Having been refused by Mrs. Bidgood, a widow, he entered the house for a drink. Her son then came in and phoned for the police to have the man evicted. When Constable Thompson arrived the man was asleep in the bedroom with the door locked. He said he came from up north, and was short of funds. A search of his pockets had revealed two bank books which showed that by the last entry in 1928 there was a balance of over $4000, and the other showing over $200. The man had told Mrs. Bidgood when she asked him if he wanted a job that Sunday was the Sabbath and he never discussed ork on that day.

The magistrate found him guilty, but allowed him to go until called on for sentence. He was shown the way out of the city.

The man put a dash of humor into the proceedings, when in reply to the magistrate's question if he had anything to say, he replied: "No; there are three sides to every question—your side, my side, and the right side." He looked on all the witnesses with a cold, superior manner.

Robert Colley and Raymond Stinson both refused to plead on the charge of reckless driving in connection with the bad motor crash on the Chemong Road, Sunday morning. They were remanded until Friday, June 21, bail in each case being fixed at two sureties of $500 each.

Dalton Dolan appeared on remand for exposing and keeping liquor for sale, his second offence under the O.L.A. R. R. Hall, K.C., defended him, while Mr. McElderry prosecuted.

Neil Harrington was the first witness called for the prosecution. He stated that on Sunday, June 9, he had bought a bottle of gin from Dolan at his Chemong Road home, paying $5 for the bottle. Joe Huard and two girls were with him in the car and they consumed the liquor out on the Fox Farm road off the Port Hope highway. Later, after consuming the liquor, Huard, the owner of the car, had gone to sleep, and Harrington had driven the car out on the Chemong Road where an accident with another car took place. They had no liquor in the car before he said, under cross-examination. The bottle was thrown out of the car at the place where the drinking occurred, near the school house on the Fox Farm road.

Joseph Huard, the companion on the joy ride, was next called. He corroborated the previous witness' evidence, but did not see Harrington buy the liquor from Dolan. It was at a house on the Chemong Road that they had bought it.

"I don't know what happened to the bottle. I stopped seeing it after the fourth drink," he admitted.

H. Thompson, provincial constable told of going and seeing Dolan on this case. Dolan had said that he knew nothing about it. He did admit that he had been home that Sunday evening of June 9.

The case is proceeding this afternoon, along with several others.

At the Flood Tide of Industrial Progress

COMMERCIAL prosperity marches westward and with the beginning of the Pacific Era, British Columbia is alert. She is developing increased trade with the Orient's teeming millions, the world's greatest new market for manufactured goods. She is building soundly for the future. Progress is shown by these graphic figures:

Industrial production in British Columbia has increased 101.3 per cent. in the past ten years. Seventeen per cent. of Canada's export trade now passes through British Columbia ports. This province has an estimated gross payroll of 210 millions annually and a higher per capita purchasing power than any other province. She is third in the Dominion in power and industrial development.

Through these figures breathes the spirit of British Columbia . . . the flood tide of Western prosperity. And behind these salient facts are inspiring natural advantages. A temperate climate friendly to industries . . . raw materials . . . lumber, pulpwood, coal, minerals, sea products . . . living costs compare favorably with other provinces. British Columbia is a better place in which to live and to work.

Strategically placed at the "Cross-roads of the Empire," British Columbia's great all-year ports are served by fifty-two steamship lines and two great transcontinental railways. Already she has a population of 617,000 and could absorb twenty millions comfortably.

Why not come West this summer . . . look over opportunities in this thriving province and at the same time enjoy one of the happiest holidays of your life?

Mr. and Mrs. George Welsh and daughter, Peterborough, visited Mr. and Mrs. Paul recently.

A great many farmers have their spring work completed, while there are many others, with low lying land, who could not commence so soon, who have quite a lot to do yet.

There is a great deal of buckwheat and barley being sown this year as a late crop.

The ninth line, which was in such bad condition this spring, and has been so rough for motoring since, is receiving some much needed attention. There has been scraping and grading going on during the past week, and this week some of the farmers, who have completed seeding, are drawing gravel.

Everything is making rapid growth and the country has rapidly changed its appearance during the past week. Fields which were so long in being sown are now putting on a coat of luxuriant green. Alfalfa is looking well and promises a good yield.

STOMACH PAINS?

Get Rid of Them Permanently with "Fruit-a-tives."

"Fruit-a-tives" will rid you of gas, flatulence, or pain after eating and make life worth living again. Mrs. Annie Glover, Ottawa, writes:

"A sufferer from indigestion, constipation, dreadful stomach pains, I tried 'Fruit-a-tives'. Soon these ills were a thing of the past."

"Fruit-a-tives" acts naturally on the system. Gently and quickly it strengthens the whole digestive tract. It awakens liver, bowels and kidneys, soothes the stomach. Get a 25c or 50c box at your druggist's to-day. End digestive troubles.

THE VERDICT IS "BETTER"

EVERY spoonful will prove that these crisp bran flakes made by Kellogg in London, Ontario, are better.

They have the famous flavor of PEP. Vitamins. Mineral salts. Just enough bran to be mildly laxative. Sold only in the red-and-green package. Try them.

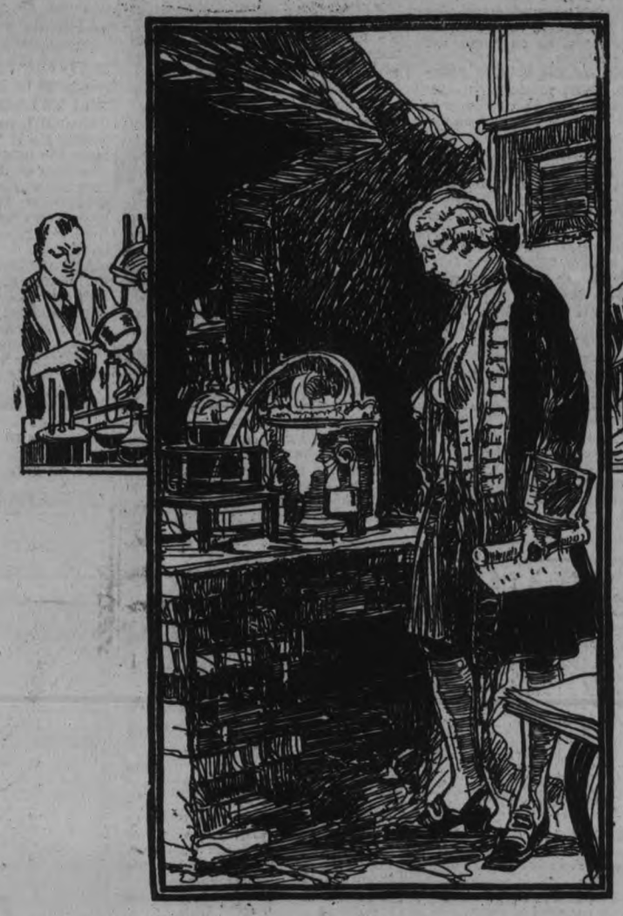
THE BROTHERHOOD OF SCIENCE



LAVOISIER

Antoine Laurent Lavoisier, born in Paris in 1742, perished on the guillotine in 1794.

MASTER PRODUCTS born of a BROTHERHOOD of CHEMICAL ENGINEERS

LAVOISIER, one of the founders of modern chemistry, developed the use of gunpowder not merely as a weapon of war but as an aid to the farmer, the miner and the pioneer.

Inspired by him, an ancestor of the present duPont family laid in the New World the foundation of an industry which has played a great part in its development. Later came Alfred Nobel who invented dynamite, which today is used widely in the mines, on the farms and for building railroads all over the world.

Without explosives, and particularly dynamite, much of the buried treasures of Canada would remain earth's secret. She would have few railroads while many of her fields now cultivated would be still barren wastes. Explosives have served to place Canada's resources within the reach of the world's markets.

Canadian Industries Limited exchange the benefits of their mutual research and discoveries with E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company, Inc., of the United States, and with Imperial Chemical Industries Limited, of Great Britain.

The oval trade-mark of Canadian Industries Limited on any of the products listed below, represents the utmost in reliability, and is a guarantee of the best Canadian workmanship based on the world's latest chemical engineering knowledge.

This is No. 6 of a series of illustrated talks on scientific research and modern industry.

THE BEST COMEDY IN AMERICA

Copyrighted, 1929, by The Collegiate World Publishing Co. (Clearance) Through Bell Syndicate.

WESTERN UNION

—M. I. T. Voo Doo.

Sergeant (to platoon after long hike): All those who are too tired to march any further take one step forward. (Lapse of a moment.)

Sarge: What's the matter with you, Simpson?

Dusky Private: Boss, Ah'm too doggone' tired to take a step forward.

—Rutgers Chanticleer.

Yes: I believe I've met you some place before.

She: I wouldn't be surprised. I've been places.

She: If you kiss me again I'll scream.

Silence.

He: Well, say something.

She: Don't interrupt me. I'm screaming.

—Temple Owl.

Passenger: Have I time to say goodbye to my wife?

Conductor: I don't know, sir; how long have you been married?

—Arizona Kitty-Kat.

"Are those two in love?"

"No, they've been engaged too long for that."

—Iowa Frivol.

Rastus: Wat fur yuh keeps yer dog muzzled?

Sambo: That's to give him confidence in hisself.

—Penn. State Froth.

ATTENTION! GOOD LOOKING!

"Say, good lookin', aren't you the smooth one, though? And couldn't I fall in love with that hair, and the way you comb it too? And that nose. Say, fella, you sure are a handsome devil. Boy, that look in your eyes meant hot lover to me, and I, I am never mistaken. Even if you weren't so good lookin', that build and those shoulders would attract any girl. Of course, only you could pick such nice clothes, and it takes a Belvedere himself to set them off like that. And what strength there must be in that body! Kid Hercules, himself, minus the last year's leopard rug. Yes, sir, I just know you're my pick of the world's men any time, and at any odds! How do I know? Say, I can't help knowing you for an ace. A mirror never lies!"

—Rutgers Chanticleer.

NEW BURGLAR COLLEGE YELL

Shoot 'em up! Shoot 'em up!
Bang! Bang! Bang!
Beat 'em up! Beat 'em up! or Hang! Hang! Hang!
Burglars! Burglars!
Law! Hah! Hah!

—Missouri Outlaw.

He: What kind of a dog have you there, anyway?

She: Why, it's a boy.

—Arizona Kitty-Kat.

IN BIBLE DAYS

"Good Lord, Lot, we will have to go back after your wife."

"Why so?"

"What will we dip the onions in?"

—Williams Purple Cow.

Modern Child: What kind of a noise does an armadillo make?

—Yale Record.

"You don't love me as much as you used to. Haven't I always played fair with you?"

"Yeh, you're fair, but I like 'em warmer."

—Texas Ranger.

"I have an athletic heart."

"That's nothing; I have athletic underwear."

—Pennsylvania Punch Bowl.

Stude: I have called to see about getting a job.

Boss: But I do all the work myself.

Stude: Perfect, when can I start?

—Temple Owl.

Old Lady: Is that bottle the only consolation you have in this world?

Disconsolate and Inebriated Student: No, ma'm, I have another in my pocket.

—Wisconsin Octopus.

SONG WITHOUT MUSIC

Customer: I want to get a record.

Peter Parker (super-salesman): Have you heard this hot new piece? Boy, the harmony is so close, it's stuffy. You can feel the rhythm through two inch soles. Listen to that sweet trumpet—fairly drips honey. Doodle-oo-doo! That's a pretty torrid clarinet hash too. They sure do know their scales, these fish. Ha-ha! Didja hear that trombone? I bet that boy has cracked lips now. Those saxes sure do work the overtones overtime. Sweet Carmelita, I'm a comin', I'm a runnin' to you-oo-oo . . . that fellow can whisper louder than most men can yell, can't he? Doodle-oo-doo! Listen to that run—clear out of the lot, wasn't it? Old Joe Sizzygits and his Scorching Six have the stuff. The boys at the house will like this. Shall I wrap it?

Customer (sadly): Got any good Old Black Joe records?

—California Pelican.

Advice to fraternity brothers: Be sure you're tight—then go ahead.

Flapper: I'd like to see the captain of the ship.

Rookie: He's forward, miss.

Flapper: I don't care; this is a pleasure trip.

—Ga. Tech. Yellow Jacket.

Reggie: But why do you want to get drunk the first day of school?

Izzy: Well, didn't Papa say to start college with a bang?

—California Pelican.

COLLEGIATE

He was tall and straight as Itasca pine,
And big as the men of old.
And he carried himself with the high, proud air
Of a heart that's true and bold.
His eyes were blue as the autumn mist
And his hair like sun in the south.
A smile, the ghost of a childhood laugh,
Still lingered on his mouth.
Eyes stared at him, and seemed to say,
"The cream of youth, the pick of college."
Flaming—seeking—avid youth—
That scorns and takes school's paltry knowledge.
They watched him swagger down the street,
His insouciance laughed at rules.
For—he was a nice young plumber
Going back for tools!

—Minn. Shi-U-Mah.

Immigration authorities hint that in the future all those desiring to enter the country will have to pass the blindfold test.

—Penn. State Froth.

Schnitzlebaum: Vere you effer crossed in love?

Vasserkopf: Ach, yes! I vonce married a voman und she didn't haff a dowry.

—M. I. T. Voo Doo.

College Man to Co-ed: I like you because I'm different.

Pilsudski: I thought you said this bird would sing.

Baditchski: My mistake; it's only a humming bird.

—California Pelican.

"I'm tellin' you, Jim, Mary isn't a bad girl if you get to know her real well."

"Well, what's the advantage of knowing her intimately then?"

—Green Goat.

Old Bill: Don't talk to me about crop failures. Why, when I was working over in Skunk County, nigh forty years ago, the oats were so low the sparrows had to git down on their knees to reach them.

—Pup.

"Hey, Joe, what time is it?"

"How'd you know my name was Joe?"

"Oh, I just guessed it."

"Well, guess the time then."

—Annapolis, Log.

HE GOT THE JOB

Editor: But these jokes aren't funny.

Contributor: I know that, but I've just been reading over some back copies of your magazine, and I thought that you might think they were.

—Pennsylvania Punch Bowl.

"Why did you keep looking at that girl's evening dress?"

"I wanted to see what it was all about."

—Missouri Outlaw.

Voice in Next Room: Johnny, are you teaching that parrot to swear?

—Colgate Banter.

"Gosh, my girl is awfully skinny."

"Don't say skinny; that isn't used in the best of places."

"Yeh, but that's just where she is skinny."

—Ga. Tech. Yellow Jacket.

BOTH OUT OF LUCK

Jinks: I understand your wife once ran a beauty parlor.

Binks: Yes, and I once ran a saloon, but it doesn't mean anything now.

"My Sweetie owes me several letters."

—Minn. Shi-U-Mah.

SELFISH

If I'm shedding any tears at all,
Don't flatter yourself they're for you,
I'd never let my eyes get red
Because of what you do.
Cry for you? Why, no, indeed;
Myself my tears are for.
It's painful to me to realize
My judgment is not worth more.

—Wisconsin Octopus.

"Hear about poor Bill?"

"No—what happened?"

"Why, his heart was giving him trouble, so he went to the doctor to have it stopped."

—Lehigh Burr.

As the first bricklayer on the pyramid said to the second, "So long; I have a pile of work to do."

—Pennsylvania Punch Bowl.

"She's a man hater."

"Yeah?"

"Hates to be without 'em!"

—Temple Owl.

Aged Eighteen: I don't think much of the pictures in this art gallery.

He: How come, why, and other phrases of interrogation?

It: Why they're awfully old fashioned. They must be at least five or six years old.

—San Mateo Centaur.

"My girl went to college four years and never was kissed."

"And you're bragging?"

—Cornell Widow.

was made, however, to amalgamate the two organizations.

With reference to that General Bramwell Booth said: "Christianity has been helped fully as much by having its views impressed upon different men from different angles as by approaching them from one avenue of appeal."

A few years ago friction arose between the American headquarters of the army and the general headquarters in London over the proposed removal of Miss Evangeline Booth as commander of the army in the United States. It was first planned to make the change in 1922, General Booth's intention being to put the work in the United States under the direction of commissioners.

So many protests were made by American members of the army and citizens generally that Miss Booth's commission was extended for three years. At the end of that time, however, she was not disturbed.

Friends of Miss Booth insisted that her brother had become jealous of her success and popularity in America, pointing out that during Miss Booth's administration Salvation Army properties in the United States had increased in value from $1,500,000 to more than $32,000,000. Two commissioners were sent from London to the United States in September, 1925, and while they insisted their mission had nothing to do with attempts to smooth over matters, there were no further developments in the incident.

During the latter years of his life General Booth's birthday anniversaries were made the occasions of felicitations by his friends and those interested in the Salvation Army. On those days the general received hundreds of messages from all over the world.

54 YEARS IN ARMY.

After a service of 54 years in the Salvation Army, during 16 of which he was Commander-in-Chief, General William Bramwell Booth was removed from office in February, 1929, on the ground that he was physically unfit to continue his work.

His removal was voted by the High Council of the Army, which was called in session for that purpose, the first time it had assembled in the 24 years of its existence. The aged leader contested the quster proceedings from every angle.

For some time there had been rumors of an internal upheaval in the Army, which was brought to a head by the serious illness of General booth, which began in the fall of 1928, and the summoning of the High Council.

The latter body met January 8, 1929, at Sunbury on Thames. For several days there were secret sessions and negotiations in an effort to reach an amicable settlement with General Booth. The first important announcement that emanated from the Council was that it had decided to send a commission to General Booth with a petition signed by 56 of the 63 commissioners asking him to retire.

Five days later, on January 15, General Booth sent his reply, which was a refusal to comply with the request. The next day the High Council adjudicated General Booth physically unfit for his work. Before the Council proceeded to elect his successor as Commander-in-Chief, General Booth's lawyers obtained from the Chancery Court an order restraining such action and directing the High Council to hear General Booth in his own defence.

The litigation was adjourned from time to time and finally was dismissed. The High Council on February 13, again adjudicated General Booth physically unfit to continue his duties and elected Edward J. Higgins, who had been Chief of Staff, as Commanding General.

Meanwhile, the lawyers for General Booth instituted another proceeding, questioning the legality of the 1904 deed poll, under which the High Council functions. That action, however, was not vigorously prosecuted and while it was pending several months later, it was reported that General Booth had been co-operating with his successor in several matters.

Continue Legal Battle.

Attorneys for both sides decided to continue the litigation in a more or less friendly way for the purpose of deciding the legality of the deed poll, which was the basis for the entire procedure by which the High Council removed General Booth. It was agreed that it would be to the interest of the Salvation Army to have the deed legally tested. The document, signed in 1904 by General William Booth, provided for a system of succession to the Salvation Army's generalship in special circumstances such as those which arose with General Bramwell Booth's illness.

For some time there existed two factions of those in control of the Army's affairs. General Booth, who succeeded his father, the founder of the Army, was said to have favored keeping control of the Army in the Booth family. The other side, called the reformers, were of the belief that control of such an extensive organization should not be vested in any one person.

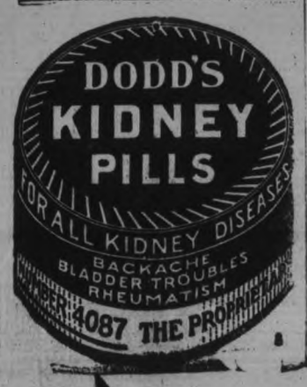
Commander Evangeline Booth, head of the Army in the United States, lined up with the reformers. She attended the sessions of the High Council and had been prominently mentioned as her brother's successor. During her stay in England she did not see her brother, being denied that privilege because of his serious illness upon the advice of General Booth's doctors, it was said.

This resulted in a sharp exchange of correspondence between Evangeline Booth and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Bramwell Booth, just before the American commander sailed on her return trip to the United States.

General Booth was first informed of the summoning of the High Council early in January. When his wife told him of the movement that had been inaugurated to remove him he said:

"Whatever people think of the government of the Army, they must feel this is rough on me. I have loved the Army and I have done my best for our people."

In April, 1929, King George signally honored General Booth by making him a member of the Order of Companions of Honor. The Order was founded by the King in 1917 for men and women who had rendered conspicuous service. Its membership is limited to 50.



OBITUARY

BETTY SANDERS.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 17 (Examiner Staff Correspondence)—Many friends were present yesterday afternoon to express their sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Sanders, Raglan Street, for the loss of their infant daughter, Betty Elaine. The child was ten months and fourteen days of age, and had been ill for only a short time. The funeral service was held from the family residence, while interment was made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The Rev. Harry Pawson, Napanee, was the officiating clergyman. There were many flowers, expressing the sympathy of a wide circle of friends.
